Are Fast Descending Over Transvaal.

Conflict Now Appears To Be Question of Hours.

Both Sides Feverishly Preparing For the Fray.

Will Be Nearly 30,000 Burglers Along Borders by Tonight.

Boast of Invading Natal and Sweeping the British Into the Sea.

London, Oct. 2.—From South Africa the news is wholly concerned with the preparations for hostilities. Commandant General Joubert is reported to have said that he has 10,000 men on the Natal border, and that Commandant Cronje has 3000 on the Bechuana side.

It is evident that the Buffalo river, the northeastern boundary of Natal, is to be the Potomac of the war. In view of its strategic value, General Joubert has taken personal command of the Boer forces there, establishing a strong line of pickets along the river, and has ordered the natives to drive in all the stock.

All the available burghers in the neighborhood have been requisitioned, with the result that some 2000 have mobilized at Wakkerstroom, the chief point of mobilization there.

The special correspondent of The Standard at Newcastle, Natal, describing the flight from Johannesburg, says: The train occupied nearly twice its usual time, owing to stoppages to allow precedence to trains going with burghers to the front. The passengers suffered great inconvenience, particularly the women and children, being obliged to get enough food. The men were drenched with the rain in the open trucks. British and Dutch were being commandeered when I left, and their goods were being seized. So far as I can learn, there are undoubtedly at least 20,000 armed burghers well horsed at different points on the border, especially in the direction of Natal. They boast their intention of invading Natal on Wednesday next, and of sweeping the British into the sea. It certainly looks as though Natal would be invaded in force.

Late Saturday the Boers established a camp at Scheepers Nek, near Vryheid, and they will mobilize a great force on the Buffalo river, which the authorities at Dundee expect will move across the border to that spot, probably at once. It is believed that a conflict at this point will certainly occur early this week.

At the same time the Boers are collecting a force of 2000 men, under the notorious Commandant Cronje, in the Mulmanigold fields, near Mafeking, where Colonel Baden-Powell is stationed.

Telegraph wires between Natal and Johannesburg have been cut since Friday.

Dispatches from Tull, Rhodesia, announce that another force of burghers is massed at Pietersburg, 50 miles south, and that outlying parties are posted at all the drifts along the Limpopo river.

In the meantime Colonel Plummer's column is moving 50 miles nearer the Transvaal frontier and has established telephone connections to a station six miles of Rhodes drift, on the Limpopo.

The British camp in the vicinity of Dundee consists of 5000 men, with 21 guns in strong positions.

The Orange Free State is actively commandeering.

The Transvaal government has virtually taken over the Netherlands railway for military purposes, and Natal trains are being turned back.

According to dispatches from Pretoria complete chaos reigns there. The government has declared a moratorium (an emergency act of legislation, authorizing a government bank to suspend special payment for a given period), closed all the courts, and suspended the English papers. It is said that there will be nearly 30,000 burghers along the borders by this (Monday) evening.

An unconfirmed rumor has reached Johannesburg that the first portion of the German contingent has arrived at Durban, Natal.

While Sunday found Pretoria somewhat more quiet, as the result of Saturday's exodus, detachments of burghers are still moving toward Volksrust, the nearest station to the Natal border.

It is expected that martial law will be proclaimed Wednesday. Already all civil proceedings have been stopped, until further orders, and another proclamation postpones the sittings of the circuit court.

The sentiment of the Boers was significantly manifested as the train carrying the Pretoria contingent to the front departed Saturday. Members of the Volksraad, who were looking, exclaimed: "That is our ultimatum."

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Chronicle says: Almost every Afrikaner in the Cape house of assembly, or actively engaged in political life, and almost every minister of the Dutch Reform church in the colony, has relatives in the Boer forces. A painful line of cleavage between British and Afrikaners is already manifesting itself.

The Daily Telegraph publishes a dispatch from Pretoria, giving the Boer view of the situation. Its correspondent says: Young and old are all fully determined to fight, whatever may be said to the contrary. Large numbers of English and other outlanders have enrolled themselves in defense of their adopted country. The highest government officials throw all the blame of hostilities on the British government. They would gladly have avoided war if that were possible, and they could have done so had there been a grain of friendliness in the British dispatches.

Polavieja Will Get Out. Madrid, Oct. 2.—A dispatch from St. Sebastian says the Spanish ministry will retain office, with the exceptions of Generally Polavieja, minister of war, who will be replaced by General Azcarra, who held the war portfolio in the Canovas cabinet.

New Orleans Crippled. New Orleans, Oct. 2.—Cruiser New Orleans, Captain Longnecker, arrived here yesterday. She came from Santo Domingo, where she has been for nearly two months awaiting the result of the revolution which occurred there. She left Santo Domingo on the morning of Sept. 25, and was returning at full speed in order to get here in time to take part in the Dewey naval parade. When two days out two of her boiler heads blew out and reduced her speed to a little over five miles an hour. The officers of the cruiser were not inclined to talk about the accident to her boilers, but it is learned the New Orleans is in a very crippled condition. The officers saw very little of the uprising or the insurgents.

Watkins Intends to Fight. New York, Oct. 2.—Captain Frederick Watkins, recently captain of the American line steamship Paris, was a passenger on the New York, which arrived here yesterday. Captain Watkins said he came back to fight the United States board of steam vessel inspectors who suspended him for two years in consequence of the accident to the Paris. He talked freely of the affair and acknowledged that the grounding of the Paris was due to a mistake on his part.

Found No Offenders. Boston, Oct. 2.—The state police force was on duty along shore yesterday, in quest of violators, not only of the Sunday law, but the provision of the state game law which makes Sunday "close time."

The waters of Massachusetts bay were patrolled by the state steamer Lexington in search of duck hunters, but no arrests were made. The activity in police circles grows out of a law passed by the last legislature imposing heavy penalties for violation of the game law.

Tried Suicide by Burning. Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 2.—Mrs. Albert Bright, deserted by her husband of a year, became temporarily insane. Entering her father's store, she saturated her hair and garments with kerosene oil, and then applied a match. After this she ran into the street enveloped in flames. When overtaken and almost smothered with blankets, she was unconscious and horribly burned, and cannot survive.

Rad's Telegraphy. Berlin, Oct. 2.—The apparatus invented by the Hungarians, Pollak and Virag, to telegraph 80,000 words an hour, has been tested between Berlin and Budapest. It transmitted 220 words in 10 seconds. The Associated Press, however, learns officially, that the German postal department considers the apparatus too delicate for ordinary use.

The Souvenir Patriots are now on sale.

TO FIGHT FOR TROPHY.

Columbia and Shamrock Line Up For the Contest Tomorrow.

Course Will Be Free From All Interference.

A Test of Construction, as Well as Design and Seamanship.

New York, Oct. 2.—Columbia and Shamrock will meet in their first race for the America's cup tomorrow. Experts expect that the sight will prove a most earnest and interesting as any which have preceded it for the international yachting trophy, wherein skill and judgment will play as important a part as the speed of the respective boats.

The vessels will meet tomorrow over a course of 20 miles, starting from Sandy Hook lightship, to windward or leeward, according to the direction of the breeze.

The second race will be triangular, 10 miles to a leg, and will be sailed on Thursday, if no serious accident happens to the yachts Tuesday. And so the contest will alternate in the matter of courses every other day until one of the yachts has won three races.

Under the direction of the United States treasury officials, rules have been agreed upon to ensure an uninterrupted course, free from the interference of outside vessels. Captain Robley D. Evans of the United States navy will have charge of the patrol fleet arranged for the racing days.

Messrs. Iselin and Lipton have agreed that any accident that may happen to one boat must not affect the race, and that the other shall go on and finish. Both agreed recently to abide by the consequences of any accident that might occur while the race was being sailed.

The conditions of the races call for the best three out of five. The race tomorrow will be over the straightaway course.

According to the agreement under which these races are to be sailed the three out of the series of five races is to be the cup, as the case may be. The dates fixed are Tuesday, Oct. 3, Oct. 5 and Oct. 7, and if it is necessary to sail the five races, the following Tuesday and Thursday are the extra days named for the contest. The conditions which govern the races are that the first race shall be to windward or to leeward and return; second race an equilateral triangle; third race similar to the first; fourth similar to the second; fifth race similar to the first. The courses shall be as nearly as possible 20 nautical miles.

Each race is to be started at 11 o'clock if possible, but a dead calm or a fog or a heavy gale, a real storm—would necessarily postpone the race, and it is agreed that no race shall be started after 12:30 o'clock. Further than that, to avoid a drifting match, wherein a boat may win rather by luck than by the qualities of the yachts or crews, it is agreed if one of the yachts is not at the home line within five hours and 30 minutes after the start the race shall be declared off, and the same course will then be laid out on next race day.

Another very important agreement relates to accident. If a yacht is seriously crippled by accident before the race is started time for repairs will be allowed, but if anything carries away after the signal the sufferer must do its best with its repairs as it sails the course and take the consequences, for this is to be a test of construction as well as design and seamanship.

And accidents are not entirely to be left out of consideration. For since Columbia was launched on Tuesday, 10 and Shamrock on June 2, a number of mishaps have befallen these boats. The most serious fell to Columbia's lot when in the New York Yacht club's annual cruise off Newport. She had her steel mast broken when far ahead of the old defender. Shamrock has been aground in these waters, has just escaped collision twice, and has been the victim of numerous small accidents, but she is now in the most perfect condition, as is her rival, Columbia. Both are at their docks in Brooklyn and ready for the battle which is to begin within a few hours.

Both boats have been well tried out and they have not been found wanting. The Britisher had an insignificant brush or two with the old mail, Belemna, on the other side and beat her by many minutes without an error, an inadequate test of her speed. On this side she has been out in the lower bay a number of times during the past six weeks, and on occasions has shown marvellous speed and wonderful capabilities. She has shown herself to be essentially a rough weather boat, standing up stiffly in the strongest kind of a breeze and cutting through the water in a marvellously smooth manner. In lighter weather Shamrock has not had much testing, beyond the ordinary trials which permit the designer Fife and Salmaker Rater to study her weaknesses and improve her rig. Since her first trials Shamrock has been fitted with a new set of sails much larger in area than the first and suiting her better.

Columbia has had many more trials than her British rival and probably the trials have been better. They certainly could not have been more satisfactory. She has been pitted half a score of times against the old cup defender, and has won in every case. Her trials took place off Newport, and were decisive were her victories during the annual cruise of the New York Yacht club that it was deemed unnecessary immediately after to further test her qualities. However, in order to give her a more thorough trying out additional races with Defender were arranged, and will some improvements have been made Columbia won more marked triumphs.

HEART FAILURE

Every day adds to the list of deaths due to heart failure. If the heart is sound, who can digest and absorb food? For it is in the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, that "weak" lungs, "weak" nerves and forms of physical deterioration begin their beginning. The man whose heart is sound, who can digest and absorb the food he eats, and so keep the organs of the body well nourished, is a man who is least liable to collapse and the sudden weakness of some organs.

Preservation of health which follows the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, is chiefly due to the fact that it perfectly and permanently cures diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition, purifies the blood and increases the blood supply of the body. Weak people will find in this a sure means of strength.

Under doctors' care for quite a time. Mr. J. F. Kidd, of Farmleyville, Wayne Co., N. Y., writes: "I had almost given me up, and was suffering very great. My pulse was breath short and I had severe pains in head and legs. Had palpitation of heart, and was unable to do any work. I purchased five bottles of Dr. R. V. Golden Medical Discovery and by the fifth bottle was gone I was a well man." Dr. R. V. Golden Medical Discovery.

Good Afternoon.

The ordinance establishing the office of City Engineer will probably be considered at the meeting of the City Council this evening. Thus the offices multiply and the expense of the city increases.

If the eight-hours question is to be submitted to the voters of the city, the municipal election would seem to be a better time than the State convention as proposed. It is a city matter as the act was passed.

There is said to be some opposition to the proposed school on White street on the part of South Quincy, but South Quincy cannot complain, it has three within its ward. The proposed school is located just where it ought to be, and it seems the right kind of a building to erect.

Some of the young people of Atlantic have instituted an interesting and pleasant substitute for the usual Sunday afternoon walk. When their friends call, the latest magazines are brought forth, and each takes his or her turn reading aloud. In this way one enjoys companionship and improves the mind at the same time. During the long dreary fall afternoons which will soon be upon us, such a pastime will be greatly appreciated by those who find little time to read during the week.

Drift of Opinion.

Massachusetts is again experiencing that timid feeling which always fills the Commonwealth when the Ancients leave the State. Even the men look under the bed while they are gone.—Lynn Item.

The bicyclists down in Maine are ready to do the fair thing. They propose to build at their own expense bicycle paths by the side of the traveled portion of highways. If they succeed in raising enough money to construct any considerable number of such paths, they will ask the legislature for laws to prevent the use of these paths by heavy teams.—Milford Journal.

The art of publicity involves a great variety of serious studies—the study of human nature, of local conditions, of types and display. No one can master the art of a sitting; and yet advertisements are written while the press waits, and good money is paid out for the printing—and advertising is voted foolishness because the expenditure is not immediately returned with profit.—Keystone.

While the Kansas governor promised before his election to devote himself strictly to the duties of his office at his office, the people of his state complain that he spends most of his time in attending banquets, and that he can rarely be found to attend to business. They may have the satisfaction of knowing that he is on the road to retribution by the way of dyspepsia.—New Bedford Standard.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK.

Called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food. Drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about 1-4 as much as coffee. 15 and 25c.

THE A. O. H. LADIES

Convention and Banquet at Faxon Hall.

The Ladies Auxiliaries of the A. O. H. of Norfolk county held their annual convention at Quincy on Sunday, the eighteenth divisions in the county being represented. These divisions now have a membership of 1,327.

Faxon hall was decorated for the occasion with flags, the Irish flag being conspicuously displayed beside the Stars and Stripes.

At the business meeting Miss Catherine Sheridan of Randolph presided, and welcomed the delegates. The different presidents reported the condition of their auxiliary, and there were addresses by the invited guests, including Miss Ellen L. Hayes of Abington, State vice president; Miss Bridget Dunn of Bridgewater, Plymouth county president, and Miss Sarah A. Reardon, Bristol county president.

The auxiliaries of Quincy, South Quincy, and West Quincy entertained the delegates at a banquet in the lower hall, and a social hour followed.

Bakers Quarrel.

Joseph Castilona, who runs an Italian bakery at West Quincy, and Banie Pasquali, one of his workmen, got into an altercation early Sunday evening over some money matters. Just what started the dispute is not known, but it ended in Pasquali seizing a beer bottle and striking Castilona, a savage blow on the head, which cut a deep gash two inches long and rendered him unconscious. He was moved to the office of Dr. Dion where several stitches were taken in the cut.

The affair had attracted quite a crowd and Officer Ferguson who put in an appearance soon learned the facts of the case and promptly placed Pasquali under arrest.

The wound in Castilona's head is a severe one, although not necessarily fatal. He was unable to appear in court this morning and the case against Pasquali was continued until such time as he will be able to appear.

Arrested with Stolen Property.

John A. Wilson, alias John A. Nelson, was arrested in Boston Saturday while trying to pawn carpenter's tools. In his possession at the time of his arrest were a quantity of tools stolen from Milton, and Nelson was turned over to the Milton police. When Nelson was first arrested it was for Inspector McKay of Quincy, by whom he is wanted for the larceny of the carpenter's tools from T.B. Emery, which were taken a few days ago from a new building at Montclair. Nelson will be tried upon the Milton case and then turned over to the Quincy officers.

Foot Ball at Park.

The Atlantic A. A. and the Oxford of Somerville met on the gridiron on Saturday at the Merrymount park on Saturday. The local eleven lined up as follows: Stenzel, 1 c; Scaman, 1 t; Woods, 1 g; Kellar, c; Burch, 1 r; Pierce, r t; Briggs, r e; Curtin, p b; Thomas, 1 h b; Moxon, 1 h b; Scharnagel, f b.

Scharnagel distinguished himself in line bucking and tackling, and neither side scored. Referee, J. Smith. Linesmen, Edward Wales, H. J. Kolb. Time, 29 m. and 15 m. halves.

Of Quincy Granite.

Under the great overhanging gable of the immense granite building in Boston used by the U. S. appraisers as a storehouse and looking down upon the custom house, there is a huge stone globe. The globe says, it came from one piece of Quincy granite about 1840, and during the fire which threatened to destroy the big building several years ago, the firemen were in constant state of alarm that the intense heat might crack the keystone supporting it and let this huge solid mass down upon them.

Progress Retarded.

There is some hitch over the moving of the buildings on the south side of Coddington street for the widening of the street. The particular house is that on the corner of Coddington and Spear streets. The building has been ordered moved, but up to the present time it has not been moved. It is now said that Commissioner Cavanaugh has served a notice upon the owners, the City Hospital, that if not moved it will be advertised to be sold at auction.

A new kind of cloth is being made in Lyons from the down of hens, ducks and geese. Seven hundred and fifty grains of feathers make rather more than a square yard of light and very warm waterproof cloth.

The proprietor of an omnibus plying between Kilburn and Liverpool streets, London, offers as an inducement to passengers free insurance against accidents to all who ride thereon.

Chicago, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne and other cities are suffering a domestic crisis, owing to the difficulty of securing servant girls there.

AFTER Q. Y. C. CUP.

The New Challenger Will be on Hostess Model.

Concerning the challenge for the Quincy cup by the Manchester Yacht club the Globe says: The syndicate will be made up of half a dozen prominent members of the Manchester club, among whom will be "Reggie" Boardman who will undoubtedly sail the boat. She will be designed and built by Fenton of Manchester in accordance with the ideas of the sailor men of the syndicate and will be of very light construction.

The model Mr. Higginson frankly says the new boat will be of the Hostess type, except that her bilges will be rounded instead of showing an angle. She will have more power and sail than the successful Quincy defender but just how much more he would not now care to say. The model has been practically decided upon, and the boat will be built early in the winter.

She is to be delivered April 15, and from that time until the races she will be sailed at every opportunity.

"The boat will be built specifically to win the Quincy cup," said Mr. Higginson in outlining his plans, "and I do not care whether she wins another race during the season. She will be built for racing in Hull bay and nowhere else.

"I hope to secure some fast 21-footer to 'tune up' against, for I believe that more can be accomplished by racing than any amount of solitary trials. With a good crew on the extra boat, we ought to get the new one in good shape.

From which it will be seen that Mr. Higginson is very much in earnest in his effort to capture the cup, and is going about it in a business-like way. He will be in the west during the winter, but will be back in time to start sailing as soon as the boat is ready.

The Quincy club is pleased with the challenge and hopes there are more to follow. Dates for the races will be named later by mutual agreement.

CONVENTION WEEK.

Political Items and Comments
of Local Interest.

Quincy voters who watch the political news were surprised on Sunday to see in the Herald the name of one of the Guild delegates from Quincy signed to a statement by the Bates managers; but they could not understand the reading of either the Bates or the Guild summary. It was not surprising, for the Herald got the two articles terribly mixed, and the names should have been attached to the Guild statement. It was unfortunate on the eve of the convention for both sides. Newspaper men can understand how it happened, but politicians will always be suspicious.

At the Republican Councillor convention for the Second district held in Union hall, Boston, this afternoon, Hon. William W. Davis of Boston was renominated.

Polling places for the State election will be designated at the City Council tonight. The law requires this shall be done on or before Oct. 8.

The Globe says the Guild "reporters" had a conference at the American House on Saturday.

All conventions of State officers to be elected at large must be held on or before Saturday of this week, and certificates must be filed before 5 P. M. Oct. 4.

The Republican conventions to which Quincy sends delegates will be held as follows:

First Norfolk Senatorial.—Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 2 P. M., Wesleyan hall, Boston.

State.—Friday, Oct. 6, Music hall, Boston.

Norfolk County.—Saturday, Oct. 7, at 11 A. M., Wesleyan hall, Boston.

Fifth Norfolk Representative.—Friday, Oct. 13, at 8 P. M., at Republican headquarters, Quincy.

Second Councillor.—Monday, Oct. 2, Union hall, Boston, at 12 noon.

WEYMOUTH.

Rev. William Kirkby has returned home after three weeks' vacation.

Mrs. Mary Gardner of Porter is making a visit at Hampton, N. H.

Mrs. Catherine Pratt has returned from her visit at Springfield.

Auctioneer Johnson will have a sale of rare old furniture from the residence of one of the old residents of Hingham, the late Mrs. Clarissa Stodder of Green street, tomorrow.

3 O'CLOCK.

TRIUMPHANT JOURNEY.

Great Crowds Greeted Dewey
on Way to Washington.

Given a Most Cordial Welcome
at National Capital.

Meets President McKinley, Members of Cabinet and Other Officials.

Grand Civic Parade and Beautiful Illuminations
In Honor of the Admiral.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Admiral Dewey's Journey here from New York was one continuous ovation, limited in its intensity only by the density of population.

The decorated special train which left the Pennsylvania railroad ferry slip in Jersey City at 1:50 in the afternoon was fully in keeping with its distinguished passenger. The special was given a clear track, and the run to Washington was made without a real stop, except at Gray's Ferry, on the outskirts of Philadelphia, where engines were changed
and a new train crew came aboard.

Almost immediately after going aboard the train, the admiral retired to his private car for luncheon, which was served for six. Admiral Dewey, his son George, his brother and wife, Captain Lamberton and Lieutenant Brumby.
Thereafter the admiral lay down and tried to get a little sleep; but this was impossible, owing to the continuous ovation along the line.

It was said by the railroad officials and trainmen that the ovation during the run from New York to Washington was the most remarkable demonstration that has ever taken place along the line.

Every town turned out its full population, as did every house and cross-roads settlement, to see the special pass.

A bare stop was made at Princeton,
where young Dewey had been a student,
and the admiral went to the platform for a minute and told the boys he was pleased with the reception they had given him.

Admiral Dewey was particularly touched all along the line by the number of children who turned out to see him. They formed a very large part of the crowd in every town, and wherever there was a schoolhouse the children had evidently been given a special reason to come out and cheer the train. There was another large crowd of children at Baltimore, and Admiral Dewey, who had come to the rear platform for the sixth or seventh time on the trip, said to the trainmaster that he felt more touched and complimented by the attention of the children than by almost any other thing that had happened since his return to America.

All along the line every train that passed the special saluted it with a long blast of the whistle, and in the larger towns, where the flyer slowed down within the city limits, there was a continual roar of steam from factories, machine shops and the shifting engines
and trains on the sidings.

The train, as it reached the line of the District of Columbia, stopped for a few minutes at Deanwood, while the reception committee went through the formality of presenting the nation's guest to the freedom of the District. The ceremony was performed by District Commissioner Wright.

John A. Porter, secretary to the president, first extended President McKin-ley's greeting, to which the admiral returned his thanks very briefly. Commissioner Wright then made a short address.

Admiral Dewey's reply was as brief
and characteristic as all of his other speeches have been. "I want to thank you very much, my friends," said he,
"for this testimonial of your regard. It is true that as long as I live, and I hope to live a long time, I intend to live in Washington. I thank you again for this expression."

In a few minutes the train was in the depot at Washington. The throng about the railway station choked the streets
for blocks about "Troop H of the Third United States cavalry, which was to escort the admiral to the executive mansion, had drawn up on the east side of Sixth street, facing the station entrance, and the United States marine band had formed on their right. The first of the party to leave the station were the committee of citizens and army and naval officials who had gone to New York to meet the admiral. They were followed by the admiral, and when he appeared to take his seat in the carriage the crowd went almost wild with excitement. As he took his seat the cavalry troop began the march up Pennsylvania avenue.

The entire escort being mounted, the party proceeded rapidly towards the White House, the cavalry at a trot, with the admiral and his immediate escort closely following. There were scattering volleys of cheers, but the party moved so quickly that it was past the crowd on the avenue as a rule before it realized Dewey had gone by.

As the admiral's carriage swung around the treasury toward the White House a brilliant spectacle was spread out before him. To the right Lafayette square was ablaze with electric lights,

the great trees and flower beds sparkling with many hued lights, while in the midst swung out huge electric letters,
"Welcome, Admiral." The navy department beyond was ablaze with lights, as were the White House grounds. A mighty roar went up from the crowd as the admiral alighted at the portico of the executive mansion.

As he stepped from the carriage Colonel Bingham, representing the president, stepped forward to escort him to the east room, where Secretary Long, Assistant Secretary Allen and naval officials were ready to extend to him the greeting of the navy. As the admiral entered Secretary Long grasped his hand and said: "Admiral, I welcome you home. This is the navy department for the moment and your associates of the navy are assembled here to give you a hearty greeting."

"Thank you, thank you," responded Admiral Dewey, first exchanging a few words of greeting with the secretary and then with Mr. Allen and the other officials. There was no formality, and after the first greetings Secretary Long invited the admiral to accompany him to the president's library, where Mr. Mc-Kinley and the members of the cabinet were awaiting him.

The members of the cabinet had assembled in the cabinet room, while the president was alone in the library adjoining it. As Secretary Long entered with the admiral the president gave him
a hearty welcome.

The admiral acknowledged the cordial sentiments expressed by the president
and then asked as to the health of Mrs.
McKinley. In reply the president suggested that the admiral meet Mrs. Mc-Kinley. They stepped out to the corridor and there found her with some lady friends. The admiral was presented and received from Mrs. McKinley, as well as the president, a most hearty welcome home.

Returning to the library the president
invited his cabinet associates to meet the admiral. The greetings with the cabinet were brief, and then the president and Admiral Dewey headed the party toward the reviewing stand.

Pennsylvania avenue was bathed in light from end to end. The stand had been erected at the head of Pennsylvania avenue, and as the admiral moved through the stand to the prow built out from its front, the crowd started a mighty cheer. The admiral frequently bowed his acknowledgments.

The head of the civic parade which had been arranged in honor of the admiral began to pass in review before him shortly after 8 o'clock. There were many novel and interesting features. The spectacle, as the marchers came up the length of the avenue in the glare of the red lights, under sweeping arches of stars from thousands of roman candles, was beautiful and impressive. The beginning of the march was heralded by the bursting of thousands of giant cannon, while bands along the line sent showers of fire into the air.

The column was headed by General Harries, leading a numerous body of bicyclists. The wheels were interwoven with garlands and wreaths of flowers and greens and colored bunting, and every wheelman carried Chinese lanterns. Close behind the marine band came the veteran organizations and Dewey, himself a veteran and a G. A. R. man, looked with pride, mingled with sorrow, upon the gray heads who came from the front of the line. A plaque went out to the veterans of the Spanish war, who mustered in creditable numbers.

A formidable detachment in the line
was that of the International Machinists, following a great six-inch rifled
cannon from the Washington navy yard, bearing the inscription: "We make the guns for Dewey."

The Catholic societies of the district
made a special effort to do honor to the admiral.

The letter carriers had all of the local postal cars in line, ablaze with electric lights, spelling words of welcome to Dewey. One of their features was a gigantic illuminated envelope addressed to Admiral George Dewey, Manila, and marked, "Returned to Washington."

The German societies had a most creditable representation, and altogether
the civic parade was a worthy one. As the rear of the column passed the public fell in behind and passed before the reviewing stand for an hour to get a glimpse of the admiral.

The crowd was so eager to see Dewey
that they spoiled the effectiveness of this part of the arrangements by breaking through the ropes and surging about the grand stand, where they gave vent
to wild cheering and a noisy demonstration that completely upset this part of the review. Admiral Dewey gave frequent acknowledgment to the cheers for him, and seeing that the review had lost
its distinctive character as a procession, quitted his place early, and with the president and the members of the cabinet left the stand. The admiral proceeded to the home of his hostess, Mrs.
McLean, and some of the others accompanied the president to the White House.

The procession was in line for half an hour later, and there were frequent salutes in ignorance of the admiral's absence.

At 9:10 o'clock, when the fatigued recipient of the day's demonstrations reached the residence of Mrs. Washington McLean, Mrs. McLean welcomed the admiral and turned over the house to him for his use during his stay in Washington. Mrs. McLean and the members of her family then left, going to her country residence, in the suburbs of Washington.

The admiral had arrived sooner than was expected and before a crowd had collected. Presently the people surged in on all sides, and for some time would not believe the officer who said the admiral was inside. A band came up and serenaded the admiral, the crowd cheered and cheered, and finally Admiral Dewey appeared at the window and "spoke," speech" were heard on every side, but met with no response. Luncheon was served by 9:30 and then the admiral retired. Crowds lingered about the house for some time.

The Souvenir Patriots are now on sale.

A TIME ALLOWANCE

Must Be Given by Columbia to Racer
From Over the Sea.

Came as a Surprise to Yachting Experts.

Rivals of Two Nations Meet Today in Contest
For America's Cup.

New York, Oct. 3.—The Columbia must allow Shamrock time allowance in the cup races, the first of which will be sailed
today.

This announcement was the greatest surprise which the yachtsmen received since the Shamrock crossed the Atlantic.
The general opinion was that the Shamrock would have to allow the Columbia time allowance.

The race will start from Sandy Hook lightship. It will be 15 miles straightaway to windward or leeward and return.
The announcement was made officially
at the New York Yacht club last night that the Columbia would have to allow the Shamrock 6.31 seconds on a 30-mile course.

Columbia was the first boat of the two to be measured. Mr. Hyslop arrived at the navy yard shortly before 8 o'clock, and at once commenced getting the length of the boom, gaff, mast and spin-naker pole. In measuring the length of the spinnaker boom it was found that the pole was about three inches longer than the restrictions allowed—that is,
from the center of the bowsprit, between
the jib and jibtop sail stays to the mast, was one-quarter of a foot too long. Captain Barr cut two inches from one end
and one inch from the other of the spin-naker pole.

Then plans were made to measure the waterline and over-all length of the boat. The forward overhang was first measured. A plumb line was suspended from the very tip of the bow, and Mr.
Hyslop got the length from the plumb line to the waterline on the bow. The after overhang was obtained in a similar manner, and after these dimensions had been obtained the measurer applied the tape from the taffrail to the bow to get the length over all. After making a few calculations Mr. Hyslop announced the result of his measurements.

Evidently the figures were somewhat less than the managing owner desired to sail Columbia on, for a dozen men were sent ashore in the tender, and they carried over to Columbia 20 pigs of lead, aggregating about 1700 pounds in weight.
Previous to taking the measurements, a lot of dunnage was brought up from Columbia's cabin and put in several row-boats, as it was the intention of the captain to clean out from the hull all unusable articles. Mr. Leeds stated that the lead was placed in Columbia to make up for the loss in weight occasioned by the removal of the dunnage, but it was noticed that when the ballast had been added the Columbia sat lower in the water than she did before. Then Mr.
Hyslop measured her waterline again,
and the length, 89.66 feet, proving satisfactory to the owners and Designer Herreshoff, a V-shaped mark in red paint was placed at the water line on each side of the hull, about midships.

As soon as Mr. Iselin announced that the measurements had been finished, the crew took aboard their dunnage and several spare sails, the cannon at the end of the drydock was warped one side, and Columbia was taken to her moorings inside of Sandy Hook.

Mr. Iselin said that he was perfectly satisfied with his boat. He said that he knew he had a very speedy boat in all kinds of weather, and that he was confident she would render a good account of herself in the coming races.

Sir Thomas Lipton was present while Columbia was being measured. He said that without any question Columbia was a fast boat, and he admired her very much, but he was also of the opinion that his boat was fast, and that all which remained to settle the question of which boat was the faster was the coming series of races.

Shamrock's spars, except the topmast, are longer than those of Columbia. For instance, Columbia's main boom measures 108.27, Shamrock's 109.67, making the latter's spar 1.40 longer than Columbia's. The measurements of the gaff show 2.69 in favor of Shamrock.

Surprises in politics on the eve of the conventions are quite the thing this year. The withdrawal of Bruce and Slattery just before the Democratic convention, has its counterpart in the withdrawal of Gen. Guild as a candidate for Lieutenant Governor on the Republican ticket. The contest between Messrs. Guild and Bates was so close as to almost peril the success of the Republican ticket another year if not this year, but the graceful withdrawal of Mr. Guild will prevent discord at the convention, and the Republicans are to be congratulated on the outcome. All are now united with Gen. Guild who says, "It is the business now of good Republicans to get together and support our candidates in the State and city elections. I wish you would allow me, through you, to thank the gentlemen who allowed the use of their names as delegates in my behalf, and also the loyal friends who suggested and supported my candidacy. Any man might well feel proud of such friends, as well as of the clean and honorable methods by which alone we have sought to win. We have failed, but we have failed honorably."

Drift of Opinion.

What would the rest of the world do without America? All in one week, England and Russia have sent for locomotives; Porto Rico and New Zealand for planing and saw mill plants; China and Copenhagen for pumps. Windsor Castle has ordered 50 sets of electric bells, and England wants 3,000,000 barrels of our apples. Truly we are indispensable to the whole world's happiness.—Marlboro Enterprise.

If you want to reach the homes of the people in any given community, there is no avenue through which it can be so effectively done as in the local newspaper. Its circulation counts for far more per copy than the great city dailies. While they are the journals of the newstand, the railroad train, the hotels and the marts of trade, the local papers are the intimate guests of the home and fireside. They are scanned eagerly and in every house hold where they circulate are read from the top of the title page to the last line by many different pairs of eyes.—Beverly Times.

The ministers are ready for the campaign against license. They are to wage a constant warfare against it, and have facts and figures to prove the virtue that no license has. They admit the existence of speakeries but cannot admit that the morals of the city are bettered by license liberty. Mr. Bartlett says that in the first month the city was saved more money than it would have received in licenses, and that statement will satisfy those who are grumbling about their taxes. There are pros and cons in this question of moral rectitude and they will be discussed with an earnest endeavor to reach the surest point of safety.—Lowell Courier.

Bishop Kozlowski, who suggests that the Polish language be taught in the public schools of Chicago, is being sat down on in a good many quarters, on the ground that the English language is the language of Americans, which is true. But to our minds the Polish language is of vastly more practical value as a study than the Latin and Greek with which our public schools are weighted down, at great expense to the people for the benefit of about one-twentieth of the pupils.—Milford Journal.

THE CITY COUNCIL

Major Recommends Special Appropriations.

Eight-Hour Law to Come Up at City Election.

Registrars Not to Hold Meeting at Wollaston.

But seventeen members were present at Monday night's meeting of the City Council, the absentees being Councilmen Badger, Bryant, Dugan, Hill, Nash, Poland and Sidelinger. Councilman Owens called the meeting to order, and upon roll call Councilman Pinkham was elected president pro tem.

COMMUNICATIONS.

Mayor Keith forwarded for the approval of the City Council a notice from the Secretary of the Commonwealth, relative to the application for the incorporation of the Wollaston Yacht Club Building Company with a capital stock of $5,000. It was approved.

ELECTION OFFICERS.

The Mayor announced the following appointments to fill vacancies: Ward Two, Warden, Edwin W. Newcomb; Ward Three, precinct one, deputy clerk, William Erick; Ward Three, precinct two, inspector, John Kennedy. Laid over until next meeting.

ELECTRIC LIGHT CONTRACT.

The Mayor called attention that the contract of the Electric Light & Power Co. for street lighting would expire, Oct. 31.

To Committee on Finance.

The city now has 100 arc lights at $75 each; 376 incandescent at $20 each and one incandescent at $18.

BEALE STREET BRIDGE.

The Mayor called attention to the condition of Beale street bridge and recommended an appropriation of $275 for a footway. To joint Committee of Streets and Finance.

NEWPORT AVENUE.

The Mayor also submitted a proposition to widen Newport avenue to fifty feet, between Beale and Brook streets. Laid on the table until later, when an order for a public hearing on the same was adopted for Oct. 16.

A TRANSFER.

The City Auditor requested a transfer of $558.76 for payment of bills for support of poor for 1898. To Committee on Finance.

The School Committee reported a deficit of $1,500 and asked for an appropriation for that amount. To Committee on Finance.

PETITIONS.

Several petitions for minor licenses were received and referred.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light and Power Co. locations for poles on Wollaston avenue, Common street, Faxon road, Liberty, Centre, and Elm streets. Read once.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for $200 for rebuilding furnace avenue. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported an order for $200 for completing retaining wall on Willard street near the O. T. Rogers Co. To Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Streets reported no legislation necessary on the communication from the Mayor, for repairs on Washington street. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported orders for public hearings Oct. 16 on laying out Delford street, Whitney road and Cranich street.

The Committee on Streets reported an order granting the Electric Light & Power Co. a location for poles on Water street. Read once.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the executive on Chubbuck and North streets. Accepted.

The Committee on Streets reported leave to withdraw the petition for a sidewalk on the east side of Quincy avenue. Upon motion of Councilman Newcomb the order was recommitted.

The Committee on Ordinance reported an amendment to the Ordinance concerning salaries, providing that the Inspector of Animals and Inspector of Provisions should receive $150 each. Councilman Packard moved to recommit. He believed the Inspector of Provisions had too much to do, and $300 was little enough for him.

Councilman Newcomb explained, and Councilman Packard's motion was lost. The order referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Fire Department reported a substitute Fire Department order, providing for the appropriation of $875 for the dividing of number three circuit and for locating fire alarm boxes near the National Sailors' Home, on Phipps street, North street and Sea street near the Adams farm, Quarry street and the changing of box 64 to the Engine house on Newbury avenue. Councilman Packard hoped this order would go back to the committee. He believed there should be a box at the Poor farm. He did not think the chief knew any more about where the boxes should go than did the members of the Council.

Councilman Hultman said the chief thought the Adams farm would be near enough to the Poor farm to answer the purpose.

Councilman Jameson thought as the chief was the expert of the city he should know where the boxes should be.

The substitute order was accepted and the order referred to the Committee on Finance.

The Committee on Legislative Matters reported a substitute order providing that the City Clerk place upon the ballot for the Municipal election the question as to the acceptance of the act providing that eight hours shall constitute a day's work for City employees, and that the Mayor be requested to obtain the opinion of the Attorney General as to whether the act referred to State or Municipal elections.

Substitute order adopted.

NEWCOMB STREET.

Councilman Packard asked, why the Committee on Streets did not report on the petition to repair Newcomb street?

Councilman Swithin said the Commissioner was to get abutters to sign off from damages and he had never reported.

Commissioner Cavanagh said he had heard one or two object to the raising of the grade.

Councilman Packard then moved that the Committee report at the next meeting.

Upon motion of Councilman Newcomb the ordinance establishing the office of City Engineer was taken from the table, and after a reading was referred to the Committee on Finance.

REGISTRARS AT WOLLASTON.

Councilman Freeman offered an order that the Registrars be requested to meet in the Hose house at Ward 5, on Monday evening, Oct. 9.

Councilman Packard objected. He said City Hall was central.

If they meet there, there was no reason why they should not meet in other wards. It was an unequalled for expense.

Councilman Freeman said the only expense would be for light. There were 450 in that ward who were assessed and not registered.

Councilman Jameson thought the expense small.

The order was lost by a vote of 9 to 5.

Upon motion of Councilman Packard the order granting the New England Telephone Co. a location for two poles on Cottage street was taken from the table. The rules suspended and the order passed.

POLLING PLACES.

Councilman Jameson offered an order for polling places for the November election as follows: Ward One, Council chamber; Ward Two, Hose house; Ward Three, precinct one, Doble's hall; Ward Three, precinct two, old Hose house; Ward Four, precinct one, St. Mary's hall; Ward Four, precinct two, Hose house; Ward Five, Emery's block; Ward Six, Hose house.

Upon motion of Councilman Alden the Ward Six polling place was changed to Music hall.

SIDEWALK ORDER.

Councilman Jameson offered an order for $400 for a gravel sidewalk on the east side of Winthrop avenue between Beale and Marion streets under the betterment act. To Committee on Streets.

JOHN HANCOCK SCHOOL YARD.

The order authorizing the transfer of land at the John Hancock school for a passageway, was passed under suspension of the rules.

BILLS OF LAST YEAR.

The order for $1,405.98 for payment of bills of the fire department for 1898 came up.

It was amended by changing the name of Frank Falvey to Frank Fahey, and the figures $18 to $28 and the total amount to $1,475.98. The order was then passed under suspension of the rules.

Upon motion of Councilman Freeman the Council voted to adjourn on Oct. 9.

Liquor Nuisance.

Inspector McKay seized four gallons of whiskey Monday afternoon from a team of Joseph F. Simpson of the Quincy House. Simpson was also arrested for keeping a liquor nuisance and his son, George T. Simpson, for the illegal sale of liquor.

Mortgagee's Sale.

By Virtue of the power of sale contained in
a certain mortgage deed given by Margaret Fontaine to Mary P. Sheldon, dated November 17th, 1891 and recorded with Nos-folk Deeds, libro 664, folio 501, for breach of the condition thereof and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold by public
auction on the premises hereinafter first described at Three o'clock in the afternoon on WEDNESDAY, the Twenty-fifth day of October, A. D. 1899, all and singular the premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows, viz:

Four certain pieces or parcels of land with
the buildings thereon, all of which are situated
in that part of said Quincy, known as West Quincy. The first of said parcels of land is situated on the easterly side of Buckley street
on Bass Common, so called, and is bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a stone
post set in the ground on the easterly side of
said Buckley street, thence running northerly
on said street to another stone post 65 feet,
then turning and running in an easterly
direction 140 feet to a stone post, then turning
and running in a southerly direction to an iron
bolt in a rock, 65 feet, then turning and running in a westerly direction along a line of land now or late of N. F. Safford, 140 feet, to the point of beginning, being the same premises conveyed to the grantor by deed of N. F.
Safford, dated June 7, 1889, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, lib. 622, fol. 403. The second
of said parcels of land is situated on the easterly
side of an old drift way, and is bounded and described as follows, viz: Northerly on land
now or late of E. V. Trask, 140 feet; easterly
on land now or late of J. W. Robertson, 100
feet; southerly on land now or late of David
Thomas, 175 feet; and westerly on said drift way, 100 feet; containing 10,800 feet; being the same premises conveyed to this grantor by deed of E. V. Trask, dated February 3, 1888, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, lib. 614, fol. 187.
The third is a certain lot of land containing 21,000 feet, and is bounded and described as follows: Northerly on land now or late of J. Q. Adams, 30 feet; northerly on land
now or late of J. W. Robertson, 280 feet;
southerly on land now or late of E. V.
Trask, 140 feet; and westerly on an old drift-
way, 280 feet more or less. The fourth is a certain lot of land containing 31,750 feet, and is bounded and described as follows: North-
westerly on land now or late of P. N. Ferron, 335 feet; northerly or easterly on an old driftway, 100 feet; southerly on land now or late of Moses Genaro, 300 feet; and southwesterly on land now or late of one Elock, 100 feet; the last two lots of land were conveyed to
said Margaret Fontaine by deed of E. V.
Trask, dated July 30, 1888, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, lib. 615, fol. 76.

LATEST! THE CUP RACE.

Battle Royal Between Columbia and Shamrock.

New York, Oct. 3, 10 A. M.—There was a brisk wind early this morning, and the indications were that the cup racers would have ideal conditions, but it has died out some. The yachts will start about 11 A. M.

Columbia Blanketed.

Oct. 3, 11:20—The Shamrock and Columbia were off about 11:16, the former in the lead and the latter a few seconds behind. The breeze is light. Excursions boats blanketed the Columbia for a while, and the Shamrock obtained a good lead.

Shamrock No. 2.

Oct. 3, 11:40—A breeze has sprung up, and the Columbia is in the lead. She passed the Shamrock about 11:29.

Columbia Leading.

Oct. 3, 12:30 P. M.—The Columbia now has a commanding lead.

Columbia Turns First.

Oct. 3, 1:50 P. M.—Columbia turns stake at 1:38. Shamrock at 1:40.

Shamrock Leads.

Oct. 3, 2:20 P. M.—Shamrock passes the Columbia and is leading slightly.

Columbia Still Leading.

Oct. 3, 2:30 P. M.—Columbia leads Shamrock one mile. Yachts now on the last leg.

The Brockton Fair.

The Brockton Fair will be this season on Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Oct. 4, 5, 6 and 7. This fair is one of the finest exhibitions of the kind held in this part of the country, and in addition to liberal provision of sports and track events, comprises a complete and extensive show of cattle, sheep, fowls and live stock of every description. For this occasion the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad will sell round trip tickets from Boston at $1.15 each, including admission to the fair, with correspondingly low rates from other principal stations. In addition to the regular service special trains will be run on Oct. 5 and 6, leaving the Terminal Station, Boston, at 8:15, 9 (express), 10 A. M., 12 (express), returning from Brockton at 4, 5, 5:20 and 6 P. M., stopping at Quincy, Braintree and South Braintree in each direction.

The Eight-Hour Day.

It was decided by the Boston Central Labor Union Sunday to ask through its eight-hour committee, the several candidates for municipal offices the following questions in relation to their position on the eight-hour law for public employees:—

"Are you in favor of an eight-hour day for city employees?"
"Will you advocate in your campaign that the citizens of this city vote for an eight-hour day by or on behalf of the city of Boston?"

"If elected and the people adopt the act, will you work and vote for the passage of a measure putting the eight-hour law into effect, and protect the same against violation?"
The eight-hour committee was instructed to make a vigorous effort to secure the adoption of the law at the election. It was also determined to appoint a representative from each ward in the city to conduct the eight-hour campaign.

Superintendent Rowe, of the City Hospital, was condemned by the delegates for proposing to have a building on Rainsford island erected under a contract.

Resolutions were adopted condemning the contract system and calling upon the Mayor to have the structure built by day work, and upon request of the Roofers' Protective Union, a committee was appointed to enter a formal protest against Superintendent Rowe's proposed action.

TODAY'S COURT.

William Edwards was fined $5 for drunkenness at Braintree.
George T. Simpson was arraigned for the illegal sale of liquor at Quincy. Case continued until Oct. 18.

Joseph F. Simpson was arraigned for keeping a liquor nuisance at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

John Hannon was arraigned for the attempted larceny of squashes at Weymouth. He was found not guilty and discharged.

BORN.

BUNTON—In East Braintree, Oct. 2, a son to Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Bunton.

DIED.

DRISCOLL—In Atlantic, Oct. 3, Michael Driscoll, aged 58 years.

OLSON—In Quincy, Oct. 2, Mr. Victor Olson, aged 23 years.

LUNT—In Braintree, Oct. 3, Mr. Frank G. Lunt, aged 46 years.

OWENS—In Cambridge, Oct. 1, Mrs. Jane, widow of Roland Owens, formerly of Quincy, aged 87 years.

CRANE AND BATES.

Withdrawal of Gen. Guild Assures the Ticket Above.

Guild has withdrawn! That was the startling political news of the day, and will rob the Republican State convention of Friday of much of its interest.

His letter to Speaker Bates is of interest and explains the situation: "The returns received up to noon Saturday, as tabulated and verified by leading Republicans from every county of the Commonwealth, showed that our support was almost evenly divided, with enough delegates doubtful or unheard from to change the result either way."

"Since then recounts and additional returns, placing nearly every delegate in the Commonwealth show that your friends have succeeded in securing for you a majority of the delegates to the Republican State Convention."

"As it was my duty to stand by the gentlemen who urged me to accept nomination after years of service in the ranks until the result of the caucuses was absolutely and definitely determined, so it is also my duty, now that it is determined, not to encourage the organization that threatens our currency and our courts by promoting needless and unprofitable dissension in a Republican Convention."

"I trust that all the delegates may join in your nomination by acclamation. I further hope and believe that the gentlemen who have supported me in this contest will in turn loyally support you at the polls."

"Notwithstanding the excitement of the campaign, it is pleasant to remember at its end that you and I have not for a moment lost the mutual respect for each other which we cherished at the beginning."

The Democratic State Committee will meet Thursday or Friday to nominate a candidate for State Auditor in place of Walter L. Ramsdell resigned.

President Smith was renominated in his district Monday for the Senate.
Hon. Charles I. Quirk had a close call for renomination as councillor at the Democratic convention of the Fourth district. He had 112 votes to 108 for Jeremiah J. McNamara.

Hon. George Fred Williams, who carries the Democratic party in his vest pocket, addressed the Oil Trade Association in Boston Monday evening. He said in part: "The great problem presented by the trust is not an evil which can be solved in a day, or a year, and I doubt if it can ever be solved by a single political party. It will only be when both of the great political parties shall vie with each other in this particular line for the public good, that this fiercely rank growth on the body politic the trust, will be effectually stamped out."

The Republican conventions to which Quincy sends delegates will be held as follows:

First Norfolk Senatorial.—Wednesday, Oct. 4, at 2 P. M., Wesleyan hall, Boston.

State.—Friday, Oct. 6, Music hall, Boston.

Norfolk County.—Saturday, Oct. 7, at 11 A. M., Wesleyan hall, Boston.

Fifth Norfolk Representative.—Friday, Oct. 13, at 8 P. M., at Republican headquarters, Quincy.

Y. M. C. A. Reception.

The ninth annual opening of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. will be held at the Association rooms tomorrow evening. The affair will be informal. The new furniture recently purchased, will be used in the gymnasium and the whole building will be thrown open. The Arion trio consisting of Elsie C. Davis, violinist; Ethel E. Edgecomb, cornetist and Louise S. Allard, pianist, will render musical selections. Prof. Henry P. Fernald will also be present with a mammoth Edison phonograph. There will also be addresses and piano selections. The reception committee of the Ladies' Auxiliary will serve refreshments. All interested are invited. Admission free.

Boy Run Over.

William Saunders, a young lad about 9 years of age, had a narrow escape from serious injury in front of City Hall about 5 o'clock Monday evening. He started to run across the street in front of an electric car and ran in front of a team driven by Mr. Shaw of Weymouth. The boy was knocked down and the team passed over him. He was put on board a car and taken to the office of Dr. Jones where it was found that his injuries were not of a serious nature. Mr. Shaw drove to the doctor's office and took the boy home. Witnesses to the accident say that Mr. Shaw was not to blame for it.

TO ENLARGE SCOPE.

Proposition to Incorporate the No-License Committee.

A meeting of the Citizens No-License Committee will be held at the rooms of the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The present officers of the Committee are Charles T. Sherman, chairman; Miss Eva M. Brown, vice chairman; Jonas Shackley, treasurer; W. H. Hoehn, secretary.

At this meeting a new constitution will be proposed, new officers will be elected, and steps will be taken to have the organization incorporated under the laws of Massachusetts. This will give the Committee the right to hold property and money, and will give a more permanent character to the Committee, and thus make their work more powerful.

As now organized but little work is done other than to push the No-License movement at the municipal election. Under the new form, the organization will not only look after the securing of a large no-license vote, but will work for the enforcement of the laws.

Daughters of the Revolution.

The first fall meeting of Adams Chapter, Daughters of the Revolution, was held on Monday afternoon at the John Adams birthplace. Mrs. William F. Cummings acted as regent in the absence of Mrs. Titus, and Mrs. Gilson as secretary. There was a large attendance of members who enjoyed gathering about the fire and exchanging greetings after the summer vacation.

An informal but interesting programme was given after the business meeting consisting of a sketch of the outing to Weymouth in September, by Mrs. E. G. Pratt, and the reading by Mrs. Charles H. Belcher of Randolph, of an article in the September National magazine, entitled "Dorothy Q., a Colonial Maid," by Miss Elizabeth Porter Gould. This was very interesting and exceedingly well read.

It was decided as the old house is so cold, notwithstanding the big fireplaces, that it would be better to meet at members' houses during the cold weather, and the November meeting will be held with Mrs. Benjamin F. Dyer of South Braintree.

The forming of a Junior D. R. society for children was discussed, also entertainments for the winter.

Squantum Anniversary.

"The Pilgrims had often heard that the Indians of Massachusetts Bay were hostile to them; and they now determined, in view of the successful visits just made at the Cape, Namasket and Sowans, to send a party to the Bay to establish peace and commerce. Accordingly ten men were selected, with Tisquantum and two other natives attending as guides and interpreters. Standish commanded, and Winslow seems to have been counsellor. The ship sailed late on the evening of Sept. 28 (1621), and about dark on the 29th came to anchor (as seems probable from the vague description), under that beautiful promontory in Quincy which is still called Squantum. Doubtless the Pilgrims named this head for their interpreter, while at the mouth of the harbor they called a group of islands the Brewsters, and the outermost projection of the mainland Point Allerton, thus commemorating both the lowliest and the loftiest of their company in a way which promises to be fully as enduring as the natural features in question. On the morning of the 30th they ventured on shore and breakfasted from a pile of lobsters which lay there. Then Standish, with a guide and four men, boldly started inland. Soon meeting a woman on her way to get the lobsters they bought them of her and learned where her people were. Tisquantum went in thither and returned with the chief, Obbatinewat. Although in the centre of the Massachusetts nation, he acknowledged allegiance to Massasoit and readily consented to become subject to the king of England. Under the protection of the white men, Obbatinewat undertook to take them to the dreaded squaw-sachem." Goodwin's "The Pilgrim Republic."—Transcript.

Brothers Who are Rivals.

David and Solomon Ford of North Weymouth, although brothers, are rival farmers. Solomon had an idea that David's men were stealing his squashes, and he set Officer Butler to watch. One night the eagle eye of the officer saw a man hovering near Solomon's pile of squashes and gave chase. When he came up to him the man sat on a chair in front of the house smoking his pipe. The hour was near midnight, although the moon made it as light as day. The man proved to be John Hannon, employed by David. He claimed he had a right to come out and smoke and knew nothing about squashes. Officer Butler, however, put John under arrest and he was arraigned in court this morning for attempting the larceny of squashes. Officer Butler looked after the government's case, and ex-Mayor Sears represented Hannon. The court found Hannon not guilty and ordered his discharge.

WEYMOUTH.

The Young People's Lyceum held an interesting meeting Monday night.

Miss Roby of Chicago, who has been the guest of Rev. and Mrs. T. H. Vincent the past week, has returned home.

H. Walter Pratt of North Weymouth is in New York on a business trip.

James H. Pratt of Milwaukee, has returned home after a brief visit to his parents in North Weymouth.

Willis Hale, who has been spending the summer in East Weymouth, has returned to finish a four years' course at the Jefferson Medical college, Philadelphia.

The engagement is announced of Miss Marion Floyd Goodale, daughter of Joseph M. Goodale, Brookline, to Dr. Frank Percival Williams, Commonwealth avenue, Boston.

Steadfast Rebekah lodge, No. 98, held a meeting Monday night.

Miss Daisy Pratt of East Weymouth is spending her vacation in the White Mountains.

The first meeting of the Monday club was held in the Temple of Honor hall, East Weymouth, Oct. 2.

The East Weymouth Reform club presented some excellent speakers Monday evening.

Mrs. H. A. Richards of East Weymouth is entertaining Miss Harriette Moore of New York.

Rev. Judson P. Marvin of the Third Universalist church has tendered his resignation. The executive committee of the church hold a business meeting this evening.

Misses Belle R. Newton and Georgia Cushing opened a kindergarten school, Monday, Oct. 2, in Hunt's block, East Weymouth.

$500 for W. C. T. U. Work.

Mr. Henry H. Faxon of this city has forwarded $500 to Mrs. Katherine Lente Stevenson, President of the Massachusetts Woman's Christian Temperance Union, with the following self-explanatory letter:

Dear Madam—Your appeal to me soliciting funds for the advancement of the work of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union has been carefully considered.

I have always been a liberal contributor to your society until a few years ago. At that time I was painfully surprised to see the union depart from their true temperance work and interest themselves in projects which were foreign to the reform. Particularly was this the case when they engaged in the business of bringing Armenians to this country. The old lines of effort in which the organization had met with marked success were neglected, and the time and energy of the members were devoted to the consideration of problems that were not distinctively allied to the temperance movement. I lost interest in the work under a management which was leading in this direction, and therefore declined to continue financial assistance.

Because of the hope I have in the policy which I understand will be pursued by the present officers of the Massachusetts W. C. T. U., and as I realize that you are in need of help at this time, I renew my faith in the society by inclosing check for $500. I desire to have it fully understood that the money thus donated is to be applied to the specific work of increasing the number of no-license cities and towns in the State, of enforcing the liquor laws, and securing strengthening amendments to the same, as well as resisting attempts to weaken the statutes which now govern the traffic.

Trusting that you will have such a convention as will infuse new life into all your local unions, I am very truly yours.

H. H. FAXON.

The Irish Crane.

William Barry, who will be at Quincy Music hall, tomorrow night, has been called the Irish Crane, ever since he parted with his old time partner, Fay. He has now an Irish comedy, "The Rising Generation" that depicts the rise of an Irish immigrant who ventures into politics and with the help of a "pull", goes into the Senate. In this play Barry convulsed New York and it is said that "The Rising Generation" suits him better than any piece he has ever had. Of course there are some songs and specialties in the play and they are said to be worked in cleverly. It is not the first attempt of Mr. Barry to star alone, and his reception in his new play, everywhere that he has appeared, demonstrated his popularity emphatically. "The Rising Generation" tells an interesting story of the possibility of a hard working man climbing to the heights of affluence, if he only has an indomitable will and a faculty for appreciating the value of money and putting it to its right use. Martin McShane, Barry's new part is a hard working man in the first act. In the second he is seen as a wealthy, good-natured, middle aged man, and triumphs over his former persecutors by showing them the result of his thrift. In the third act, his popularity is proven by his constituents who elect him and send him to the State Senate as their honored representative.

Which Have Reached London.Reported Capture of Dundee
and Laing's Nek.No Exceptional Activity, However, Shown at British Government Offices.London, Oct. 3.—It is understood that the colonial office received an important dispatch from Alfred Milner yesterday,
the contents of which, however, have not been made public.A rumor, which, however, lacked confirmation, was current at the clubs last night that the Duke of Connaught would accompany General Buller to Africa, as imperial commissioner, to confer with President Kruger and President Steyn.A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company states that the Boers have crossed into Natal and captured Dundee.
The British were said to have lost 27 killed. No confirmation has since been received of this dispatch, and there is much uncertainty as to whether or not the Boers have really begun fighting.The raiding of Natal would not cause any surprise. In fact, some such move has been expected for days. The moment the Boers decided to begin war everybody knew they would cross the border and attempt to capture important points in Natal.The absence of confirmatory reports,
or of further particulars, does not weaken the belief of many, who feel confident that war has begun. They explain this by pointing out that there have been indications that wires had been cut down
in many directions leading from Cape Town, and that the Boers would naturally destroy communication into British territory the moment they began hostilities.Later dispatches state that great excitement prevails at Cape Town over the report that the Boers have captured Laing's Nek. This is one of the most important strategic positions in the territory.Another dispatch says it is reported in Cape Town that Mr. Greene, the British agent in Pretoria, has left for Cape Town
with his staff, and that the British flag has been hauled down from the British agency building.Advices from Cape Town say a dispatch received there from Charles Town, Natal, announces that 50 members of the Orange Free State artillery, with six guns, have arrived at Volksrust, a point in the Transvaal close to the Natal border.The excitement is increasing at Durban. The streets are thronged with im-pressioned crowds, and the impression prevails that the Boers may commence hostilities today. Altogether over 1500 Natal volunteers have gone to the front.The British government is chartering a large number of steamers, evidently for the purpose of transporting an army corps. About 40 vessels are to be chartered, and the steamer Pavonia of the Cunard line and Bavarian of the Allan line are among those already taken.A special dispatch from Pretoria says that General Jan Kerkhove will command the Boer forces on the Natal border. Commandant Ongele of the southwestern and General Schalk Burger on the eastern frontier, while General Malan will be in command at Rustenburg. Altogether there will be nine generals in command of columns.A complete plan of campaign has been arranged with the Orange Free State.
President Kruger addressed the troops which started for the Natal border on Saturday, appealing to their patriotism and wishing them good speed.The Chronicle, which has lately been advocating the policy of sending an imperial commissioner—suggesting the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava—to meet President Kruger and try to arrange matters, argues that the ministers now see the mischief which Mr. Chamberlain has brought upon the country.The paper goes on to comment upon a speech made by the Duke of Devonshire
on Saturday last, which it characterizes as a remarkable appeal to the peace party, and asks why Lord Salisbury and the Duke of Devonshire did not interfere before. It then suggests that the Duke of Devonshire be sent as high plenipotentiary to negotiate with President Kruger.The Morning Post again complains editorially that, although the government put their hands to the plow in July, October has arrived without visible progress having been made, and the paper asks what they are waiting for,
and expresses the opinion that "the expectant attitude maintained is hardly consonant with the high sounding words that have been used."Even in view of the report contained in a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company that the Boers have captured Dundee, in Natal, no exceptional activity was shown at the government offices.Mr. Chamberlain and the Earl of Selborne were absent from the colonial office, but Lord Lansdowne, General Wolsey and General Wood were busily engaged at the war office. General Buller called at the war office, and a special board meeting was held.Naturally, nothing of the discussion was made public, but it is understood that General Buller will not proceed for the Cape until next week, except in case of unforeseen developments.Many members of parliament are returning to town in anticipation of an early surmounting of the houses of parliament.The Berlin correspondent of The Daily News reports recent interviews between Lord Salisbury and Count Von Hatz-feldt-Wildenburg, German ambassador to Great Britain, had with reference to the Samoan question, and hints that England had Germany's good will in Africa by meeting the views of the German government regarding the settlement of the Samoan difficulty.BOSTONS GO UP A PEG.Once More in Second Place by Winning Two Games From New York.Boston, Oct. 3.—The New York Giants blew into town for the last series of the season with the Boston. A slight flurry of snow fell between games, and in answer to the demand of the spectators, Umpire Stuartwood called the exercises off after the sixth round was finished in the afternoon.To keep warm the boys hustled, and some fast infolding was shown. Doyle made a feature catch of a foul fly close to the bleachers, and Davis in both games accepted 16 chances in grand style, besides hitting the ball for keeps.
Boston's two victories place them in second place.

New York, Oct. 3.—At a meeting of the New York Presbytery yesterday the case of Professor Arthur C. McGuffey, accused of heresy, came up. Dr. John B.
Shaw of the committee asked that aspecial meeting be called at which the committee could report. This was voted down. This, it is said, indicates that the Presbytery itself will try the case instead of sending it up to the synod.Two Years For Manslaughter.
Dover, N. H., Oct. 3.—Harry Burleigh, charged with manslaughter in causing the death of John F. Bean in this city April 22, was brought into court yesterday. He entered a plea of guilty. The court sentenced him to serve two years
at state prison and pay costs of prosecution.Boy Accidentally Killed.
Rochester, N. H., Oct. 3.—Henry Varney, 10 years of age, accidentally shot a companion, Fernald Haynes, of the same age, yesterday, and the latter died last evening. The lads were handling a shotgun, which was loaded with lead slugs, when Varney accidentally pulled the trigger.Train Struck Recruits.
Hamburg, Oct. 3.—When a train bearing recruits, enroute for Metz, arrived at the Klosterthor station last night, a number of the recruits alighted from the cars and stood on the track. Another train, passing the station, killed three and injured 30.More Robbers Captured.
Montreal, Oct. 3.—Twenty-eight members of the Scotsman's crew were arrested yesterday as they arrived on the steamer Ottoman. When they were searched over $4000 in money was found on them and a quantity of goods and jewelry.A TIME ALLOWANCE.

Shamrock's spinmaker's boom is 6.11
longer than Columbia's, but her topmast is 6.41 shorter than that of the American boat.Judging from the stability of Shamrock during her recent trial spins off Sandy Hook, Designer Fife has been able to give his boat a greater amount of lead ballast than at first supposed by the yachting sharps who have predicted that Shamrock would not be able to carry her sail. Those yachtsmen at the club who heard of the measurements of the two yachts agree that Shamrock will really prove a worthy antagonist for the 10th defender of the America's cup.It was 1:30 before Shamrock was warped into the dry dock where Columbia had been measured and the caisson closed, making the water smooth for the measurements.After the measurer's steel tape had been stretched from the topmast track down the mast to the top of the main boom and from the bowsprit end to the main boom end, all those who will sail
in Shamrock during the race, some 53 in all,
sat down on deck on each side, amidships, while Measurer Hyslop proceeded to measure the yacht's waterline. This work occupied two hours and a half.
The yacht's water line was then marked on each quarter with the red letter "V"
and at the bow by a broad, white stripe across the stem.At 4 o'clock Sir Thomas Lipton and his party left the yacht, the caisson was swung open, lines were cast off and Shamrock, with housed topmast, was towed away from the mny yard. She arrived and made fast to her moorings
in Sandy Hook bay at 6:10 p. m., receiving salutes as she passed down the East river and the upper bay from almost every passing steamer.The weather indications, according to the special forecast sent out from Washington, are that the wind will be fresh from the northeast. If so the yachts will start from Sandy Hook lightship and run almost dead before the wind down the Jersey coast to a point just beyond Long Branch. According to a dispatch received from the Monmouth Beach life saving station there will be quite a heavy sea off Sandy Hook unless the wind moderates or shifts to some other quarter.What Colored Men Want.
Washington, Oct. 2.—A committee of colored men, representing the national Afro-American council, called on the president yesterday, and presented an address, adopted by the organization at its recent convention at Chicago. The address condemns mob violence against the negro race, suggests legislation for the protection of citizens against mob violence, asks for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the industrial conditions of the colored race, requests that a colored man be appointed on the board of commissioners to the Paris exposition, and that the race be given full recognition in the appointment of the clerical force of the census.Laborers on Strike.
Rochester, N. H., Oct. 3.—Fifty men, who have been employed by Andrew Smith, a contractor, at North Rochester, or Cottle's Mills, constructing a canal
there, went on strike yesterday. They have been receiving $1.30 a day, but have asked for $1.50. They claim now that they have not received any pay for two weeks.Inquest Was Private.
Barnstable, Mass., Oct. 3.—The inquest into the murder of James T. Whitmore of Dennis, for which Edwin R. Snow of Yarmouth is under arrest, was begun before Judge Swift yesterday, and 25 witnesses were present. The hearing was private.Weather Conditions and Forecast.

ington the earliest killing frost on record occurred, the earliest previous date of first killing frost being Oct. 6, 1892. Fair weather has prevailed, except over the Florida peninsula. Fine weather, with rising temperature, is indicated for New England.Facing the Future.There comes a time to most women when they must face the future of wifehood and motherhood. What that future has in store for them depends largely upon themselves. To a healthy woman the obligations and consequences of marriage are a lasting happiness.To a woman suffering from irregularity or other ailments of the sex, marriage may prove a misery. Where such irregularity exists Dr. Pierce's diseases which affect the delicate womanly organs.

"Favorite Prescription" is a non-alcoholic medicine and is free from opium and other narcotics."At an early stage of married life," writes Mrs.
Flora A. of Dallas, Jackson Co., Mo., "I was greatly bothered with painful periods, also a troublesome drain which rendered me very weak and unfit for work of any kind. I became so thin there was nothing left of me but skin and bone. My husband became alarmed and got me a bottle of 'Favorite Prescription.' After he saw the wonderful effects of that he got me
two more, and up there I am now. I feel wonderfully strong. I owe all I have to Dr. Pierce and his wonderful 'Favorite Prescription.'"

Fickle Winds Prevented
a Genuine Contest.

Columbia and Shamrock Appear Well Matched.

Latter Led at the End of a Drifting Race.

Course Kept Clear and Contestants Not Interfered With.

Prevailing Sentiment That Columbia Will Be Able to Hold the Cup.

New York, Oct. 4.—In her first effort to "lift" the America's cup, Sir Thomas Lipton's yacht, Shamrock, had a lead over Columbia, the cup defender, when the time limit expired, and the contestants were still two miles from the starting line.

There were only light winds most of the day. The result was "no race," but the performance of the challenger caused much surprise.

All forecasts showed that the Shamrock would be at a disadvantage in light winds. The reverse proved to be the case.

The day promised well at first. The sky was smirched with a few dirty clouds, but it was clear enough so that the thousands of spectators who lined the Jersey shore could see almost every foot of the course. The waves were crested with whitecaps here and there,
and a fairly fresh breeze blew out of the north-northeast, but after Columbia and Shamrock had crossed the line the wind turned fluky and variable, and the race was a fizzle almost from the start. But the fluke gave the yachting chaps and the spectators much to think about—and some surprises.

Columbia is undeniably the prettier boat. She is tall, statelike, with graceful lines and towering mast. The Irish boat, with her broader beam and longer
base line, looked slower and heavier.
Perhaps her green color makes her look clumsier, as if she were forced through the water, while the slim Columbia pieces it like a rapier.

Though indecisive in every respect as to the abilities of the rival spectators, the race indicates that the Irish boat, with her English skipper and her Scotch crew, is the ablest sloop ever sent across the Atlantic in the hope of lifting the hundred guinea cup, which America brought back 48 years ago, and which has since been successfully defended against the world.

During the 5½ hours' sail, Shamrock was twice ahead, and twice the Yankee boat showed the way. For the first 10 minutes Shamrock led, then for five Columbia's graceful bow showed ahead of the green boat. For 45 minutes following Shamrock led, then for three hours Columbia, and for the last hour and a half Shamrock led the way.

The breeze blew as high as 12 knots
an hour, and as low as three, and shifted about through eight points of the compass. Each in turn beat the other in turning before the wind, and was in turn beaten by the other beating against the wind, at the various stages of the race so that many of the experts who felt the two boats sail are disinclined to believe that there is a pin to choose between them. But, when the race is closely analyzed, it is absolutely proven that Columbia showed her superiority
at every point of sailing, running, reaching and beating whenever the wind freshened, and that it was only in the lightest airs that Shamrock could make headway against her.

Both had their share of good and bad luck. Columbia had the better of the shifting winds on the run down to the mark, and beat Shamrock two mil-utes and 44 seconds, while on the beat home, after increasing her lead over a mile at one time, Shamrock overhauled
the Yankee and was a quarter of a mile ahead when the time allowance expired.

The feature of the race which pleased everybody most was the perfectly clear field which was maintained. For the first time, this year the government took a hand to prevent a repetition of the unfortunate occurrence which marred the race when the accompanying excursion boats, in their frened eagerness to get nothing of the beautiful spectacle escape, crowded down upon the racers until their backwash impeded
the yachts' progress through the water, and caused Lord Dunraven to file his famous protest. The government was determined this year that the course should be protected against unofficial trespassers.

A flotilla of revenue cutters and torpedo boats, flying red-barred white flags, guarded the course, keeping excursion steamers, yachts and tugs at a perfectly safe distance from the canvas-clouded racers.

On the way down they maintained two parallel lines, a mile apart, two line fences, through which not one of the pushing, crowding fleet of excursion vessels was permitted to poke her nose.
The broad, expansive sea inside, without wash or swell, was left clear and free for the maneuvering of the giant-esses. On the way back, the patrol vessels were equally efficient. When the yachts were on the starboard tack the torpedo boats were in column on the same course, and the revenue cutters abreast, behind the yachts, thus forming a right angle, in the hollow of which the yachts sailed without embarrassment.

The course was laid 15 miles dead before the wind and back again. The direction of the wind carried this course
south-southwest from the Sandy Hook lightship almost straight down the Jersey coast to a point off Ashbury park, where the white float with a red ball was placed to mark the turning point. Columbia was admirably handled throughout the race. Though Shamrock was first across the line by 45 seconds, Columbia's Deer Isle crew of Yankees
were so much carried than their Scotch rivals that they had Columbia's spin-naker and balloon jib set first by three minutes.

The spectators marveled at the cloud
of canvas the big leviathans carried.
Straight up to the air the slender skyscraper yards carried the point of the pyramids for 175 feet. It is hard to realize that this means the height of an ordinary 12-story building, and the frail
hulls were bowling along under the pressure of 14,000 feet of canvas. The twin ballons with their following wind lifted
Columbia along like a great gull in the 10-knot breeze and carried her in 10
minutes past Shamrock. But when the wind died to six knots, as it did within a few minutes, Shamrock forged steadily
ahead until at the end of 45 minutes she led by 200 yards. Then a sudden haul
of the wind to the north-northwest
reached Columbia first. The big belled
spinnaker was taken in, her mainsail
was smartly gybed and she passed Shamrock as if the latter had been moored.

Instead of a run, the canting of the wind now made it a reach for the outer mark, but Columbia gradually edged over toward the Jersey coast with the intention of setting the wind astern and before it could do so, however, it. The maneuver was successfully accomplished after crossing Shamrock's bow,
but just as the spinnaker was set aboard Columbia the wind canted back to the north-northeast and left her with her cloud of canvas shivering like a collapsed balloon.

Shamrock had started to follow Columbia's tactics. Twice she lowered her spinnaker boom as if to break out the big sail, but as the wind held from the new quarter she roused her main boom instead and reached straight for the mark. Although the maneuver of Columbia had been successful, it was a costly one, and she lost several minutes
by holding on to her immense canvas in the vain hope that the wind would shift back again. But when she did change her sails she made up for lost time by outfooting her antagonist. She seemed to skim over the water, scarcely making a ripple where she entered it, and leaving a wake of foam behind her. Shamrock made more fuss forward and dragged a wave aft.

Columbia was first to the mark, and as she rounded the stake boat the excursion fleet gathered there to greet her un-bottled their enthusiasm and gave her an ovation from a thousand whistles.
The fleet also saluted Shamrock as she went around, two minutes and one second later.

On the beat home, against a head wind,
Columbia showed her heels to the Irish boat unmistakably while the wind held.
Time after time Shamrock tried for the beater gauge, luffing, squaring and pinching until her head sails trembled, but without avail. Columbia not only held as high, but outfooted her, tack
after tack.

The yachts made a beautiful spectacle
as they beat to windward, heeling over the breeze, the water sliding swiftly back from their shark-like bows. Whenever they smashed into an unusually large sea the spray spurted from either side 20 feet into the air.

After Columbia had gotten a mile ahead and the yachts were way overboard, the Jersey shore, the breeze again half failed and Shamrock drew gradually ahead. It was marvelous that in so light a breeze a boat could slip so swiftly through the sea. After that Shamrock was never headed, but from that time to the finish Columbia had nothing but bad luck. In addition to her faster footing power in the extremely light air, every puff of the capricious wind seemed to strike Shamrock and leave the Yankee boat practically becalmed. Edge as she would towards every streak of wind, she seemed unable to find it. Shamrock gained foot by foot until she overhauled
the Yankee, crossed her bows, and when

Afrikaner Leader to Visit Pretoria
In the Interest of Peace.

Dispatch of Troops Continues
on Both Sides.

Salisbury Said to Have Instructed Chamberlain
to Avert a Conflict.

London, Oct. 4.—The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail telegraphs that Hofmyer, the Afrikaner leader, will proceed to Pretoria at once to make a last effort for the maintenance of peace.

A special dispatch from Pretoria says that the meeting of the road adjourned
at 11 o'clock Monday, and that only a legal quorum of members was present.
President Kruger described the war as unjust and unnecessary, and denied that the outlanders wanted the franchise.
Lucas Meyer, the chairman, said the real purpose of the British was "solely to straight up to the air the slender sky-
scraper yards carried the point of the pyramids for 175 feet. It is hard to realize that this means the height of an ordinary 12-story building, and the frail
hulls were bowling along under the pressure of 14,000 feet of canvas. The twin
ballons with their following wind lifted
Columbia along like a great gull in the 10-knot breeze and carried her in 10
minutes past Shamrock. But when the
wind died to six knots, as it did within a
few minutes, Shamrock forged steadily
ahead until at the end of 45 minutes she
led by 200 yards. Then a sudden haul
of the wind to the north-northwest
reached Columbia first. The big belled
spinnaker was taken in, her mainsail
was smartly gybed and she passed Shamrock as if the latter had been
moored.

A telegram from Paris announces that
M. Arnaud, president of the International Arbitration and Peace league, has sent an appeal to Lord Salisbury entreating him to choose a power to act with a power chosen by the Transvaal
with the object of averting war.

Montague White, consul general for the South African republic in London, says that he has telegraphed President Kruger urging him to make a personal appeal to Lord Salisbury, dwelling upon the inquiry of the war and proposing a scheme as a basis of further negotiations. He says he is momentarily expecting to hear that the Transvaal government is sending an ultimatum to Great Britain declaring the dispatch of troops a casus belli, in which event he would be compelled to close his offices.

Mr. White added a curious statement to the effect that a representative of one of the largest capitalists of the Rand had called upon him yesterday and asserted that it was known in capitalist circles that Lord Salisbury had determined there should not be war and had instructed Mr. Chamberlain to wire to South Africa further assurances with regard to the British desire to respect
the complete independence of the Transvaal. No confirmation of this is obtainable in official circles.

The dispatches from South Africa are largely a repetition of those of the week.
Advices from Newcastle, Natal, report that telegraphic communication has interrupted beyond Charles Town, where the stores have been looted by the natives since the departure of the whites.

Stories of the movements of Boer State and British, of the hurried muster and dispatch of troops on both sides, have come from other points. A telegram from Free Smith, Natal, says that the Orange Free State troops have occupied and closed Gosh's pass, on the Free State border, and that Commandant Alfriche,
chief of the Free State artillery, is proceeding in the direction of Kimberley
with a considerable force of artillery.
Another force of artillery, under Commandant Boring, has gone to Har-rismith, while Commandant Smit commands a force of artillery en route for Kroonstad.

The latest news from Johannesburg
indicates that the last rush of Europeans to leave the town has occurred. They crowded the trains, occupying every possible inch on the trucks. There is a considerable anxiety with regard to the few who remain behind, as communication seems to be cut off.

The mining commissioner stated officially that the proclamation of Sept. 29, relative to the practice of mining, had been withdrawn and he, therefore, advised all Britishers to leave as soon as possible.

Drift of Opinion.

Some of the trust and other conferences might learn a lesson from the Congregationalists who have just closed their session in Boston. The latter appeared to have had their heads with them, a fact which enabled them to talk more sense than nonsense.—Fall River Herald.

Joshua Quincy would be out of his element if he was out of office, and so looking ahead to avoid such a shock
he says he is willing to be chief consul of the Massachusetts division of the L.
A. W. Besides, it pays to be on the right side of the wheelman these days. Bicycle politics is a good deal of a factor.—Milford Journal.

Men's styles are so wooden and so inflexible that it is a relief to have a touch of novelty in masculine apparel. The silk hat and the derby are all right as conventional modes of headgear, but men generally will welcome the comfortable and adaptable soft hat and bless the fashion that brought it in.—New York Sun.

It is to be hoped that the people of the United States will not kill Admiral Dewey with kindness. He is already well along in years and has been overburdened with responsibilities
since he went to Manila, and cannot endure the strain which a younger man could support. Let us treat him with forbearance, and hope that his health and life may be spared for many years to enjoy his well earned fame.
—New Bedford Standard.

Imported laborers in Hawaii who refuse to work under the hard conditions of their contract agreements are sent into penal servitude under the law of the island government applicable to such cases. There is no limit to the term of imprisonment at hard labor;
and if this statute can be enforced
under the existing federal jurisdiction the constitutional guarantee of personal liberty will have been set aside. The matter is interesting as an illustration of the sort of problems with which our statesmen and economists must deal in finally settling the relations of our new island possessions with the central administrative authority.—Philadelphia Record.

The country is enjoying,
generally speaking, a most satisfactory degree of prosperity. The people who have escaped getting entangled in the trusts and suffering injury are earning good wages and having a good time.
There has been some advance in prices,
but that is to a certain extent a natural and logical consequence of the paying of those same good wages that are making the country prosperous. But with this prosperity comes in at the present time the same old greed and avarice on the part of some misguided business men. Where their own expenses may have increased a few dollars a week, they seek to advance prices, where they can, so as to get back from the customers in a day or two of business all the extra expense of a week that they are put to in conducting that business.—Brookton Enterprise.

Earl—Travers.

Mr. James Earl and Miss Mary Travers of this city were married Monday evening by Rev. W. J. Foley at the parochial residence, and a reception followed at the residence of Mr. James Doran on Gass place. Mr. J. J.
Connelly was best man and Miss Mary Doran bridesmaid, who assisted in receiving. The bride wore blue broadcloth trimmed with white silk, and carried carnation pinks.

ONE SHORT OF 5000.

Quincy Has 4999 Between 5 and 15 Years of Age.

Whew! The city has by the school census just completed, 4,999 children between the ages of five and fifteen years of age. This is an increase of 254 over last year, and the largest gain
since 1890.

The recent report of attendance at the public schools showed an enrollment of 4,798 and to this should be added pupils at the Woodward Institute, Greenleaf street private school and Adams academy, so that practically all of the 4,999 are in school.

The largest gain was in Ward Four,
but the Wollaston ward made the best percentage of gain. Every ward gained, although it was not many in Atlantic and Quincy Point. The West Quincy ward holds first place in total number,
and has strengthened it during the year. Then in order comes Wards
Three, Five, Two, One and Six.

The summary of Charles H. Johnson,
the census taker is:

	Total.	In- crease.
Ward One,	501	30
Ward Two,	600	9
Ward Three,	1161	14
Ward Four,	1445	118
Ward Five,	743	81
Ward Six,	450	2
The City,	4999	254

New Secretary.

Lemuel W. Standish of Stoughton who was on Tuesday elected Secretary of the Republican State Committee to succeed Thomas Talbot of Billerica
now on his way to the Philippines as a captain in the Twenty-sixth Regiment, is editor and proprietor of the Stoughton Sentinel, a member of the Republican Editorial Association, and has been its secretary. He has long been a member of the Stoughton Republican Town Committee, and is now its secretary.

He has been a member of the Republican State Committee for three years, succeeding Herbert F. Plympton of Wellesley, and is now a member of the executive committee of that body.
Mr. Standish began newspaper work in Wakefield on the Bulletin 17 years ago, then two years after went to Stoughton and acquired the Sentinel.
He is a prominent Mason and Master of Rising Star lodge A. F. and A. M.
He is a native of North Easton and a lineal descendant of Myles Standish of Plymouth Colony.

Thorndike Spaulding of Cambridge was elected Assistant Secretary to succeed Mr. Standish both selections being made by acclamation.

Nearly 200 Connected.

Work making house connections with the sewer is rushing just at present as people are anxious to have their estates connected before the cold weather sets in as the expense of opening the ground will then be more. Up to last Saturday night, 184 estates had been connected with the public sewer, and the Sewerage Commissioners have fifty or more applications ahead. They now have three gangs to work making connections. The following estates were connected with the sewer last week:
James Lewis, Farrington street.
L. F. Patterson, Farrington street.
Hannah M. Kingston, Chestnut street.
Mrs. Fannie Jones, Whitwell street.
Edward Billings, Whitwell street.
Edward Billings, Cranich street.
James H. Stetson, Brook street.

Mixed Foursomes.

President Freeman of the Wollaston Golf club, in the first round of the championship on the new links Tuesday, beat Chipman, 10 up, 8 to play.
Wright and Atherton will play their first round today.
The members of the Wollaston club
are greatly interested in a mixed foursome, to be played on the old links today. President Freeman and Miss Whicher, who took the ladies' championship cup this year, played a practice round on the old links, yesterday. They will play in the foursome
as partners today.

Among the ladies on the links Tuesday practising for the mixed foursome
were Miss Mollie Adams, who is conceded to be the best lady player in the club, and Mrs. Pope.

Installation of Pastor.

The Rev. Edward A. Chase will be installed as pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church on Tuesday, Oct.
10. The council will meet at 3 o'clock and the installation services will be held at 7 o'clock. The sermon will be by the Rev. S. E. Herrick of the Mt.
Vernon church, Boston; the prayer of installation by the Rev. A. H. Plumb, D. D., of the Walnut Avenue church,
Roxbury; the right hand of fellowship
by the Rev. E. N. Hardy of the Bethany church; the charge to the pastor by the Rev. William E. Wolcott of Lawrence; and the charge to the people by the Rev. Edward Norton.

Coddington backs.

A business man dropped into the Quincy post-office the other day and asked for a stamp. He tendered a $1 bill in payment and rushed out without waiting for change. Postmaster Hammond soon called at his place of business with the ninety-eight cents.

"The Rising Generation" is a story of an humble Irishman who came to America poor, landed in New York, entered politics and became wealthy.
The chief character portrayed by Mr.
Barry, is an ideal one, whose wit,
humor and natural comedy never pale upon the audience. The supporting company comprise, Lydia Barry, the rich contralto singer; George Felix the all-round mirth-provoker; James H.
Manning, the clever Irish comedian; Willie Weston, the boy-tenor, and others. Specialties of a high order abound throughout the comedy.
Tickets 25, 35, and 50 cents at

DEWEY AND MONTJOJO.

What the Spanish Admiral Did at Manila and His Reward—A Contrast of Today.

By Andrew Downs.

The court martial of Admiral Mont-jojo, coming just at the time when the United States as a nation was busily preparing a monster welcome to Admiral Dewey, comprises one of the most striking contrasts of modern history.

In Spain we have a picture of a government demanding the conviction, on charges of cowardice and disloyalty, of a naval officer whose successful antagonists admit to have made a most gallant and heroic struggle. Here we see a people showering honors of every conceivable nature on the man who won for them a most signal victory
nearly 18 months ago.

In this connection it is of interest to recall some of the facts concerning that battle of Manila Bay. Perhaps some of us have forgotten that the Spaniards fought bravely as well as vainly.

It will be remembered that after passing the forts on Corregidor island
Dewey led his squadron past the city of Manila, wheeled and came back in a wide sweep to open the fight. The Spanish fleet lay at anchor under the guns of the shore batteries. Twice the two squadrons exchanged broadsides.
Again Dewey wheeled. Just here occurred a diversion. This event has been graphically described by Colonel George A. Loud in an article in The Century Magazine. Colonel Loud was serving as paymaster of the revenue cutter McCulloch and was an eye-witness of the battle. He writes:

"Again the ships wheeled and came down the line. We saw a large white

ADMIRAL MONTJOJO.

ship move out to meet the Olympia.
We suspected it was (and it afterward proved to be) the Spanish admiral's flagship, the Reina Cristina. She was met by such a storm of shot, all the fleet which were in range joining in,
that she could not reach the Olympia
at close quarters and, wheeling about,
tried to make back for the little harbor at Cavite from which she came.
But at the instant when her stern swung in line one of the big 8 inch rifles in the forward turret of the Olympia hurled a 250 pound percussion shell, which, true to its aim,
raked her from her stern forward, exploding her boiler, completely wrecking the ship and setting her on fire.
This shot, the Spanish surgeons told us, killed the captain and 60 men, and the entire loss on this ship on the admiral's desperate sally was 140 killed and more than 200 wounded.

"The admiral changed his flag to another ship, the Isla de Cuba, but fared no better, being driven back, and the ship sank at the entrance of the little harbor.

"It was at this time that the Olympia had her moment of greatest peril.
We could see two black boats, which turned out to be torpedo launchers, coolly waiting her approach, and as the Olympia came on they started for her at full speed. They were sunk."

Another writer, Dr. Charles P. Kin-duburger, junior surgeon of the Olympia, who had little work to do during the fight, in describing the action says:
"Five times the fleet ranged up and down before Cavite, each vessel pouring in broadsides upon the Spanish fleet and shore batteries. As soon as the Spanish admiral could get up steam on his flagship, the Reina Christina, he came boldly out to give us battle. It was magnificent, but in his case it certainly was not war, for his flagship was hit again and again and his men were driven from their guns
by the fierce fire of the Olympia and the other vessels."

It would seem from these accounts
that Admiral Montjojo, instead of basely surrendering in cowardice and disloyalty, steamed out single handed to meet the American fleet. When his flagship was disabled, he did as Perry did—left the dead littered, blazing decks and in the midst of the battle transferred his flag to another vessel.
Only after his entire fleet were shot riddled, burning wrecks did he haul down his colors.

Yet this is the man for whom the Spanish government the other day demanded dishonorable dismissal from the service and imprisonment for life
in a military fortress.

FRANK P. BENNETT.

Sketch of a Well-Known Massachusetts Legislator.

Candidate For Speaker of the House of Representatives of Massachusetts.

We print below the picture of Mr. Frank P. Bennett, one of the candidates for the position of speaker of the Massachusetts house of representatives to succeed Hon. John L. Bates. Mr. Bennett has been a prominent member of the legislature for a number of years. He is known as a man of positive views, with the ability to give them clear utterance.

Personally he is of frank and engaging manners, one who is accustomed to meeting men and knowing how to deal with them. Mr. Bennett is of good height and figure, of striking appearance and in considerable measure of military bearing. As a speaker he is to the point, with the brevity and abruptness of a business man who does not want to waste time or have his own time wasted.

Mr. Bennett was born in North Cambridge, Mass., May 2, 1853. At the age of 17 he graduated from the Chelsea high school. He then engaged in journalism, which profession he has followed ever since. In the spring of 1888 he became the leading editorial writer on the Boston Daily Advertiser. As a financial writer for many years over the signature of "E. & O. E." he became widely known.

In April, 1887, he established the American Wool Reporter, which has now become the American Wool and Cotton Reporter, the leading textile journal of the country. In 1891 he established the United States Investor. Mr. Bennett has offices for his papers in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Washington, San Francisco and London, and has a large force of correspondents and traveling agents covering every section of the United States. He is also the publisher of the American Wool Growers' Bulletin, of the National Wool Growers' Association, and is the owner of Bennett's Information agency, whose opinion respecting all kinds of securities are eagerly sought for by private investors, banks, bankers and brokers.

Mr. Bennett is first vice president of the National Wool Growers' association, president of the New England Wool Growers' association, president of the Middlesex East Agricultural society and vice president of the Universalist Social Union. He is a member of a special committee to consider the adoption of a metropolitan park system for the suburbs on the north side of Boston. In the legislature of 1893 he was unquestionably the Republican leader of the house and was a member of the committee on rules, chairman of the rapid transit committee, and chairman of the joint special committee on public reservations. He carried successfully through the legislature of 1893 the act upon which the splendid metropolitan park system of the suburbs of Boston is based, and his services as chairman of the rapid transit committee were recognized by his associates by the presentation of a thoroughbred Southdown ram, which was brought from Kentucky and presented to Mr. Bennett upon the floor of the house, to be used in his famous Maine flock of sheep. He is the largest sheep owner in New England.

Mr. Bennett's chances for the speakership of the next House are considered to be exceedingly bright. He is thoroughly familiar with the floor, the principles of parliamentary procedure, with their special application in the Massachusetts legislature, and with the customs peculiar to that body. He is an excellent presiding officer, as shown on the frequent occasions when he has occupied the chair; dignified, quick both of apprehension and of speech, a time-saver, able to preserve order, courteous, unprejudiced and impartial. At the outset of his legislative career he gained a reputation for independence of thought and action that has never been marred. It is a guarantee that his most important work, the selection of committees, would be done without favoritism and in perfect honor, to the best interests of the commonwealth. He was for many years moderator of the Everett town meetings, and when the first general election was held for the nomination of the first mayor of the new city, with a vigorous contest between rival candidates, he was united upon by all parties as chairman of the caucus.

Mr. Bennett removed to Saugus in 1885, and has represented that section in the legislature for the past two years. He resides upon a famous old homestead of 60 acres. His estate contains two of the finest and most famous avenues in Massachusetts, and is laid out after the manner of an English country seat. This homestead partially comprises land taken up by his ancestor, Samuel Bennett, who came over in the ship James in 1635, and was one of the first three settlers in Saugus.

Socialism Not Favored.

The Massachusetts Federation of Labor adopted on Tuesday a resolution protesting against President McKinley taking part in the ceremonies of the laying of the corner stone of the proposed new postoffice building in Chicago because said corner stone was cut by non-union granite workers.

The following resolution was introduced by delegate A. W. Barr of the Worcester machinists union: "Resolved, That we support men from our own ranks to represent us in legislative bodies."

The resolution also declared for the collective ownership of all means of production and distribution and was regarded by the delegates as a straight state socialist declaration.

The committee reported the resolution to the convention without recommendation. Delegate George Wrenn of the Springfield cigarmakers' union moved to adopt the resolution and this motion would have been carried had not delegate F. K. Easter of the Boston Central labor union called the attention of the delegates to the fact that the convention was asked to declare in favor of socialism.

Mr. Foster made one of his old-time, ringing speeches. He attacked the position taken by the socialists to the convention and declared that the labor organizations of the state were not in any degree favorable to the proposition.

Delegates Barr and Wrenn favored the motion, both making able addresses upon the subject. Delegates Samuel Weener of the Boston cigarmakers union and Dennis D. Driscoll of the Boston horseshoers' union opposed the resolution.

By a vote of fully two to one the matter was laid upon the table.

Political.

At the Republican convention for this Senatorial district held in Boston this afternoon Hon. B. Herbert Woodsum of Braintree was renominated by acclamation for Senator, and Frank F. Prescott of Quincy was reelected on the State Committee.

Hon. John Shaw will serve on the Committee on Resolutions at the Republican State convention.

The Republican State ticket to be selected Friday will be ratified at Worcester, Wednesday, Oct. 11.

Another opportunity to register on Saturday evening.

Col. A. H. Goetting, the chairman of the Republican State Committee, entertained the members of the committee at a banquet at Young's Tuesday evening. Col. Melvin O. Adams was one of the speakers, also members at-large on the committee on resolutions for the State convention.

Hon. Oliver H. Durrell of Cambridge has been nominated by the Republicans of the Third district for Councilor. An excellent selection.

Democrats of Dedham have nominated Arthur Clark for the Legislature.

Art Exhibit.

The Youths Companion Library Art Exhibit has been received at the Thomas Crane Public Library where it can be seen for a limited time. The exhibit which is one of the best ever shown at the library comprises work of such artists as F. J. Boston, L. J. Bridgman, H. G. Burgess, M. J. Burns, Clifford Carleton, H. C. Christy, Charles Copeland, Chase Emerson, Florence P. England, Sears Gallagher, Gilbert Gawn, C. D. Gibson, W. Hamilton Gibson, Jay Hambridge and others of equal note.

Billings Family.

The 15th annual reunion of the Billings family, in which Quincy people are prominent, will be held in Boston, tomorrow, at 9 A. M. All connected with the family by blood or marriage, in any degree are most cordially invited to be present and will be most heartily welcomed. Business meeting at 12 noon. At this meeting a report of the committee upon the publishing of the genealogy of the family is expected. It is hoped an effort will be made for the issue of this history without continued delay.

TODAY'S COURT.

Arthur Foley was sent to the State farm for being a vagrant at Quincy.
James H. Croake was fined $5 for drunkenness at Braintree.

The continued case of George McIntosh for violation of the liquor law at Quincy was called. He was found guilty and the case was placed on file.

Henry Walsley, Jr., was arraigned for truancy at Weymouth. Case continued until Thursday.

The Souvenir Patriots are now on sale.

Capt. Whitney Resigns.

Capt. William H. Whitney of Co. K, 5th Regiment, has sent a letter of resignation to the company, which was read at the drill meeting Monday. The resignation was not wholly a surprise as it has been rumored that he would relinquish his charge.

Capt. Whitney has been prominently identified with local military affairs for several years and was one of the most popular officers of the regiment. He is a Quincy boy, a son of Mr. Adam Whitney of Gay street. He received his education in the Quincy schools and later was employed as a clerk in a large Boston business house. He entered the employ of the Quincy & Boston street railway several years ago and now holds a position with the company as inspector. His business demands much of his time and it was that he might serve his employers more faithfully that he has resigned his commission.

Capt. Whitney is one of those officers who have risen from the rank having reached the office of Captain by faithful service. When the company was mustered into the United States service for the war with Spain, Capt. Whitney went with them as First Lieutenant. When the company returned and again became a part of the state militia he was elected Captain. The date on which his resignation will take effect has not been settled as yet.

Coming Home.

Mr. Harry R. Osgood of the 17th U. S. Regulars arrived at San Francisco on Sept. 26, on the U. S. transport "Para." He comes from Iloilo where he has been fighting the Filipinos for a year. He will come home via Chicago, arriving probably next Tuesday. He has seen active service and has been in numberless fights from the time of his arrival in the Philippines until his departure.

Solid Comfort.

Winona V. Marquis, Trained Nurse, Junonville, Pa., says: "Comfort Powder is really, I never felt more like praising anything." It cures offensive perspiration, prickly heat and chafing.

Awful Work of Earthquakes.

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—It is now estimated that 1500 persons perished in the earthquakes in Asia Minor. The first shock lasted 40 seconds. Whole villages were completely destroyed. The latest advices from the stricken area shows that men, women and children were buried in the ruins of their dwelling places before they realized their danger. Numbers of bodies still lie beneath the debris. The disturbance has not yet subsided, although its strength appears to be spent. The shocks continue almost daily, but with no great violence. The population is encamped in the open.

Becoming Americanized.

Santiago, Oct. 3.—The latest achievement of the city government is the organization and equipment of a metropolitan fire department with modern steam engines, hose wagons and apparatus. The improved condition of the streets makes effective work by the department possible; and, in view of this, the underwriters have promised to bring about a reduction in the present exorbitant rates for insurance.

Food Fair Opened.

Boston, Oct. 3.—The official opening of the food fair of 1899 took place at Mechanics building yesterday. Well known representatives of the Boston Retail Grocers' association and prominent representatives of the state and city were present. Rev. Albert H. Plumb, D. D., pronounced the invocation, then President Morrison of the association gave an address of welcome, and other addresses were made.

Uncle Sam's Cash Account.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The government receipts during September were $45,334,144, and the expenditures $37,579,372, which leaves a surplus for the month of $7,754,772. The receipts from customs were $19,120,357, against $16,769,574 for September, 1898. Internal revenue, $24,364,591, against $21,555,288 for September, 1898. Miscellaneous, $1,849,194, against $1,463,207 for September, 1898.

Marine Statistics.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Vessels built in the United States, and officially numbered during the first quarter, ended Sept. 30, 1899, were 296, of 73,230 gross tons, compared with 301, of 83,191 gross tons, for the corresponding quarter of the previous fiscal year. The wooden tonnage was only 662 gross tons, compared with 25,113 for the corresponding quarter in 1898.

Plumbers' Shops Closed.

St. Paul, Oct. 3.—Practically all the plumbers in this city have struck, closing the shops and suspending work on many buildings. The workmen claim that members of the associate bosses have employed non-union men.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Harry Gibson of Cincinnati has issued a challenge to ride Jimmy Michael at the track offering the largest purse and distance from five miles to an hour. Gibson has met and defeated nearly all the middle distance stars except Michael. Barge Lone Star ran into schooner Wallula in Boston harbor. The schooner was badly stove and she was beached to save her.

Wreck of the Bay State.

St. John's, Oct. 4.—The Warren line steamer Bay State, Captain Walters, from Liverpool, Sept. 25, for Boston, with general cargo, is ashore near Cape Race, and will likely prove a total wreck. The Bay State lies on a shelving rock in Chance Cove, about five miles from Cape Dallard and 16 miles from Cape Race. Captain Walters thought his vessel was about 30 miles south of where the wrecked. The steamer has been abandoned. She has five large holes in her bottom and filled very rapidly after going ashore. A portion of her cargo was hauled up on deck and thrown overboard. She will be a total loss. Four boats containing the captain and 40 men were picked up by the bark Flora and landed at Cape Broyle last evening. Another boat with 15 men aboard is still missing, and a tug has been sent to search for it.

Used Doctored Cards.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—The trial of the persons charged with gambling at the Club der Hormlesien began in Berlin yesterday, and developed a great sensation. A number of the important witnesses, belonging to the highest circles, are reported to have fled the country. About 7,500,000 marks have been lost within the short period of the club's existence. Two of the defendants, in the course of a single evening, won 100,000 marks each. The evidence showed the unmistakable use of doctored cards on several occasions. The bank holder has fled to the United States. Emperor William has given instructions that the trial is to be carried through to the end without fear or favor, although two members of the club are in his personal entourage.

DEWEY GETS A SWORD.

President Executes the Will of American People.

Recipient of Honor Overcome by Emotion.

Administration Will Take No Backward Step in Philippines.

Will Establish Proper Government and Leave Details in Hands of Congress.

Washington, Oct. 4.—The magnificent sword awarded by act of congress to the nation's hero was yesterday bestowed upon Admiral Dewey in the presence of the chief executive, the members of the cabinet and judiciary, the highest officers of the army and navy, and a vast crowd of people.

In strong contrast with all the ceremonies that have taken place since Admiral Dewey reached the shores of his native land, yesterday's function was severely official in character. The administration was executing the will of the whole American people, and locality and community disappeared. The scene of the presentation was appropriately located under the shadow of the dome of the great white Capitol of the nation.

The sword presented to Admiral Dewey, except its steel blade and the body metal of its scabbard, is entirely of 22-carat gold. On theommel is carved the name of the cruiser Olympia, which was Dewey's flagship at Manila, and the zodiacal sign for December, in which month Dewey was born. Circling these is a closely woven wreath of oak leaves, long employed to indicate and adorn rank.

Below these, theommel is embraced by a gold collar, on the front of which are the arms of the United States, with the blue field of the shield in enamel. Below them are the arms of Vermont, Dewey's native state, with the motto "Freedom and Unity," and the colors of the shield in enamel. The plain part of the gold collar is decorated with stars and a graceful finial is given to it by a narrow band of oak leaves. The sword blade is Damascused with the inscription:

THE DEWEY SWORD.
"The gift of the nation to Rear Admiral George Dewey, U. S. N., in memory of the victory at Manila Bay, May 1, 1898."

The sword grip is covered with fine sharkskin, bound with gold wire and inlaid with gold stars. The guard is an eagle, terminating in a claw, which grasps the top in which the blade is set; the eagle's outstretched wings form the guard proper.

The battle of Manila bay was not forgotten, but it might be said to have been relegated almost to second place in the desire to do honor to the man who had proved himself as great a victor as before it, and who had shown in the long and trying months that followed his naval triumph, the qualities of a statesman and a wise administrator, as well as those of fighting leader of a victorious fleet.

And enhancing these qualities was that of modesty, displayed in the quiet dignity with which he met the occasion. This trait in Dewey's character was evidenced from the moment he reached the stand side by side with the president. He paused at this point for a moment, unwilling, apparently, to take the place that had been prepared for him on the right of the platform, lest he should appear to usurp the place due to the chief magistrate. President McKinley grasped the situation in an instant, and, taking Dewey by the arm, placed him by gentle force in the chair that had been intended for him. Later in the day, as the carriage bearing the official party drove away from the Capitol, between waves of cheering people, the president again displayed his tact by remaining covered and ignoring the demonstration himself, leaving acknowledgment to the admiral alone.

All orders promptly answered.

those nearest to him could tell his feelings during the address of Secretary Long, but when he rose to receive the sword from the hands of the president, no one could mistake the flash of the white gloved hand, as it rose to dash away the tears before the admiral came to the rigid attitude of attention before his chief.

When it came Dewey's turn to reply his voice failed him, and he made the effort twice before his lips would respond. When he did speak his tones were clear and steady, but so low that only those nearest him could hear. He said:

"I thank you, Mr. President, for this great honor you have conferred upon me. I thank the congress for what it has done, I thank the secretary of the navy for his gracious words. I thank my countrymen for this beautiful gift, which shall be an heirloom in my family forever as an evidence that republics are not ungrateful, and I thank you, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the committee, for the gracious cordial and kindly welcome which you have given me to my home."

As the admiral closed and took his seat, he turned to the president, and in a tone of quizzical appeal, inquired: "Now really, don't you think I did pretty well for an amateur?"

One of the remarkable features of the day was the ovation to Rear Admiral Schley on the return of the party from the Capitol to the White House. His carriage was several numbers behind that of the president and Admiral Dewey, and received an ovation that could scarcely be ranked below that accorded to the admiral himself. The tumult grew as the carriage proceeded down the avenue, and the crowd surged around it until the horses were brought to a walk. Finally a company of the high school cadets formed about the carriage in a hollow square. Thus protected and flanked by a force of police the carriage reached the White House with a long snap between it and the next official guests.

President McKinley, in honor of admiral Dewey, last night gave the largest dinner party in the history of the White House social functions. Covers were laid for over 50 persons. The guests included the cabinet, the government of the nine states, justices of the supreme court, some members of both houses of congress, army and navy officers and others. It was a brilliant affair.

An hour before the hour announced, a dinner occupied 2 1/2 hours and was altogether informal. There was no speech-making or toast-making, and no reference to the Manila victory. The evening was passed in individual conversation. At its close Admiral Dewey took leave of the party, and amid cheers from a small crowd of spectators, was driven to his house, where he soon retired.

Shortly after the dinner, Secretaries Root and Hitchcock, Attorney General Griggs, Senator Hanna, Chairman Boutelle of the house committee on naval affairs, ex-Secretary Bliss and Myron Herrick of Cleveland joined the president upstairs, and there was an informal talk on the Philippine situation, during which the president briefly stated his position. Mr. Boutelle, on leaving the White House, stated that from what the president said, the keynote of the administration's policy was to establish in the Philippines a proper government, and leave the details entirely in the hands of congress.

Mr. Boutelle summarized the president's informal statement as follows: "The administration's policy is to carry out the manifest will of the American people, in furnishing troops to go to the Philippine islands to sustain the fruits of Admiral Dewey's victory. The duty that now devolves upon this government is to maintain our sovereignty over the islands, sustain our soldiers against any enemy and against any disturbance of law and order, everything being for the purpose of establishing a rightful government for the people of the islands in such manner as the American government through congress shall determine. The campaign must be pushed actively and vigorously, and the opposition to our arms must be ended as rapidly as possible. Peace must be established by this government, and maintained until congress shall determine what shall be done with the islands."

Admiral Dewey will leave for New England Monday night. He will go direct to Shelburne Farms, near Burlington, Vt., as the guest of W. Seward Webb, the railroad magnate. From there he will go to Montpelier, Vt., on the 13th instant, to attend a reception for which the necessary preparations have been made. Boston will be visited next, where a reception is scheduled for Oct. 14.

Probable Fatal Shooting Affray.
Caribou, Me., Oct. 4.—Woodland is aroused over a shooting affair in which Albert Bjorkman, a Swede, was the aggressor, and a countryman, Gustaf Johnson, was the victim. It is supposed that jealousy was the cause. Johnson is spoken of as a quiet, industrious man of New Sweden, while Bjorkman is described as being the opposite. The shooting was with a 38-caliber revolver, and the wounds are so serious that Johnson is not expected to live. One shot went entirely through the intestines; from right to left, tearing the stomach; a second followed almost a similar course, but remained in the abdomen, while the third bullet went through the left elbow. The trouble which brought about the shooting is not definitely known. Bjorkman later shot his wife, probably fatally.

Standish Succeeds To Job.
Boston, Oct. 4.—At a meeting of the Republican state committee, Lemuel W. Standish of Stoughton was elected secretary of the Republican state committee, to succeed Thomas Talbot of Billerica, now on his way to the Philippines as a captain in the Twenty-sixth regiment. Mr. Standish is editor and proprietor of the Stoughton Sentinel, is a member of the Republican Editorial association, and has been its secretary.

Awarded to Cans.
New York, Oct. 4.—At the Lenox Athletic club last evening Joe Gans of Baltimore won the decision over Spider Kelly of California in 25 rounds of fast fighting at 133 pounds. Kelly had the advantage of several inches in height and held the fight with left jabs to the face, but weakened towards the close of the fight, and Gans won practically as he pleased.

HANDICAPPED.

the time limit was up was fully a quarter of a mile ahead.

Taken altogether there could not have been a more unsatisfactory race, and yet as a result of it the friends of the cup defender seem proud of the showing she made and confident that the cup is safe.

Despite the unsatisfactory outcome of the contest, the opinion was generally expressed that Columbia proved herself by far the better boat in any sort of a steady breeze.

The prevailing sentiment of the "knowing ones" seemed to be expressed by John Hyslop, who said he thoroughly believed in the Columbia; that there was a greater refinement in her design; that her lines were more easy and graceful, and that she would prove herself as well able to carry her canvas as would Shamrock in a blow. He, however, seemed to think very well of the challenger, and made it plain that his opinion had bettered since he measured her. "She is by far the best they have ever sent over," said he.

As a result of the performance of the Shamrock yesterday there was a radical change Tuesday night in the betting on the cup race. Prior to yesterday's contest Columbia had all the better of it in the wagers. Even money was the rule after yesterday's finish.

Excitement in London.
London, Oct. 4.—No event in the annals of sport ever created such intense and universal excitement as was displayed in the race between Shamrock and Columbia for the America's cup. The culminating point was reached last night, when the center of the newspaper world of Great Britain was literally packed with a multitude of cheering and enthusiastic partisans. It is calculated that at 10:30 o'clock something like 25,000 people were encompassed within the circumscribed area between Fleet street and the Thames embankment. Traffic was impossible. The police authorities were completely taken by surprise. Notwithstanding the fact that the country is on the verge of war, the result of the race obliterated from the public mind every question of political moment.

Filipinos Scattered.
Cacoor, Luzon, Oct. 4.—The fight here was practically ended yesterday. An exact illustration of the insurgent policy of evading meeting the Americans in force was furnished by the fact that when our line swept across several miles of country, firing by volley and cheering, the Filipinos melted before them, and it was only occasionally that glimpses of the enemy could be obtained as they ran from their trenches and dodged through the bushes like rabbits. A party of scouts crossed the river last night and found 28 dead Filipinos in the trenches.

Nearly Twelve Thousand Ems an Hour.
Philadelphia, Oct. 4.—William H. Stubbs, a compositor on the Baltimore Sun, yesterday broke the world's record for machine type setting in a contest for a wager of $50 a side, with William Duffy of the Philadelphia Inquirer. The contest was held in the Philadelphia Times office. Stubbs set 66,617 ems in five hours and 35 minutes, or an average of 11,940 ems an hour. The previous record was 10,800 ems an hour, made in the St. Louis Post-Dispatch office four years ago. In the contest, Duffy, the loser, set 55,026 ems.

Twenty-Five Years in Prison.
Dover, N. H., Oct. 4.—Mrs. Lizzie Provincchia was sentenced to 25 years in state prison yesterday for the murder of Annie M. Cox in Rochester, Jan. 25 last. She retracted her plea of not guilty and entered a plea of guilty of murder in the second degree.

Jewelers on Strike.
New York, Oct. 4.—About 1600 members of the Jewelers' Protective union went on strike yesterday. They demand that eight hours shall constitute a day's labor, a 50 percent increase of wages for overtime, and double wages for Sunday work.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.
Sun rises—5:46; sets, 5:19.
Moon sets—5:22 p. m.
High water—11:30 a. m.; 11:35 p. m.
Fair weather has prevailed except over the Florida peninsula. The rain area will probably extend over the middle Atlantic states and as far north as the Ohio river. In New England the weather will be fair, with light variable winds, shifting to southeasterly.

Coffee Cooler Defeated.
Chicago, Oct. 4.—Jack Root of Chicago got the decision over Frank Craig, the Harlem Coffee Cooler, at the end of six rounds last night. The decision was well received by a large crowd. Root landed at will throughout and ducked Craig's rushes cleverly. Neither man showed signs of much punishment. They fought at 162 pounds.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury.
as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should never be used except on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from the use of the Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, in buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free.

There are forests of leafless trees in some parts of Australia. They respire, so to say, through a little stem, apparently answering the purpose of a leaf. The tree is known as the leafless acacia.

after you have concluded that you ought not to order coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about 1-4 as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

Drift of Opinion.

George Fred Williams says that the only cure for the trust problem is in the election of William Jennings Bryan to the presidency. But does George Fred tell the truth? In 1896 he declared that prosperity would come only with the free coinage of silver.
 Beverly Times.

Henry H. Faxon has given the W. C. T. U. a check for $500, conditioned upon the union devoting the money to the single purpose of securing a no-license vote in New England cities and towns. Henry is always consistent. He will not leave rum alone.
 —Haverhill Gazette.

The insipid stuff that is being written up by these imaginative writers about Admiral Dewey's boyhood must be nauseating to him, and it may be partly the cause of his recent indisposition. It is one of the penalties of being famous to have to endure such things as these. The truth is, that the boyhood of Washington, of Grant, of Dewey, was just about the same as that of thousands of other American boys.—Malden News.

It is given out that stock raising
 on a grand scale is likely to be begun in Maine. The scheme involves the converting of immense heath lands into grass plains, and of abandoned farms
 into ranches of wild west proportions.
 The region decided upon for beginning is Washington county, access to which has lately been provided by the Washington county railroad. But if the enterprise goes on its legs, how long will it be before it will be gobbled by the western beef trust.—Milford Journal.

The dismal tale told of the cotton manufacture of Japan in which the agents are running machinery fourteen hours a day and keeping the wage-earners to their posts of duty under conditions of hardship never recorded outside of a slave plantation where its owner was producing without considering the future, should remind the American wage-earners of the dangers of over-production and the waste of human energy in working long hours. Everybody sees that long, protracted attendance in mills is unfavorable to the health of the workers, and preclusive of all mental improvement. No one will deny that a mere condensation of the same amount of business into a shorter time is neither an injury nor an inconvenience to anyone. This is as true in the case of the shopkeepers as it is in the factory.—
 Haverhill Gazette.

We condemn the trusts for the evil there is in them. It is difficult to say what the unit is, in business or what the limit. If legitimate, there is no limit. We saw Charles Fletcher build up so many mills that he was a trust within himself. We saw William Wood, of the Washington mills, build up a business with the power of a trust. His competitors lied about him;
 they said he was "selling goods below
 cost;" that he was spending the money of a millionaire; that "he did not know the cost of goods," etc. What did William Wood finally do? By a well balanced business head he compelled other manufacturers to go to him, and to save themselves the combination was made. A manufacturer said to me yesterday that the woolen company was only an annex to the Washington mills. Think it over.—

Brilliant Church Wedding and Reception Last Night.

The old First church, Braintree, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday evening, when Miss Ethel Guild, daughter of Dr. and Mrs.
 Charles A. Pitkin of South Braintree, and Mr. Harry Elliott Russell, son of the late Edward Russell of Quincy, were united in marriage.

Arches of laurel and white asters,
 and knots of the same at the head of each pew in the centre aisle, with palms, and asters at the altar made a beautiful decoration. Add to these the many handsome costumes worn by the guests and the scene presented was most pleasing.

Shortly after eight to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, the wedding party entered the church.
 First came the ushers, eight in number, then the bridesmaids, Miss Fay Hitchcock, Miss Grace Burke, Miss Margaret Worcester, Miss Gertrude
 Hyde, Miss Adelaide James and Miss
 Ruth Randall; and the maid of honor, Miss Carol Whitmarsh Pitkin. The bride, escorted by her father, came last. They were met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr.
 Edwin B. Pratt and the Rev. A. A.
 Ellsworth, pastor of the church, who performed the marriage ceremony, using the Episcopal service. The bride was given away by her father.

The costumes of the bridal party were very pretty, the bridesmaids and maid of honor being all alike, of white Swiss muslin over white silk, trimmed with white satin ribbon, and of turquoise blue velvet ribbon. They carried white chrysanthemums and a white tip in their hair added to the picturesque effect.

The bride never looked better than
 in her white satin gown, cut en traine,
 and long tulle veil caught by a diamond sunburst, a gift from the groom. She carried lilies of the valley.

At the reception, which followed the ceremony, at the home of the bride,
 there was a crush, people going and coming all the evening. Mr. and Mrs.
 Russell were assisted in receiving by Dr. and Mrs. Pitkin and Mrs. Edward Russell.

The wedding supper was served in a large tent, and later in the evening was graced by the presence of the bride and groom. A large bride's cake was placed before the bride which she cut and distributed to her bridesmaids, who searched for his hidden treasures. The ring fell to Miss Ruth Randall, the money to Miss Carol Pitkin, and the thimble to Miss Gertrude Hyde.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell after their wedding trip will reside at 26 Greenleaf street, Quincy, where they will be at home on Wednesday, December 27.

Y. M. C. A. RECEPTION

The Opening of Winter Season of Association.

The Quincy Young Men's Christian Association has planned for a busy season the coming winter, and the ball was auspiciously set in motion at the opening reception Wednesday evening.
 There was a goodly gathering of ladies and gentlemen, young ladies and young men, and they passed an enjoyable evening.

An informal entertainment included
 excellent instrumental selections by the Arion trio, concert on the phonograph
 under direction of Prof. Henry P.
 Farnald, cornet solo by Miss Humphrey, a prize contest and brief remarks. A prize was offered to the one who would recite best from memory the following "nonsense":

If you and your folks
 Love me and my folks
 Like me and my folks
 Love you and your folks;
 Then there never was folks
 Loved folks since folks was folks
 Like me and my folks
 Love you and your folks
 And you and your folks
 Love me and my folks.

Several tried, and first prize was awarded by the judges to "Dud" Sampson and the booby went to Mr. A.
 L. Melcher.

Mr. Delevar King, the president spoke encouragingly of the bright prospects of the Association.

Light refreshments were provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary, and the following served: Miss Maud MacFarlane, Miss Hattie Sargent, Miss Mabel Mc-Kenzie and Miss Addie J. Park.

Neponset River Park.

The Metropolitan park commissioners have recently made an extensive taking of marsh land along the Neponset river in Milton, Dedham and Westwood. The tract is known as Paul's marsh, and runs north from Green Lodge street to Paul's bridge, and was owned by several parties. It was also near the Readville race track, and through it runs the Providence division of the New Haven railroad. No plans for its utilization have yet been made.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Rain is predicted for Friday.
 There is a good crop of October
 weddings.

John Reinhalter has opened a quarry
 at Natick.
 John Curtis is taking in the cup races at New York.

Watch the Ledger bulletins today for news of the cup race.

A sneak thief stole Alfred Baldwin's
 bicycle on Wednesday.

Everybody, that is most everybody,
 is at the Brockton fair today.

Many of the officials at City Hall are at the Brockton fair today.

Mrs. Herbert F. Doble has gone to Solon, Me., for a brief visit.

Charles S. Jose leaves next Monday
 for a three weeks' visit to Saco, Maine.

Division 22, A. O. H., will hold a social dance at Hancock hall next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Goldwaithe have returned from a two weeks' trip to Maine.

Eugene McCormick, cashier at E. H.
 Doble & Co.'s, has returned from his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Hearn arrived home this morning from their visit to New York.

The Quincy Savings Bank has just declared a semi-annual dividend at the rate of four per cent.

The Brockton fair was opened auspiciously on Wednesday, and surpasses all previous fairs.

Miss Florence Newcomb of Quincy Neck is on a visit to her aunt in Washington Village, South Boston.

The mothers' meeting held by the ladies of Bethany church on Wednesday was profitable and interesting.

Many handsome turnouts and tally-ho coaches passed through Quincy this morning on their way to the Brockton fair.

Charles W. Wilder, Jr., of West Quincy, who is teaching at the Norwalk University, writes that he is very pleasantly located.

Preparations for building a store on the lot at the corner of Prospect and Sagamore streets have been commenced
 by Mr. N. G. Nickerson of Wollaston.

The Sunday School class of Mr.
 Charles F. Merrick is making arrangements to give a concert for the benefit of Memorial Congregational church.

The Quincy members of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Co. who participated in the trip to Philadelphia and Gettysburg arrived home this morning.

George J. Uriot has opened a furniture store in the Y. M. C. A. building in City Square, and makes an announcement in this issue. He will pay cash for second hand furniture.

The entertainment at Music hall
 Wednesday night deserved a much larger audience than was present.
 William Barry as Martin McShane was fine; the singing and dancing excellent,
 and in fact the whole show was one of the best that has visited Quincy for a long time.

The interest shown in the special revival services at the West Quincy Methodist church surpasses the expectations of the pastor, and each meeting shows an increased attendance.
 Monday evenings service was conducted by the pastor, Rev. C. W.
 Wilder; Tuesday evening, by Rev. J.
 E. Waterhouse of Wollaston; Wednesday evening, by Rev. W. W. Dornan.
 Tonight's services will be conducted by Dr. Perrin of Dorchester, and Friday evening by Rev. Mr. Wilder.

State School Census.

The school committees of the state have been busy the past month with the new school census. The law now requires that it shall be taken for September 1, the work to be completed by October 1. Heretofore it has been taken for May 1. For the first time census books for the purpose
 have been provided by the State.
 Some towns, now that they have completed their census, are sending in their books to the State Board of Education.
 The law does not require this. The census book should be retained by the school committee. It is enough that the facts of the census shall appear in the customary annual returns which the school boards are called upon to make to the secretary of the State Board of Education.

DOES COFFEE AGREE WITH YOU?

If not, drink Grain-O—made from pure grains.
 A lady writes: "The first time I made Grain-O
 I did not like it but after using it for one week
 nothing would induce me to go back to coffee.
 It nourishes and feeds the system. The children can drink it freely with great benefit. It is the strengthening substance of pure grains.
 Get a package today from your grocer, follow
 the directions in making it and you will have a delicious and healthful table beverage for old and young. 15c and 25c."

DAUGHTERS--SONS.

Annual Convention for Norfolk County in Quincy.

The second semi-annual convention of the Norfolk County Association of the King's Daughters and Sons is being held today at the Bethany church. The convention is largely attended nearly every circle in the county being represented.

Mrs. Mary M. Sawtelle, of Readville, County Secretary, presided. The morning session opened at 10 o'clock with devotional exercises conducted by Rev. Edwin N. Hardy. This was followed by an address of welcome by Mrs. Sears, leader of Unity Circle.

The balance of the morning session included the reading of records of the previous convention by Mrs. Susie E.
 Sampson; roll call; report of the county secretary and treasurer; reports from circles; solo by Miss Florence Emery; noon hour, conducted by the state secretary, subject, "Does God Answer Prayer."

An adjournment was taken at 12.30 for lunch which was served in the dining room, tea and coffee being provided by the members of Unity Circle.

The annual meeting of the Norfolk County Home Corporation was also held during the morning session.
 This afternoon session opened at 2 o'clock, under the title "A Model Circle Meeting," conducted by Miss Gertrude Graham; address, "Glimpses of Prison Life," by Mrs. E. Trask Hill; singing; symposium, "The King's Daughter in the Home," Mrs.
 M. Louise Ford; "The King's Daughter in the Community," Miss J.
 S. Fisk; "The Circle in the Church,"
 Rev. W. F. Bickford.

Then came a solo by Miss Graham;
 question box, conducted by the state
 secretary, and twilight hour conser-cration service and admission of members.

At the Links.

Three pairs were entered in the mixed foursome of the Wollaston Golf club on Wednesday, and Miss Adams and Mr. Bremer took the prizes both for gross and net scores.

The summary:

Players.	Gross.	cap Net.	Handi.
Miss Adams and Mr. Bremer.	96	0	96
Miss Whitcher and President Freeman.	101	0	101
Miss Sibley and R. R. Freeman Jr.	129	18	111

President Freeman and other members of the club are playing in the invitation mixed foursome of the Concord club today.

Members of the Wollaston club who have qualified for the club championship match are playing their first rounds this week. Today Messrs.
 Smith and Bremer, tomorrow Messrs.
 Tarbell and Porter. Secretary Brock and Mr. Lindsey will play their round
 Saturday.

Misses Adams and Whitcher are arranging a ladies' match on the old links with the ladies of the Cohasset club for Saturday afternoon. It will be in return for a match recently held at Cohasset.

The Wollaston club team will play an
 All-Newton team at Brae Burn links
 Tuesday. Each team has won a match in the series. The Wollaston team is considered by far the best club team in Massachusetts, excepting that of the Country Club of Brookline. President Freeman is captain, and the other players are G. E. Atherton, Jr., R. R.
 Freeman, F. H. Smith, C. L. Bremer,
 Ralph Cracknell, Robert B. Porter,
 E. H. Brock, Barclay Tilton,
 W. U. Swan and Charles A. Price.

Anti-Stock Watering.

As is well known, a leading candidate for speaker of the next House is Representative James J. Myers of Cambridge. The Tribune of that city
 says:

"It is interesting to notice the very favorable comment that is being broadly made on the address of Mr. Myers before the industrial commission as to the application of the anti-stock-watering laws of Massachusetts to the re-

EFFORTS FOR PEACE.

Powerful Influences at Work to Arrest Mobilization of Troops.

Chancellor of Exchequer Allows Money For War.

Joubert Has Done His Utmost Toward Peace and Leaves Result With God.

London, Oct. 5.—A telegram from Johannesburg says that the state secretary, Reitz, of the Transvaal, informed a correspondent of The Standard and Diggers' News that the proclamation of martial law is being delayed.

In Cape Town the opinion prevails that the delay of the Boers in assuming the offensive points to a willingness on the part of the Transvaal government to allow political counsel to override military order, and that there is, therefore, still hope that the Afrikaner efforts for peace will prevail.

It is understood that Sir Alfred Milner has not yet abandoned the hope that the powerful influences, now at work in Pretoria and Bloemfontein, may lead to the arrest of the mobilization of troops on both sides, and open the door to a pacific solution.

The peace party is making the most of the interval of the anticipated reassembling of parliament. The executive committee of the national liberal federation, at the recent meeting, adopted a resolution which was communicated to the affiliated liberal associations throughout the country, declaring that war was unjustified by the facts, and urging Lord Salisbury to seek a peaceful solution of the difficulty.

The Daily Chronicle's correspondent at Cape Town says: For the first time in several months J. H. Hoffmeyr, the Afrikaner leader in Cape Colony, and Sir Alfred Milner met Tuesday in conference. An unconfirmed report is in circulation that Mr. Hoffmeyr has been entrusted with an imperial mission to Pretoria.

The most interesting announcement in connection with the Transvaal crisis is that Chancellor of the Exchequer Hicks-Beach has sanctioned the provisional expenditure of £3,000,000, and the government will not exceed that limit without authority from parliament, which will be asked to vote a sum not exceeding £3,000,000.

A meeting of the war board yesterday discussed and drew up arrangements to ensure the safety of the route from Durban to Laing's Nek, so that large bodies of troops, on disembarkation, may be rapidly forwarded up the country to the front, without confusion or crowding at the base.

It is stated that the war office has decided that the army corps for service in South Africa shall be much larger than originally estimated and that it now consists of over 40,000 men. The preparations for the dispatch of this force, including the chartering of big ocean liners, is steadily and satisfactorily proceeding.

The Press association learns that the dispatch drawn up by the cabinet on Friday is still unacted. On the other hand, a telegram from Brussels gives, from a "well informed source," the news that Dr. Leyds, the representative in Europe of the South African republic, has received confirmation of the report that President Kruger had addressed an ultimatum to Great Britain, demanding the withdrawal of the British forces from the frontier within 48 hours, and that it was delivered on Monday. This report, however, still lacks official confirmation.

The following dispatch from a correspondent who has been at Bloemfontein and Pretoria is telegraphed to The Chronicle: I have just crossed the frontier in a truck which was placed at my disposal by Commandant General Joubert, who reached the frontier Tuesday and is staying in the main Boer camp on the Sand river. I had a long talk with General Joubert. He said he deeply regretted the impending war, which he had done his utmost to avoid. He wonders that Queen Victoria never answered the letter he addressed to her on the situation.

I notice everywhere a general devotion to the queen and a pathetic belief that she will stop the war. General Joubert still believes in a South African confederacy under an English protectorate, and attributes the present crisis to Rhodes and Chamberlain. His last words to me were: "I leave it now to God. It may be His will that the Transvaal shall perish. I can only do my best."

A dispatch from Bloemfontein states that the government publishes a telegram from Boshoff, stating that the British forces have crossed the border, and that fighting has commenced. Another telegram says the troops have crossed the border, but that no fighting has occurred. The government discredits the report.

A special dispatch from Newcastle, Natal, dated Wednesday, says: The Boers have left the Laager at Volksrust and are moving toward the frontier. The situation is most critical. The magistrates and municipal officers have assembled in the town hall to concert measures for the defense of the town against an expected attack. All the women and children have been ordered to leave for the frontier of Natal.

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Lourenço Marques reports that H. M. S. Philomel has gone to Durban for the purpose of landing men and a gun. The Daily Mail says it considers that the action reported indicates grave danger, and it thinks it probable that other British warships are converging silently upon the theater of action.

Other telegrams represent that a Boer attack upon Natal is expected at any moment, but assert that Commandant General Joubert has threatened to shoot any man who moves without orders. No absolute confirmation is obtainable of the report that a Boer ultimatum has been presented. But the news comes from usually good Boer sources.

DID NOT PROCEED SMOOTHLY.

Justice Brewer Talks of Proceedings of the Anglo-Venezuelan Tribunal.

Paris, Oct. 5.—A representative of the Associated Press last evening had a conversation with Justice Brewer of the United States supreme court regarding the award of the Anglo-Venezuelan arbitration tribunal, from which it appears that the deliberations of the court did not proceed smoothly. Justice Brewer said: "Until the last moment I believed a decision would be quite impossible, and it was by the greatest conciliation and mutual concessions that a compromise was arrived at. If any of us had been asked to give an award, each would have given one differing in extent and character. The consequence was that we had to adjust our different views and finally to draw a line running between what each thought right."

JUSTICE D. J. BREWER.

Being asked whether political considerations influenced the award the justice said he could not admit that, as it would reflect on the judges, but there was no doubt that the present insurrection in Venezuela and the consequent feeling of instability weighed to a certain extent in the balance. Replying to a query regarding the deliberations within the court, Mr. Brewer said that there was, properly speaking, no casting of votes. Each judge concurred one thing in turn. With regard to the proceedings in open court, he said the hearing of arguments might have been considerably curtailed had the case been heard exclusively by either an English or an American court; but the judges thought it prudent to allow counsel full liberty in order to make matters clearer to the president, who, after all, was not a lawyer.

Asked whether, according to his own opinion, Venezuela was entitled to more than she actually received, Justice Brewer, after some hesitation, said he would rather say nothing on that subject, and concluded by remarking that whatever the two parties might think of the award, Venezuela received Barima point, which gives her full control of the interior of her territory and England is confirmed in the possession of territory in the development of which she has spent considerable money and energy; but, "the principal blessing is that the two nations can at last develop peacefully, side by side, large tracts of territory, which, owing to previous antagonism, have remained unproductive."

Howson Relinquishes Command.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Admiral Howson has reported to the navy department that he has lowered his flag on board the Chicago, now at New York, and thus closed his services as commander of the fourth bureau of the general staff, Godfrey Cavaignac, former minister of war, and Quessnay de Beaupre, former president of the civil session of the court of cassation, will be arrested on the charge of conspiring against the republic. It is stated that Judge Crosjean, General Roget, M. Cavaignac, M. de Beaupre, one of General Meyer's sons, the novelist "Gyp" (Countess de Janville) and others met in February and discussed a proposal to seize the palace of the Elysee upon the day of President Faure's funeral, declare a plebiscitary republic, and install M. Cavaignac as president. On General Roget's suggestion, however, it was decided to postpone the attempt until M. Faure should have been buried. The outcome of the meeting was the attempt of M. Deroulede and General Roget. It is rumored that "Gyp" will also be arrested.

Another Turnover in Prospect.

Paris, Oct. 5.—It is rumored that General Roget, former sub-chief of the fourth bureau of the general staff, Godfrey Cavaignac, former minister of war, and Quessnay de Beaupre, former president of the civil session of the court of cassation, will be arrested on the charge of conspiring against the republic. It is stated that Judge Crosjean, General Roget, M. Cavaignac, M. de Beaupre, one of General Meyer's sons, the novelist "Gyp" (Countess de Janville) and others met in February and discussed a proposal to seize the palace of the Elysee upon the day of President Faure's funeral, declare a plebiscitary republic, and install M. Cavaignac as president. On General Roget's suggestion, however, it was decided to postpone the attempt until M. Faure should have been buried. The outcome of the meeting was the attempt of M. Deroulede and General Roget. It is rumored that "Gyp" will also be arrested.

McDuffie's Latest Performance.

Brooklyn, Mass., Oct. 5.—Eddie McDuffie made a trial of the 10-mile record yesterday afternoon on the track, here, and established the time of 15 minutes, 18 4-5 seconds, which is 1 minute and 4 seconds less than the record of 16:22 made by Harry Elkes. McDuffie also broke every existing record from two to 10 miles.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Sun rises—5:47; sets, 5:17.
Moon sets—5:54 p. m.
High water—12 m.
The temperature changes have been unimportant. During today the rain area will extend over the middle Atlantic states to the Ohio river, and will reach New England Friday. Along the New England coast the winds will be variable.

GIANTS AGAIN DEFEATED.

It Made the Ninth Game Won in Rotation by the Champions.

Boston, Oct. 5.—Again the New Yorks were the victims for the Boston champions, though the score was closer than any of the three preceding games. This was Boston's fourth straight victory over the New York tourists and the ninth game won by the Hub team in rotation. A few costly joggles by Lowe gave the Giants a chance to show their finishing powers, and served to make Nichols use every curve before he had won his game.

Insurgents' Punishment.

Managua, Oct. 5.—The court-martial which was in session here for several months trying the chiefs of the revolutionary movement which began in February at Bluefields has proclaimed its decision. Insurgent officers who escaped from Nicaragua are condemned to death. One only of the prominent leaders was captured. He is now in the penitentiary. It is believed that he will be placed in chains for life by the order of President Zelaya, instead of being shot. Adolfo Vivas, a newspaper correspondent, and Dr. Quadras, a prominent physician, together with a few other young men, are sentenced to banishment from Nicaragua for 14 years.

Chicago Festival Opened.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—With music, streams of light and patriotic enthusiasm Chicago's fall festival was formally opened last evening in the presence of a vast throng. At 6 o'clock the cords binding the banners lining both sides of the court of honor were released, and 25,000 yards of red and white bunting were released. Ten minutes later the festoons connecting the Venetian masts decorated with 11,000 incandescent bulbs were glowing with light. The evening concerts and illuminations will comprise the festival program until the arrival of President McKinley on Saturday night, when the parade of the bicyclists will be held.

"I'm Ashamed"

To go anywhere with my face in this condition," is the expression of a very natural feeling. To a beautiful woman an eruption on the face is the greatest of calamities, her very beauty seeming to increase the disfigurement. Ninety-eight times in every hundred, eruptions are cured by Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and the skin recovers its maiden bloom and softness. "Golden Medical Discovery" is a medicine which acts directly on the blood, purifying it, increasing its quantity and its richness. Eruptions, blotches, pimples, etc., are but surface signs of the corrupt blood current underneath. "Discovery" cleanses the blood, and so cleanses the skin.

"For about one year and a half my face was very badly broken out," writes Miss Carrie Adams, of 116 West Main St., Battle Creek, Mich. "I spent a great deal of money with doctors and for different kinds of medicine, but received no benefit. At last I read one of your advertisements, and obtained a bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Before I had taken one bottle of this medicine I noticed a change, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured."

Advertising has become so much a part of the current literature of the day that its intrinsic value in this respect is recognized on all sides. It is no longer necessary—if it ever was

—to lead the reader gently up to the contemplation of the beatitudes of a horrors of a tiger hunt.—Beverly

The question of properly controlling trusts so that their abuses may be checked and their benefits conserved

is an important one and it is receiving the careful consideration of many people who do their thinking with their brains and not with their lungs,

and who prefer to be safe rather than to be sorry, and to be right rather than to be riotous.—Waterbury

Annexation to the United States would give the inhabitants of Cuba as free a government as is possessed by the people of Kansas. They would have charge of their local affairs and in case of trouble would have justice and law applied to the situation. Cuba is naturally dependent on the United States for market and for supplies. It might as well be American in name as in fact.—Hutchison (Kan.) News.

Rudyard Kipling, who has found

it necessary to enter into many lawsuits

to protect his literary rights, is responsible for this chivalrous remark:

"The property of a man's head is even more precious than his life. It is not surprising that a writer capable of placing a man's wife in the same category

as his pipe and his horse, has never been successful in his portraits of women.—Minneapolis Tribune.

The Dewey celebration irritates

our friends across the pond. The St.

James Gazette recently stated that

Dewey's victory wasn't much of a victory, and if the Americans were more used to victories they wouldn't make so much ado over it. The Gazette should refresh its memory

regarding the revolution and the war of 1812. By so doing it will learn that victory is always in our line, even when we have the most powerful nation to whip.—Haverhill Gazette.

The responsibility for bad government in this country, municipality, state and nation, rests almost solely with the indifferent voter who doesn't attend caucuses, who isn't closely identified with a political party,

and who frequently neglects to cast

his vote at elections. To this class it is well that public preaching is now directed. Even religious bodies may very properly and very commendably

give attention to the civic responsibilities of our people. Today there is more danger to the republic from the indifferent citizens than from the citizen who makes politics a corrupt trade. The latter could not flourish except by the sufferance of the former.

One of the matters which give a good deal of comfort to educators is the decrease in the sale of the "nickle

libraries" of the Old Slewth class,

which were the successor of the old yellow covered dime novels. There are so many excellent books for boys

reading that contain so much of stirring incident and lively interest,

outside the meretricious incidents of the objectionable literature referred to,

that the need for reading for boys has been filled and with better reading, the cheap and trashy class has suffered an eclipse. The dime novel with its nickle successor was really the product of the

Sanford and Merton, Peter Parley sort of literature, fortunately gone out of use, in which information was insidi-

ously procured to the youthful brain

in the guise of light reading. The libraries of today are full of good,

wholesome out-door books which get

and hold the youthful interest to a sufficient degree, and the problem of directing the young mind from hurtful

reading has settled itself.—Lynn News.

Proposed Constitution for the Incorporation.

Owing to the unavoidable absence of many of the members of the executive committee of the Citizens No-license Committee called for Thursday evening, an adjournment was taken until next Thursday evening. As stated in a previous issue of the Ledger the plan is to incorporate the organization which will give it a more permanent standing and enable it to do more efficient work.

It is proposed to incorporate under the name of the "Citizens Temperance League of Quincy, Mass." The objects as set forth in the proposed constitution are:

"To engage in the work of temperance."

"To secure a larger vote under the local option law against the liquor interests.

"To assist in the election to office of men sound on the temperance question.

"To aid in the enforcement of temperance laws upon the statutes.

"To use such measures as shall tend to decrease the drink evil.

"All persons, male or female, of good moral character, over 18 years of age

shall be eligible to membership, together with the resident clergymen and secretary of the Y. M. C. A. who shall be members ex-officio.

"The officers will consist of president, five vice presidents, secretary and treasurer and the management shall consist of an executive committee of nine to include the president, secretary and treasurer.

CITY OF QUINCY.

For the purpose of preparing the Annual Register of Voters, and of receiving evidence of qualification from persons claiming a right to vote at the coming State Election, the Board of Registrars of Voters will be in session at the COUNCIL CHAMBER in the City Hall Building, on the evenings of

Saturday, Sept. 9,
Wednesday, Sept. 13,
Wednesday, Sept. 27,
Saturday, Sept. 30,
Wednesday, Oct. 4,
Saturday, Oct. 7,
Wednesday, Oct. 11,
Saturday, Oct. 14,
From 7 to 9 p. m., and also on Wednesday, Oct. 18,
From 10 o'clock a. m. until 10 o'clock p. m.

Every applicant for registration must appear in person before the Board, and must present either a certificate from the Assessors or a Tax bill or Notice from the Collector of Taxes, showing that he has been assessed as a resident of the City on the First day of May last; or a certificate from the Assessors that he has been a resident of the city for the six months next preceding the election at which he claims a right to vote. If a naturalized citizen he must also produce for inspection his papers of naturalization. Payment of a poll tax is not a prerequisite to voting.

No person can vote at the election unless his name has previously been placed upon the voting list of the Ward of which he claims a right to vote on the first day of May last, and no name can be added to the list of voters unless registered previous to

Wednesday, Oct. 18th,
at 10 o'clock P. M., when registration will close.

Examine the Voting Lists posted, and see that your name is in the proper place. NO CHANGE can be made after WEDNESDAY, Oct. 18th, at 10 o'clock P. M. The Board of Assessors will be in session at their office on the same evenings.

Important Advice.

It is surprising how many people wake up in the morning nearly as tired as when they went to bed, a disagreeable taste in their mouth, the lips sticky, with a coated tongue. # CRANE FOR GOVERNOR.

A. H. Goetting, chairman of the state central committee, who served as temporary chairman until permanent organization was effected with Melvin O. Adams as chairman. The committee on resolutions is headed by William H. Hall.

The platform is notable in its tribute of respect and loyalty paid to the national administration. It congratulates the people of Massachusetts on the admirable administration given by Governor Wolcott and his associates in office.

It is the first time that the present tariff law, declares the party's continued adherence to the gold standard; points with pride to the country's growing foreign trade; compliments President McKinley on his admirable diplomacy with other powers; promises support to congress in the efforts to develop our merchant marine; declares its opposition to trusts and monopolies by pointing to a law passed by the Republican legislature of 1894 declaring against capitalization of fictitious and speculative values; endorses the administration of the state.

A hot debate ensued among the committee over the Philippine plank. An active minority of the committee claimed that the endorsement of President McKinley's Philippine policy should be in stronger terms than set forth, but the plank stands as originally written.

Anxious to keep the cup.

Lovell, Mass., Oct. 6.—The yacht that won the first international cup was owned in Lowell by General Benjamin F. Butler. If Shamrock wins in the coming races, Sir Thomas Lipton will receive a challenge from several Lowell men. There are said to be seven men interested, and they include Alfred E. Rose, who is himself a yachtsman. Mr. Rose said last night: "Of course we want it understood that we believe the Columbia will win, and we intended saying nothing of this until the races were over and we saw where the cup was going, but in case Shamrock wins we should want our challenge to reach Sir Thomas Lipton before any other, as much in memory of the America and on behalf of a few of her friends as anything else." The men interested, he added, could give their time and $500,000 if necessary.

STILL HANGING FIRE.

British and Boers Appear Disinclined to Make Hostile Moves.

European Intervention Considered Not Unlikely.

Russia, Germany, France and Spain Have Grudges Against England.

London, Oct. 6.—While there is no diminution in the flood of dispatches from South Africa, recording with almost tireless iteration the military preparations and movements of both sides, with all kinds of rumors and speculations, the real situation remains unchanged.

It is evident that strong efforts are still being made to preserve peace, simultaneously with determined energy to be prepared for any emergency.

It is expected that 5000 reserves will be called out today, and that an army corps will be mobilized on the 20th of the month.

In the meantime, neither side shows anxiety to precipitate a conflict, but is rather inclined to give opportunity for the play of peace influences.

The mysterious visit of Count Mura-vieff, the Russian minister of foreign affairs, to San Sebastian, where he saw the Queen Regent and King of Spain, and had a long conference with Senor Silveira, the Spanish premier, occupies political minds. From Spain, Count Mura-vieff will go to Paris.

Russia's attitude in the Transvaal matter is common knowledge. Germany is officially neutral, but Emperor William's famous telegram to President Kruger is not forgotten, and this, added to France's bitterness since the Fashoda affair, and Spain's resentment of England's attitude during the Hispano-American war, sets the people asking what the motive for Count Mura-vieff's tour is.

The Jingo press pooh-poohs the idea of European intervention, but eagerly seize upon any incident, such as the America's cup races, to insist on the growing Anglo-American friendship.

A special dispatch from Pretoria says that President Kruger expresses himself strongly at being prevented by the executive from going to the front. He is reported to have said: "Some people say I am the cause of the present troubles, and I want to take my share of the fighting with my people." The same dispatch announces that Commander General Joubert's wife has started to join her husband on the border.

President Kruger, on being interviewed with reference to the rumors of incursions into British territory by burgher forces, said the republic had no intention of acting on the aggressive unless forced thereto by the military attitude of Great Britain, by the massing of troops in the direction of the borders or by the sending of heavy reinforcements from over the sea.

Advices from Cape Town, received last night, assert that both J. H. Hoffmeyer, the Afrikaander leader in Cape Colony, and ex-Chief Justice Kotze have expressed the opinion that the imperial government acted in the interests of peace in demanding the suppression of the Transvaal agency in Brussels and the recall of Dr. Heyds, the Transvaal's European representative. Mr. Milner has already reported in this sense to Mr. Chamberlain.

Advices from Johannesburg report that Kaffirs are raiding the business places and houses in the east rand. The whites fired on them. A special force of police has been dispatched to disperse the raiders.

A dispatch to The Times from Lobatse, near Mafeking, says that the Boers there declare they will not fight for the Transvaal, but will, in preference, cross the border, because the Boers are too severe and are always punishing them.

A dispatch from Cape Town says that a quantity of explosives was found inside the Cape Town postoffice yesterday, and that an attempt has been made to murder the staff at the Colesberg railway junction.

The correspondent of The Standard, at Beaufort West, Rand, says that fugitives who have arrived there report that 40 tons of dynamite have been laid down for the destruction of the railway bridge over the Orange river at Nobsa's Point, a frontier station, between Cape Colony and the Free State.

A dispatch from Volksrust, dated Wednesday, says: A council of war was held today. Commandant General Joubert presiding, and all of the different commanders being present. The conference was short and indecisive. It is understood that no move will be made for a couple of days. Most of the British residents have gone to Natal.

A dispatch from Perth, capital of Western Australia, announces that the government of the colony has decided to dispatch an Australian contingent to the Cape.

Why Filipinos Were Aggressive.

Manila, Oct. 6.—The Filipinos in the inland towns have been holding festivities to celebrate their victories over Spain during the revolution of 1894. This doubtless furnishes a partial explanation for their aggressiveness during the last few days. At Calamba and Imus they repeatedly assailed the Americans until they were finally dispersed, and they have been active at other points. In one case they had two old cannon masked in bushes, throwing shells toward Calamba, but only a few exploded.

Little One Strangled.

Attleboro, Mass., Oct. 6.—The body of a female child, thought to be about 5 months old, was found in Dodgeville pond yesterday, and an autopsy showed that death was due to violence. The child was undoubtedly strangled and then thrown into the pond. The body had been in the water but a few hours when found. There is no clue to those implicated in the murder. The child was of the opinion that the child was an inmate of a baby farm in this section.

THE BUSINESS BAROMETER.

Notable Decrease in Failures Gives Ample Proof of Commercial Prosperity.

New York, Oct. 6.—Bradstreet's says: Those infallible indices of commercial conditions, statistics of failure, point to continued trade improvement and to a still ebbing tide of business mortality.

Bradstreet's failure reports for the first and second quarters of the year showed fewer failures than in any but the most favored years and liabilities the smallest for at least 17 years. The third quarter of the year 1899 shows the fewest failures, the smallest liabilities and the smallest proportion of assets to liabilities of which there is any recent record.

Failures and liabilities alike found their minimum this year in September, and corresponding totals of previous years show that the month just closed comes near to, if not actually, possessing the record of the smallest business embarrassments and liabilities.

There were only 2026 failures, involving $15,550,965 in liabilities and $630,286 in assets in the third quarter of 1899, a decrease of 16 percent in number and of 48 percent in liabilities from the same quarter of last year. Compared with the second quarter of 1899 liabilities are 18 percent smaller, and compared with the first three months of this year liabilities are less than half as heavy.

This tendency is practically universal, though a slight increase in number and liabilities of failures in the west over those in the second quarter is noticeable. Against this, however, it is to be recalled that comparisons with a year ago are satisfactory, though business conditions last year in the west and northwest were highly favorable. Perhaps the most satisfactory showing of all is that made by the southern states.

The total number of failures for the nine months was only 7075, a falling off of 20 percent from last year, of 28 percent from 1897 and of 37 percent from 1896, which year held the record for most numerous nine months' failures, exceeding even the panic year 1893.

In only one group, that of the territories, is there an increase shown in the number of failures as compared with the nine months of last year, and growth of the section involved rather than unfavorable conditions is probably responsible for the increase. With the exception noted in the case of the territories, the liabilities of every other group of states have decreased.

The failures in New England during the third quarter of this year number 418, liabilities $2,964,815, assets $900,664; against 464 failures, liabilities $5,356,632, assets $2,216,257 in the third quarter of 1898.

Serious Fire Aboard Ship.

New York, Oct. 6.—Coming up the East river at five o'clock, the Mallory liner Leonora, Captain Wilder, from Calveston, warped into pier 29. The ship was on fire from the main hatch forward to the bow. The firemen had a hard time to get at the flames, as the boat came into her dock stern foremost, leaving the burning portion out in the water. The crew, however, were successful in getting the fire under control. The ship was towed to pier 29, where it was found that the fire was in the main hatch, and that the ship was in a dangerous condition. The fire was extinguished, and the ship was towed to pier 29, where it was found that the fire was in the main hatch, and that the ship was in a dangerous condition.

Insurance Companies Robbed.

London, Oct. 6.—According to the Montevideo correspondent of The Times the discovery has been made there that a syndicate exists which has been insuring the lives of poor people and murdering them in order to collect the insurance money. Three cases of the sort are known to have occurred, from which the promoters of the scheme netted £10,000. The syndicate has other policies amounting to £200,000. The ring-leaders have been arrested. The Equitable Life Assurance society of New York is said to be affected.

Elevator Boy Killed.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 6.—James H. Henderson, elevator boy in the Kennard block, stepped out of the elevator on the fifth floor to let some one pass out, keeping his hand on the lever. The car started to go down, and in trying to prevent its descent, Henderson was caught between the top of the car and the flooring. He was instantly killed, his neck being broken.

Taking It Easy.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Admiral Dewey expresses himself as benefited by the relaxation after the constant activity of the past week, and he ventures the suggestion that by next week he will have recovered from the fatigue incident to the high nervous pressure he has been under. He has no special plans for the remainder of the week.

Husband Charged With Manslaughter.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 6.—Mrs. Theresa Gaffney died last night as a result of frightful burns caused by her husband throwing a lighted lamp at her early Sunday morning, Sept. 24. Gaffney is now in jail under $2500 bonds awaiting the result of the inquest into his wife. He will be charged with manslaughter.

Sm'lopx at Lowell.

Lowell, Mass., Oct. 6.—John Fitzgerald, the roommate of John Earle, who is at the pesthouse suffering from an attack of smallpox, has been taken in charge of the board of health and sent to the pesthouse as a suspect. This makes two cases, both of which will undoubtedly develop into smallpox.

Makes Brisk Business.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Tribune says that within the last three days some 35 vessels engaged in the trans-Atlantic trade have been chartered by the British government for periods of three months and upward.

Freight Cars Derailed.

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 6.—Four freight cars were derailed last night at the junction of the main line and Saugus branch of the Boston and Maine railroad while the train was going on to a siding. Traffic was delayed on both lines for some time.

Ordered to Marfa.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Orders were issued yesterday to move the Forty-sixth volunteer regiment from South Framingham, Mass., to San Francisco. This regiment will embark soon for Manila.

CHAMPIONS' WINNING STREAK.

An Addition to List of Recent Victories by Again Defeating the New Yorks.

Boston, Oct. 6.—Boston took another game from New York, making 12 out of 14 games won from that club. It was also the 10th consecutive victory for the home club.

Boston is now playing better than any other club in the country, in form that would have won the pennant, if it were not for Brooklyn, however, has played earlier. Brooklyn, however, has won but one more game to be beyond reach, even if Boston should win every one of the remaining seven games with the Phillies, which is improbable.

General O'Brien's Mission.

New York, Oct. 6.—General James R. O'Brien announces that he has been appointed commissioner extraordinary in the United States for the Transvaal by President Kruger. The appointment was made by cablegram from State Secretary Reitz of the South African republic, sent to Rev. Dr. Bosman, Kruger's confidential friend and adviser, who is in this country attending the Presbyterian conference in Washington. The cablegram, in part, says: "The dispute has now reached the most acute stage. The forces of this republic have mobilized on the frontier, while those of the Transvaal have been mobilized, and all prospects of a peaceful settlement seem to be vanishing. We are still willing to arbitrate."

Miss May Souther started south on Monday to resume her duties as teacher of music. She has sung frequently this summer at the Washington Street Congregational church and her singing has been much enjoyed.

Mrs. Frank Hardwick of Spear street has gone to New York for a brief visit.

Hon. James F. Stevens of Braintree left for New York yesterday on a short business trip.

One of the large fall weddings at Trinity church, Boston, will take place on Monday at noon, when Miss Rosamond Tudor, daughter of Mr. Frederic Tudor of Brookline, will be married to Mr. Alexander H. Higginson. Miss Abigail Adams of this city will be one of the bridesmaids.

Miss Edith Wilder has returned from her summer vacation.

Charles Sprague and family, came back to Braintree Wednesday from Bayside, Nantasket.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph B. Barker of North Weymouth was the scene of a quiet wedding Wednesday evening, the contracting parties being Miss Bertha C. Barker and Mr. Albert Stiles of Boston. The bride wore white organdie trimmed with white satin and carried lilies of the valley. She was attended by Miss Nella Hayden of East Weymouth. Frederick Fletcher of Boston was the best man and the ushers were Messrs. Harry C. Thomas, William T. Seabury, George Ames of Quincy, and Frank Stiles, a brother of the groom. An informal reception was held after the ceremony and a supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Stiles will reside in Dorchester on their return from a short trip.

Mrs. Joseph T. French is stopping with her daughters in Boston.

Douglas A. Brooks and family of Braintree returned Tuesday from their summer house at Bayside.

Mrs. Walter T. Babcock and daughter, Corinne have been spending a few days at Ware among the Berkshire hills. They have been chestnutting, wal-nutting, etc., and have thoroughly enjoyed the bracing air. Mrs. Babcock's ancestors came to Ware in 1727 and a portion of the original tract is still in the family.

Miss Arria Warren Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Z. Merton Allen of Weymouth, was married at the home of her parents on Wednesday evening, to Mr. John Adrich of Boston. Mr. and Mrs. Adrich are to reside on West Newton street, Boston.

Miss M. Gertrude Thomas of Granite street entered the freshman class at Wellesley college last week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Reed of Watertown have been the guests of Elbridge F. Porter, of Braintree this week.

Quincy people attended the wedding reception at Hyde Park, Thursday evening of Mr. and Mrs. Edward F. Tracy (Mrs. Nettie Sullivan) who were married earlier in the evening at the Baptist parsonage.

Rev. and Mrs. W. R. Breed of this city were registered at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, this week.

The wedding of Mr. James W. Jackson and Miss Katherine E. Quinn of Hyde Park, took place Thursday morning at the church of the Most Precious Blood. Several friends from Quincy were present.

Several from Wollaston attended the wedding at Hyde Park on Monday evening of Miss Margaret M., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Carroll and Mr. Wallace McDowell.

Miss Elsie Downs of Wollaston is at Rosemary Hall, Wallingford, Conn.; Miss Caroline Brown, Miss Grace Durgin and Miss Marion Nickerson, are at Boston University; and Mary Sayward is at Smith College.

Capt. Miller of New Orleans is visiting George F. Leonard, Tremont street, Braintree.

Cards were received on Tuesday announcing the marriage on Monday of Miss Cynthia G. Souther and Mr. Winthrop Tracy Case. Mr. and Mrs. Case are to reside at Dorchester. Mr. Case has a fine position under the Boston city government.

Misses Alice and Susie Dorey of Wollaston have been visiting Miss Irma Skilton of Weymouth.

Miss Ethel Davis of Howard Seminary of West Bridgewater, is a guest of Miss Florence Howe of Bigelow street.

The presence of Governor and Mrs. Wolcott added much to the enjoyment of the fifth congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution at Hingham on Thursday. The Governor opened the afternoon exercises and his remarks were very interesting and received warm applause.

Mrs. Louis W. Tirrell of Braintree has returned from a four months' sojourn at Woods Hole.

Hon. and Mrs. William N. Eaton announce the engagement of their daughter, Edith E. Eaton to Mr. Joseph H. Hall of Milton Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Simmons of Braintree started for the wilds of Maine Thursday on a gunning trip. John says he will bring back a couple of fine deer.

Mr. Walter E. Loud, our well known violinist, is to give a concert at Fogg's Opera house, Weymouth, Friday evening, Oct. 27. He will be assisted by Mr. Wulf Fries, cellist, and a soloist and pianist.

Mr. Harry L. Whiton has returned from North Conway, N. H., where he has been stopping for his health.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest V. Fitts of Miller Stile road are in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Whiton started Friday for Franconstown, N. H. They will drive over the road and be gone two weeks.

Mrs. Frank Palmer of Braintree has returned from Nova Scotia, where she has been spending three weeks.

The Unity Club of Wollaston holds its first meeting of the season on Friday, Oct. 13. It will be in the nature of an informal reception.

Mr. and Mrs. David Bill announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Rose May to Mr. John Martin Louis Ramseyer of Jamaica Plain, to take place Wednesday evening, October eighteen.

A pleasant feature of the Russell-Pitkin wedding for those who took an active part was the dinner given the night before, by Miss Pitkin, to the bridesmaids and ushers.

Hon. James T. Stevens and Selectman Ansel O. Clark of Braintree went with excursionists to Lake Winnepeaukee last Saturday. They enjoyed the whole trip very much especially the steamboat ride around the lake.

Mr. Charles Alden and family of Adams street will return from Rose Cliff next week. They have enjoyed their long stay at their summer cottage.

Miss Louise Jenkins of Braintree returned from Connecticut on Monday, where she has been visiting relatives for the past three weeks.

Young people are protesting against the new whim for stately dances, low, sweeping courtesies and dignified poses that are threatening extinction to the merry whirl of the waltz, so long the popular dance. The minuets and the trained gown, say the young people, belong to grandma's day. The train is doubtless largely responsible for the change. A trained gown is as suggestive of slow grace as a golf costume is of decisive buoyant movement.

—The Boston Food Fair opened its doors to the public Monday. Early morning visitors were presented with Dewey souvenir spoons. The musical attractions are rare, and never have we seen at a fair so many artistic booths.

It would seem as if the exhibitors had this year selected the prettiest girls in all New England to preside over their respective booths. Samples are given away at the various booths, but none as freely as the celebrated "Koff-Knots." F. W. Crooker of Braintree is assisted by three ladies at this booth.

RACE TODAY.

A Light Wind Only at the Start.

At 2 P. M. a Good Breeze Was Blowing.

Columbia and Shamrock Almost Bow to Bow.

New York Oct. 7.—The indication at the start of the cup race today was that it would be impossible to go over the course of 30 miles within the limit of five and one-half hours. The wind is light.

SHAMROCK AHEAD.

Oct. 7, 12.45 P. M.—The wind continues light and neither boat has an advantage to speak of. However the Shamrock is 100 or more rods ahead.

GOOD BREEZE NOW.

Oct. 7, 2 P. M.—A good breeze has sprung up and the boats will probably finish within the limit. Both have rounded the fifteen-mile stake boat and are now on their way home. They are very close to each other, so close that it can not be determined which is ahead.

WIND PETERS OUT.

Oct. 7, 2.30 P. M.—The start in today's race was made at 11.30 A. M. The Columbia crossed the line first and held the lead for three miles. The Shamrock then passed her and continued to lead turning the outer mark at 1.20 P. M. The Shamrock still in the lead. The wind is light and the chances are even whether they finish or not.

Mass. Electric Companies.

The street railways now operated in the system comprising the Massachusetts Electric Companies, including the Quincy and Boston system, report their gross earnings for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, as having aggregated $4,470,122 against $4,111,132 for the previous year—a gain of $357,990. Five of the companies whose earnings are included in the above figures were not operated for the whole two years. The gross earnings of those lines that were operated during the entire period were $4,322,272, or $294,211 more than for the year before. This is a gain of 7.30 per cent. The accounts are not yet completed so as to show the net earnings, but from the completed figures of eleven months of operation, enough may be learned to show a very substantial increase in the net income. The Executive Committee and some of the trustees will make another inspection Monday next, beginning at Newport, going thence to Fall River and Taunton to ascertain the physical condition of the properties with a view of improvements.

A General Holiday.

As the Boston Advertiser says, it probably will not take a proclamation or any other action by the governor to make next Saturday a holiday in this section. The least that the people of Boston, and especially the business men of Boston, can do to show their appreciation of Admiral Dewey's visit to this city will be to stop business together on Saturday, or to close the stores in time to allow all employees to see the conqueror of Manila. So far as the public know, that will be done. Certainly it should be done. One thing may be taken for granted. There will be no business done in Boston on Saturday, while the Dewey parade is going through the streets.

ADVISES FROM AFRICA

Continued to be of a Most Lurid and Unreliable Character.

Existing Situation Likely to Continue For Some Time.

Delay All to the Good, Giving Time For Further Negotiations.

London, Oct. 7.—While the distaste for war evidently increases in Great Britain, dispatches from the scene of possible hostilities grow more and more lurid. Advice from Pretoria describes the Transvaal organs as crying for impossible terms, and President Kruger as referring to the prospective struggle as a means of setting the republic totally free of England.

It is now practically certain that parliament will meet on Oct. 17. Reserves will be summoned today in sufficient number to bring up to a war strength the regiments warned to hold themselves in readiness for service in South Africa, or about one-sixteenth of the total reserve.

Dispatches from Cape Town of doubtful authenticity allege that the Boer organization in the field is already breaking down and that friction is developing between the artillery who are regulars and the burghers' commanders. A dispatch from Mafeking announces that Commandant Cronje of the Boer forces has been promoted to the rank of general, and is massing 6000 Boers, with artillery, near Tlamathlabama, north of Mafeking. The dispatch adds that General Cronje has sent a message to the camp of the imperial troops that he will cross the border at the first shot fired in Natal.

It is understood that Harry Escombe, former premier of Natal, is going to Pretoria in the interest of peace.

Thousands of natives are reported to have invaded Johannesburg, and the authorities decided to march there, under escort, out of the country. Last night two natives entered a clothing store kept by a Jew and stabbed the proprietor in the neck, severing his windpipe. Two Jewish storekeepers in the East Rand have been murdered by natives, and the Kaffirs are raiding all the places where they think liquor is stored. The war commission, acting under the government's instructions, will issue advice to storekeepers to remove the barricades they have erected, on the ground that the government's guarantee of protection ought to be sufficient.

All the reliable intelligence from South Africa points to a continuance of the existing situation for some time, as both sides are apparently diffident about commencing an attack, although from the dispatches received here it seems as if every movement of a patrol and every cloud of dust raised by a herd of cattle were turned into a general alarm by both armies.

The delay is all to the good, inasmuch as it gives time for further negotiations, and indications apparently show a willingness on the part of the British government to continue to utilize diplomacy.

A well-defined conviction is prevalent that the foreign office is trying to discover a way out of the impasse which has been created by admitted mistakes and miscalculations, and it is evident that peace advocates and peace circles are gaining ground, although Mr. Chamberlain's refusal to seize the chance given him by the petition of 58 members of the Cape house of assembly to point out in his reply that the Boers have still an opportunity of accepting Great Britain's previous offer, so long as his new proposals remain unformulated, seems to show a personal determination on the part of the secretary of state for the colonies not to yield an iota in the interest of peace.

Addressing a peace meeting at Carrarvon last evening John Morley asked the country to realize the predicament to which it had been brought by unhappy diplomacy and the belated councils of the war press and army. "If," said Mr. Morley, "President Kruger had accepted the franchise proposal of Sept. 8, with reliance upon the convention of 1884, he would have been planted behind diplomatic entrenchments, which by fair and reasonable means could not have been forced. Even after that refusal there was still room for a friendly settlement; but just as the Transvaal made a mistake our government capped it by withdrawing the franchise proposals."

It is said that the British government has applied to Signor Marconi with a view of employing his system of wireless telegraph in the Transvaal campaign.

Visited the Soldiers' Home.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Admiral Dewey received an ovation at the soldiers' home yesterday, about two miles beyond the city limits. He drove out there, after the afternoon, and General Ruggles, the governor of the home, introduced him to the veterans. The admiral told the veterans in a brief speech that he had never learned to appreciate the true valor and the noble qualities of the American soldiers till he had seen them fight in the Philippines. He had nothing but the highest esteem, he said, for the American soldiers and would always treasure their friendship.

After Cargo of Mules.

Boston, Oct. 7.—Cunarder Carinthia, which left here today for New Orleans to take on mules for South Africa, carried out 2477 bushels of oats as feed for these animals.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:49; sets, 5:14. Moon sets—7:16 p. m. High water—1:15 a. m.; 1:30 p. m. The gulf storm has moved rapidly northeastward along the Atlantic coast and is central off the southeast New England coast. Rain has fallen in the Atlantic coast districts from Florida to Maine, and high north to northeast winds have prevailed from Hatteras to Cape Cod. This storm will disappear in the direction of Newfoundland, its passage being followed by fair weather and high, but diminishing, northerly winds along the New England coast.

A FORMIDABLE WEAPON.

Remarkable Performance of the Holland Submarine Torpedo Boat.

Greenport, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Holland submarine torpedo boat made an excellent showing on her trial run yesterday and proved beyond any doubt her destroying capacity under the most unfavorable conditions. The run was made over the measured course which is to be used in the government trials in Little Peconic bay. The little craft left her moorings in a heavy rainstorm, with head winds and against a tide that caused the sea to run so high it was impossible at times to locate the vessel from the deck of the steam yacht Josephine, from which the guests witnessed the run.

THE HOLLAND SUBMARINE BOAT.

The boat made remarkable speed while running awash from her moorings at New Suffolk to the beginning of the course. The distance is about three miles, and was covered in less than 30 minutes.

At the beginning of the course the submarine boat was maneuvered so that her bows were directly between the two small red flags that marked the starting point. The boat was then submerged until the conning tower was just above the water. In less than five seconds afterward the boat was completely submerged, there being nothing visible above water excepting the small flags at the ends of the 10-foot masts.

The first run was made submerged over the one mile course, at the end of which the vessel came to the surface for rapid observation, then making a short dive and coming to the surface a short distance from the beginning of the second mile buoys. The mile run under water was made in less than 10 minutes. While the time for taking observation for changing the position of the vessel was made in less than seven seconds. The boat was kept on the course for more than two hours, during which time she dived several times, and ran at high speed both awash and submerged.

The Fistic Arena.

New York, Oct. 7.—George McFadden of this city knocked out George Lavigne, the ex-champion of the world, in the 19th round here last night. They met at 133 pounds and put up a fight which was as sensational as it was prolific of hard hitting and clever ring work. McFadden's blocking of the "Kid's" rushes and leads was phenomenal, and towards the end of the bout he had the Saginaw boxer very raw and sore. Lavigne was well battered and several minutes clanking before he realized what had happened to him. McFadden left the ring virtually without a mark.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—Kid McCoy and Joe Choyinski fought six rounds here last night. Both had agreed to a draw in case they were on their feet at the end of the sixth round, and that was the decision, as both were not only on their feet, but comparatively fresh. McCoy, however, outpointed the Californian and scored the only knockdown.

Inspectors Bribed.

New York, Oct. 7.—Perhaps the most interesting subject up for discussion at yesterday's session of the Mazet legislative investigating committee was the Dewey parade stands. Dr. Roberts, chief sanitary superintendent of the board of health, submitted certain documents showing that the Dewey stands were not constructed in a sanitary fashion. Stephen F. Berry, owner of one of the Dewey parade stands, testified that his partner settled matters by giving one inspector $5 and another inspector $25.

Officers of Farmers' Congress.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The Farmers' congress elected the following officers: President, H. R. Hoard, Port Atkinson, Wis.; first vice president, P. G. F. Candage, Brookline, Mass.; second vice president, John S. Cummings, North Carolina; secretary, John M. Stahl, Chicago; first assistant secretary, George A. Stockwell, Providence; second assistant secretary, R. F. Kolp, Iowa Park, Tex.; third assistant secretary, Edward A. Callahan, New York; treasurer, L. Van Morrison, Pennsylvania.

Not From Cleveland.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 7.—President Patton, in a lecture yesterday, incidentally referred to the gift of $100,000 to the university for the founding of a chair in politics, and he made it plain that existing President Cleveland is not the donor of the gift. Referring to it he said: "The giver of the $100,000 is not the gentleman (meaning Mr. Cleveland) you think he is. The donor of the gift requested that his name be withheld from publication."

Merchants Swindled.

Northampton, Mass., Oct. 7.—A young man, giving the name of George F. Franklin, Jr., and claiming to be an Amherst student, passed several checks on local merchants that have since proven worthless. The checks were drawn on the First National bank. There is no student named George F. Franklin, Jr., at Amherst, and the man did not have any deposit in the First National bank.

Killed Daughter and Herself.

Catskill, N. Y., Oct. 7.—An old woman named Walven, a resident of Catskill, yesterday cut her daughter's throat and then swallowed a dose of poison. Both women are dead. The cause of the tragedy is unknown.

RESULT IS IN DOUBT.

Challenger Will Give Defender a Close Rub For America's Cup.

No One Can Draw Lines on the Two Drifting Races.

Foreign Boat, However, Has Caused Columbia's Friends to Become Cautious.

New York, Oct. 7.—Former Commodore James D. Smith, who has been at the head of the New York Yacht club cup committee during several past series of races for the America's cup, says:

"The result of the present series is a problem now. Designers, builders, sail-makers, shippers, sailors and yachtsmen (American and English) are asking each other questions as to what the outcome may be. My opinion was that it was one sided, with the American boat a sure winner, but on results so far, as I see and read of the boats' performances and take reckoning, I am not so certain. I still believe that Columbia will keep the cup in America; but I believe, that Sir Thomas Lipton's pluck, liberality and lavish expenditure have been creditable and justified, at least, in the present light. Shamrock was expected by British critics to be better than our boat in heavy weather. I cannot see that we have any reason to under estimate her abilities in light winds."

The feeling on both sides is one of confidence. Mr. Iselin thinks he will win. Sir Thomas Lipton has a nice little corner in the Erin all ready for the cup. The public is in doubt, and it must be said that there is a feeling of indecision among expert yachtsmen. The two days' of drifting have furnished almost nothing on which to base opinion. They have, however, seemed to strengthen the belief that Shamrock is a thoroughly dangerous proposition. This is now a well-grounded opinion, and if the two days of light airs have done anything they have shaken that confident feeling that has been prevailing among the backers of Columbia. Those who have watched most closely every movement of the two yachts are firm in the belief that there is little to choose between them in a drift, and when it is remembered that the Shamrock people have never asserted that she was a drifter, it can be understood that there is reason for the rise in Shamrock stock.

Twice in the two days of racing there have been times when both yachts were sailing under exactly similar conditions—for an hour after the start on Tuesday, and for a like length of time after the start on Thursday. Both were sailing dead before the wind, a light wind, with the same spread of canvas. On Tuesday Shamrock drew away from Columbia. On Thursday Columbia drew away from Shamrock. No one can draw lines on the racers from this, and it can safely be said that the only change that has taken place in the feeling of observing yachtsmen is one that tends to increase the doubt.

It now looks as though the first race to a finish would come in a good, stiff breeze. If it comes, the world will see the greatest struggle for yachting supremacy in the history of international racing.

The early rising sailormen of Columbia heard the whispering of the wind at the wharf yesterday and they saw in the rainstorm the prospect of a real war.

There was a look in the sky which hinted that some other anchorage might be better. So the consort was called ahead, and a little after 9 o'clock the tow began. Columbia was jogged along easily. A little under two hours from the time she left her anchorage inside the Horseshoe Columbia anchored off Bay Ridge. The wind seemed to have an extra jam in it then, and so, after making fast to the buoy, the anchor was got over as well.

Snugged down at last, the only work of the day for the white jackets was begun. This was the inspection of the racer. Aloft and below the Deer Isle men clambered and worked. Every part had to stand the inspection, although there was small chance of any strain having taken place in Thursday's light breeze. Back to the tender the men turned for the noon day meal. The remainder of the afternoon was spent by all in their quarters.

Shamrock lay all day tossed on the white-capped waves off the Horseshoe and watched anxiously from the deck of the Erin by Sir Thomas Lipton and his guests. The only sign of life upon the deck was a sailor clad in oilskins, pacing back and forth, keeping watch. When Sir Thomas was told that Columbia had departed for a more sheltered anchorage, he asked laughingly if the American beauty could not stand the wind and weather as well as Shamrock.

Nothing whatever has been done to Shamrock since Thursday's race, as the light airs which floated across the water then would not have broken a linen thread, and the overhauling of the rigging and halyards was dispensed with.

Everything that ingenuity could contrive or skill effect has already been done upon the challenger, and she is now ready to abide the issue, be it whatever it may. She is in perfect condition for the race.

Mr. Lipton stated that Captain Ben Parker, although he was on board Shamrock in Thursday's race, took no part in sailing her.

Maine Company Won.

Haverhill, Mass., Oct. 7.—The Triumph Hand Tub company of Berwick, Me., won the first prize of $300 in the playoff contest in this city, the stream reaching a distance of 187 feet 5 inches. The other prize winners were as follows: Fountain, Exeter, N. H., second, $150; Butler veterans, Lowell, third, $100; White Angel, Salem, fourth, $50.

End of the Bay State.

St. John's, Oct. 7.—The hull of the British steamer Bay State, which, while bound from Liverpool for Boston, went ashore near Cape Race, broke in two yesterday and the after part slid off into deep water. Little or nothing of the Bay State's material and cargo has been saved.

AN ENGLISH BEAUTY.

Talented and Eccentric Miss Wilson. Who is Visiting America.

Miss Muriel Wilson, who is now sightseeing in this country, is said to be the prettiest young woman in England. Besides this, she is the leader of London's swaggar set, of which the Prince of Wales is a conspicuous member. She is as eccentric in the matter of dress as she is beautiful.

She is the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wilson, the owners of Tranby Croft, a handsome country house in Yorkshire, made famous by the so called baccarat scandal, in which the Prince of Wales and Sir William Gordon-Cumming were involved. She is tall, a brunette, an accomplished dancer and one of the noted amateur actresses in fashionable life in London, having appeared at the Duke and Duchess of Devonshire's entertainments at Chatsworth, as well as at other large houses.

Miss Wilson's engagement to the Duke of Marlborough was reported two years before his marriage to Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt. Her engagement to Lord Willoughby de Broghie, son and heir to the Earl of Ancaster, was broken by the young woman, who thought that she did not love the man sincerely enough to become his wife. Miss Wilson has two sisters, Mrs. Lyceet Green and Mrs. John Menzies, and a younger brother, Clive Wilson, who has spent a season in New York. He was at one time reported to be engaged to Miss Duer, now Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay. Miss Wilson and her relatives have come over to witness the yacht races, attend the Dewey celebration and later to visit Niagara falls and the west. She intends to return to England in about six weeks.

A VENEZUELAN LEADER.

Colonel Alcantara Learned the Art of War at West Point.

One of the military leaders involved in the lively Venezuelan revolution is a West Point graduate. This is Colonel Francisco Alcantara. He is at the head of the government's artillery regiment. His father was at one time president of Venezuela. Colonel Francisco was given a special course at the United States Military academy at the request of the Venezuelan government. He was graduated two years ago, and his American military training is thus being put to use very early in his career.

The cause of the revolution against President Ignacio Andrade is a flagrant violation of the constitution. He presented a measure about six months ago which provided for the division of several states. Under the constitution such divisions can be made only after the introduction of the bill has finished his term. President Andrade, however, despite this clause, insisted on the immediate passing of the measure.

COLONEL FRANCISCO ALCANTARA.

ure by congress, and all those who have dared to oppose it are now confined in prison.

General Jose Maria Hernandez, who has been in prison at Maracaibo for complicity in the revolution against President Andrade, has escaped and has taken the field against the government forces.

General Castro, another revolutionary leader who was recently wounded in battle, was an unsuccessful candidate for governor of a province at the election which raised Andrade to the presidency.

One drawback. "A glass of soda water is about all profit, isn't it?" "No, indeed," replied the druggist. "We break a glass every once in a while."—Ohio State Journal.

ORDER IN PHILIPPINES

Will Be the Keynote Pitched by McKinley For the Campaign of 1900.

Will Avoid Radical Utterances in His Speeches.

Meets Bryan and Receives a Generous Welcome From Citizens of Illinois.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The fall campaign for what is commonly termed "the preliminary skirmish of 1900" has begun in dead earnest. It will soon be possible to know the exact attitude toward the Philippine question which the Republicans purpose to take, for President McKinley's speeches, supplemented by those of his cabinet, in the next two weeks will doubtless pitch the "keynote of the campaign." There is every evidence that these speeches will declare it to be Republican policy to put down the insurrection and restore order, but to leave further questions as to the form of government of the Philippine islands and the amount of American supervision over them wholly to congress and the future. This will be the gist of the president's speeches. He will refuse to quarrel with anybody who has a plan for the future of the Philippine islands after peace is restored; the only man he will take issue with is the one who wants an immediate withdrawal of our forces from the battle lines.

It goes without saying that a large body of voters favor asserting American authority in the islands, now that we have begun. It is always unpopular to advocate a retreat of any sort. Hence the administration in making this the issue places itself in a strong position. Were it to proclaim any definite policy for the future of these islands as a logical sequel to what has already taken place, there would be room for the opposition to make headway. Mr. McKinley does not intend to give the opposition this headway. He wants the greatest latitude left for selecting the issues of 1900, and so long as he commits himself to nothing more than American supremacy in the Philippines, he is free to accept the advice which the events of the future will constitute.

Those who expect in the series of speeches in the west any very radical utterances touching anything more than the putting down of the insurrection will be disappointed. Some presidents would have been so angered by the anti-imperialist movement that they would have gone in defiance to an opposite extreme, and boldly thrown down the gauntlet. Mr. McKinley is easy and tactful in his methods, and will never let himself or his policy get very far away from what he believes to be the real heart of the country.

Meantime prosperity is the one great and overtopping argument of Republican reliance. It will take a good many small defections to offset the closing in of the ranks which good times may be expected to occasion.

An elaborate demonstration was held at Peoria, Ills., yesterday to welcome President McKinley. The great event was the unveiling of a monument to the soldiers of the war of the rebellion. The monument is a tall shaft of marble, ornamented with bronze groups, commemorating scenes of the Civil war. By its side had been constructed a platform upon which the president and his party took seats to review the procession.

The monument was presented to the city and county by Mrs. Lucie B. Tyng and accepted by John C. Kingbury, chairman of the board of supervisors, and by Mayor Lunch. An address was given by Mr. Kingbury, followed by the president, who dedicated the monument in a formal address. The president said: "I am glad to stand about the monument dedicated to patriotic service and heroic devotion in the holiest cause for which mankind ever engaged. This monument awakens sacred memories, and that is its purpose. It is erected that it might for all time perpetuate a glorious page of American history. It tells the whole story of the war, the siege, the march, bivouac, battle line, the suffering, sacrifices, of the brave men who, from '61 to '65, upheld the flag. It tells every page of the history of that civil struggle and its triumphant consummation at Appomattox Court House, when Grant accepted the surrender from Lee and we were kept a nation, united again forever."

"I like this monument. I like this symbol that I face today—the defense of the flag. That is what we do whenever and wherever the flag is assailed. And with us war always sleeps when the assailants of our flag consent to Grant's terms of unconditional surrender. I could add nothing of patriotic sentiment to that which has already been uttered."

"But I desire to express in this presence my appreciation of the tribute which the people of Peoria have paid to the brave defenders of the American flag in time of our greatest peril. You are proud of the monument. You should be proud of the demonstration today which led to its unveiling. Six thousand children from the schools marching by with the flag of stars in their hands, and with the love of country in their hearts. I could not but think as I looked upon that inspiring procession that my country was safe. God bless the schools of America. God bless the patriotic women of the United States and the patriotic band that projected and carried this monument to a successful conclusion."

At the conclusion of the exercises an opportunity was given the people to shake hands with the president. The party was next driven to the "Corn Palace," a building wholly constructed of corn, where the Peoria corn festival was inaugurated by the president. An informal reception and dinner at the residence of J. B. Greenleaf was the closing event of the president's visit to Peoria. The party boarded the train at 8:45 and was rapidly carried to Galesburg to spend the night.

William J. Bryan sat directly behind President McKinley at Canton while the president delivered a brief address to the citizens of that town. A fair is in progress at Canton, and Colonel Bryan had been secured to deliver a two hours' speech. The Nebraska was among the first to greet President McKinley as he left the train and ascended the platform. When the president concluded his address he turned and heartily grasped Colonel Bryan's outstretched hand. "Good-bye, Mr. President," said Colonel Bryan, and the president responded with a word of farewell. This closed the short meeting between the former rivals of 1896, as the presidential train left immediately. Colonel Bryan delivered his address after the departure of the president.

President McKinley said at Canton: "Our glorious old flag, the symbol of liberty, floats today over two hemispheres. During the recent war we had exhibitions of unprecedented patriotism on the part of the people and unmatched heroism on the part of our soldiers and sailors. Our second great triumph is the triumph of prosperity. The busy mills, the active industries, the general prosperity, have scattered plenty over smiling country. Our third great triumph is the triumph we have had over sectionalism. We are no longer a divided people, and he who would stir up animosities between the north and south is denied a hearing in both sections. The boys of the south and the boys of the north fought triumphantly on land and sea in every engagement during the war."

"This nation has been greatly blessed and at this hour we are a united and prosperous and patriotic people. And may that divine providence who has guided us in all our undertakings from the inception of the government continue his gracious and assuring favor to us for evermore."

Bryan Gives His Views.
Canton, Ills., Oct. 7.—W. J. Bryan visited the Canton fair yesterday and delivered an address on the public square to an immense audience. He said: "The silver question is not dead, from the fact that for a number of years our Republican friends have been claiming that it has been interred. They claim that the people settled the silver question in 1896, but this is not true. The only party before the people in that campaign that had a gold standard platform was the gold Democratic party, and that party carried only one township, and that was in western Kansas, which had in it only six voters. This does not appear to mean the settlement of the silver question."

He then paid his respects to the trusts, which he said had in the main grown up within the last few years, as the result of Republican legislation. He did not agree with Mark Hanna, who, said Colonel Bryan, recently said, after returning from England, that the English system of government was as good, if not better, than the American system.

About half of his address was devoted to the foreign policy of the administration, claiming that its trend was in the direction of imperialism. The war in the Philippines, he said, was a war of conquest, and not one in the interest of republican government. He wanted the Philippines treated as the government had promised to treat the Cubans. Instead of doing what was being done, he thought it would have been better for Admiral Dewey, after destroying the Spanish fleet, to have left for home.

Against the Rules.
Washington, Oct. 7.—The state department has received from the state secretary of the Transvaal republic notification that it has appointed to be its diplomatic representative in Washington, General J. R. Beirne of New York, and asking if he would be recognized by our government. Acting Secretary Hill has called the state secretary that the rules of the United States government forbid the reception of an American citizen as the diplomatic representative of a foreign government.

Preparing to Receive Dewey.
Boston, Oct. 7.—Admiral Dewey will receive a gift from the municipality of Boston, and that testimonial will take the form of a watch, to cost about $1000. The city will also give the admiral a $12,000 welcome, that is, the city will expend that sum in making the occasion one of note. The governor is desirous that the people of the commonwealth should observe Oct. 14 as a holiday. It is proposed to mobilize the entire state militia on the 14th instead of the 9th.

Welts Seeks Damages.
Lynn, Mass., Oct. 7.—William E. Welts, who two weeks ago was removed from office as city milk inspector on recommendation of Mayor Shepherd, has brought suit against the latter for libel, placing damages at $5000, basing action on the allegation that during the recent hearing Mayor Shepherd accused him of being untruthful. Inspector Welts' case began last June, when William F. Craig, city chemist, charged the inspector with falsifications of his account.

Pilots in Trouble.
New York, Oct. 7.—Deputy Collector Phelps of the law division of the custom house has preferred charges against the pilots of the steamboats Glen Island and Idlewild for obstructing the course at last Tuesday's yacht race. The pilots are charged with repeatedly disobeying the warnings of the revenue cutters and other boats patrolling the course, and it is the intention of Collector Bidwell to make an example of these pilots.

Aged Murderer Sentenced.
Houlton, Me., Oct. 7.—Alexis Oakes, 80 years of age, was yesterday convicted of murder in the first degree for the killing of his son, Oliver, on Aug. 31 last. The state of Maine having no capital punishment, the penalty for this crime is life imprisonment. Yesterday was the fifth day of the trial, which has attracted much attention because of the particularly revolting nature of the crime and the age of the murderer.

Train Wreck in Maine.
Newport, Me., Oct. 7.—A west-bound freight on the Maine Central road broke apart near here, and the rear section ran into the forward section, demolishing several cars and obstructing the track. Conductor Tally was the victim of bad injuries.

Peruvian Insurgents Weakening.
Lima, Oct. 7.—Numerous chiefs of various groups of revolutionists are asking amnesty for themselves and their followers, offering to submit to the government if their requests are granted.

REPUBLICAN TICKET COMPLETED.

Olin, Knowlton, Kimball and Bradford Coupled With Crane and Bates.
Boston, Oct. 7.—Music in ragtime and short, crisp speeches by some of the best known party men made the Republican state convention in Music hall a lively and enthusiastic affair. With its usual serenity the convention began its labors, and while a couple of contests developed the windup came at a seasonable hour and after the usual flow of eloquence from the nominees of the convention. The ticket in full placed in nomination follows:

For governor, W. Murray Crane of Dalton; for lieutenant governor, John L. Bates of Boston; for secretary of state, William M. Knowlton of New Bedford; for auditor, John W. Kimball of Fitchburg; for treasurer and receiver, Edward S. Bradford of Springfield.

The first four named were nominated by acclamation; Auditor Kimball was renominated on the first ballot over two other candidates, and Edward S. Bradford won against three other candidates. The convention lacked striking features, save one, perhaps, and that was the greeting given to Curtis Guild when he nominated his late caucus opponent, Speaker Bates, for the lieutenant governorship.

The five-minute nominating speeches took well and nothing occurred to mar the even tenor of the program. The platform was adopted as reported, and as customary it clearly defined the party's position in this state, which position was an out and out endorsement of the national administration. The chief planks are: Reiteration of the party's principles of the 1896 campaign, appeal for the improvement of the monetary system, encouragement of the merchant marine by legislation, opposition to trusts and monopolies, approval of the Spanish-American war, acceptance of responsibility for the future of the Philippine islands, allegiance to civil service reform and acknowledgment of the nation's debt to our soldiers and sailors.

Lieutenant Governor Crane and Speaker Bates were present and accepted their respective nominations in well-worded speeches. The convention adjourned and the convention's nominees held informal receptions.

WIDESPREAD ACTIVITY.

Wave of Prosperity Continues to Spread Over the Business World.

New York, Oct. 7.—Bradstreet's says: Distributive trade, while smaller at some markets, is still of encouraging volume, industry is active, railway earnings heavy, prices still tend upward and bank clearings increase, while failures lessen. Fall festivals and other celebrations at several cities have exercised an appreciable effect upon retail trade, and proven a stimulating factor in wholesale lines. In industrial affairs activity is widespread, and strikes are fewer and less costly than in most years.

Business failures are apparently at a minimum, and liabilities are certainly less costly than for many years past.

Prices, as a whole, manifest aggressive strength. Farm products are especially prominent in this direction, leading in extent of gain with an advance of nearly 1/2 cent for the week.

Manufactured articles are stronger in sympathy with the raw product, but are also strengthened by reported heavy dealings in print cloths, and by the fact that manufacturers of most lines of staple cottons are heavily sold ahead.

War rumors have played an important part in the week's operations, tending, in some respects, toward checking the movement of cotton, affecting London wool sale prices and strengthening the tone of wheat and other cereals.

Wool has been in active demand by manufacturers, and is higher at most markets. Woolen goods retain all of their old strength and some classes still tend upward. Chartering of ships by the British government has created some excitement in the ocean freight markets, and quotations for room have been marked up.

Dairy products reflect weather conditions in higher prices, and petroleum is firm on limited production, compared with demand.

Hides and leather are strong and higher.

Iron and steel hold all of their old strength, the former on heavy buying at Pittsburgh and further west, while large quantities of steel rails have been bought by leading railroads.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The navy department has offered the Resolute to the war department to carry supplies to the storm sufferers of Porto Rico. The offer has been accepted.

Captain Philip H. Cooper, commanding the Chicago, has asked to be relieved of his command. Instructions have been given to the New York navy yard to put the Chicago in condition for service at the earliest possible moment.

The report circulated in Vienna that Prince George of Greece is betrothed to the Princess Victoria, daughter of the Prince of Wales, is considered in London as simply a revival of the oft-denied rumor of engagement.

The Lafayette (Ind.) Bridge Works were destroyed by fire. Loss, $75,000.

The Central Pacific Railroad company has deposited in the United States treasury $47,000,000 in 4 percent gold bonds to secure the government that amount of notes due the government on the purchase of the road last January. This is in pursuance of the contract made at that time.

The predicted increase in freight rates owing to the chartering of so many transatlantic liners and tramp steamships by the British government has, it is said, begun to manifest itself. Ocean freight agents say that there is a general upward tendency in rates.

The registration of Yale college, academic department, which is the only department of the university whose enrollment is complete, is 1233, as against 1235 last year. All classes show decided gains, except the junior class, which is 63 less in membership.

The oil house, tanning room and one beef cooler at the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger packing plant, at Armourdale, Kan., were destroyed by fire. The loss is $100,000.

The advertising car of the Northern Pacific railway, containing specimens of mineral, cereal and fruit products of the west, was consumed by fire at Neilsenville, Wis. Loss, $75,000.

ELECTRICITY ON WARSHIPS.

Important Changes Dependent Upon the Kearsarge Experiments.

Ever since the satisfactory installation of electric power distribution plants ashore there has been a growing agitation in the navy for the adoption of this means for distributing power on shipboard, says The Electrical Review. Free from the objectionable heat and the great danger incident to steam pipes, it promised at least to be far more economical in operation than the steam auxiliaries which it was intended to replace. The battleship feeds on coal. In the older type of installations somewhere about one-fourth or one-fifth of its bunker capacity would be used on a cruise in operating the auxiliaries, thus shortening the effective radius of the ship and increasing the expense of operation. If the electric system is able, as it almost certainly will be, to save one-half of this coal, it will pay for itself over and over again in the lifetime of the ordinary warship and will add several hundred miles to the cruising radius of a large vessel.

The tests of the Kearsarge are awaited with the greatest interest, for it is almost a certainty that they will show the eminent desirability of the electric system in the most emphatic manner.

Important Advice.

It is surprising how many people wake up in the morning nearly as tired as when they went to bed, a disagreeable taste in their mouth, the lips sticky, and the breath offensive, with a coated tongue. These are nature's first warnings of Dyspepsia and Liver Disorders, but if the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets are resorted to at this stage they will restore the system to a healthy condition. A few doses will do more for a weak or sour stomach and Constipation than a prolonged course of any other medicine.

CANCER CURED

BY ABSORPTION NO KNIFE.

The result of years of scientific research by America's greatest blood specialist. A pleasant treatment that relieves immediately, cures permanently all forms of CANCERS, TUMORS and CHRONIC DISEASES. Hundreds of wonderful cures effected in and around Boston. Read the following:

BLOOD EVIDENCE

Then come to our offices and investigate the hundreds of other marvelous cures produced by ABSORPTION when all other treatment failed. Consult this living patient. "Dr. James M. Solomon: Dear Sir: The following is my testimonial, which I hope will help others. That after suffering several years with something that was never reached, getting only temporary help from different doctors, and each attack being more severe, I was advised by a friend, who had been cured of a tumor, to see her doctor. I was then unable for any work, and feeling worse from day to day, realizing that something was preying upon me of a serious nature, I was discouraged about my condition, and sought Dr. Solomon with little faith—it was more of an experiment. He got my confidence on the first interview, when, without a word of description of my feelings from me, he at once located my trouble, and I could not help believing that he knew from what I was suffering, although was greatly surprised and somewhat terrified when he told me it was cancer of the stomach. I began treatment at once, Nov. 3, 1892, and was faithful to his directions, with just the results promised. I would get, till the following June (1893) I felt like a new being, and the doctor pronounced me recovered. I am sure that I have, and I can never repay the gratitude I owe to Dr. J. M. Solomon. Sincerely, EMMA FRIS, 232 Harvard St., Dorchester, Mass." Today he is one of the many living witnesses of the only painless method that positively CURES when all others fail.

We want you to call and examine references of people you know—people we all know, who would not vouch for ABSORPTION had they not been cured. Ask for references marked H.

Good Afternoon.

They say that the third time never fails, but the wind in New York at noon today was not encouraging for a successful cup race. Perhaps there will be a gale for Oct. 10.

President McKinley and wife were in the city of Quincy yesterday. Not Quincy Mass., but Quincy, Ill. But the "City of Presidents" would give him as rousing a reception as any city with 25,000 population.

It would have been a mistake for the Republicans of Massachusetts to have turned down the State Auditor who has faithfully served the Commonwealth for seven years. Gen. Kimball is sure is becoming a little aged, but can yet perform the duties of the office as efficiently as some new man who may not be many years younger. It will be many a day before Massachusetts forgets the veterans of '61-'65. Two of the six on the ticket are ex-soldiers.

The State convention of Friday was one to inspire confidence in the hearts of all who attended. It was full of patriotism, and the Republicans saw much cause for congratulation in the country at large. The platform notes
the return of prosperity, and the benefits of the gold standard, opposes trusts, has a liberty plan for the Philippines, condemns lynching,
would restrict immigration, commends
civil service, and endorses the tariff law. The Republican candidates for governor is a man with large business experience, and is fitted for the office
by three years' service as lieutenant governor. The State is well balanced geographically on the ticket and an old time majority seems certain.

Drift of Opinion.

The man who can laugh heartily
at a joke on himself has a genuine sense of humor.—Somerville Journal.

If the Shamrock turns out to be the winner in these races we shall have the satisfaction of saying that England had to come over and take our model
before she could win that cup.—Por-land Express.

Those people who are troubled about the use of the words set and sit,
should commit to memory the sentence
offered by a schoolboy, as follows:—
"Since Admiral Dewey went to Manila, the sun never sets upon the territory of the United States, and since Admiral Dewey went to Manila, nobody in the world sits upon the United States."—Lynn Item.

One family in Whitman recently engaged a girl to do the housework and she was told to come on a certain day.
The head of the house was awakened at 5.15 that morning by a ring of the bell and going to the door found the girl there as per agreement. She had breakfast on the table when the rest of the family arrived, and the family
think they have one girl out of a thousand.—Brookton Enterprise.

Charles A. Pillsbury was never ashamed of the fact that he sold papers in the streets of Concord, N. H. In this he only resembled other self-made men. Governor Banks liked to be known as "the bobbin boy." General Butler referred often to the first one hundred dollars he saved from a scanty salary and put into the beginning of that real estate wealth which made his fortune, while men like Lincoln and Garfield considered their boyish rail-splitting and canal-boat mule-driving important parts of their histories.

The self-made man who is ashamed of
the beginning of the making is an exception in this country. Shame is more apt to come through the grandson of the self-made man, who inherits the family fortune, but not the rugged strength of character that made the family fortune.—Boston Home Journal.

If you can't take a big space in your home paper take a little one, and condense in that small space all the thought and energy that you would otherwise spread over half a page.
That is the way to make business grow
from advertising.—Shoe and Leather Gazette.

Conventional Miss Boston must be inexpressibly shocked at the idea
a woman aspiring to be mayor of that city; but as Martha Moore Avery has about as much chance of attaining the object of her ambition as she has of similar distinction on the planet Mars,
the puritanical goddess of the Hub
need not give way to inordinate fear.
—Brookton Times.

Every section of the country and every industry is sharing in the general prosperity. Speaking of the cotton mills, a democratic exchange from the South says: "Almost every mill in the country has sold orders ahead for six to twelve months, and they are running night and day. They are running at a large profit, too. The Crown Cotton Mills of Dalton, Ga., have just declared a dividend of 93 per cent."—Beverly Times.

Trust-busters like Sayers of Texas, and Jeff Davis of Arkansas, are not making war on trusts. They are really endeavoring, whether consciously or not, to destroy all commerce. If the Texas anti-trust law, which Sayers indorses, proves capable of enforcement, it will ruin every branch of business and destroy every private firm in Texas.—Memphis Commercial-Appeal.

Rev. Peter Macqueen has certainly had ample opportunity to know what is going on in the Philippines,
but his language is that of a debilitated
man. Let him try preaching awhile in this bracing New England climate and tone up his system. McKinley will look after the Philippines. He is paid $50,000 per annum to do just that thing, and is attending diligently to his job.—Haverhill Gazette.

The syndicate which has lately
come into possession of the Plymouth woolen mills has changed the name to "Puritan Mills," a name having not the least signification in relation to Plymouth. When will people learn that the Plymouth Colony was not settled by the Puritans but that their planting was later, at Salem and Boston, while the religious polity of the Pilgrims and Puritans was as distinct as that today between Protestants and Catholics?
—Old Colony Memorial.

While it is easy to find fault with the Venezuela award, it is also easy to discover in it occasion for congratulation. On the whole, the questions at issue seem to have been settled fairly, and both parties to the dispute will accept the consultations. The region most directly affected will be the theatre of the peaceful development
instead of a field for the ravages of war, and however national pride may have been touched by the outcome, the people of both countries will be the better off.—New Bedford Standard.

It is difficult from an American standpoint to see any justification for war in England's treatment of the Transvaal question. It is impossible for us to see any reason why the Boers should not manage the internal affairs of their country in their own way, so long as they do not interfere with what international law recognizes as international obligations. Why England, for instance, should insist that the English language should be as much the national language as the Dutch there not only is clear, but apparently is a tyrannous exaction. And so it is with other points in England's demands as we understand them. However much America may sympathize with England against European encroachment, she cannot look kindly on her Transvaal aggrandizement.—Waltham Free Press.

Firemen at Highland Park.

The Braintree Veteran firemen with their hand tub Butcher Boy of South Braintree, and the Union Veterans of East Braintree with the tub Union, have entered the muster at Highland Park this afternoon. A large delegation will go with both companies. The last time they attended the muster at this place they came home winners. The Butcher Boy getting first prize and the Union second. Here's hoping they win as before.

THIEF APPREHENDED

Property from Quincy Discovered in His Room.

It will be gratifying to Quincy people, who have been the victims of a sneak thief during the past few weeks to know that the fellow has been arrested, and that among his effects were many of the articles taken from Quincy. The thief is known as Henry McCluskey, alias Frank Welch, and was arrested at Jamaica Plain on Thursday. The fellow had knocked at the door of the residence of Archibald
Faulkner, and receiving no response, entered the house and stole a gold watch and three diamond rings. He was seen as he was leaving the house,
the alarm given and the fellow captured
after a lively chase. Later upon searching his rooms at 134 Shawmut avenue, Boston, a trunk containing over $1,000 of jewelry was found.

The places in Quincy that have been recently robbed are those of Mrs.
Charlotte E. Sargent on Elm street, where a gold watch, a silver watch,
and a pearl ring were taken; James McDonnell's on Franklin street, where a silver watch was taken; George E.
Bright's at Wollaston, where two diamond rings are missing. The last place visited was a week ago, that of Albert F. Hayward on Goffe street.
Here among other things taken were gold stick pins, ladies' neck chain, gold
cross and five silver dollars.

Word of McCluskey or Welch arrest was telephoned to Quincy Friday, and Inspector McKay visited the police station at that place, where the goods
now are and was able to identify a number of the articles as those taken from Quincy, among which was the gold watch, ladies' silver watch, two stick pins, gold bar pin, gold neck chain, gold cross, etc.

The fellow was arraigned in the court at Jamaica Plain Friday, and held for the grand jury. Inspector McKay will take the Quincy people, who have lost articles to Jamaica Plain and have them identify their goods.

A warrant will also be obtained that the fellow may be brought here for trial.

Watch Stolen.

Another sneak thief visited Quincy
last night, and when he made his departure he carried with him a valuable gold watch and chain of Mrs. Elwood
M. Litchfield. The fellow, who is described as being about 25 years of age, 5 feet, 6 inches tall, light hair and mustache, and with a gap in his front teeth called at Mr. Litchfield's early last evening and applied for board.
The terms were given him, and they were apparently satisfactory, for he said he would come. He began his board by eating a hearty supper.
After supper he hung about a while,
and then went out. It was then that it was discovered that the watch and chain were gone. The larceny was reported to the police.

The Republican party of Massachusetts is unqualifiedly opposed to trusts
and monopoly, and the capitalization
of fictitious and speculative valuations and reiterates its declaration in the platform of 1894 against stock watering in all forms, and points to the existing legislation, and especially to the anti-stock watering laws of that year, passed by a Republican legislature and signed by a Republican governor as proof of its progress, sincerity, wisdom and courage upon this issue. It believes that similar laws enacted by all the States in connection with the Federal Trust law already passed by a Republican Congress would put an end to the danger from the growth of great combinations and trusts.—Platform of Massachusetts Republicans.

New Timetable.

An important change in the running time of cars on the Neponset line goes into effect next Monday when fifteen minute service will replace the service
now in force. Cars for Neponset via Hancock street leave City Square at 25 minutes past the hour. Cars for Neponset via Hancock street and Norfolk Downs leave Quincy at 5 minutes of the hour and cars leaving at 10 and 40 minutes past the hour go via Wollaston. Returning, cars leaving Neponset on the even hour and half hour run via Wollaston; at 15 minutes of the hour, via Hancock street; and at 15 past the hour via Hancock street and Norfolk Downs.
The cars that run via Wollaston are the through cars between Neponset and Brookton.

The Meadow Golf Club.

A new golf club has been organized in Wollaston under the name of The Meadow Golf club. It is composed of young people and its membership is very limited.
The officers are as follows: President, Herbert H. Albee; Treasurer, Carroll E. Bates; Secretary, Lillian K.
Bates; Executive Committee, the officers; and Carl Rice, Robert Pinkham, Katherine Sibley and Marion Bates. The club holds its first handicap tournament today.

LIEUT. BUMPUS

Writes from the Philippines to a Braintree Friend.

The following letter has been received by Mr. Horace R. Drinkwater of Braintree from Mr. Edward Bum-pus, son of Judge Bumpus of Quincy, who is with the boys fighting at Manila.

Calamba, P. I.,
Aug. 20, 1899.

Dear Drinkwater:—It is rather late in the day, but the "fortunes of the war," have prevented my acknowledging your wedding invitation.

You must be settled in your new house, or will be when this reaches you within a month or so, and I can wish you nothing better than a long happy life to Mrs. Drinkwater and yourself.

My regiment reached Manila, May 10,
and we have been doing guard duty near Manila and were stationed at Morong, for nearly a month, and we have been here since July twenty-five when we captured this town. The whole regiment is here now, and we are having a rest as the insurgents have gone off to a safe distance.

There is firing on our outposts at times, but they never make any large demonstrations.

The volunteers are going home as fast as they can get transports and more troops are coming, so that when they come we can settle this insurrection
without much delay.

It takes some time to get acclimated,
and I am feeling pretty well, although the humidity has made it hard at times.

With kindest regards to Mrs. Drinkwater and to my friends in Braintree
I am, yours most sincerely,
Edward Bumpus,

2d Lt. 21st Inf.

P. S. You remember King at Thayer Academy? He is a captain on General Lawton's staff and I saw him here yesterday. The life has not changed him much.

Two Elevens.

The boys of Adams Academy have organized two elevens under the management of O. H. Mueller. The line-up of the teams is as follows:

First team—Berry, l. e.; Boyd, l. t.; Bennett, l. g.; Cashman, c.; Donaher,
r. g.; Doble, f. t.; Hardwick, r. e.;
Thomas, r. e.
Second team—O'Brien, l. e.; Trask,
l. t.; Rice, l. g.; Kay, c.; Moyle, r. g.; Morse, r. t.; Nickerson, r. e.; Weston,
q. b.; Pinkham, f. b.; Yate, l. h.; Hardwick, r. h.

The following schedule of games has been arranged for the season:

Oct. 7, Quincy High school at Quincy.
Oct. 11, Weymouth High school at Weymouth.
Oct. 14, open.
Oct. 18, Abington High school at Quincy.
Oct. 21, Milton Academy at Milton.
Oct. 25, Weymouth High school at Quincy.
Oct. 28, Milton High school at Quincy.
Nov. 4, open.
Nov. 8, Milton High school.

Twenty-Five Years Pastor.

The 25th anniversary of the pastorate of the Rev. George J. Prescott in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Cortes street, Boston, occurs tomorrow. At a meeting of the various parish organizations held last spring, it was voted to observe this occasion in some appropriate manner, and Robert H.
Richards, senior warden, Harry F.
Reed and Edmund Billings were appointed a committee to prepare a programme. The following exercises have been arranged:

Sunday morning the bishop of the diocese will preach at 10.30 A. M.
There will be a celebration of the holy communion at 8 o'clock, and a second celebration after the morning service.
An anniversary sermon will be preached by the rector in the evening, at 7.30.

On Monday evening a reception will

D. D. G. T.; Myron L. Keith, D. D.
G. M.;—from Brookton, who made his annual official visitation at that time.
Worshipful Master Herbert F. French occupied the oriental chair, and after Deputy Grand Master Lawrence had made his official inspection, the second degree was conferred in a splendid manner, S. D. Edward J. T. Dexter doing good work.

lished for upwards of twenty one years.

Thayer Defeated.

Thayer Academy opened the foot ball season in this town by a game with the Dorchester High school team Wednesday afternoon. The home eleven was out-classed in weight but for all that they put up a very creditable game.

In the first half neither team scored but in the second half the visitors had it their own way. Parker of the Dor-chesters made a brilliant run the whole length of the field for a touchdown. The Thayer backs played fast
in this half but could not score.
Uniac was missed from the team, he having a lame arm. The summary:

There will be a Democratic ratification meeting at Town Hall, Braintree, Wednesday evening next at 7.30 o'clock. The following speakers will attend and address the meeting: Robert Treat Paine, Jr., Boston; John N. Mack, North Adams; Hon. Thomas J. Gangan, Boston; and other candidates on the state ticket.

The Norfolk County Republican convention was held today at Wesleyan hall, Boston. There was no opposition to Edwin D. Wadsworth of Milton for county commissioner and he was re-nominated for the term of three years.

The Republican delegates from Milton to the Canton-Milton representative convention were elected in the interest of Mr. J. Walter Bradley for representative. The Hyde Park Gazette says he is a chip off the old block, a thorough and hustling Republican in every way, and if nominated he will make it exceedingly interesting for his opponent.

The Democratic delegates of the Braintree-Weymouth Representative district met in Arcanum hall, Weymouth, Thursday evening, and re-nominated John B. Whelan for Representative.

The Republicans have made all their nominations except Representatives and Messrs. Sheppard and Sprague are sure to be re-nominated.

Home Science Meeting.

The meeting of the Quincy Home Science Association last Saturday was interesting and well attended.

The financial report showed that more had been done than any previous year, involving extra expense, yet owing to Mrs. Stetson's ball and the children's entertainment in the spring the summer's work had been expanded without embarrassment.

Mrs. John Hall, the secretary, gave an excellent account of the past three or four months. The vacation kindergartens, three in number, has been filled with happy little people and watched by glad mothers. At the closing exercises the last of August mothers and friends attended by special invitation and took part in the tea and "talk" which followed. Mrs. Hall said the association had plans for the future, hoping to continue the kindergartens and care for its graduates, by forming higher classes and perhaps eventually give the higher classes still further opportunity by supplying manual training. Occupation during the summer months that is legitimate occupation, (children will be busy, whether it be with good or evil is more and more approved, a law having been recently passed authorizing vacation schools at public expense. Kindergartens do not take the place of but are initiative to the primary schools.

Mrs. Wilson Marsh reported as chairman of a special committee to enquire on Home Science work outside the Quincy Association. The Mother's meeting at Bethany church Quincy, held the 1st Wednesday in every month, accomplishes a great deal along the line of children's food and training. The Educational and Industrial Union of Boston is as usual active in household matters. Also the School for Housekeepers is trying for more systematic preparation for the important profession of homemaker.

The Domestic Reform League of Boston has issued circulars giving details of a movement to put a better business relation between employer and employee, there being three thousand employers and five thousand employees in Massachusetts.

After the reports of different committees Miss Johnson, the president, spoke encouragingly to all: told of another contest for written papers planned for the Quincy Association, the list of subjects, all upon home matters, will be as follow:

1. Home Sanitation.
2. Home Laundries versus Public.
3. Home-Making.

Questions of comparative expenses, quality of work and sanitary conditions. Relation of laundry work to the general conduct of the average household.

3. Home-Making. Shall our sons as well as our daughters be educated as Home-Makers? A list of wants was given. They were, more people as members, branch meetings in different parts of the city, another hall in April, more contestants for the writing prizes, and all to recognize the Home Science Association as an educational factor in the community, and to take active part so the work may not be confined to the regular few.

Miss Johnson then introduced Miss Florence Faxon, one of our Quincy young women, who read an entertaining, interesting and instructive paper on Bread. The article is to be printed soon in the American Kitchen Magazine and therefore a full report is not permitted. A few notes, however, will doubtless not be out of order.

Foreigners buy more bread than Americans. The yeast cake is unknown in Europe and facilities for baking fewer, and it is to our poorer population more bread is sold. One barrel of flour will make 250 loaves of bread, one pound each, at a cost of 2 1/2 cents per pound. The housekeeper makes 5 pounds 6 ounces of bread for 13 cents if mixed with water, 20 cents if mixed with milk. Home made bread is considered more desirable than baker's bread, but it is a mistake to conclude the latter is made of poor grade flour. High grade flour makes more loaves to the barrel and therefore is cheaper in the end. 2,000 loaves are sold at our bakeries in Quincy, daily during the summer. Five cents per loaf is the popular price, but could be sold for less at a profit if more people bought. A baker in South Boston put his loaves down to four cents and found himself overstocked, as people were suspicious of anything less than the usual price. Bakeries are generally clean and inviting. Regulations to this end are made by the State and enforced by local authorities.

Drainage and plumbing overlooked by act of Legislature. The men employed in the bakeries visited by Miss Faxon, she found interested in their business, and she bears testimony to their courteous and kind replies to all her enquiries. Miss Faxon's whole paper was so carefully prepared and so full of interest it will well bear a careful reading. F. C. B.

Robertson—Turner.

One of the largest church weddings in Milton for some time took place at the First Congregational church on Wednesday evening at half past seven. The bride was Miss Lillian Foster Turner, daughter of Selectman and Mrs. Turner and the groom Mr. Robert Albert Robertson. The maid of honor was Miss Bertha Robertson sister of the groom and the bridesmaids were Francis and Mamie Corliss, cousins of the bride, Mr. Samuel B. Robertson of New Haven, M. I. T. '99, brother of the groom was best man, and the ushers were Paul A. Babcock, Gordon C. Hunt of Canton, cousin of the bride; Albert E. Brackett, Howard C. Plummer, Samuel E. Alden and G. Frank Kemp.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march and passed out to the inspiring notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march. It was a wedding predominating in pink; there were pink ribbons tied here and there in the bank of potted plants at the front of the church, making a very beautiful decoration. The bride's dress was of white brocaded silk, very simply made with a full train. Her full tulle veil was caught up with a bow of ribbon, and she was absolutely without ornament and the bridesmaid's dresses were of pink silk mull, with baskets of pink and white pinks tied with pink ribbon. The maid of honor was also gowned in pink silk mull trimmed with velvet of the same color, with a train, and carried pink roses.

At the reception at the home immediately after the ceremony everything was beautifully conducted. The bride and groom were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Turner and Mr. and Mrs. William S. Robertson.

Hendry Bros. of Dorchester were caterers. The orchestra played throughout the reception. The decorations, as at the church, were predominantly pink and white and in the most exquisite taste.

There were many beautiful presents, cut glass, silver, bric-a-brac, etc. The bride's class sent a picture, and her father gave her a deed of the land next to his own, where a house is being built for them.

In the latter part of the evening the couple left for parts unknown in a hack decorated with a multitude of rags, with one old shoe tied on behind. They were bombarded with rice by a row of young friends on either side. Miss Turner was for the last two years kindergarten teacher in the Glover school, being a graduate of Miss Voorhee's Kindergarten school. Mr. Robertson is clerk of an East Milton quarry and also clerk of Selectmen.

Medallions by Brooks.

Mr. Richard E. Brooks, the Quincy sculptor, whose statue of Col. Cass was recently dedicated, has recently made bas relief medallions of a number of prominent citizens, and the Herald today reproduces a medallion of Gen. P. A. Collins which has just been executed on a commission given by a number of his friends.

The execution of medallion likenesses of this sort is more common abroad than it has hitherto been in this country, and it has there been treated as an attractive form of permanent portraiture.

Mr. Brooks has recently completed about a dozen of these medallions, including ex-Mayors Green, Martin, Hart, Matthews and Curtis. These medallions are to be hung in the mayor's office in place of the crayon portraits which have formerly hung there.

Greater Success.

Commencing with Oct. 1, the Braintree Reporter, which has been so ably edited by Editor William A. Kane, and published by the Weymouth Publishing Co., has been sold to Messrs. George W. Prescott & Sons of Quincy, and consolidated with the Braintree Observer, a paper that had its origin in the office of the Randolph Register. Circumstances were such we could not conduct the Observer with profit so Editor Prescott took it, and has since issued it from the Patriot office in Quincy. The Observer-Reporter will be conducted by Editor Eben Prescott, who has already shown that he can do good work in the line of journalism, and has our best wishes for greater success. —Randolph Register.

THE SINGERS.

He struck his harp a sounding stroke,
And high in heaven the music rang;
The echoes in the skies away
Fluting the mighty note he sang.

And no one paused to greet his thought;
Life was too swift and love too sweet;
He sang his lofty stave for naught,
The throng went by with hurrying feet.

But one who loitered by the way,
Who wore no singing robe at all,
Lifted a warble light and gay
As a child's laugh, a throat's call.

And half beneath the breath his strain
Seemed full of tunes all men had heard
Long, long ago, sweet falls of rain,
The love song of the mating bird.

The rustling leaf, the murmuring dove,
They heard in that melodious sigh;
The whisper of first trembling love
They heard and their first lullaby.

Within their hearts they sang his lay
Again. They kissed his garment's hem
And threw their laurels in his way
That he might set his feet on them.

The Doctor of the Swamp

The Swamp Swallowed the Locomotive, and the Lake Swallowed the Swamp.

BY MORLEY ROBERTS.
Copyright.

It was undoubtedly a swamp.
"There ain't no shadder of a doubt of it," said the railroad men when they cut sods from the moss with short handled shovels.
North of them stretched the mighty prairies, not yet yielding corn, for half a thousand miles. Beyond the prairie lay the muskeg, the barren lands of northern Canada, haunts of the red eyed, matted musk ox, of the moose and caribou.
South was Lake Superior, a silver green sea, quiet, unruffled and tremendous. Upon its shores thousands of men were working at the making of a railroad, part of Britain's steel girdle round the world.
But now it was on the anvil, and the nature of things was bucking against the intention of man, and every now and again Fate piped a card played by the engineers, and this happened sometimes just as the C. P. R. man was reaching out his hand to collar the stakes.
"A swamp, it is true," said the surveyor, "but nothing serious. Let the engineers look to it."
They shifted ahead and measured the round earth and left the swamp behind them. And a spell of dry weather took the engineers in. It even took Archer in, who was not truly an engineer, but a man who understood things generally and often was hardest driving when he was as invisible as steam in the cylinder.
"Get on, get on," said Archer, who was a real chunk of millstone grit, originally from Yorkshire and Americanized till he bit like a file into any opposition.
"I jyst mean having it done," was Archer's motto, and it was forever in his mouth.
"He mean having it done" should be his epitaph and perhaps will be by and by when it gets done finally.
So when the swamp spread out he jumped on it and declared decisively that it wasn't a swamp at all, or if it was, it wasn't much of a one. And if it was much of a one he didn't care.
"The railroad goes over it," said Archer, for he wanted that section through, and in his mind was the notion of the driving of the last spike, which represents heavenly attainment and paradise to railroad men.
And the railroad did go over it, and then Archer said:
"I told you so. Hurry up, now; hurry up."
As everybody had been hurrying up till the horizon danced the men grunted a little. And Archer slid east on a train on business and wasn't back for three days. As he returned it rained in a gentle, insinuating way, good for crops and soothing to the farmer's mind, as it was a long time from harvest. But it did not soothe Archer, who wanted nice, dry, warmish weather, as he knew men, if they worked at all, never worked as well in rain, for when a man is thinking about himself it takes his mind away from his shovel, and he who would shift 15 cubic yards of "dirt" in ten hours will come down to shifting only 12 or less.
He got out at Nepjion.
"It's a bit damp, Mr. Archer," said a man loading there on the platform.
"Humph!" said Archer.
"And they do say there ain't no railroad on that swampy patch," said the Nepjion man.
"What?"
"No railroad on that swamp piece, I said," returned Nepjion, spitting.
"Gone through?"
"The deuce!" cried Archer, and, going to his office, he found a few telegrams, reading:
1. "Swamp looks very shaky."
2. "Swamp too soft. Can hardly run the gravel train over it."
3. "Road gone in. Locomotive gone with it. Wire instructions."
Archer went outside and shook his fist at Nature and swore a little very softly and a little not loud and, getting on the locomotive with the engineer, went like the wind on a visit of inspection.
"I own it freely," said the man, with his hand on the lever as the engine fled west like a squattering duck. "I own it freely, Mr. Archer, but I never had no confidence in that swamp."
"Nor me," said the fireman.
The engineer shut his left side subordinate up with a frown of surprise which was like a blow with a clinker rake.
"You didn't, eh?" said Archer. "And why not?"

"Waal, Mr. Archer, it's this way," returned the engineer: "I felt that she didn't trust it. And when a man's engine don't trust the road, but gets on a nervous tremulation, like a horse on a plank bridge that's bendy, a man hasn't the proper confidence neither."
"Humph!" growled Archer.
"That's so," said the engineer as he peered ahead through the rain, which was now coming down "kersplish."
The lake was lost under a black squall, but here and there it showed a thunderous green, like live swamp, green and mucky, in hard dried form. The road's ditches were full of water, and so were the drain culverts running athwart the road.
"It's got to be tried with all weathers," said the engineer, who was rather religious. "The Almighty says that about all things, Mr. Archer, and railroads ain't no exception and haven't no especial gifts of grace. It's good works put the railroad through. We find salvation on the bedrock."
But Archer had no love for theology then or at any time, and he growled.
"Here we are, sir," said the sententious man at the lever.
They pulled up at a bit of a wayside shanty that is now a dandy station, and Archer lit off the locomotive into a puddle.
He found a gang of melancholy makers of railroads awaiting his coming. They looked very much ashamed of themselves.
"So you've let her through, have you?" cried Archer reproachfully.
And Scott, the chief of them, nodded. The others nodded, too, like automatic Chinese mandarins.
"We've let her through, sir," said Scott; "that's a fact."
Archer nipped him by the arm just above the elbow.
"Come in and let's have a look," said Archer. And he went out of the shelter into the rain.
Behind them tailed the gang of subdued subordinates. A dozen of the men came out of their tents and followed.
"Think bully Archer can cure her?" asked one.
"He's a rustler,"
"Rustles us."
"And himself, sonny. But this yer swamp! Dr. Archer can cure swamps and give new life and tone to the whole railroad system of the C. P. R. Do not delay till it is too late. Mention this advertisement."
The tail of Archer's group laughed at the joker. But Archer overheard, for he had ears.
"You heard that?" he said to Scott.
"Young Wade is saying I'm the swamp doctor. If so, it's my first case."
They came down to the creek or little river which bounded the swamp. The bridge was wrecked, and the rails gradually disappeared into bubbling slime on the far side of the water. And right across the swamp which now glistened in pools lay a broad band of this same black slime, marking where the road to the Rockies and beyond had once been.
"Oh, British Columbia!" said Archer to himself; "oh, British Columbia, must you wait?"
He spoke out.
"So the gravel train went through?"
"Yes," said Scott, with the curt American affirmative, "it did so."
"Then she's deep?"
"She is so," said Scott, pulling his mustache.
"We'll report this when we've cured it," said Archer. "Oh, hang this rain! How shall we cure it?"
Scott put the end of his mustache into his mouth and chewed it.
"Mr. Archer, it's my opinion that it was a mistake to take this line. It would have paid us to go up yonder."
"Extra miles cost dollars, Mr. Scott," snapped Archer, "and never mind about the ought. What's to be done now? For I jyst mean having it done, and that settles it."
He sat down on a baulk of pine lying on the ground and motioned Scott to sit beside him. The others retreated.
"He says 'he jyst means having it done,'" said Charley Wade. "He's a tough, isn't he? I'll bet drinks he does it too."
And he and his crowd argued all the way back to camp.
"A swamp can be drained," said Archer.
"This one drains itself," replied Scott. "We're sitting beside the drain now."
"Then we want another."
"I don't see how it's to be done, sir."
"I jyst mean having it done," cried Archer. "But for raising difficulties give me your expert. This man who knows too much knows too little."
"And the man who knows too little often knows too much, sir," said Scott sharply.
"Oh, pshaw!" cried Archer. "I'll cure this swamp or bust. It's late now and getting dark, and I'm wet to the skin. But tomorrow I'll go through this swamp and fix it. I tell you I mean having it done. Think it out, Scott. I'll give a mouth's pay to any man who makes a feasible suggestion, whether it works or not."
He went back to the camp and staid by himself, sweating over the swamp problem, while the crew of engineers and the men argued till the night fell on the lake and the vast fertile northern prairie. And it rained mightily till dawn, when the sky cleared in the east and the sun came up from Ontario to see how the work got on.
It found little Archer sitting over his swamp, thinking it out, and went on to inspect the Rocky Mountain division, where 10,000 human ants strove among the great hills. And when the sun came round again it still saw the man who meant having it done sitting over his swamp, thinking it out.
He called all the engineers up one after the other and found them fixed in cursing the surveyors for having struck this swamp in fine, dry weather. But none of them had any notion of clearing up the difficulty without delay.

WEDDING FASHIONS.

THE GOWNS, VEILS AND JEWELS OF THE OCTOBER BRIDES.

Open Throated Bodices, Elbow Sleeves and Extensive Trains—Lace or Fine Figured Net the Favorite Veil—A Strong Feeling For Jewels.

The autumn crop of brides elect has already begun to get its fine plumage in order, and for an early fall wedding the most chic and lovely wedding dress is compiled wholly of white silk muslin, woven or brodered over with tiny dots or minute lily of the valley blossoms.

It is noticeable that the costumes designed for this important function,

CREPE DE CHINE WITH CHIFFON FRILLS, whether imported or made by domestic talent, are all extensive as to train and in a number of cases show elbow sleeves and rather open throated bodices.

Brocaded satin, once typical of wedding splendor, is entirely superseded by plain duchess satin and by ivory white crepe de chine, and now, as ever, lace seems the most important garniture. The prettiest and most popular modern lace is Louis Quinze, which is more stable than blond, but possesses much of its fairylike fragility of charm.

It is an interesting and commendable feature in bridal fashions that the strict mode of the hour can be quite dispensed with in the designing of a marriage dress, and the object of every bride and her dressmaker is to work out some scheme of cut and drapery that will be highly becoming, no matter what the prevailing regulations may be. For this reason, save in a large general way, it is futile to lay down a cut and dried rule for a wedding costume. It may be a scant skirted, short waisted relapse into the mode of 1812, a flat throated, pouched body with bolero jackets of lace or an eel skirt and high cut body with choker collar. Nobody will ever rise up to say that the dress is not fashionable, provided it becomes its wearer, for that is the first and last duty of a wedding gown.

An imported marriage robe is one delicate froth to the knees of small silk muslin flounces, and the remainder of the costume is in very heavy white crepe de chine embroidered in clusters of small lilies.

There is coming in a strong feeling against leaving the white gown and misty veil to serve in the great ceremony without the aid of jewels, and unless all signs fail there is good reason to believe that the bridal jewels at the forthcoming marriages will be one of the most interesting features of the tableau. Curiously enough, however, the jewels are being used at the expense of the traditional orange blossoms that have drifted almost out of sight. These, when worn at all, appear in a tiny breast knot or inconspicuous tuft on the shoulder.

The brides of the day wear lace veils if they are procurable, and, lacking these, lovely veils of the finest silk brussels net, with large lace figures and wreaths set into the mesh and forming the border, are preferred

DUCHESSE SATIN AND LACE.

They are one and all draped off the face and fall from a coronet shaped decoration in the hair straight out to the tip of the extensive train. A Parisian bride recently was married in a tulle veil into which fleurs-de-lis with silver threads were woven, and it will not be a surprise to see these silvery veils next winter in New York, where every good fashion gets a trial on its merits, says the New York Sun, from which these items and illustrations of bridal modes are gleaned.

All black hats of the picture order are being much worn by tall and graceful women, and one is of fine black chip, with no less than seven long ostrich feathers, all springing from one gold buckle and losing themselves in ordered confusion over brim and crown.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 8.—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle. Topic.—Work where Christ tells you to.—John xxi. 16.

The topic is illustrated in the topical reference by an incident in the life of Christ after His resurrection. It is the appearance of Christ to the seven disciples on the Galilean sea, where they had been fishing an entire night without success. Jesus appeared in the morning. He said to them, "Cast the net on the right side of the ship, and ye shall find." They cast, therefore, and now they were not able to draw it for the multitude of fishes. Here is an illustration of working where Christ said to work, and the result.

Where shall we work as Christians? What shall we do for Christ? Shall we preach the gospel? Shall we become foreign missionaries, or shall we stay in the home church, and, if so, what shall we consider our special duty and mission there? These are questions that often confront Christian people, nor are they always answered. Our topic gives us a safe principle to follow—work where Christ tells you to.

For many reasons we should work where Christ tells us to.

1. Because it is our duty. It is for Christ to command and for us to obey. He is our leader, our Captain, and the most important duty of the soldier is to obey the commands of his superior officer.

2. Obedience to Christ is a test of our love for Christ. Christ Himself said, "If ye love Me, keep My commandments." "If we love Christ, we are to show it doing what He wants us to do." 3. Christ knows best where the work should be done and what we are capable of doing. The officer always has a wider vision than the private. His opportunities for superior knowledge are greater. Christ's vision is greater than ours. The disciples had failed. When they did what He told them to do, they succeeded beyond all expectations. Success, therefore, depends upon obedience to Christ.

But how may we know where Christ wants us to work? He cannot tell us, as He did His disciples of old, and yet He does give us leadings in the matter.

1. Ability should assist us to decide. If Christ has not given us ability to do a certain kind of work, we may rest assured that He does not want us to do it. 2. Opportunity should be looked upon as a command from Christ. Christian opportunity is Christian duty. The helplessness and need of the man who had fallen among thieves was a command of Christ to those who passed by Him. 3. The study of God's word will assist us in deciding when Christ wants us to work and what He wants us to do.

Let us do our best to discover where Christ wants us to work, and then let us do His work. "Where duty calls or danger, be never wanting there."

Literature and Religion.

In vain do we search for true and soul saving religion among the most brilliant writers of the day. In too many of them we encounter only bitter hostility and unbelief. Therefore when a prominent writer acknowledges the superintending care of God in honest, vigorous terms the Christian world is surprised into thinking that he is on the side of truth, and especially when he is at the same time one whose voice is for progress and the development of the race upon natural lines. Mr. Kipling has got beyond many literary men in publicly acknowledging the dependence of Great Britain upon a superintending Providence. May his recent experience be so blessed to him that he may attain to truths of which as yet his writings are silent.—Episcopal Recorder.

Keep in Touch With the World.

Men grow narrow because they do not live in sympathy with the times. They grow hard because they keep the world outside. They lose in spiritual force because they keep that force under in their daily life. Every day witnesses to the life lived the preceding day. This must be so, for life is cumulative either in good or evil. There is no blank. Consciously or unconsciously, this force is working for good or evil. Stagnation is death. When we realize this to the full, we strive to compel attainment. When we look upon each day as a period by itself, we become the playthings of time.—Christian Union.

Pleasing Others.

The best rule is to take people as you find them and make the most of your opportunity to please them in some sort of fashion. There are so many ways to accomplish this—by attentions, thoughtful suggestions, pious undertakings, all of which being saturated with the milk of human kindness cannot fail of bringing a result which will be satisfactory. When we learn to live to please others, we shall reap the largest harvest of pleasure for ourselves by imitating our Lord and Master, who went about doing good to the souls and bodies of men.—Philadelphia Methodist.

The Harm of Genius.

Genius as a model is liable to produce harm. One might as well attempt to discourse upon the sun to a convention of lantern makers. Work hard as they may, there will always be a painful contrast between their art and noon-day. Perfection sermons do no good. They only deceive the susceptible and self righteous.—Presbyterian Journal.

Character and Color of Thought.

The quality and fineness of a man's nature is to be determined not so much by his occupation or by the dialect or the grammar of his conversation as by the character and color of the thought to which he gives expression.—Methodist Recorder.

BATTLESHIP
RIVALRY.

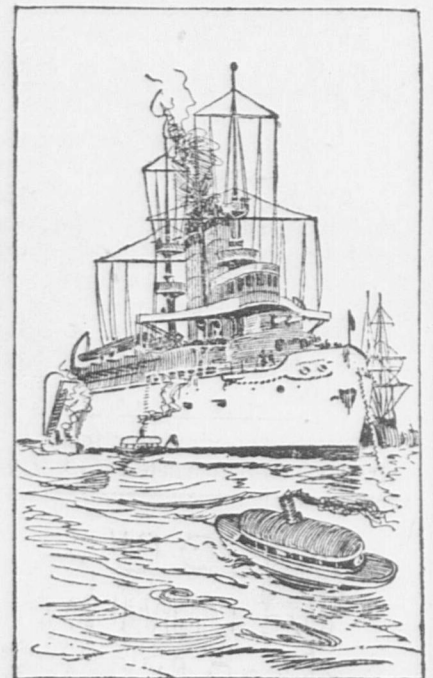

How Uncle Sam
And John Bull
Are Striving to Build
The Best Naval Fighting Machines.

BY LIEUTENANT H. R. GAHAN.

In spite of the very cordial official relations now existing between Uncle Sam and John Bull, the rivalry between their respective naval establishments is just as sharp as ever.

The splendid record made by our navy in the Spanish war and the impetus given to the building of a newer and greater navy as a consequence have alarmed the British admiralty. The English see that if Britain is to continue to rule the wave they must keep pace with us or we shall forge to the front.

The most interesting comparison is to be made by putting the Kearsarge our newest battleship, side by side with the best that England can show. The mightiest of England's battleships do not excel the ship which we have built to replace the gallant old craft that laid her bones on Roncoeur five years ago.

It is a significant fact, too, that England has just laid down the keels of some new battleships which are intended to be a match not only for the Kearsarge, but for the Maine and Missouri, which are now in course of construction in American shipyards.

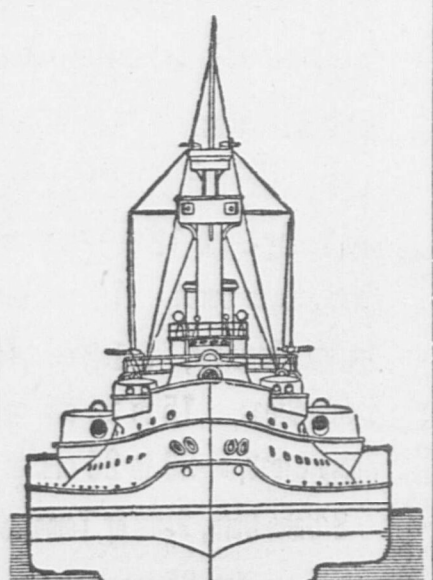

England has just discovered that she has been making a mistake in the construction of her biggest battleships. They draw too much water. Some of them require 30 feet. American builders have avoided this mistake. The new Kearsarge draws but 23 feet 6 inches, and the Maine and Missouri will have a like draft. The new British battleships will be built with a view of decreasing the draft without diminishing the amount of armor or armament.

The new batch of battleships which England is about to build as an offset to the Kearsarge, Maine and Missouri will be designed to carry the heaviest armor and the biggest guns on the lightest possible draft.

The enormous draft of the majority of England's war vessels precludes to a great extent the use of those ships in American waters. With the exception of three or four ports on the Atlantic coast—and then only at high water—and two ports on the Pacific coast, England's leviathans are effectually barred from entering United States waters.

The British admiralty officials now claim that their new battleships will draw less water than any similar ships afloat, and that in point of speed and battery power the new craft will excel any vessels in existence or in process of construction anywhere.

In the new British battleship the designs, it is said, first call for a hull proper with very pronounced sloping sides. Around this hull will be placed

after turrets are four 13 inch guns, and in the superimposed turrets above are four 8 inch guns. The four guns of either of these turrets may be concentrated on a single target and fired simultaneously by one man. Then look out for trouble for the enemy. The force of the shock of this mighty discharge would send one of the 13,580 pound batters of the battleship flying overboard if it happened to be on the deck near the turrets in the line of fire.

In the matter of protection the Kearsarge is well equipped. Along the water line there is a side armor belt of a maximum thickness of 10½ inches, with a mean depth of 7½ feet, so disposed in reference to the load line that the vessel, with 410 tons of coal on board, has 3½ feet of this belt armor above water and with 1,210 tons of coal on board has two feet above the load line.

In addition to the armor belt, cofferdams filled with compressed fireproof American corn pith cellulose have been worked the entire length of the vessel in the region of the water line.

As to speed, the Kearsarge has just shown what she can do under medium forced draft. It is said that the new English battleships are expected to show a speed of nearly 19 knots. It must be remembered, however, that England and all other foreign naval powers make the speed tests of new warships under full forced draft and the most favorable conditions.

On paper our battleships may seem slower than those of England. The Oregon was supposed to be several knots slower than the ships of Cervera's squadron, yet the Spanish ships were readily overhauled in that memorable race out of Santiago harbor.

This is the present condition of the battleship building contest. We began with a big handicap, but we have been improving wonderfully of late. Now we think we can build just as good ships as our dear friend John Bull, if not a little better.

BOERS' CALL TO ARMS.

How Kruger's Burgers Are Summoned to Defend the Republic.

The Boer method of calling the burghers to arms is a strikingly primitive one, but effective none the less. In each district there is an officer known as the field cornet. When it becomes necessary to call upon the burghers for armed service, he mounts his horse and rides hard and fast from kraal to kraal, serving the formal notices.

This call the burghers obey at once. There can be no excuse save that of serious illness. Mounted and fortified against hunger for ten days by a supply of buck or beef, cured in the sun and called "biltong," the burghers concentrate in the specified "dorp," or village, where they invariably meet in the market place, the church, iron gated iron steeple, in the background. Arms are distributed to those who are without them, and, as for forage, the veldt is trusted to supply it at need.

The commandant, who is the Dutch equivalent of the English colonel, drills his forces as best he may, and a certain amount of military discipline is easily acquired, despite the rather slouching appearance, due in part to the absence of uniforms, except in the case of the commandants, the other officers and the "state artillery."

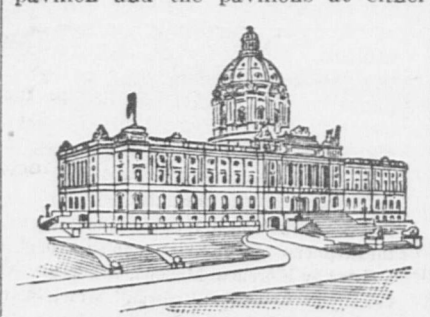

The call of a commandant is not now binding on an outlander, as the Boer authorities at one time designed that it should be, but when the outlander takes the oath and the franchise, as now proposed, his immunity will cease.

A FINE WHITE CAPITOL.

Minnesota is Building One of Georgia Marble.

With the exception of the granite foundations the entire building is to be of pure white Georgia marble. This marble is almost pure carbonate of lime, of a brilliant crystalline texture, marked by blue veins for the most part vigorous. Here and there appears a delicate cloud of gray, making the general aspect of the rock exceedingly rich and beautiful. Professor Blunckli of Zurich, who visited the capitol recently, declared that this Georgia marble possessed a beauty unsurpassed by any similar product of the quarries of Italy.

The principal facade of the capitol looks toward the south. This front is 435 feet long, exclusive of the approaches, the entrance and the steps. The only interruptions in this noble line of marble are the main central pavilion and the pavilions at either end. The central pavilion is adorned with a magnificent colonnade forming the front of a deep loggia. The upper part of the colonnade is adorned with sculpture, the central feature of which is a quadriga typifying the progress of the state. The quadriga is placed at the top of the pavilion and forms its crowning feature. Supporting the quadriga on either side are placed symbolical groups, and on the broad attic below the quadriga is a series of six figures symbolizing the attributes of humanity which make for the progress of the state.

The sculpture at either end of the building will be typical of the uses of the portion of the building upon which they are placed. All figures above the roof line are of bronze. Those projected against the building are to be of white marble, in unison with the body of the building.

One of Woman's Fads.

Flat looking, like shopping, fills up much of the time of the woman who has little to do and who lives in an apartment house. She seldom intends really to make a change into the houses that she visits on her flat hunting trips. But there is something fascinating to her in the newest and most improved houses, and she visits them all. It's just a manifestation of curiosity, but the woman who becomes confirmed in the habit enjoys herself thoroughly that way. She is serious all the time she is looking and free in her criticisms.—New York Sun.

NEW IMMIGRANT DEPOT

Finest Station In the World is Planned.

ELLIS ISLAND TO BE TRANSFORMED

Beauty, Utility and Stability Are to Be Combined in All the Structures. Improvements Will Cost $1,000,000. Accommodations For 4,000 Immigrants Are to Be Provided.

A firm of architects in New York city recently received from Secretary of the Treasury Lyman J. Gage the plans accepted by the government for improving Ellis Island and building the finest immigrant station in the world.

The appropriation was fixed at $600,000 by congress, and the estimated cost of the improvements is $1,000,000. Secretary Gage does not anticipate trouble in having the appropriation increased to meet the requirements of the plans, which have been prepared to meet all the exigencies which experience has taught may arise in handling the immigrants arriving at New York.

By the general plans every part of the 20 acres on the island will be rendered useful or attractive. The section set apart for the new hospital is ready for the building, a water main has been laid from Jersey City and a telegraph cable from Governors Island. The structures to be erected comprise the main building for the admission, classification, examination and discharge of immigrants, which has already been started; bathhouse and laundry, restaurant and kitchen, hospital with 80 beds, surgeon's residence, hospital outbuilding, with disinfecting plant; morgue, large power house, ferry house, large covered porch for reception of arrivals, covered passageway connecting all departments and carrying steam and water pipes, electric wires and other appliances from the power plant to all buildings.

The main building will be a dignified fireproof structure in a rather free adaptation of the French renaissance, constructed of brick trimmed with light stone. The frontage will be 300 feet, the depth 106 feet and the height 62 feet. The tower will be 100 feet high. The bathhouse will be 64 by 100 feet, with large shower bath, laundries and barber shop. The kitchen and laundry will have accommodations for feeding detained immigrants, with public dining rooms. The building will be 100 by 44 feet. The power house will be 150 by 75 feet, containing coal bins, boiler, pump, tank and dynamo rooms, office, a disinfecting plant in which clothing will be purified, machinery to generate the steam and light and heat the entire island, and a refrigerating plant and water filters. The surgeon's house will be complete with ten rooms and have all modern conveniences. The covered way will establish the lines of intercommunication between all buildings, so arranged as to facilitate supervision. The exteriors of the structures will be modern and fireproof throughout, composed of noncombustible, nonabsorbent materials. The masonry will be of brick and limestone, the roofs of tile and copper.

The best sanitary plumbing will prevail throughout. A system of ventilation will purify the air everywhere by means of four large exhaust fans in the vent towers and four fans to attract fresh air within. The interiors will be plain. The floors will be generally of asphalt paving, the walls of Keene cement and the woodwork of white oak. Outside windows and skylights will be ample for day lighting. The big dock basin will extend almost across the island, and about it will be grouped the big structures. A lighthouse of a highly ornamented character will guard the entrance on one side and the surgeon's house on the other. To the right will be the main building, its ornamental glazed porch extending down to the dock; to the left the hospital. Toward the ferry slip will be the bathhouse and restaurant on the right and the hospital outbuilding on the left.

There will be accommodations for 4,000 immigrants, who are as semi-prisoners, to be kept free from all outside interference until they have passed through the various examinations satisfactorily. The immigrants will be taken from steamships on barges, and men and women will be separated in a large assembly room in the main building. They will gather in inclosures and be conducted singly to the chief surgeon's office, where they will be subjected to physical examination, and those that are not detained will be registered and discharged. Railroad and other transportation lines will have separate offices, and in the rear of the general passenger room will be baggage room, lunch counter, and on the opposite side will be an amphitheater for waiting friends, an information bureau and telegraph office.

There will be a special room for detained immigrants, which will have iron gratings at the windows, resembling a prison, and these persons will not be permitted to communicate with outsiders. There will be a special room also for contract labor suspects. The general dormitories for detained persons will be on the second and third floors of the main building, with accommodations for 1,400 immigrants.

The commissioner's office will be on the second floor, and near the main office will be the medical examination department, laboratories and the offices of the treasurer, chief engineer, statistician, chief inspector and contract labor bureau. On the ground floor will be the rooms for the custom house officials, missionaries, scrub women, matrons, janitor and a fireproof storage apartment.

Letter from New York.

The following letter has been received by Miss A. L. Prescott from a friend who is stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, and who writes interestingly of the Dewey celebration.

New York, Oct. 5, 1899.

We had a steam yacht in the great Dewey naval parade and went down to Tompkinsville. It was a grand sight when the Olympia started up the bay. Every whistle in New York blew for five minutes and the yachts fell in line behind the squadron.

The next day we had a fine place on the Riverside drive for the military parade. It was right opposite where the Olympia was anchored. When Dewey reached our stand my friend and I stepped down and presented him with a huge bouquet of white roses. It was the first bouquet he had received. You ought to have heard the cheers that went up from the multitude. It was a sight!

In the evening we were invited to the Riverside drive to see the fleet illuminated. It was a grand sight.

We next saw Dewey here at the hotel, the Waldorf. I sent him a note asking if we could go aboard the Olympia and he sent Lieut. Brunsby to us on Monday morning and in the afternoon we went on the flagship. We were beautifully entertained and were shown over the ship by Charles Mitchell, the bugler whose bugle sounded the first notes of the battle of Manila. We came home with all kinds of souvenirs.

The sailors were all entertained here at a smoker at the Waldorf. To their credit it must be said that they, to a man, behaved like gentlemen.

The Waldorf is full of people from Boston; over here for the cup races.

Every one here is much amused at Dewey's promptness. He was ahead of time everywhere. He got the servants at the hotel here, up at half-past four Sunday morning for his coffee and eggs. It was a surprise party for New York servants you may be sure.

TODAY'S COURT.

John P. Burns was arraigned for keeping a liquor nuisance at Randolph. Case continued for two weeks.

Frank Ronke was fined $5 for drunkenness at Braintree.

The case of John Hanley for non-support at Weymouth was called, and he was discharged.

William Gardie was arraigned for being a common brawler at Braintree. Case continued until next Monday.

The case of James T. Maguire of Weymouth was called and continued for another week.

The case of Edward P. Ellison, for violation of the liquor law at Quincy, was continued for another week.

The case of George T. Kelly for embezzlement from John Downs at the National Sailors' Home was heard.

The court found probable cause to believe Kelly guilty and held him in $400 for the grand jury.

The continued case of Joseph F. Simpson, for the illegal keeping of liquor at Quincy, was heard and then continued until next Thursday for judgment.

The fourteenth annual meeting of the "New England association of colleges and preparatory" schools will be held in the Fogg Art Museum, Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass., on Friday and Saturday, October 13 and 14. Friday afternoon there will be discussions opened by Dr. William Gallagher of Thayer Academy; Dean Agnes Irwin of Radcliffe; and Prof. Mary W. Calkins of Wellesley college.

Charlie Gage is the last member of the Broncho club to purchase a pony. Charlie went down Providence, R. I., Sunday and rode his new beast home.

The superintendent of the public schools, Mr. Irving W. Horne, mourns the loss of a brother, Rev. John R. Horne, Jr. He returned from the funeral in Maine on Thursday evening.

A delegation of painters employed by the N. Y., N. H. and H. R. R. has been very busy at the Braintree depot this week. They are painting all the buildings, etc., and it is a welcomed improvement.

The Ladies' Aid society of the South M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. L. A. Hollis, Taylor street, Wednesday afternoon. The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. E. A. Fisher; Vice President, Mrs. Vernon Heath; Secretary Mrs. A. A. Cook; Treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Cobb; Directors, Mrs. P. J. Chandler.

Gen. Sylvanus Thayer Post, No. 87, G. A. R., and the Woman's Relief Corps connected with the post, will hold a grand fair in the Town Hall November 14-18. The Post held a conference with the Corps in Grand Army hall, Saturday evening. The Corps will choose a committee in the near future to make arrangements for the fair. The Post committee are Henry A. Monk, chairman; E. R. Gustin, Charles G. Anderson, Morrill Williams, John Barbour, William Gage and Michael Preston.

Mr. Thomas Kelley and family have moved into Mrs. J. E. Marland's house on Franklin street.

All the gunning stands at Great pond have had great luck this week. The wild fowl have been flying very thick.

The Socialist meeting, which was to have been held Sunday in Red Men's hall, has been declared off. But Thomas R. Fitch will speak tomorrow from the steps of his store in Rosendfield block, at 2.30 P. M. Everybody is invited to attend.

The teachers of the Union school will make Monday their semi-annual visiting day.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Levaugie on Pond street, was the scene of a merry party Thursday evening. About thirty-five of their friends were present and the evening was spent in dancing, playing games, etc.

Mr. George T. Dee, operator in the South Station, Boston, is enjoying a trip to New York city this week.

The cellar for the new family residence of Michael Levaugie was started on Monday. Charles Delano has the contract for the whole building.

Charles Brigham and staff of Nahant tribe, I. O. R. M., will promote the chiefs of the Wollaston tribe in the latter place the 19th of this month.

The J. B. Poore estate, on Middle street, has been sold by H. E. Vinton & Co. to E. W. Chamberlain from Lowell street, Somerville. Mr. Chamberlain is married, has one child, and is employed as clerk in the Commercial National Bank in the Chamber of Commerce building, Boston.

The first regular meeting of the Jonas Perkins School Association was held last Tuesday evening. A programme for the season was adopted. The next meeting will be held at the Misses Macgregor's on Tuesday, Oct. 17th. Mrs. Loring gives the members of the Association a chowder party at their cottage at Fort Point today.

The pension of Amasa Lacky of this town has just been increased from $16 to $17.

Miss Elsie Dickey of Braintree is substituting in the office of George H. Brown, Quincy, while the clerk is taking her vacation.

The second team of the Thayer academy and the High school team, in their foot ball game Thursday, finished without scoring on either side.

The house occupied by Mr. West-take on Quincy avenue at East Braintree near the Weymouth line, was damaged $1,000 by fire yesterday afternoon. There was also a loss of about $400 on furniture on which there was no insurance.

Keith's Theatre.

The programme at Keith's Boston theatre for the week of Oct. 9 will be one of the kind that has something in it to suit the tastes of all theatregoers. Hugh Stanton an excellent actor, assisted by Florence Modona, will present the comedy sketch, "For Reform" which is new to this house, but has received much praise from the critics in other cities. Edwin Latell, a popular blackface musical comedian, who has just returned from London, where he made a big hit in the music halls, will make his appearance; Valmore, widely known by the title of "instrumental man," because of his wonderful imitations of various musical instruments, is another strong card, and the O'Learys, European comedy acrobats, who made a pronounced hit this week will be retained. Blanche Ring, a Boston girl, who is credited with having made a pronounced success in the variety houses in New York, to sing ballads, Melville and Stone, vocalists and comedians; the Willett-Thorne farceurs, in a laughable farical sketch; Whalen and Clark, dancers and singers; and Foy and Doyle, comedians, are others on the list. The biograph will have its usual instalment of new and interesting motion pictures, including the Dewey naval and land parade in New York, the international yacht races, etc., and a splendid lot of travel pictures will be shown by the stereopticon.

Castle Square Theatre.

The management of the Castle Square theatre will offer an elaborate production of the Har-kins and Barbour version of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" as the attraction at this house the coming week. This version of the old play is the most recent adaptation of the famous novel which stirred the nation so thoroughly in the last generation, and it introduces a series of scenes showing "life among the lowly," which have a strong attraction even at this day when the situations shown by Mrs. Stowe in her world famous novel have changed so greatly. Many novel and effective mechanical and scenic effects will be introduced in the coming production, and extra people have been engaged to give a realistic effect in the plantation scenes. The cast will include nearly every member of the Castle Square company, with Tony Cummings as Uncle Tom.

A PALACE ON WHEELS.

Special Train in Which President Diaz of the Mexican Republic Will Visit Chicago.

By Howard Spence Sinclair.

When President Diaz of Mexico visits Chicago on Oct. 9 as a guest at the autumn festival in that city, he will arrive in royal state. The president of the Mexican republic travels in his own special train. So does Queen Victoria. So do some of our railroad magnates. But neither Victoria nor the Vanderbilts have a finer train than the one which the Mexican republic presented to its chief executive a little over a year ago.

It is a train de luxe, with all that this overworked term implies. It consists of two cars. One is a dining car, and the other is a combined parlor and sleeping car. These were made to order for the Mexican government in the United States, and the builders were not limited in the matter of expense. They were told to make the finest cars they knew how to produce, and they did it.

In the parlor sleeper there are several rooms. There are President Diaz's chamber and a room for Mrs. Diaz. There are also a reception room and a large parlor. There are bathrooms furnished as luxuriously as those to be found in any city mansion.

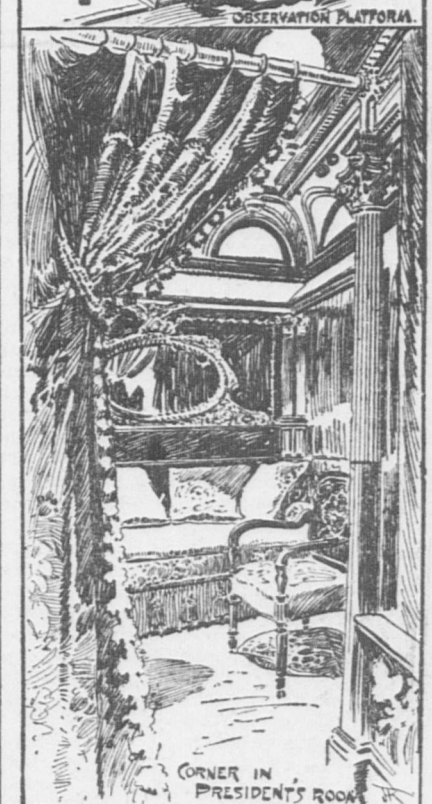

Everywhere about the cars there are panels of beautiful and costly woods and a profusion of mirrors. The upholstery, the hangings and all the decorations are of the richest.

The two cars form a sort of condensed palace, and they represent the acme of railroad comfort. In them the ordinary fatigues of travel are almost entirely avoided. The elaborate system of springs reduces the vibration to a minimum, while the complicated buffers take up most of the jars from sudden stops and starts. While the interior of the cars is ornate the exterior is severely plain. Beyond the extraordinary length of the cars there is nothing to indicate that they are the property of the Mexican autocrat, except the side panels bearing the coat of arms of the republic.

This will not be the first visit of President Diaz to the United States. Twice he came an exile and once while governor of his native state after he had served his first term as president. The firmness and security of his position are seen in his willingness to leave his country. It is not so long ago that a Mexican president who would have done that would have found himself on his return to his country a statesman without a job.

One reason for the undoubted security of his position lies in the close attention he has paid to the army during his five terms as president. Under his guidance the army has attained the highest degree of discipline and efficiency. A part of his plan of reorganization has been to retain and promote only those officers who displayed qualifications for discipline, who observed their requirements themselves and insisted upon it in others. Officers who were merely brave, but who were lacking in appreciation and practice of discipline, were weeded out. The result is one of the best disciplined military forces in the world.

In the old days Mexican revolutions were begun by military commanders, whose troops joined in the movement. Under Diaz revolts in the army are unknown, and as it is loyal to the central government revolts by anybody else are hardly possible. General Torres' recent success against the Yaquis has been due to the discipline imposed upon the army by Diaz.

Milkman Kelley Put in No Defence This Morning.

The case of John T. Kelley, driver of the milk team of the National Sailors' Home, for the embezzlement of $150 was heard in the District court this morning. John Downs, superintendent of the home testified to Kelley's duties, one of which was to deliver milk. He also testified to seeing him deliver a can of milk Sept. 13, to John Delaney.

Albert R. Lockhart, a private detective, testified to following Kelley Sept. 28, and to seeing him deliver a can of milk at Delaney's house.

Mrs. Delaney testified to taking milk occasionally of Kelley and to paying him for it.

Mr. Downs when recalled exhibited his books and in no case did the name of Delaney appear. It was part of Kelley's duty to report each day the sums of money received by him and from whom. These were recorded. He had no recollection or record of any sales or any money received from Delaney.

The defence offered no testimony and the court finding probable cause to believe Kelley guilty held in $400 for the grand jury.

—Brooklyn has ten thousand children of school age for whom there are no school accommodations. Half day sessions are resorted to, so that twenty thousand children in the great city are getting but half the training they should receive. The question of providing school accommodations is getting to be a problem that is taxing many minds in many cities.—Brockton Enterprise.

"After having a mishap, I suffered with pain in my left side and a lingering cough which grew worse and worse," writes Mrs. Cora Brooks, of Martin, Franklin County, Georgia. "Last spring I got past doing anything and my husband went to the drug store and called for Wine of C—, and the merchant recommended Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, so he bought one bottle. I began to take it as directed in the pamphlet wrapped around the bottle. The book said if the disease was complicated with cough to take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription' alternately, and Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, on rising every morning. Mr. Brooks went back to the drug store and got the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and I took it as directed. The cough left me at once and I began to get better so rapidly my husband was astonished at my improvement. I am now able to work on the farm and also do the washing for two families."

THE CUP IN DANGER.

Shamrock's Work Shocks the Adherents of Columbia.

Improves With Every Race
She Engages In.

Saturday's Race Turned Out to Be Another Disappointment.

An Agreement to Fight It Out Daily, Beginning With Next Thursday.

New York, Oct. 9.—Three times the America's cup racers have started against each other, and three times have they failed to sail the 30 knots within the time limit of 5½ hours. Let the truth be told, three times Shamrock, so far as the yachts sailed, has had the best of it when the race was called off. Three times she has out sailed Columbia, picking the weather as it comes, and this at a time when she was not up to rare racing form, because of her lack of tuning up on this side.

By a mutual agreement between the representatives of the New York Yacht club and the Royal Ulster Yacht club, Columbia and Shamrock will sail every day after next Thursday until the question of international yachting supremacy is established.

The request for such an arrangement came from Sir Thomas Lipton. Sir Thomas wanted the races to be sailed daily after next Tuesday, but the members of the New York Yacht club refused to assent to such an arrangement. The meeting at which the above arrangement for a change of dates was reached was held at the New York Yacht club yesterday.

Each side is still confident, but it must be admitted that the backers of the green boat are showing the most hope. They say that they know what she can do in heavy weather. It only required these days of drift to convince them that she was just as good in light air. The whole Shamrock contingent is a happy one, and there is no one to begrudge them their pleasant moments.

The Columbia people are not happy by any means. On the contrary they still confidently assert that, of course, the cup stays. But they have been shocked, and they have been shocked in a most decisive manner. They know more than this, but they are not telling what it is.

Leaving entirely out of the question American pride in the American boat, all true sportsmen are rejoicing. Here is a contest worth having. Here is a yacht race that is worth all the money that has been spent, all the time and care that have been given. It is a great struggle, and no man can name the winner.

The opinion is quite general that there was something in Saturday's racing by which a line could be drawn on the merits of the boats. There was wind enough for a couple of hours to furnish a test, the first real test of the week, and while it lasted and the boats were under equal conditions, the Shamrock did the better work.

That is the reason for the rise in Shamrock stock. She is good in a beat before the wind. She is good in a beat to windward. What she will do in a reach is undecided, but the impressions are against her on this point of sailing.

The third attempt to sail the first race of the Shamrock-Columbia series for the international trophy ended in failure. The race was declared off 15 minutes before the time limit expired, with the yachts still five miles from the finish.

The vast throngs who went down to the sea to witness the battle royal were in a magnificent light-weather duel. As on the two previous days the course was laid 15 miles dead before the wind and return. So evenly matched were the racers that they rounded the outer mark almost neck and neck, and finished after a three-hour stretch to windward with Columbia's nose a length in front and in the weather position.

As a result of Saturday's struggle and those of Tuesday and Thursday, the talent are a good deal confounded. Some of them differ as to the merits of the two boats, but they seem unanimous upon two things, first, that Shamrock is the ablest boat that ever crossed the ocean to lift the mud, and, second, that she is more ably handled than the defender. The superior seamanship of Captain Harrington and his English crew was demonstrated at several critical points in the race Saturday, though to Captain Barr and Mr. Iselin belong the credit of executing as brilliant and daring a piece of seamanship as was ever witnessed in a yacht race.

Shamrock did undeniably better work to windward. She carved her way up into the wind in astonishing style. But Columbia seemed to be able to more than make up in footing what she lost in pointing.

Columbia had all the better of the start. She bounded across the line with mainsail, club-topsail and staysail, drawing spinnaker down to starboard ready for the race before the wind, and 10 seconds later her balloon jib broke out. Shamrock went over the line 17 seconds later with the same sail.

The English skipper luffed up to run through the Yankee's lee for the weather gauge. Captain Barr tried to head off the movement by luffing also. This sent both boats off at almost right angles to the course, straight in for the Jersey coast, and straight for the mod estab-

sels gathered to the right of the line. The torpedo boats charged down upon them to clear the way for the yachts. Never was there such a scampering of ships, and several serious collisions were narrowly averted.

Shamrock got the better of the luffing match, blanketing her rival and getting to windward of her. Then, when both had squared off on their course and let go their spinnakers, thousands waited and watched. Slowly Columbia drew away, despite Shamrock's repeated efforts to blanket her. She had established a comfortable lead when the breath lightened, and hauled more to the northward. Wrinkles began to trickle down the sides of Columbia's balloons, and several times all three sails collapsed.

Shamrock profited by the seemingly light air and began to crawl up. Captain Hogarth took in Shamrock's spinnaker when the mark was sighted, gybed the Shamrock and trimmed down the balloon jib top-sail rapidly, and, with everything drawing splendidly, he was luffing up towards Columbia.

Captain Barr followed suit, but Shamrock had passed him well to windward. Captain Hogarth then set his spinnaker to port, and increased the lead. Captain Barr waited almost 15 minutes, while Shamrock passed him, before he followed suit. Shamrock was a hundred yards ahead before he had got his sails trimmed to the new conditions.

Soon afterward, the wind hauled around still further, making it a broad reach to the mark. Both took in their spinnakers and eased their sheets. Then Columbia gained steadily. The yachts were now about a mile and a half from the outer mark. Steamers, tugs and yachts hurried across the course, and lined up to leeward, waiting to see which would go around the mark first.

Columbia rapidly ate up the distance between her and Shamrock until when the mark was but a quarter of a mile away less than half a mile separated them. Shamrock was to windward 100 feet away and Columbia had closed the gap. Her prow just lapped Shamrock's stern.

Under the rules they must pass the float with the red ball on the starboard side. As the balloon jib rattled down on both boats preparatory to the gybe it did not seem possible that Columbia could squeeze in between the mark and Shamrock. It seemed inevitable that unless the Yankee boat kept away under the stern of Shamrock there would be a collision, or Columbia would force the float.

But Mr. Iselin played the limit. On he came, forcing Shamrock to go wide around, while Columbia seemed to scrape the float as she wore about with her helm hard down.

Though Shamrock rounded first by nine seconds, she swept around so far on the outside that as both boats came up and their sails filled away on the starboard tack Columbia not only had the weather gauge, but was in the lead. No more reckless piece of courage was ever seen in an international race. Had Columbia so much as touched the float she would have been disqualified.

A few minutes later, after a few short tacks, Shamrock tried to cross the defensive bows, but failed. The beat to windward was by far the most interesting portion of the race while the breeze lasted. Close hauled, the two yachts slashed straight out to sea through the long, heavy swell, heeling to the breeze with crews piled up on the weather rail.

There was plenty of spray and every man aboard was as wet as if he had been under a shower bath. Columbia careened less to the wind than her rival. As the wind began to die out and hope of finishing the race began to vanish, the two boats split tacks and did not come together again for a long time, keeping every one guessing as to which was ahead. During this lull period everybody agreed that Shamrock was the better boat.

Twenty minutes before the race was declared off Shamrock headed across Columbia's bow. No one knew until the yachts were within 100 feet of each other which would have to give away. When Shamrock put her helm up, unable to make it from both sides of the course came the shrieks of thousands of whistles, the shouts of multitudes and the crash of bands.

The yachts sailed the last 20 minutes neck and neck, but with Columbia to windward perhaps half a length ahead. When the race was declared off and the excursion fleet started home-ward, Columbia's crew stripped the mainsail from the boom and gaff while she was being towed into the Horseshoe.

General Schwan's Column Ad- vances From Bacoor.

Two Towns Captured in a Battle in Which the Naval Forces Figured.

Manila, Oct. 9.—Aguinaldo, in a proclamation announcing the release of American prisoners and authorizing Filipino soldiers in the northern provinces to return to their homes, says:

"In America there is a great party that insists on the government recognizing Filipino independence. That party will compel the United States to fulfill the promises made to us in all solemnity and good faith, though not put in writing."

"Therefore, we must show our gratitude and maintain our position more resolutely than ever. We should pray to God that the great Democratic party may win the next presidential election and imperialism fall in its attempt to subjugate us by force of arms. There are some Americans in the Philippines who have joined us, because they disapprove of a war which Mr. Atkinson calls criminal aggression. When offered a chance to return to their own camp, they declined."

Throughout the proclamation, Aguinaldo denounces "the imperialists," instead of "the Americans," as in former documents. He calls the world to witness that the Filipinos have not broken "the alliance made with the Americans through Admiral Dewey and the United States consuls at Hong Kong and Singapore."

The people, on seeing the American prisoners, cried out: "We do not want war against the United States. We only defend our independence against the imperialists. The sons of that mighty nation are our friends and brothers."

General Schwan's column advanced from Bacoor Sunday and occupied Cavite Viejo and Novleta.

The American loss was three officers and nine privates wounded, one of the officers being mortally hurt. The loss of the enemy is unknown, but the bodies of three Filipinos were seen.

There were two sharp fights near Novleta. Lowe's scouts first encountered the enemy near Cavite Viejo, and then led them to fight, continuing their advance.

Captain Safford's battalion of the Thirteenth regiment, with two companies of the Fourteenth, a number of Tagalo scouts, Captain McGrath commanding the troops from the north cavalry, and Captain Reilly's battery came upon the enemy in a strongly entrenched position on the road between Cavite Viejo and Novleta. A fight lasting half an hour followed, resulting in the enemy being driven back. The American forces sustained considerable losses in this engagement, the men being shot from trenches and snags along the road. The column then pressed on to Novleta, which they found deserted.

The marines and naval forces co-operated with the troops. The runabouts Wheeling, Petrel and Callao lay off the shore near Novleta, and threw shells into that town and Santa Cruz for an hour, preparing the way for the marines to land. Two battalions, consisting of 400 marines, under Colonel Elliott, advanced along the peninsula from Cavite to Novleta. The only way was by means of a narrow road through swamps. A mile beyond the marines' outpost the column was suddenly relieved with a volley from trenches across the road. A flank movement was executed, and the insurgents were driven from the trenches, the marines wading through rice fields in turning the flank of the enemy, who retreated to sand forts across the creek dividing the peninsula, destroying the bridge across the stream. The marines waded through more rice fields, forced the river through water to their shoulders, and carried the forts, meeting with feeble resistance, the first encounter having disheartened the enemy. Squads were sent to Novleta, and burned the town and the huts along the road from which the enemy commenced the firing. There a junction was formed with the scouts, who had been sweeping the swamps and thickets. Then the marines returned to Cavite thoroughly exhausted.

Captain Cowles' battalion of the Fourth infantry, while reconnoitering Sunday, found a body of several hundred insurgents near San Nicolas. After a brisk fight, lasting three-quarters of an hour, the enemy was driven off. In this engagement the American casualties were four men slightly wounded. Six of the enemy were killed, but the number of wounded is not known.

The advance upon San Francisco de Malabon is continuing. General Schwan's advance guard entered Rosario this morning, meeting with slight resistance.

Big Check For Shoes.
Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 9.—What is believed to be the largest check ever received by any firm by any single order of shoes has been received by the Leathershire Manufacturing company, whose shoe factory is at Leathershire. This was from a western firm, which annually purchases about $1,500,000 worth of shoes of the company, and this single check was for $50,000.

Huris Boston Trade.
Boston, Oct. 9.—Four more steamers which sail from this port have been taken by the British admiralty for transports to carry troops to South Africa. They are the Winfredian, Columbian, Chicago and Oakmore. The withdrawal of four Cunarders is also announced. The loss of so many steamers from this port, it is feared, will seriously affect the trade.

Good Afternoon.

Housekeepers should keep their doors locked to keep out peddlers who are often sneak thieves.

Items of news which we would like to publish are daily consigned to the waste basket. We must know the author, or we don't want the news.

Drift of Opinion.

The managers of the Long Island
railroad have ordered their employees to address women passengers as "madame" and not as "lady," and not to lay their hands upon them unless
in an emergency to prevent accident.
Yet "lady" is better English than "madame," and quite unobjectionable,
when discreetly used. But the other practice is one which is better honored
in the breach than in the observance.
—New Bedford Standard.

We are over-educating our people until they are becoming as automatons with but one desire—to act in the search of pleasure. Man is robbing himself of true knowledge by stuffing himself with "book learnin'."
There was a time when men observed and reflected on what they saw. Then they were wise. Now they observe only what gives them passing pleasure at the expense of eternal happiness. It is going through earth life, but it is not living.—Fibre and Fabric.

Kansas has practically repudiated capital punishment, and as a consequence there are fewer murders and a better civilization in that state.
Whether or not a convict prefers death
to imprisonment has nothing to do with the duty of society, whose function it is to preserve and not destroy human life. The death penalty is cruel, wicked, barbarous and always unjustifiable. Its abrogation would contribute powerfully to the highest interests of humanity.—Troy Press.

The first electric road for city or suburban traffic was put in operation
a dozen years ago. At the present time there are more than 15,000 miles of such roads in the United States, representing a total investment of $800,000,000 and employing about 175, 500 persons. It is such a pity, though,
that we will persist in making our own rails and other materials entering into railway construction, when it would be so much nicer to buy them in Europe and save ourselves all the business annoyances incident to their manufacture.—Milford Journal.

The city government is bound to have another bond issue regardless of results, the money to be devoted to meeting current expenses. When private individuals fritter away their resources and resort to borrowing to meet the deficit they generally wind up in a court of bankruptcy. A municipality is but a collection of individuals, and when it pursues the same vicious policy the outcome must be the same in the end. Taxpayers, think of these things in time and make an emphatic demand that this city pay as it goes along. Any other policy is dangerous.—Haverhill Gazette.

In some sections of the state
there appears an alarming absence of those birds which feed upon bugs and beetles, the result being a serious damage to the lawns and fields. This loss is attributed to two causes: the use of Paris green on plants, which destroys birds as well as insects; and the brutal shooting of innocent birds

by boys who, following the example set them by many of their elders, seem never so happy as when killing something; while the song-birds vanish the pests are multiplying. Birds, as well as forests must be preserved, by statute and penalty if necessary, or serious calamities will result.—Clinton Item.

SILVER WEDDING.

Happy Milestone Reached by Councilman Hultman and Wife.

There was a pleasant gathering of a few of the many friends of Councilman
and Mrs. Eugene N. Hultman, Saturday evening, at their home on Washington street, at the celebration of their silver wedding anniversary.

It was on Oct. 7, 1874, in the city of Boston, surrounded by many relatives and friends that Miss Lydia C.
N. Bacon, a prominent society young lady of the South End district, became the bride of Eugene N. Hultman, a widely known sea captain of the old school. A few years later Capt. Hult-man retired from a sea faring life, and after devoting himself for a brief period, to mercantile pursuits, he gave up active business life, and about twelve years ago removed to Quincy with his family, where he has since made his home. The ties of love which bound these two loving hearts together have been cemented more closely together as the years have passed swiftly by, until now surrounded by their devoted children, two sons and a daughter, their cup of happiness is well high full. It was to commemorate the passing of the twenty-fifth milestone in their happy wedded life that a number of friends were bidden to their home on Washington street
Saturday evening. The spacious parlors were prettily decorated with ferns and cut flowers and Captain and Mrs. Hult-man were assisted in receiving by their son and daughter, Mr. Eugene C.
Hultman and Miss Alice B. Hultman.
Whist constituted the evening's diversion, and at the conclusion of the play, souvenirs for the best scores were awarded to Mrs. Charles W.
Garey of Quincy and Mr. William Wilcott of Dorchester.

A wedding supper was served by Cook of Boston, and it was at a late hour when the guests took their departure with many well wishes for continued health and happiness, and that they might be spared to celebrate their golden anniversary twenty-five years
hence.

Captain and Mrs. Hultman received a number of gifts from their friends.

Foster—Breed.

The Boston Herald reports a marriage of local interest, Mr. Foster formerly residing on Chestnut street:
The quaint old North church of Salem was the scene of a charming wedding on Tuesday evening when Miss Alice Breed the daughter of the late Hubbard Breed, was married to Henry Chase Foster, formerly of Quincy, now of New York. Miss Breed is one of the most popular girls in Salem's smart set and vice-regent of the North Bridge chapter D. R. The church was decorated with laurel and pine and filled with fashionable folk.
The bride was charming in white satin and duchesse lace. The maid of honor, Miss Mary Drake Foster of Colorado, a sister of the groom, wore pink crepe de chene. The bride was given away by her brother, Mr.
Nathaniel Breed. The best man was Mr. S. Arthur Bixbee of New York, and the ushers Messrs. Charles Archer and Clarence Evans of Salem, Edward and Hubbard Breed Mansfield of Wakefield, Arthur Hartich and Adolphus Jackson of New York.

A reception followed at the fine old Breed mansion on Federal street.
Among those there were Mr. and Mrs.
Jacob Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas
Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Johnson,
Mr. and Mrs. John Daland, Mr. and Mrs. John Hanson Osborn, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Monroe, Dr. and Mrs.
Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Price,
Mr. Arthur Goodrich, Miss Williams,
Mr. Arthur Pickering, Mr. George
Underwood, Miss Batchelder, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Lord, Miss Elene Foster,
Miss Bingham, Miss Bancroft, Miss
Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. William Symonds, Mr. George Felt, Miss Alice Lord, Miss Dodge, and Miss Bertha Taylor.

Mr. and Mrs. Foster will live in New York.

The troops will move over the following route in Boston on Saturday: Arlington to Beacon, to Charles,
to Boylston, to Tremont, to Winter,
to Summer, to High, to Congress, to Milk, to India, to State (north side of State House), to Washington, to School, to Beacon, passing in review before the commander-in-chief and Admiral Dewey at the State House, to Beacon street gate of Common, where troops will be massed and the colors of the Spanish war, carried by the commonwealth by the six regiments of Massachusetts infantry, U. S. V., will be officially turned over to the commonwealth.

Sunday, the old steamer John Brooks, formerly of the Portland Line, was burned on Apple Island, where she has lain ever since being abandoned by the company. The vessel was sold to junk dealers, who burned it in order to get the material, etc.

The Unitarians Society of West Roxbury which has worshipped in a chapel for a number of years will build a stone edifice on Corey street.

RIVERS AND SHEA.

The Former for Senator and Latter for State Committee

The First Norfolk Democratic Senatorial convention was held in the Council Chamber at City Hall, Saturday afternoon. Maurice Duffy of Milton called the convention to order,
after which David W. Murray of Hyde Park was elected as chairman and Peter B. Hand of Randolph as secretary. The committee on Credentials reported 23 delegates present.

Upon motion of Mr. Jenney of Hyde Park, George R. R. Rivers of Milton was nominated by acclamation for Senator.

In making his motion, Mr. Jenney said he was rejoiced to see so many that upheld the party principles.
A Democrat has been elected in this district and it was possible to do it this year. We have many Democrats who are not registered and if we can all pull together with a united effort
we can elect Mr. Rivers.

William T. Shea of Quincy was then elected a member of the State Committee, and the chairmen of the several town committees as a District Committee.

The convention officers were empowered to fill vacancies.
Remarks were made by William T.
Shea and John Cavanagh, and the convention adjourned.

Stolen Property Identified.

Mrs. Sargent and Mr. Hayward two of the parties who have been victims of sneak thieves who have been operating in Quincy, visited Jamaica Plain, Saturday, to see if they could identify any of the property found in the trunk of McClusky, the sneak thief arrested at that place. Mrs. Sargent identified the gold and silver watches and the opera glasses stolen from her,
but could not find the stick pins. Mr.
Hayward identified the gold neck chain and clasp, the gold cross, bar pin set with moonstones and a stick pin set with pearls. The money, $17.50 and another stick pin taken from his house were missing.

Mr. Bright of Wollaston was unable Sunday to find his two diamond rings, although he found one of his business cards, which makes it evident that McClusky was the man who robbed him.
There were several rings that he was unable to see when he visited the police station, and his property may be among them.

Golf Championship.

The play in the preliminary rounds
by the members of the Wollaston Golf club who qualified for the championship match, which has been going on during the past week, has resulted as follows:

Barker beat Pope 3 up, 2 to go.
Smith beat Bremer, 2 up 30 holes.
Monks beat Swatwont, 1 up.
Atherton beat C. M. Wright, 4 up,
2 to go.
Freeman beat Chipman, 10 up, 8 to go.
Cracknell beat Farrington, 3 up, 2 to
go.
Brock beat Lindsey, 1 up.
Porter beat Tarbell, 9 up, 7 to go.
It was a very close well played contest between Messrs. Brock and Lindsay on Saturday. On the first round Brock's score stood 47 and Lindsay's 48. They were tied on the second round, each making 45, leaving the gross score, Brock 92, Lindsey 93,
and Brock 1 up.
The second round will be played on Thursday by the following members:
Barker and Smith, Monks and Atherton, Freeman and Cracknell, Brock and Porter.

Bad for Harvard.

The Wollaston Golf team took the Harvard Golf club into camp Saturday, administering a crushing defeat. Only one of the Harvard men scored, and the totals were, Wollaston, 38; Harvard, 6,
as follows:

ship of the Wollaston Golf club will be played on Thursday.

The heavy taxpayers of the Wollaston ward will appear in the Ledger
Wednesday or Thursday.

An interesting stereoscopic lecture is promised at Wollaston Congregational church on Thursday evening by Miss Elizabeth Merriam.

Mr. Walter E. Loud gives his annual concert in Colonial hall, Wednesday evening, Oct. 25. The assisting artists will be announced later.

The new Robekah lodge at New Bedford will be known as Joseph York lodge in honor of the late Grand Instructor who lived at Wollaston.

Miss Abigail Adams was one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Rosamond Tador and Mr. Alexander
Henry Higginson in Trinity church,
Boston, at noon today.

Rev. W. R. Breed spoke Sunday evening on "The School of life." He viewed life more as an education than a probationary period. The text was from Psalm 94:12.

Miss Almira E. Simmons of Wollas-ton is one of the aids at a whist party
to be given in Legion of Honor hall, Boston, Oct. 27, in aid of the flower
table of the Country Fair.

Grand Vice Dictator of the Knights of Honor, will visit Braintree lodge of South Braintree on Wednesday evening, and Anawan lodge at New Bedford on Oct. 16.

Mrs. Mary J. De Lue died suddenly on Saturday of cerebral hemorrhage at the residence of her daughter, Mrs.
Henry Smith of Wollaston avenue.
Mrs. De Lue was well advanced in years, having been born at Philadelphia
in 1821.

J. W. Gorman's Alabama Trouba-dours which will be at Music hall next Friday, night is without doubt the best troupe of Plantation Darkies ever got together, to see their street parade is worth losing your dinner. Tickets now on sale at Durgin's 25, 35, 50 cents.

The night officer at City Square or a special officer should be detailed to visit Presidents bridge on Adams street for a few evenings and at least occasionally. Only Saturday night a woman sought protection at Mrs.
Moran's near the bridge because of a gang of hoodlums.

Five fellows came out from Boston on the late train Saturday night. All were more or less under the influence of liquor. When they reached the corner of Washington and Wibold street, something started a row and Officer Larkin scooped them in. The affair was ventilated in court this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Hight of Dorchester have issued cards for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Harriet Brewster, to Mr. John Howard Chandler, on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock at All Saints' church, Ashmont.
The ceremony will be followed by a reception to the bridal party and relatives only.

A number of the friends of Miss
Josie Connor gave her a surprise party Saturday evening at the residence of her sister Mrs. Charles Austin on Hancock street, the event being the passing of a birthday. The evening was passed in a pleasant manner with games and music. A supper was also served. Miss Connor received several pleasing gifts from her friends.

Man's Body Found.

Two Hingham boys found the body of a dead man about 10 o'clock Sunday morning in the woods near the Weymouth line. It was lying upon a heap of rocks with the arms across the breast. The vest was unbuttoned and drawn up about the neck. One arm was broken at the elbow and the head had been severed from the trunk. The hat and coat were found some ten feet from the body. The man was apparently about 40 or 50 years of age, 5 feet 8 inches in height. The only thing in his pockets was a piece of newspaper bearing the date, Aug. 2, 1899. Medical Examiner Spooner said nothing indicated foul-play but that the man had probably died from exposure. He was later identified as Patrick Barry alias "Buck" Barry of Weymouth, who has been missing about two months.

PREPARING FOR WAR.

Every Department of the British Government in Active Operation.

Text of Correspondence Between Steyn and Milner.

Free State's President Apparently Used Every Endeavor to Prevent Hostilities.

London, Oct. 9.—Whatever may be the result of Great Britain's controversy with the South African republic every department of the government is as busy as though actual hostilities had begun. The electric flash that announced the mobilization of the army reserves and the summoning of parliament set every wheel of the government machinery in motion.

An hour after the Gazette appeared executive orders were being dispatched from the war office to every section of the kingdom, and the 10,000 bulletins which appeared posted throughout the country yesterday are said to have been identical with the proclamation prepared for use had the Fashoda incident required such a step.

At the same time Lord Salisbury and Mr. Balfour were issuing the necessary orders for the reassembling of parliament and the admiralty was concentrating its transports, 24 of which are now secured at Liverpool alone. So complete were the preparations that 25,000 reserves have already individually received coupon tickets which contain instructions where each man shall report for railway transportation to the place designated, and a money order for 3 shillings for provisions on route.

At Woolwich it is asserted that 95 percent of the reserves will be fully equipped within six days. In the meantime the members of the two houses of parliament are arranging to return to London, and a force of men is busily engaged in completing improvements at Westminster.

The most important news from South Africa comes from Mafeking, where twice on Saturday the British camp was aroused, the men stood to their arms, guns were limbered and patrols were dispatched in the direction of the border. No hostilities have occurred as yet, but the enemy has moved practically to the border, eight miles from Mafeking, in force, estimated at least 6,000, comprising five commands.

The garrisoning and fortifying of the town are practically completed. The streets are barricaded and a perfect system of military defense has been laid. Two armored trains have arrived at Mafeking, consisting of three bullet-proof cars, the first of which carries a searchlight, while the sides of the other cars are loopholed. Each train is complete in itself and carries its own provisions. Experiments with Lyddite have proved that it is an extremely powerful explosive.

A Bloemfontein dispatch says that the correspondence between President Steyn and Sir Alfred Milner has been published. In a communication, dated Sept. 26, President Steyn pointed out that the one of the British dispatches was altered, and that the imperial government had departed from the original basis of negotiations with the Transvaal. On his advice, the Transvaal had agreed to the holding of an inquiry, and the Free State was greatly disappointed to learn that its efforts in favor of a peaceful solution had not availed.

The Free State, Mr. Steyn said, was still prepared to tender its services to procure a solution of the difficulties on fair and reasonable lines. It felt hampered, however, by want of knowledge of the definite object and the extent of the desires or demands of the imperial government, compliance with which the government considers itself entitled to insist upon, and the grounds upon which such insistence was based, and further by the fact that notwithstanding repeated assurances that the imperial government did not wish to interfere with the internal affairs of the Transvaal or to disturb its independence, it has pursued a policy justifying contrary conclusions.

The Free State, says Mr. Steyn, cannot conceive it possible that a difference regarding the franchise or representation can justify the extensive and ever increasing military preparations being made upon the borders, not only of the Transvaal, but also upon those of the Free State, and is, therefore, reluctantly compelled to conclude that they must be intended to secure objects, a knowledge of which might induce the Free State to make objections.

In conclusion, President Steyn says he trusts the imperial government may see its way clear, pending further negotiations, to stop further movements for the increase of troops, and that he would be glad to be favored with the views of the imperial government regarding the precise nature and scope of the concessions or measures which it suggests as necessary or sufficient to secure satisfaction and a permanent solution of the existing differences.

On Oct. 1, President Steyn informed Sir Alfred Milner that he deemed it advisable, in order to allay the intense excitement of the burghers, arising from the continued increase and movements of the troops, to summon the burghers; and he repeats his offer of aid in securing a friendly settlement.

Replying on the same date, Sir Alfred Milner expresses regret at the calling out of the burghers, and refers to the mobilization of the Transvaal forces on the Natal border as indicating the intention to immediately invade the queen's dominion.

President Steyn on the same day expresses his conviction that the action of the Transvaal is only the natural result of the continued increase of the British troops, and the movement in the direction of the Transvaal border.

Sir Alfred Milner replied that all the movements of troops were necessitated by the natural alarm felt by the inhabitants of the exposed district, and declared that these movements were not comparable in magnitude with the recent massing of armed Transvaal forces on the borders of Natal.

President Steyn, on Oct. 3, says he does not consider that there are even fair grounds for the movements of the British troops, and he believes that the increasing military preparations retarded the efforts of himself and all those who were sincerely working to maintain peace and effect a fair settlement. He wished to place on record his earnest conviction that on those in authority, who introduced the military element and who had since continued a policy of menace and intervention, will rest the responsibility should all efforts fail to secure peace and an honorable settlement. He further says he cannot but recognize the fact that, in view of the action of the British authorities, the Transvaal government cannot be blamed for acting as it has done, and he is the more confirmed in this view by the fact that, while he is still without a reply to his communication, the reasonable request contained therein, to stay the increase and movements of troops, which probably would have prevented the calling out of the burghers in the republics, has not only been ignored, but the activity in military preparations and the dispatch of troops are proceeding more persistently than ever. He concludes thus: "I feel deeply impressed with the danger of delay, and urge the need of immediate action. If further attempts are to be made to secure a peaceful solution, once again I tender my best service towards the attainment of that object, but I fear these will probably be useless if they are not accompanied with or preceded by the assurance requested."

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail declares that the story that a Boer ultimatum, demanding the withdrawal of the British troops from the frontier, had been presented is without foundation, but he says the republics have within the past week demanded a declaration of the British intentions in threatening terms. Hostilities in the outlying districts, the correspondent says, are expected this week.

A report from South Africa has it that the movement of a Boer commando, General Joubert by Viljoen, who is a rabid hater of England, is taken as an indication of Boer impatience at the conduct of military affairs.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

William P. Haskell, president of the Merrimack First National bank, died at Merrimack, Mass. He was born in Newburyport in 1810. In 1889 he was a member of the legislature.

WELLMAN IN HIS NATIVE LAND.

Tells of the Accident Which Resulted in His Becoming a Cripple.

New York, Oct. 9.—Walter Wellman, the Arctic explorer, who recently returned from a journey of exploration in Franz Josef Land, arrived here yesterday on the steamship Umbra. He was accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Wellman, and Mr. and Mrs. Wellman took a train for Washington, where they reside. The severe injuries the explorer received from a fall in an ice crevasse still keeps him upon crutches.

WALTER WELLMAN.

Mr. Wellman left Tromsø, Norway, in June of last year for the purpose of exploring Franz Josef Land. His progress was arrested by the accident in which his right leg was injured. When asked about the accident he said: "When once the dogs get stuck with their load in rough ice they are more obstinate than mules, and you have got to help them out yourself. On March 20 my dogs got stuck in rough ice and I got out of the sled, took off their harness and put it around by chest and shoulders, intending to do my own teaming until the dogs became more tractable. As I was walking along, head down and hauling my sled, I put my foot into a crack in the ice 18 inches deep and so covered with snow as to be hidden. My right leg went down the crevasse, scraping the shin bone and otherwise injuring the limb."

"For eight consecutive days I walked across the ice thus injured and then fell exhausted in the snow. My companions helped me up, put me on a sledge and dragged me to the nearest retreat, the headquarters house at Cape Togohtoff, where I remained in bed, crippled up, from April 9 to July 4. In August I went to London for surgical treatment. I live in the hope that I am not permanently crippled."

Very Anxious to Die.

Pawtucket, R. I., Oct. 9.—Hugh Ferguson, 52 years old, under arrest for drunkenness, attempted to commit suicide at the police station last night by cutting an artery in his left wrist. The man refused the service of the physician who was called and fought off the officers who tried to hold him. The wound was finally bandaged, however, and Ferguson was taken to the hospital. There again he rejected all treatment and tore the bandages from his wrist, maintaining that he wanted to die. This makes the third attempt to kill himself. First he tried to hang himself, and on another occasion shot himself. His third attempt will not prove successful.

Cheered For Kruger.

Dublin, Oct. 9.—Lord Mayor Talbot marched at the head of a procession which this year replaced the usual demonstration at the grave of Charles Stewart Parnell, in Glasnevin cemetery, and subsequently laid the foundation stone of the Parnell statue. A large crowd was present at the ceremony, a great percentage of which was made up of persons in favor of the proposed memorial to Wolf Tone, and groans and hisses were frequently heard during the proceedings. Messrs. John and William Redmond delivered addresses in support of pro-Boer resolutions, and hearty cheers were given for "Gallant old Kruger."

To Be Investigated.

Boston, Oct. 9.—The body of Cornelius Shughrue was found on the beach of South Bay yesterday. The death is believed to have been due to natural causes, but his companion, Thomas Batts, who went out with him Saturday night to collect drift wood, is held until the medical examiner performs an autopsy. Batts informed the officers that Shughrue started for his home late in the evening for a hammer and some nails with which to construct a raft, and as he did not return he went home. It is supposed Shughrue was rendered unconscious by a fall on the beach and death resulted by drowning.

President's Busy Sunday.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—Sunday was not a day of rest for President McKinley. The center of a city's festivities and the desired object of numerous committees and delegations, he was kept busy from the time of the last puff from his after breakfast cigar till the last benediction of the religious services which filled the day had been given. During the afternoon and evening he attended three religious services, two in the Auditorium and one in Quinn chapel, at which latter he spoke a few words of greeting to the enthusiastic colored congregation that assembled.

Pingree Likes Dewey.

Detroit, Oct. 9.—Governor Pingree has returned from Washington and he is enthusiastic over Dewey. The governor says: "I don't know whether Dewey is a Republican or Democrat, but I don't care. He's a good fellow, most democratic and genuinely a man of the people. There was a great deal of talk in favor of Dewey's running for the presidency, and I'd like to see him run. He could have my support."

A Hundred Years Old.

Bethel, Me., Oct. 9.—The Congregational church began the celebration of its centennial yesterday. There was a sermon in the forenoon by Rev. Arthur Varley, and sermons in the afternoon and evening by former pastors. The centennial program will occupy three days. The ancient spire, which has been a landmark, has been taken down, as it had begun to sway in a dangerous manner in high winds.

Mortgagee's Sale of Real Estate

AT WOLLASTON.

BY Virtue of the power of sale contained in a certain mortgage deed given by Nathan Eike to the Chester Savings Bank, dated June 15, 1895, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 738, Fol. 587, and for breach of the condition of said mortgage, will be sold at public auction on the land hereinafter described, on WEDNESDAY, the eighteenth day of October, A. D. 1899, at three o'clock in the afternoon, the premises conveyed by said mortgage, viz:

A certain parcel of land with the buildings thereon, situated in that part of Quincy, in the County of Norfolk, and Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which is called Wollaston, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a stone on the northwesterly corner of land now or late of David W. Cushing, and running westerly on Central avenue, ninety feet, to a stone by land now or formerly of Ellen A. Sprague; thence turning and running southerly two hundred and twenty-four feet to a stone by land now or late of E. H. Dewson; thence turning and running easterly by said land of Dewson, ninety feet, to land of said Cushing; thence running northerly on said land of Cushing, two hundred and twenty-four feet, to the point of beginning. Containing twenty thousand one hundred and fifty square feet of land more or less.

The premises will be sold subject to the restrictions mentioned in the deed of George F. Pinkham et al, trustees, to Ellen A. Sprague, dated April 1st, 1870, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, book 398, page 119, (which are the usual Wollaston restrictions) to the right of drainage mentioned in said deed, and to the taxes assessed in May, 1898 and 1899, and any other unpaid taxes and sewer assessments, if any.

Five hundred dollars must be paid in cash at the time and place of sale, and the balance in ten days, at the office of F. L. Hayes, No. 7, Water street, Boston.

Meet and Make Speeches at a Chicago Banquet.

Each Tells of Great Things Which Have Been Accomplished.

Great Fall Festival Topped Off With an Intellectual Feast of Rare Merit.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Chicago's great Auditorium, which has been the scene of so many notable events, never held a larger gathering than last night, when the Chicago day banquet was held within its walls under the auspices of the fall festival committee.

The material part of the banquet occupied two hours, and it was nearly 10 o'clock when Mr. Stone rapped for order and brought the intellectual portion of the program to the front in an appropriate address.

Governor Tanner welcomed the visitors on behalf of the state of Illinois. Mayor Harrison of Chicago and Senator Shelby M. Cullom of Illinois were then introduced in succession by Mr. Stone, the former extending to the visitors the welcome of the people of Chicago and the latter a greeting on behalf of the federal officials of Illinois.

When the toastmaster rose to introduce the president, who responded to the sentiment of "The Nation," he was greeted with cheers that for a time prevented his voice from being heard. When quiet had been restored Mr. Stone introduced President McKinley, who spoke as follows:

"I am glad to join you in extending a sincere welcome to the distinguished statesmen and diplomats, who represent the great countries adjoining us on the south and north. We are bound to them both by ties of mutual good neighborhood, and we wish them Godspeed in the path of progress they are so energetically and successfully pursuing.

"On the reverse side of the great seal of the United States, authorized by congress June 20, 1782, and adopted as the seal of the United States of America, after its formation under the federal constitution, is the pyramid signifying strength and duration. The eye over it, and the motto alludes to the many signal interpositions of providence in favor of the American cause. The date underneath, 1776, is that of the Declaration of Independence, and the words under it signify the beginning of a new American era, which commences from that date.

"It is impossible to trace our history since without feeling that the providence who was with us in the beginning has continued to the nation his gracious interposition. When, unhappily, we have been engaged in war, he has given us the victory. Fortunate, indeed, is it that it can be said we have had no clash of arms which has ended in defeat, and no responsibility resulting from war is tainted with dishonor. In peace we have been signally blessed, and our progress has gone on unchecked and ever increasing in the intervening years. In boundless wealth of soil and mine and forest, nature has favored us, while all races of men, of every nationality and climate, have contributed their good blood to make the nation what it is.

"Our territory is more than four times larger than it was when the treaty of peace was signed in 1790. Our industrial growth has been even more phenomenal than that of population or territory. Our wealth, estimated in 1790 at $462,000,000, has advanced to $65,000,000,000. Education has not been overlooked. The mental and moral equipment of the youth upon whom will in the future rest the responsibilities of government, have had the unceasing and generous care of the state and the nation.

"Our national credit, often tried, has been ever upheld. It has no superior and no stain. The United States has never repudiated a national obligation, either to its creditors or to humanity. It will not now begin to do either. It never struck a blow except for civilization, and never struck its colors.

"The republic is sturdier and stronger than ever before. Government by the people has been advanced. Freedom under the flag is more universal than when the Union was formed. Our steps have been forward, not backward. From Plymouth rock to the Philippines the grand triumphant march of humanity and liberty has never paused.

"Fraternity and union are deeply imbedded in the hearts of the American people. For half a century before the Civil war disunion was the fear of many of all sections. That word has gone out of the American vocabulary. It is spoken now only as a historical memory. North, south, east and west were never so welded together, and while they may differ about internal policies, they are all for the Union and the maintenance of the integrity of the flag.

"Has patriotism died out in the hearts of the people? Witness the 250,000 men springing to arms, and in 30 days organized into regiments for the Spanish war, and a million more ready to respond; and the more recent enlistment of 70,000 men, with many other thousands anxious to enlist, but whose services were not needed. Has American heroism recoiled? The shattered and sinking fleets of the Spanish navy at Manila and Santiago, the charge of San Juan and El Caney, and the intrepid valor and determination of our gallant troops in more than 40 engagements in Luzon attest to the fact that the American soldier and sailor have lost none of the qualities which made our earlier army and navy illustrious and invincible. After 123 years, the pyramid stands unshaken. It has had some severe shocks, but it remains immovable. It has endured the storms of war, only to be stronger. It stands firmer and gives greater promise of duration than when the fathers made it the symbol of their faith.

"May we not feel assured that if we do our duty the providence which favored the undertakings of the fathers and every step of our progress since will continue his watchful care and guidance over us, and that the hand that led us to our present place will not relax its grasp until we have reached the glorious goal he has fixed for us in the achievement of his end."

Following the address of the president, which was received with enthusiastic approval, Mr. Stone introduced Sir Wilfrid Laurier of Canada, who he announced, was to speak on "The Dominion."

The greeting accorded the premier of Canada as he rose was hearty in the extreme. The warmth of his welcome for an instant embarrassed Sir Wilfrid, but he quickly recovered his self-possession. His speech was as follows:

"If history recalls Chicago's destruction also recalls her resurrection. It recalls the energy, the courage, the faith, the enthusiasm with which her citizens met and faced and conquered an appalling calamity. Whenever you meet courage you are sure to meet justice and generosity, and, therefore, it is with some degree of satisfaction that I approach the toast to which I have been called to respond. Because, I must say that I feel that though the relations between Canada and the United States are good, though they are brotherly, though they are satisfactory, in my judgment they are not as good, as they ought to be. We are of the same stock. We speak the same language, we have the same literature, and for more than a thousand years we have had a common history. We are sometimes too prone to regard the full conceptions of our rights and exact all our rights to the last pound of flesh. May I not ask if there have not been too often between us petty quarrels, which, happily, do not wound the heart of the nation?"

"I am proud to say, in the presence of the chief executive of the United States, that it is the belief of the Canadian government that we should make a supreme effort to better our relations and make the government of President McKinley and the present government of Canada, with the assent of Great Britain, so to work together as to remove all causes of dissension between us. May I be permitted to say that we do not desire one inch of your land, but if I state that we want to hold our land, will that be an American sentiment? I am here to say to my fellow countrymen that we want not to stand upon the extreme limits of our rights. We are ready to give and to take. We can afford to be just.

"But, though we may have many little bickerings of that kind, I believe that after all, when we go down to the bottom of our hearts we will find that there is between us a true, genuine affection. There are no two nations today on the face of the globe so united as Great Britain and the United States of America. It is true that there is between the United States of America and Great Britain today no treaty or alliance which the pen can write and which the pen can unmake, but there is between Great Britain and the United States of America a unity of blood, of blood which is thicker than water.

"It was no unusual occurrence before the month of May, 1898, to read in the British press of American arrogance; neither was it an unusual occurrence to read in the American press of British brutality. Since May, 1898, these expressions have disappeared from the vocabulary. The only expressions which you find in the press of either country now are words of mutual respect and mutual affection.

"War between Great Britain and the United States would be criminal—just as criminal as the Civil war which desolated your country some 30 years ago. The civilized world has come to the conclusion [Continued on page 4.]

TINKERING THE SAILS.

Indications of Considerable Nervousness Aboard the Cup Defender.

Shamrock Has Not Slightest Need of Tuning Up.

Plain Facts Show That Latter Has Made the Better Showing Thus Far.

New York, Oct. 10.—There is a buoyant feeling of expectancy and excitement among the yachtsmen, not that they feel sure of a race today, but that they know every day will be a race day from now out to the finish with the exception of Wednesday. This agreement of the regatta committee and the Shamrock people has proved popular. It is a fair proposition and everyone likes the manner in which it is met.

Monday was a foggy day down around the Horsehoe and everything was quiet on the fleet there except on the decks of Columbia, where they were cutting and redrafting sails. This is taken in yachting circles to indicate nervousness. There is nothing to be gained in trying to put aside facts. It is as well, and oftentimes better, to meet the truth first as last, and this is the truth of the racing situation.

They are worrying on Columbia; they are calm and confident on Shamrock. The reason for all this is that the English boat has done the better work on the three days of the regatta. Look at it from whatever standpoint you will, these plain facts stare you in the face. At two of the days at the moment the signal "race off" was set, Shamrock was in the lead. On the third day she was no worse than on even terms. Indeed the weight of opinion is that she was ahead, considering her position and the fact that she started some seconds behind Columbia. Add to this her time allowance of six seconds and the chances are still more in her favor.

There is good reason for the nervousness among the Americans, and nothing has occurred to diminish it. It is an unpleasant truth, but it is just as well to admit it.

As soon as Hathaway's sailmakers got through with the alterations on Columbia's mainsail Monday morning the sail was hauled up from below, bent to the mast, boom and gaff and hoisted. After inspection by Mr. Iselin and Captain Barr it was decided that the sail was not yet fit to do battle in today's race, so it was lowered and after some minor alterations it was hoisted again at 3 p. m., when it set almost flat as a board, except for a few wrinkles up near the head under the gaff.

A new club topsail was also bent, but not hoisted. It was made up on the yard and covered, to keep it dry, for the air was full of dampness and what old sailors call "Scotch mist." The mainsail was lowered soon after 4 o'clock, stowed on the boom and covered for the night.

Mr. Iselin arrived from the city just before noon. When seen soon after he said: "We are all hoping for a breeze so that we may finish at least one race. I should like to get through before Christmas."

Mr. Iselin did not care to make any comment on the last race further than to say that some of the newspaper reports criticising Columbia's tactics were unfair and uncalled for. Columbia's crew, he said, were all well and eager for the next day's race, and if he cannot win with Shamrock, it is more than likely that he will come again next year with another boat.

When asked what had been done aboard Shamrock during the day, Sir Thomas replied that the crew had not touched a piece of rigging or a sail since the craft came into her moorings Saturday night, and that his boat was ready to sail and race an hour after that of Saturday was declared off.

On Erin considerable interest was manifested in Columbia's mainsail, which was hoisted and lowered several times during the day. Everyone knew that it was not a new sail, and that several alterations had been made in it. The recutting of the sail gave the Erin people more confidence than ever, and they felt that the Columbia people were a bit worried as to the outcome of the series. They felt that no one would spread out a sail in such a fog as prevailed nearly all day, thus allowing it to get damp and shrink, unless there was a fear of being defeated.

Sir Thomas inquired about the betting, and expressed satisfaction that Shamrock's stock was going up. He did not offer any tips, but reiterated his former statements that his boat would be sailed to win. Sailmaker Ratsey watched the thickening of Columbia's mainsail with a critical eye, but did not express any opinion for publication.

The weather is the important thing now. The weather man in Washington promises a southerly increasing breeze. If it comes it will be a welcome wind to thousands of yachtsmen who have come many miles to witness the contest. If this prediction is fulfilled the racers will be sent over the line to windward down the Jersey coast, the course the same as Saturday's, only the order of sailing is reversed, the first leg to windward with a run home. This will be a more satisfactory race, as it gives a better chance for skill in maneuvering for the weather berth at the start.

PLATFORM MAKING.

The Journal Interviews Hon.

John Shaw of Committee.

Hon. John Shaw, who served on the Committee on Resolutions in the recent Republican convention, has been interviewed by a Journal reporter at his summer home at Quincy Point, relative to the platform reported and adopted.

Mr. Shaw said that upon the whole

the committee thought it had expressed itself plainly and forcibly enough in the resolutions. So well known and respected were the Republican principles of the Commonwealth he said, that the members of the committee might have been a "little modest" in expressing themselves. To this fact he attributed any lack of vim.

Without any desire to reflect upon either the State Committee or the Committee on Resolutions, Mr. Shaw stated that more time should be devoted by convention committees to the matters

that came up before them. Harmony and smoothness were to be appreciated,

the general tendency in the past was to hurry matters along without consideration in some instances. The Chairman of a committee would present, a subject or resolution, ask if it was agreeable, all hands would acquiesce,

and it would be passed.

This was due largely to the knowledge of and familiarity with Republican doctrines and principles. Resolutions were mainly a reiteration of the old story, a repetition of the platform;

hence the failure to round out the routine. Balloting on such matters

was common in the West, he said.

The Committee on Resolutions was not appointed six months ago, by any means, he said, nor six weeks ago,

but in fact was selected but a very short time before the convention.

However, he declared that the committee upheld the Administration fully and heartily, particularly concerning the Philippine issue. The Philippine affairs were being managed all right,

and everything would come out serenely

in the end. To be sure, mistakes were likely, in fact, unavoidable, in such a responsible undertaking, but then mistakes were apt to occur in everything. Mistakes happen in social life, and nothing is said of them,

but a mishap in public ventures is exposed to the censure and criticism of the people.

Mr. Shaw pronounced the Journal

editorial a medium of timely and friendly advice. He was always ready to accept advice from a friendly source,

whether through the columns of a newspaper or from the lips of a friend.

An acquaintance of his who had read

the editorial expressed surprise to him that the Journal should take such a stand, but he said that he thought the Republicans at large looked upon the matter as he did.

He agreed with the Journal that the present was a time when all Republicans should stand solidly together. He considered it the country's duty to help all the people in need, whether

Scottish, Irish, Swedes or Filipinos.

Referring to trusts, Mr. Shaw said that there were certain lines of business

that unavoidably became monopolies,

and these often, if not always, ben-

Cubans Have Lynching Fever.

Havana, Oct. 10.—At Cabanas yesterday 200 men went to a store where a Spaniard named Acuña was working and demanded that he leave the place immediately, as he was a bitter enemy of the Cubans. The police prevented the crowd from lynching Acuña. In the same town 200 men attempted to lynch one Hernandez, a Cuban captain of guerrillas, who, it is said, had committed many outrages. The police interfered here also. A large crowd assembled yesterday to await the arrival at Cabanas of a former Spanish volunteer named Menendez, whom they intended to lynch, but Menendez did not come.

McGovern's Snap.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—It took Terry McGovern about one minute to decide last night's encounter with Billy Rotchford. The men were scheduled to go six rounds, but the contest was utterly one-sided. McGovern went at his man fiercely, and Rotchford was soon helpless and groggy. He tried to save himself by clinching, but McGovern did terrific work at close range, and Rotchford was laid low at the end of one minute.

PUSHING WAR PLANS.

Duration of British Campaign Expected to Be About Eight Months.

Only Pick of Reserves Will Be Retained With Colors.

Kruger Considers Situation Grave and Difficult to Predict Coming Events.

London, Oct. 10.—The complete dearth of news from the Cape, on which all attention is riveted, is poorly compensated for by the mass of minute details published concerning the preparations for the dispatch of the army corps and speculation as to the length and character of the debates when parliament meets. In official circles there is said to be apprehension that the radicals will offer protracted opposition to the government's policy in South Africa, which will possibly make prorogation and Christmas near neighbors.

Lord Salisbury's whip, the lords, issued last night, says parliament will deal with matters of grave moment. Some indication of the war office estimate of the duration of the campaign is given by the fact that the authorities have contracted for eight months' supply of bread and other military requisites rendered necessary by the absence of the bulk of the army corps, which the war office thus evidently calculates will be at home again by the beginning of May.

It appears that although the war office called up 25,000 reserves, only the pick of them—some 5,000—will be retained with the colors. The authorities are pleased at the application of a number of reservists belonging to the unmobilized classes who are volunteering for foreign service.

Baron Tweedmouth presided at a meeting of the council of London radicals last night, which, after a speech by Lord Tweedmouth deploring the war policy of the government, whose dispatches he declared, were not couched in conciliatory terms, adopted a resolution in favor of arbitration, and calling upon the government to take steps tending to a settlement of the difficulty with the Transvaal by negotiations for arbitration.

The Daily Telegraph's Ladysmith correspondent says that a trustworthy colonial farmer asserts that he saw 1000 armed Boers on Sunday within the Natal border near Charleston.

The Daily News publishes an interview with Bertram Milford, the South African novelist, who spent 25 years among the Cape Dutch, in which Mr. Milford predicts that victory will only be attained by the British after a long, bloody and costly war. He says that the Boers will fight like devils.

A dispatch from Pretoria says that President Kruger, in the course of an interview yesterday, said he regarded the situation as very grave and considered it very difficult to predict coming events. The landing of British reinforcements in Natal, he said, did not trouble him, as he had full faith in the Almighties.

Portuguese Against Boers. Lisbon, Oct. 10.—The papers here express a rather anti-Boer feeling. Seculo declares that although England has not asked Portugal to abandon her neutrality the Portuguese war minister, General Telles, is prepared to send 5000 men to South Africa within a fortnight.

The Hub's Reception to Dewey. Boston, Oct. 10.—The idea of giving a dinner to Admiral Dewey upon his arrival here Friday evening, by the city of Boston, has been given up. The admiral will dine at the Touraine and rest to prepare for the celebration of the following day. On Friday night the city authorities will give a display of fireworks in the harbor. The crew of the Olympia is not to be forgotten, for on Friday night they will be tendered a smoker. Vandeville talent from the theatres will entertain the sailors during the evening. Saturday, Admiral Dewey will be presented with a gold watch by the city in front of the city hall on School street. The route of the parade in the afternoon has been lengthened.

Evidently Committed Suicide. New York, Oct. 10.—The Herald says: "Please do not say a case of suicide, but missing or lost from the steamer Puritan," is a letter contained in a letter signed Charles E. Preston, found in a stateroom on a Fall River boat that arrived in New York. Rev. Charles E. Preston, rector of St. Matthew's church of Jamestown, R. I., has been missing from home since last Friday. The police of Boston and other cities had been asked to look for him. Besides the open letter found in the stateroom were 19 other letters addressed to persons living in Newport and Jamestown.

A Heavy Attachment. New York, Oct. 10.—The sheriff has received an attachment for $619,750 against the property of William C. Connor of Dallas in favor of Charles T. Gregory and James L. Bell, brokers, for services in procuring purchasers of bonds of the Dallas Terminal Railway and Union Depot company, and the Dallas, Fort Worth and Gulf Railway company of Texas. A deputy sheriff served a copy of the attachment on officers of a local trust company. The attachment was granted by Justice Truax on the ground that the defendant was a non-resident.

Weather Conditions and Forecast. Sun rises—5:22; sets—5:09. Moon sets—10:15 p. m. High water—3:15 a. m.; 4 p. m. Rain has fallen in New York and New England and from Minnesota over the states of the middle and upper Missouri valley. Rain is also reported on the Texas coast. Ice stations in Wyoming snow is reported. Fair weather is indicated for New England. Along the Atlantic coast the winds will be southerly, increasing to fresh and brisk on the middle Atlantic and New England coasts.

HITS WIDELY SCATTERED.

Bostons Defeated by the Phillies, Who Move Toward the Head.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Nichols had a shade the better of Orth so far as the hitting went, but the Bostons' hits were too widely scattered to be productive. The fielding of both teams was superb. The only error made during the game, outside of Nichols' luminous wild pitch, was a poor throw to second by Bergen, which enabled Dolan to get to third in the calamitous third. The Bostons and Philadelphia are now tied for second place.

Schwan Still Advancing. Manila, Oct. 10.—General Schwan's column, consisting of the Thirteenth infantry, a battalion of the Philippine infantry, two troops of cavalry, Captain Riley's battery of the Fifth artillery and Lowe's scouts, continued the advance yesterday towards San Francisco de Malabon, meeting with little resistance and suffering no casualties. The enemy fell back steadily. The column is now resting between Santa Cruz and San Francisco de Malabon. The American camp is within sight of San Francisco de Malabon, the stronghold of the insurgents in the province of Cavite, where the Filipinos are said to number 5000. During the march from Novelda to Rosario only a few shots were fired. The coast town was literally filled with white flags.

New York's Mystery. New York, Oct. 10.—The mystery surrounding the identity of the mutilated woman, portions of whose body were found in West Seventeenth street and in the North river on Saturday, is still unsolved. Several persons have positively identified the dismembered portions of the body, but so far these identifications have been without result, and it is believed that the persons making the identifications have been mistaken.

Police Captain Price thinks that the authorities are confronted with a problem more difficult of solution than the Guildenstern murder. Dr. Weston, corner's physician, is convinced that the case is a repetition of the White Chapel murder of London. The victim's body has been mutilated in the same manner as were those of the unfortunate in the London crimes, certain organs being missing from the portions found. All the detectives in the city are under orders to watch closely for clues leading to the identification of the remains and the apprehension of the murderer.

Atkinson Bounced. Boston, Oct. 10.—A stranger recently bunched Edward Atkinson, the anti-imperialist leader, and the victim has acknowledged the fact in a letter to Chief Watts. The stranger presented Mr. Atkinson with a letter of introduction from a New York firm, which introduced the visitor to P. K. Mather, South African agent for machinery manufacturers of England. Mather asked Mr. Atkinson's advice about buying second-hand machinery for use in South Africa, and talked so plausibly that when he presented a draft for $16, saying he had a moment's money, a well-known anti-imperialist did not hesitate a moment to cash it. After the stranger departed Mr. Atkinson found that the draft was worthless. Mr. Atkinson has asked the police to find the man.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Bishop Alexander Walter delivered a lecture at a rally of Afro-Americans at Boston on "The Trials and Achievements of the Negro Race." The attendance was small. Bishop Walter is president of the national Afro-American council.

Louis L. Philney, formerly superintendent of streets of Stoughton, Mass., committed suicide at his home by hanging. No reason is assigned for the act. A widow and four children survive.

Two convicts, James Ryan and William Kelly, escaped from the jail at Bangor, Me. Kelly and Ryan were sentenced last June to 11 months for breaking into freight cars.

Michael Kane, about 52 years old, a moulder, committed suicide at Lowell, Mass. The motive is unknown.

James Gould, aged 45, while at work on a staging at Boston, was thrown to the ground by the breaking of a timber, and killed.

Lord Charles Stewart Reginald, second son of the Marquis of Londonderry, who had been ill from consumption for some time, is dead. He was born in 1879.

The report that W. L. Wilson, president of Washington and Lee university, is dangerously ill is incorrect.

The Paris Matin says that the Dreyfus family will shortly go to Egypt for the winter.

INTRODUCED.

clusion that it was a benefit to mankind that this rebellion did not succeed. Your country was desolated for four long years by the scourge of Civil war. Of the many things which are to be admired in this great country of yours, the one thing which I most admire is the absolute success of the Union and the establishment of the Civil War.

"There was a civil war in the last century between England and her colonies. If the union which then existed between England and her colonies was severed it was through the fault of the British government of that day had treated the American colonies as the British government for the last 20 or 30 years has treated its colonies; if Great Britain had given you then the same degree of liberty which it gives to Canada; if it had given you, as it has given us, legislative independence absolute, the result would have been different. We cannot expect that the union which was then severed shall ever be restored, but can we not hope that at least there can be a union of hearts?"

"Can we not hope that the banners of England and the banners of the United States shall never again meet in conflict, except those conflicts provided by the laws of peace? Can we not hope that if ever the banners of England and the banners of the United States are again to meet on the battlefield they shall meet entwined together in the defense of some holy cause, in the defense of justice, for the defense of the oppressed, for the enfranchisement of the downtrodden, for the advancement of liberty, progress and civilization?"

The welcome extended to Sir Wilfrid Laurier was repeated when the second speaker, Vice President Mariscal of Mexico, arose. He spoke as follows, answering to the toast, "The Republic of Mexico":

"I rise principally to thank you very cordially for the toast proposed and drunk in honor of Mexico and its president. Mexico has fought twice for her independence, which her people really idolize. The first time was at the beginning of this century and during 11 years, when no nation could or wished to give any assistance. The second time, less than 40 years ago, we had to battle against Napoleon's intervention, and in spite of our heroic resistance, prolonged for five years, we might have succumbed, yielding to force, had it not been for the powerful influence of the United States, which promptly settled matters in our favor."

"That historical fact has not been forgotten by any true Mexican, and we all keep it engraved in our hearts. Today everybody knows that my country, under an independent republican government, is fairly advancing on the road of a peaceful progress. She is developing her natural resources by means of domestic and foreign capital, chiefly American, invested in railroads and other great improvements. The Mexican government welcomes that capital as well as American industry and all kinds of traffic and honest immigration. Our foreign policy consists solely and simply in cultivating the most friendly intercourse with all the nations of the world and a real intimacy with the United States. Providence made us neighbors, and our common interest requires us to keep as intimate friends. It is not only vicinity that binds us together; we have adopted your political being after your model, and the very symbol of our nationality is almost identical with yours—both are the famous bird of Jove, an eagle. May, then, these two eagles soar forever, flying along parallel lines, the American guiding, the Mexican following—always encouraged by the example of her elder sister."

Secretary Long of the navy, who responded to "The Navy," received a greeting that will live with him for many a day. He was frequently interrupted by cheers during his speech.

"The Glories of the Grand Army of the Republic" were dwelt upon by Colonel D. B. Henderson of Dubuque, Ia., the next speaker of the national house of representatives. His remarks were cheered to the echo.

The last address on the regular program was by General Thomas M. Anderson, U. S. A., commander of the department of the lakes. His incisive utterances evoked the greatest applause.

Of the day's exercises probably the most interesting was the laying of the cornerstone of the new federal building by President McKinley.

There were addresses by Secretary Gage and Postmaster General Smith. C. E. Kremer, secretary of the federal committee, then arose and formally announced that the list of articles placed within it. President McKinley was introduced by Secretary Gage.

The president then stepped to the side of the uplifted mass of Illinois limestone, and taking a trowel of mortar from the board he threw it on the base of the stone. As he did so a band stationed in the reviewing stand played "The Star Spangled Banner."

President McKinley then pronounced the stone set, and resumed his seat as the workmen settled the stone in its place.

Drift of Opinion.

For one reason it would be a good thing for Sir Thomas Lipton to take the cup. In that case it might be won back again by a Boston yacht, and then we would have races when there was breeze enough to take the boats over the course a little faster than a man could walk. The New York yacht course is undoubtedly one of the worst in the world. In all the contests that have taken place during the past ten years there have been but very few races in any true sense. The so-called races have been a series of drifting matches. What is needed to make a good race and test the merits of the competing boats is wind, and that is something almost unknown on the New York course.—Beverly Times.

Continuation for some years of this era of unexampled activity and prosperity upon which the United States has now entered. There may be some check due to high prices, which themselves are caused by great demand. But with a wise determination of our currency question and a statesmanlike treatment of the new political questions created by the unexpected responsibilities thrown upon us by reason of the war with Spain, there seems to be no reason why the United States may not, in the era upon which she is now entering, achieve a position which will be recognized as that of financial independence, the first power in the world as an agricultural and manufacturing nation and as an exporter of manufactured products, and perhaps New York may take the place so long held by London as the financial clearing house and financial centre of the world.—Review of Reviews.

Escape of Runaway.

George L. Shaw, a runaway from the State institution at Foxboro was arrested at East Braintree Tuesday night by Officer Dugan. As East Braintree has no lockup Shaw was locked up for safe keeping in Weymouth dungeon. This morning when the keeper went to feed his prisoner, he found that his bird had flown. How he got out is as yet a mystery, for the officer is certain that he locked the cell and station door.

Five Run Record.

In the mile run held at Springfield Tuesday, Arthur H. Paterson, formerly of Quincy, broke all track records for western Massachusetts. His time was wonderful as the track was very heavy. Two of the finest half-mile runners in the State paced him, and helped him break the record that has been held for four years. His time was 4 minutes, 32 1-4 seconds.

Not Allowed to Vote.

Worcester aldermen have refused to allow the voters of that city to vote on the acceptance of the 8-hour act for city employees. A petition has been presented, however, by the labor union for a mass meeting as provided in the city charter.

New Captain in Fifth.

Co. M of the Fifth Massachusetts Regiment of Hudson elected officers Tuesday night. B. Whitcomb will be captain, Thomas F. Mahoney first lieutenant and Louis D. Ordway second lieutenant. There were contests for the first two positions.

THIS MORNING'S FIRE

Germantown Cottage Damaged
$1500.

The three blows on the fire alarm circuit at 3.15 this morning followed in a few minutes by an alarm from Box 12 was for a fire in the summer residence of John H. Dinegan at Germantown, owned by George Harvey Field.

The house was unoccupied and the fire started from some unknown cause in the L and had made good headway when discovered.

The discovery of the fire was made by a smelter in Town river, who rowed ashore and gave the alarm. The fire department were notified by telephone and the three blows and box soon sounded. Sometime ago a reel of hose was placed at Sailors' Snug Harbor for emergency and this was got out and did good service in holding the fire in check until the department arrived.

When the central station apparatus arrived after a three-mile run the L was practically gone and the fire was eating its way into the main building. The additional help that had now arrived soon succeeded in extinguishing the flames. The house had not been occupied for some time and no cause can be given for the fire. The fire marshal will make an investigation. The loss will be $1,500 and is fully covered by insurance.

Political.

E. G. Brown of Brockton has been selected by the Democratic State Committee as candidate for State Auditor, in place of W. L. Ramsdell of Lynn resigned.

A meeting of the Ward One gentlemen was held Tuesday evening in the Savings Bank Building, at which it was decided to support John O. Hall as the Republican candidate for Mayor. It was also decided to hold another meeting Saturday night to which representatives from all wards will be invited.

Republicans of the First Plymouth Senatorial district at their convention Tuesday nominated Amos A. Lawrence of Cohasset for Senator and reelected Louis Cushing of Cohasset a member of the State Committee. The Democrats of the same district nominated Benjamin F. Peterson of Whitman for Senator.

Among those from this vicinity to attend the rousing Republican ratification meeting at Worcester last night, were Secretary Standish of Stoughton, Louis Cushing of Cohasset and Frank F. Prescott of Quincy, all members of the State Committee.

Plymouth county Democrats have nominated Elbridge L. Brown of Brockton for county commissioner.

Editor McPherson of the South Framingham News has been nominated for the Legislature winning out in a close contest with Willard Howe and Harry C. Rice.

Commander's Escort.

An honor has been conferred on Camp John A. Boyd of Quincy of the Legion of Spanish War Veterans. The camp has been detailed to act as commander's escort at the reception to Admiral Dewey upon his arrival in Boston Friday afternoon.

The local camp invite all soldiers, sailors and marines of the late war to parade with them, and to meet at Homestead hall 724 Washington street, Boston, on Friday. John A. Boyd camp will hold a regular meeting Thursday evening.

Boston's Debt.

The borrowing capacity of the city of Boston Oct. 1, was much less than the city of Quincy. The Boston auditor's monthly exhibit for September, shows that the city's debt is still going up, the gross debt Sept. 30 being $84,426,378.98, an increase of $1,773,722.38 since Dec. 31, 1898, while the net debt is increased by $3,124,442.88, being now $54,505,814.71.

Successful Brockton Fair.

The gate receipts at the Brockton fair this year were $25,896.40 against $28,404.70 last year and $28,098.31 in 1897. The total receipts (gate, railroad coupons and grand stand) for the four days were $29,863.20, as compared with $32,782.85 last year, a falling off of $2919.65. This decrease is wholly due to Friday's rain. With good weather that day the receipts must have gone ahead of any other year on record. The society's profits last year amounted to between $10,000 and $17,000. While they may not quite reach that mark this year, they will still foot up to a very handsome figure.

BAD FAITH CHARGED

Will Granite Men be Ousted as the Woburn Leather Men?

It may be well for the Quincy granite quarries to profit by the experience of the Woburn leather firms, who charge bad faith on the part of the newly organized trust. A Woburn dispatch of Monday says:

Several Woburn leather manufacturers who recently joined the American Hide and Leather combination are charging their company with having violated the agreement under which the Woburn plants were taken into the combine, since on Saturday they found themselves retired from active connection with the business, by the executive board of the company. They claim that it was understood that they were to be continued at the head of their plants at a salary.

Those who are now wholly out are James Skinner, J. M. Mardock, W. L. Mardock, J. P. Crane and J. F. Ransdell.

In place of these individuals E. C. Cottle has been appointed general manager of the Woburn factories of the trust, and C. G. Lund of the James Skinner Leather Co., as assistant to Mr. Cottle.

Following the unpleasant experience of the former manufacturers the announcement has been made that in the interest of economy the factories of the James Skinner Leather Co. are to be closed permanently, also the J. P. Crane shop. The Stephen Dow factory is to be used wholly for the tanning and currying of fancy leather.

The William Tidd factory at Stoneham is to be closed and the business removed to Woburn. This, it is claimed, will mean the end of leather manufacturing in Stoneham.

D. W. Bond of the James Skinner Leather Co. is to have charge of the fancy leather manufacturing in the Dow shop, and J. G. Mardock of the Middlesex Leather Co. is to be paymaster of all the Woburn factories.

A general clerical office is to be established in Woburn, it is said, at the Middlesex factory. All the salesrooms in Boston of the former individual companies are to be closed, and the business will all be done in the Hall, Haight & Co. building.

It is understood that the trust is to go into the manufacture of shoe stock, and that the Crane shop is to be used for this purpose.

William F. Farrington.

Funeral services over the remains of Mr. William F. Farrington of Wollaston were held from his late residence on Arlington street on Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock. The Rev. Edward Norton and the Rev. Mr. Truslow conducted the impressive services. There was music by a male quartette and beautiful floral offerings from Boston lodge and John Hancock lodge, I. O. O. F., and others. The members of John Hancock lodge attended the funeral in a body and escorted it to Mount Wollaston Cemetery, where the Odd Fellows' burial service was read.

Meet at Hingham.

The annual meeting of the Unitarian Sunday school society will be held in Hingham, on Thursday, the 26th, in the First Parish church. A platform meeting will be held in the evening of Wednesday, the 25th, at 7.45 o'clock, at the New North church. This event promises to be one of interest and value to all the Unitarians in the state. The program for the sessions of both days is full of interesting features. Among the speakers will be Rev. John Snyder of St. Louis, Miss Sarah Louis Arnold, supervisor of the public schools of Boston, and Rev. F. S. C. Wicks of Brighton, formerly of this city.

I'm Dewey.

A very interesting sight presented itself in a vacant lot on Billings street, Tuesday. Several of the youthful aspirants under ten were marching up and down led by a young soldier whose stride was ridiculously military. A passerby, attracted by the pompous severity of the baby leader, passed in crossing the field with a smile on his lips. In an instant a toy pistol was flashed from the pocket of the soldier in command, and marching up to the intruder, he covered him with the weapon and said calmly, "Stand aside, you Spaniard! I am Dewey!"

Chelsea will sound the admiral's salute on its fire alarm at noon on Saturday, and give city employees a half holiday.

The food of the swallow is composed of insects alone, and the number these birds destroy in a single summer is incalculable. They are in summer on the wing for fully 16 hours during the day, and the greater part of the time making havoc among the millions of insects which infest the air.

Pupils in the public schools of Copenhagen, Denmark, are required to take three baths a week in the public school building, and while they are bathing their clothes are sterilized in a steam oven.

BOERS BEGIN.

Rumor That They Have Advanced Upon Natal.

Did Not Wait For Their Time Limit to Expire.

Transvaal London Representative Closes His Office.

Doubtful Report of the Assassination of British Agent Greene.

Actual Details of Any Conflict at Arms Have Not Yet Been Received.

London, Oct. 12.—Intense excitement prevails here. War with the Boers has virtually begun. Actual details of the first conflict at arms are now awaited with anxiety. No formal declaration of war on either side is expected.

The war speeches last night by cabinet members in various parts of the country capped the climax. But the real crisis came earlier, when Montague White, consul general of the South African republic in London, closed the con-sulate and immediately left for the continent.

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph
from Ladysmith, dated Wednesday, alone among the specials received, declares that war has been begun by the Boers in Natal. The correspondent
says:

"Free State burghers have seized a train at Harrismith which was the property of the Natal government. Last night a mounted patrol was stoned by Boers. The men's orders were not to fire unless they were fired upon."

The other dispatches only represent that hostilities are imminent.

If the Boers have actually begun their raid upon Natal, as is reported, they apparently have not waited for the time limit of their ultimatum to expire. In thus precipitating a conflict they would be within their rights, it is acknowledged, both in virtue of the notification
in the last paragraph of their ultimatum
and also of the British acknowledgment.

The story of the reported advance of the Boers across the Natal border states that the invaders entered Natal by the important pass of Cudry Cleugh, 37 miles southwest of Newcastle. It may be expected that in accordance with this move
the Boers will occupy Newcastle at once.

A dispatch from Glencoe camp, dated Wednesday noon, says the burghers are reported to be beyond the president's control and hostilities are expected at any moment.

It is rumored that Conyngham Greene,
the British diplomatic agent at Pretoria,
has been assassinated there. The report,
however, is unconfirmed and is discredited at the colonial office.

The rumor that Mr. Greene had been murdered is of doubtful origin, and is considered extremely improbable, as it is believed that in obedience to orders from the imperial government, Mr.
Greene had already left Pretoria.

The military authorities in South Africa have installed a censorship over all telegrams, in order to prevent information regarding British movements from reaching the Boers.

Authentic information from Ladysmith confirms the report that it is the intention of the Boers to occupy Newcastle.

A dispatch from Newcastle, Natal, says that at a meeting held there in the interest of peace, a crowd of patriots invaded the hall, stormed the platform and moved and carried a resolution to support the government in the war. The police were called upon to restore order
and finally cleared the hall.

The commission at Johannesburg having the matter in charge is issuing very few permits to British subjects to remain there. In subscribing to the oath those who remain must be obedient to the laws and authorities and neither directly nor indirectly do ought against the independence of the country or the neutrality.

A satisfactory reply from the British government is not expected, and all arrangements have been made for the declaration of martial law.

At last advices the Boer forces in laager along the Sand river, under the orders of Commandant General Joubert, were variously estimated at from 5000 to 8000 men. It is generally expected that the first outbreak of hostilities will be the occupation of Laing's Nek, at the apex of the triangle formed by the Natal frontier. While there would be little trouble in doing this, the British authorities are confident that they have a sufficient force gathered at Dundee and Ladysmith to hold the Boers in check should they attempt an inroad in force into Natal. Unconfirmed cable reports are that the burghers of the Orange Free State have entered Natal, through the pass of Cudry Cleugh. There are four systems of railroads leading from the sea to the Transvaal from Cape Town through the Orange Free State, which have been made inoperative by the burghers of the Free State, another from Durban, which enters the Transvaal

through Laing's Nek. The occupying
of the Nek by Kruger's men shuts off
this route. Another is from Delagoa Bay, which runs through Portuguese or territory, and therefore cannot be used. There is another through the Orange Free State. Therefore, there is no direct access from British soil to the lofty plateau of the Transvaal, except through passes, which are not difficult to defend. This is the reason the Boers have been sending inoperative by the burghers of the Free State, another from Durban, which enters the Transvaal
through Laing's Nek. The occupying
of the Nek by Kruger's men shuts off

It is the desire of the publishers of

Admiral Dewey in Boston. Kindly

Good Afternoon.

It is a critical stage in the progress toward the acquisition of the Quincy boulevard. After all the good work done by our representatives in assisting to secure a large appropriation for the improvement, after all the successful efforts of the citizens' committee and the city solicitor to get reasonable options on land, the Park Commissioners are very much in doubt what they will do about it. A member of the board, we are informed, declared a day or two ago that they were more uncertain as to their action in regard to the Quincy boulevard than in regard to any other project before them. Then as if to emphasize this negative attitude and prepare the citizens of Quincy for disappointment, another member intimated that the decision of the commissioners was wavered on an even balance and as likely to go one way as another. This is extremely discouraging. We had thought the improvement was about to materialize.

However, we do not yet abandon hope of it. Instead we are stimulated to ask what is it that prolongs doubt of the eminent wisdom of establishing the boulevard. And what can be done to influence the judgment of the commissioners in our favor. Surely the citizens of Quincy are not lacking in interest in the improvement. But do they show their interest in a compelling way. Do they call loudly enough for it. We surmise that the failure three years ago to get the boulevard built was owing to the fact that other communities whose scenery favored such an improvement showed more zeal. The commissioners had many excellent projects before them
besides this of Quincy, and naturally took up those which were most attractively and energetically exploited.

Now, can't we as citizens and as a city government show our interest and zeal in such a massive way that the commissioners will be impressed that we are fully alive to the value of this enterprise. Can't we, through another public hearing, in Boston, or better still in Quincy, make it even clearer that no other locality presents a more attractive scene for a broad pleasure
parkway than the historic and beautiful shores of Quincy, along the Neponset, around the rocky cliffs of Squantum, by the island-gemmed waters of the bay, and so up the picturesque banks of Furnace brook to the magnificent Blue Hill reservation?

Never again can the land be acquired
as cheap as now; nor will it be as easy
again to smooth the way for the plans of the commissioners. Now is the time to strike, and carry to a successful issue all our previous labors. Quincy has been tantalized with the hope of the boulevard long enough. We begin to fear that the improvements will all go to the other cities and towns of the Metropolitan district and, that only the taxes will come to us. But perhaps one final supreme effort will change the look of things, and the $250,000 will be spent in Quincy for its adornment and development. Let it be made at once.

Drift of Opinion.

If you hope to see Dewey in Boston next Saturday, go in early.
There will be several other folks there with the same object in view.—Milford Journal.

Once people were content to make a living. Now they are eager to make money, which is quite another thing. Hence much dissatisfaction and many troubles.—Christian Register.

With the election of Samuel B.
Capen of Boston to the presidency of the American board a new policy comes in. Heretofore the presidents have been clergymen noted for their power of oratory. Now the office goes to a layman whose executive ability far exceeds his gifts as a speaker.—
New Bedford Standard.

In their doleful prediction about the difficulties we shall encounter in the management of the Philippines, the antis fail to call attention to the case of Hawaii. In fact they do not desire to call attention to the prosperous condition of that island. The Chief Justice of the Island who visited the United States recently declared that annexation has been a splendid thing
for Hawaii in every respect.

President McKinley won the hearts of all intelligent people when during the Dewey celebration he studiously and modestly avoided appropriating to himself any of the enthusiastic applause which was bestowed upon the Presidential carriage containing the President and the Admiral.
As they drove to and from the Capitol
the President smiled and chatted with Admiral Dewey while the latter was kept busy lifting his hat in acknowledgement of the enthusiastic greeting.
And again when the applause at the Capitol, during the presentation exercises, reached a climax he pushed the Admiral forward and stepped back.

CAIN AND JORDAN.

Again Candidates for the Legislature.Some Opposition at the Convention.Some Delegates Who Predict Defeat of Both.

Thomas F. Cain and William A.
Jordan were nominated as candidates for the general court at the Democratic Representative convention Wednesday night, although some opposition to the two gentlemen was shown.

The convention was held at Democratic headquarters in the Hancock house. M. T. Sullivan called the convention to order and a temporary organization was had with Jeremiah
C. Dorgan as chairman and Harold B.
Faxon as secretary.

The committee on credentials reported sixteen delegates present, although as a matter of fact there were but fourteen.

Upon motion of W. A. Kelley, a committee of one from each ward, with the chairman, retired and brought in the names of Thomas F. Cain and William A. Jordan as candidates.

A motion was then made that they be nominated by acclamation. M. T.
Sullivan objected. He did not know whether the idea was to put names on the ticket as a farce or whether it was to put on names of those who would be elected. He did not believe either of the two names mentioned could be elected. It was about time to put up some man who could be elected. The only show we have this year is on the candidates for Representative. He had nothing against the gentlemen
mentioned, but did not think they could win. It would be better to appoint a committee of three to look about and select good names to put on the ticket and he so moved.

Arthur Murphy of Ward Five thought Mr. Jordan would run better than last year.

George D. Cahill thought the convention was going a little too fast.
More than two names should be proposed and a ballot taken. A ballot would give an expression of opinion.

Chairman Dorgan said it was all right to accept the report of the committee but thought the nomination should be made by ballot. This was the place to learn the feelings of the different parts of the city.

Mr. Kelley withdrew his motion to make the nomination unanimous and
Mr. Cahill moved to proceed to ballot.
Mr. Sullivan moved as a substitute motion, that a committee of three be appointed to select the candidates for the Legislature.

Martin Cuniff thought that motion out of order. He thought it a funny way to appoint a committee to bring in two names, accept the report and then vote for someone else.

The chairman was in doubt whether he should put the substitute motion or not, but thought Mr. Cahill's motion was before the convention.

Mr. Sullivan said the idea of his motion was that the committee should go about and find two good men. He did not think the two names brought in could win.

Chairman Dorgan could see no way
out of it but take a ballot.
Mr. Cuniff said he was sent to the convention to pick out two men and he was not going about town looking for someone.

Mr. Kelley thought a ballot was the fairest way. The committee should have been instructed to bring in more than two names.

Mr. Cahill withdrew his motion.
Mr. Sullivan then suggested the name of John Curtis and if the convention was wise they would nominate him. He had never been defeated.

Upon motion of Mr. Cuniff it was voted to proceed to ballot.

Messrs. Cahill, Sullivan and Cuniff were appointed a committee to receive and count ballots.

The informal ballot resulted as
follows:

Whole number of votes 14
William A. Jordan had 9
Thomas F. Cain had 9
John Curtis had 7
William T. Shea had 2

Voted to take a formal ballot, which resulted as follows:

Whole number of votes 14
Thomas F. Cain had 11
William A. Jordan had 8
John Curtis had 7
Blanks 2

Upon motion the nomination of Messrs. Cain and Jordan was made unanimous.

The convention officers were empowered to fill any vacancies and the convention adjourned.

Political.

Three brand new candidates for the City Council are suggested in Ward
One: Charles A. Howland, Deleware
King and Charles N. Ditson.

PUMPKIN PIES.

And Lots of Good Things at Quincy Point Harvest Supper.

A very successful harvest festival was held in the Quincy Point church vestry on Wednesday evening. The decorations and fine display of vegetables and fruit would have told the people as they gathered the nature of the festival. Beautiful autumn leaves were used with good effect, and such large rosy apples, big squashes and pumpkins, fine white cauliflower,
cabbages, celery, potatoes, onions,
beets, carrots, peppers, peas, grapes, preserves, etc., etc. There was a pretty display also of dahlias by Mrs.
R. H. Newcomb.

The vegetables and fruit were donated by Messrs. Jerry Breen of Hingham, S. and D. Ford of North
Weymouth, T. W. Lincoln, Sr., John
Wright, J. W. Dennen, Charles H. Hall,
Henry Totman, D. W. Arnold, Arthur
Newcomb, C. W. Newcomb, T. H.
Newcomb, Mr. Green, T. B. Thomas,
Joseph Lapham, H. D. Adams, Mr. W.
Chabbeuck and Mrs. A. Breen.

But the harvest supper came first, and as Charles Hearn says, it was all right and worth a quarter sure, although the price was less. There were cold meats; baked beans with brown bread, pickles and piceallini; pies of all kinds; Indian pudding such as grandmother used to make; doughnuts, coffee, etc., in fact a grand harvest
feast.

The committee on supper were Mrs.
A. A. Harlow, Mrs. Joseph Lapham,
Mrs. Marcus Wright, Mrs. Elisha
Holmes, and Mrs. Samuel Hayden.

The committee on fruit and vegetables were: Mrs. R. H. Newcomb, Mrs. C. W. Newcomb and Mrs. H. D.
Adams and Mrs. George Bailey.

The vegetables and fruit were sold
after the supper.

There was also a delightful entertainment including songs and marches
by the phonograph, under the direction of Mr. Henry P. Fernald, which were much enjoyed by those present. Ice cream was for sale at the close of the entertainment.

Wheaton Seminary Club.

The first meeting of the New England
Wheaton Seminary club, for the season,
will be held at the Vendome, Boston, Saturday, October 14, 1899, beginning at 1.30 P. M. The new President, Mrs.
Carrie A. Moore Briggs, will be welcomed at the business meeting, and there will be reports from delegates to Federal Councils. The topic for the literary exercises of the afternoon will be "Social Service," a consideration of the circular sent out by the State Federal on. Some of the more feasible and interesting among modern forms of social service will be described and explained, especial attention being given to The Consumer's League, Stamp Saving Societies, recent Educational Movements, etc. Mrs. Estelle M. H.
Merrill will have charge of the day.

Now that the fiercest of the campaigns are over, let us stop saying mean things about each other, which neither of us mean. Politics does not destroy one's liking for a fellow citizen, although it would appear to be the case just before a convention. If everybody was really after the best man and for the best interests of the city alone, there would not be such a wide difference of opinion upon which to base bad feelings toward each other.

F. Neill place of Belmont street, Wollaston, to Baxter Newhall of Boston,
formerly of Shelburne Falls.

The Ladies Benevolent society of Atlantic met at Memorial Congregational church, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock for the purpose of discussing business matters.

The silver spoon souvenirs at the ladies' night party of the Granite City club on Wednesday evening were awarded to Mrs. E. W. H. Bass and Mrs.
Frank F. Prescott.

Winthrop Fearebay, who ran a series of successful dances last year in Music hall, Atlantic, intends to try his luck again this year by giving a dance the latter part of this month.

Mayor Keith has set the style for Saturday, and City Hall will be closed
all day. The Police, Fire Department, and others who receive their pay on Saturdays will be paid at the Treasurer's office on Friday.

Mr. Harry R. Osgood of Wollaston, arrived home from the Philippines on Wednesday afternoon. He came through from Chicago on the train which arrived in Boston at 3.05 P. M. and took the 3.25 train for home. He is in good health.

Dr. Kendall of Atlantic street, shot two large deer while on a hunting trip in Maine. He tenders his prize to the butcher at Timberlake and Small's store to be dressed for eating. Dr.
Kendall's prestige for successful hunting is of wide renown.

The City Band Musical and Literary Society will have a formal opening on

Daughters, Wednesday night, Oct. 18,
at eight o'clock, in Bethany chapel,
under the supervision of Mrs. Mercie Read of Rockland. Music by the church quartette.

John Dunn of Hingham went to Cambridge Wednesday with a load of pigs.
After delivering his load of pigs he took on a load of fire water. When he reached Quincy on his way home he had lost control of his horse and as a result he run into the carriage of A. A.
Meyers of Houghs Neck, with the result that one of Mr. Meyers carriage wheels were smashed. Dunn spent the night at the police station.

Inspector McKay is anxious to find an owner for a ladies' diamond ring.
All the rings reported to him as lost or stolen have been located except this
one. The ring in question was one found in possession of McClusky, the sneak thief, arrested in Jamaica Plain last week. McClusky says that he stole the ring in Quincy, but that he has been in so many places he can not tell when or what house it was.
Anyone who has lost a diamond should consult with Inspector McKay.

AMID BOYHOOD SCENES.

Admiral Dewey at Last Reaches His Old Home at Montpelier.

Meets Brothers and Friends of Bygone Days.

His Train Cheered All Along the Line During Journey From Shelburne.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 12.—Admiral Dewey is really home at last, here in his native state, and in the scenes of his boyhood. He arrived here from Shelburne on a special train at 5:35 o'clock last evening, and was greeted by an immense crowd, which had assembled at the depot. The admiral was driven to the house of Edward Dewey. He is the happiest of men, and as he walked through the streets, just at dusk, in company with his brothers, Edward and William, he bowed right and left, and waved his hands to old friends as he recognized them.

Admiral Dewey was not the guest of his brother over night, as he chose to remain in his sleeping car. Yesterday he had one of the quietest days since he left the Olympia. He enjoyed a pleasant night's rest at the Shelburne House, took an early morning walk, and then, after breakfast, in company with others in his party, he was driven for miles over the great estate of his host, Dr. Webb. A more beautiful Indian-summer day Vermont has not seen, and it was a beautiful picture stretched before the admiral's eyes as he gazed on the autumnal foliage in the wide expanse of woodland of Shelburne Farms. On returning to the house, early in the afternoon, lunch was served, and then the departure was taken for Montpelier, where the admiral once more resumed his place in the public's attention as guest of the capital of the state.

The special train, bearing Admiral Dewey, Dr. Webb and quite a large party, left Shelburne station a few minutes after 3 o'clock. The train consisted of a palace car, a sleeper and a dining car and buffet combination.

DR. SEWARD WEBB.

The entire party, with possibly some addition to the number, will live on the train here, for the reason that accommodations here are overtaxed, and because it will afford seclusion during the hours when the admiral is not called upon to respond to public duties.

main street, a short distance away. The admiral had a smile on his face, which reflected his joy at reaching his boyhood home, although it was many years since he had been here. He walked to the home of Edward Dewey, stopping to greet his old schoolmate, D. B. Fifield, the guest of whose house he passed.

Then the three brothers went into Edward Dewey's house, the front door being closed on the crowd which had surged from the street into the yard right up to the steps.

Admiral Dewey spent this forenoon with his relatives, and at noon he donned his uniform and will be engaged almost continually in official duties until after the celebration in Boston.

Proctor on Dewey and Presidency.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 12.—Senator Proctor, in an interview on the matter of the candidacy of Admiral Dewey for the presidency, said that whatever party nominated him would be almost sure to elect him. "If Dewey were elected," said Proctor, "I would vote for him, but I would vote for every other Republican, but if he was the Democratic candidate I would not vote for him."

Clergyman on the R. S. M.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—A patriotic mass meeting at the central music hall closed today with a series of exercises. The principal address was made by Rev. Francis E. Clark. His address dealt entirely with the colonial problem, pointing out the advantages enjoyed by the people of America under the colonial system as compared with the rule of the Spaniards. The moral of his speech was broad-minded and liberal treatment for all colonies which the United States may acquire. The other addresses were by Rev. George Loring of Boston on "The Religious Idea in National Life" and "The Development of the Great Northwest" by Bishop Arnett.

Torpedo Boat Takes A Other Spin.

Greenpoint, N. Y., Oct. 12.—The Holland submarine torpedo boat gave another exhibition of its powers in the trial which took place yesterday, over the two-mile course in Little Neck bay. Besides diving, running under water for two miles and coming to the surface for rapid observation, an attack on an imaginary enemy was made, in which a Whitehead torpedo on the regulation type used on the vessels of the United States navy was discharged. Another feature of the trial was the changing of the vessel's course after the torpedo was fired.

Tramp Ship Prove Unprofitable.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 12.—Considerable anxiety is felt here over the reported fact that an American schooner had been seized at Skibbereen, Ire., for fishing within the three-mile limit. The schooner Ethel B. Jacobs, from this port, is the only American fishing schooner now off the coast of Ireland.

Former Sent to Prison.

Providence, Oct. 12.—Lewis L. Rose, who had a meteoric career of two hours in passing forged checks and buying tea sets, was brought before Judge Wilbur yesterday, to plead to four indictments for forgery and uttering checks. He was sentenced to serve five years in the state prison.

Skull Is Fractured.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Ada Marshall is under arrest charged with assault and battery on John F. O'Neil, by pushing him down stairs at her home. O'Neil is dying from a fractured skull.

Two Yachts at Honolulu.

Boston, Oct. 12.—The adjutant general has received a telegram announcing that the Twenty-sixth regiment arrived at Honolulu, Oct. 2. All are well.

Joe Gans, the colored lightweight champion of the south, got the decision over Martin J. Judge in a hot 20-round bout at Baltimore.

Westerly, R. I., was literally painted red when Ensign Dunn of the cruiser Olympia arrived home. He was met at the depot by the local military companies and escorted to his home, amid the blaze of red fire and the boom of cannon.

Allie E. Lamson, one of Maine's well-known horse trainers and drivers, died at Augusta of typhoid fever and heart disease. He was a native of Liberty, and unmarried.

Edward Butler, aged 18, was arrested at Gloucester, Mass., charged with breaking and entering a liquor saloon. Butler is suspected of having been implicated in numerous break-ins.

James Towner, 65 years old, was struck by a runaway horse at Cambridge, Mass., and so badly injured that he died on the way to a hospital.

Owl's Head Mountain House, a popular summer resort hotel at Newport, Vt., was burned. The fire was caused by the overturning of a kettle of boiling tar. The property was valued at $100,000.

At a meeting of the Harvard Athletic association all of the officers resigned their positions in order to reorganize the association under a management similar to that of the baseball and football teams.

At the annual meeting of the Citizens' Law and Order league of Massachusetts, the officers elected were: Rev. E. E. Capen, D. D., president; Rev. Arthur Little, D. D., treasurer; and Miss J. F. O'Hara, secretary.

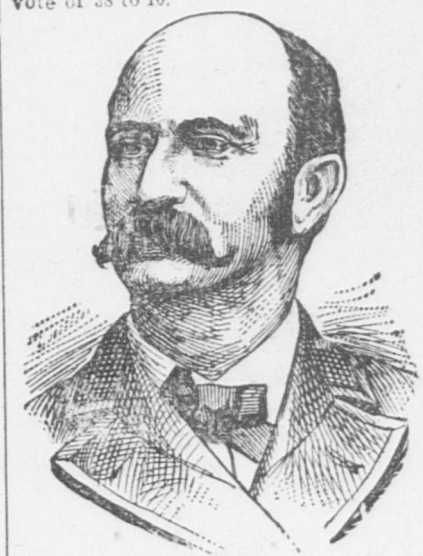

The summer cottage of James Knowlton, at Magnolia, Mass., was destroyed by fire. The fire was probably of incendiary origin.

United States Minister Hart has informed the state department that he has loaned $1,500,000, in order to redeem his paper money in silver.

THE PASSING OF HILL.

Former Senator and Governor "Thrown Down" by the Croker Faction.

New York, Oct. 12.—The followers of ex-Senator Murphy and Richard Croker defeated ex-Senator David B. Hill in a struggle for supremacy at the meeting of the state Democratic committee here last night. Senator Hill, in a strong speech, emphatically declared that while Croker had won the fight in the committee he could not ride rough shod over the rights of up-state Democrats at the polls, and followers of the senator declared that Croker's victory meant defeat for every member of the legislature above the New York city line. A resolution expressing sympathy with Bryan in his illness, declaring him the approved leader of the party in the nation and assuring him of loyalty and love, was offered. It was seconded by Croker and his followers voted for Bryan in 1896. The resolution was adopted by the vote of 28 to 10.

DAVID B. HILL.

Ex-Senator Hill himself directed the fight in the committee. One of his followers asked at the opening of the meeting that the contest in Rochester be settled. Ex-Senator Murphy and friends opposed the consideration of the matter at this time, but Senator Hill, in a long and impassioned speech, forced a resolution that the entire state committee decide between Croker and Kelley, the latter for the place on the committee. The Murphy-Croker faction won by 28 to 20.

From the time that the test vote showed the strength of the opposing sides, Croker assumed the leadership, and ex-Senator Hill and his followers around the protests and passionate speeches received with laughter by the winners in the long fight that has now apparently resulted in a change of Democratic leaders in this state.

Mr. Croker, in seconding the resolution regarding Bryan, spoke of Bryan as the natural leader, and said that if he were nominated in 1900, the people would loyally support him. Hill asked Croker sarcastically if he would support him. "You have changed your mind three times; there is no telling what you will do when 1900 comes," said Hill.

Mr. Croker simply put his hands in his pockets and smiled back at Hill.

Mr. Hill, in opposing the resolutions, declared that he and his followers had voted for and loyally supported Bryan in 1896.

Naval Officers Move Up.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The retirement of Rear Admiral Henry L. Howison has resulted in the promotion of the following officers: Captain Barker, commandant of the Norfolk navy yard, to be rear admiral; Commander Strong, to be captain; Lieutenant Commander Briggs, to be commander; Lieutenant Mulligan, to be lieutenant commander; Lieutenant (Junior grade) J. H. Rowen, to be lieutenant. Admiral Howison stood number three in the list of rear admirals. His retirement advances Rear Admiral Schley from number nine to number eight and Rear Admiral Sampson from number 11 to number 10, placing the latter at the head of the list of junior rear admirals.

Due to Forgetful Engineer.

Wheeling, Oct. 12.—A passenger train collided with a special from Pittsburgh at North Creek, the latter bringing delegates from western Pennsylvania to the tri-state encampment of the Knights of Pythias. Eight persons were seriously injured, two fatally. The special had orders to take a siding at North Creek, but the engineer of the special, it is said, forgot and a minute later the two trains came together and were badly wrecked.

Dem Brains Fire Opening Gun.

South Braintree, Mass., Oct. 12.—The opening rally of the Democratic campaign in this state was held at South Braintree last night. The principal speakers of the evening were R. T. Paine, Jr., the Democratic candidate for governor, John H. Mack, candidate for lieutenant governor,

Worth Reading.

To the Editor:
I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

Yours truly,
A Reader

Drift of Opinion.

"Giving the other fellow a lift has been the way many men have been lifted to business success. Sentiment and business are not necessarily separate things. Business is not soulless.—Beverly Times.

"The Haverhill Gazette clings to the opinion that the new woman has a legal right to make a fool of herself, and frequently does it. The Gazette is unquestionably right. Some of the 'new women' feel obliged to do striking and abnormal things in order to get their newness thoroughly advertised and understood. But they are no worse at that than some of the fool men of the present day, though we are likely to think they are because, while we know that man is likely to make a fool of himself on slight provocation, we expect something better of women.—Brocton Enterprise.

"The annihilation of all trust would be like burning a barn to exterminate rats. A wise man will try to get rid of the rats and save the barn. The result of the discussion now going on will be to develop facts and principles, to disclose the real evils and dangers of trusts as contradistinguished from imaginary ones, and to suggest a practical way of reforming the evils and preventing injurious trusts without abolishing such combinations of capital as may be absolutely necessary to the carrying on of a great business and commercial enterprises.—Indianapolis Journal.

"The School Committee voted on Monday to not grant the request to close the public schools on Oct. 20, the day on which the Essex County Teachers' Association will hold a convention at Haverhill. The action was wise, for the benefit to the schools from these conventions is very slight. As a pleasant junket for the teachers they are very desirable, to be sure but our instructors are quite well favored in the matter of vacations and when the schools are open for business it is well to keep right down to real work for the five days assigned to school duties. If teachers' conventions are necessary let them be held on Saturdays, when there are no school sessions. Then the teachers and the scholars can have their pleasure on the same day.—Lynn Item.

Special Music.

The following musical numbers will be given at the Memorial Congregational church, Atlantic, Sunday morning at 10.45 o'clock, by the church choir and Mr. William H. Griggs of the Shepard Memorial choir of Cambridge:
Anthem—"God is a spirit of love," J. Sacher.
Solo—"The Lord is my light," Francis A. Allen.
Response—"Let the words of my mouth," Baumbach.
Solo—"Jesus, thou art standing," Geibel.

CODDINGTON STREET.

Three Property Holders Dissatisfied with Awards.

City Advertiser Buildings Under the Hammer.

Statements of Assessed Valuation and the Awards.

The taking of the land on the south side of Coddington street for the purpose of widening has stirred up a hornet's nest, and it looks as though there was trouble ahead. The greatest losers by the widening are N. B. Fernald who owns the lot on the corner of Coddington and Washington street, all of which is taken. The Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co. will lose all but a narrow strip, and the City Hospital will lose a large slice of their land on Coddington street and on the corner of Coddington and Spear streets. Opportunity was given these parties to object when the matter was before the City Council.

When the city commenced work on the widening, notice to move the buildings on the land taken was given but no notice taken. A second notice, it is understood was given to move the buildings within so many days, but up to the present time nothing has been done. The next move in the drama was made by Commissioner Cavanagh Tuesday when he issued notice that buildings in question would be sold at public auction Tuesday, Oct. 17, under authority of chapter 49 of the Public Statutes.

Section 17 of chapter 49 under which the commissioner is probably acting reads:

SECT. 17. If the owner of any building or material, on land a part or the whole of which is taken, refuses or neglects to take care of or to remove such buildings or materials, after reasonable notice in writing from the commissioner, they may take such care of the same as the preservation thereof or public safety demands; or may remove the same upon the adjoining land of such owner, or elsewhere; or may sell the same at public auction, after five days' notice of such sale, and hold the proceeds for the benefit of such owner; and the expense so incurred, or the value thereof to the owner, shall be allowed in reduction of his damages.

It will be of interest at this time to learn the Assessors' valuation of the property in question, and also the amount taken by the city, and the award made for the same by the City Council.

The Assessors' valuation of property in question this year was as follows:
N. B. Fernald, 2,485 feet of land, $2,000; store, $2,700; or 80 cents per foot for the land.

Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., 1,000 feet of land, on Washington street, $850; 144 feet of land on Coddington street, $100, or 50 cents per foot for the land; house Coddington street, $1,200.

City Hospital, land Coddington street, 9,000 feet $3,000 (31 cents per foot); land Spear street, 10,210 feet $3,000 (29 cents per foot); house, $1,500.

The land taken by the proposed widening and the award made by the City Council is as follows:

N. B. Fernald 2,485 feet of land, $7,000; or $2.82 cents per foot.
Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., 1,490 feet of land, $1,000; or 67 cents per foot.

City Hospital, 4300 feet of land, $4,000; or 91 cents per foot.
Owners may remove building at their own expense.

That the owners of this property are not satisfied with the award, is evident from the fact that they have not made any move toward removing the buildings.

Mr. Fernald when seen said he had done nothing about removing his building and did not intend to at present. The city has a right to take the land, but they must pay for it. He did not consider the award of $7,000 sufficient. He had recently refused an offer of $10,000. The store was good renting property and had not been vacant for many years and was paying a rental of $600 a year and the tenants made all repairs to the interior of the building.

President Charles A. Howland of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co., when seen about the taking of land of his company, said he had not refused to accept the award, for the company had never been officially informed of what the award was. All he knew was what he had seen in the papers. He had received notice to remove the buildings, trees, etc., but had not done so. If the award was that published he did not consider it enough and would not accept it. The house and land on Coddington street cost the company $2500. On Aug. 16, the Commissioner of Public Works was notified that the directors of the company had voted to sell the house and land on which it stood for just what they paid for it, and to sell the other land taken for the assessed value. He had received no reply from this letter. He had, however, received a notice that unless the buildings were moved within a certain time they would be sold. Also a notice that they were to be sold. He should take an appeal from the award if it was but $1,000, as he had seen published.

All of Mr. Fernald's land is taken and the award for the land is $2,000 above the assessed value of the land and store. The land of the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co. is bettered from the fact that its office lot becomes a corner lot. The two lots of the Quincy Hospital contain 19,800 feet assessed at $6,000, and the taking was 4,300 feet for which $4,000 was allowed.

A RAZOR DRAWN

Granite Manufacturer Assaulted By an Emloyee.

William Watson, aged 27 years, a colored man, employed as a quarryman at Fallon & Sons quarry, made a murderous assault with a razor on Peter T. Fallon early Thursday evening. About 7 o'clock Mr. Fallon discovered Watson on the doorstep to his house. Watson immediately demanded the money due him. Mr. Fallon replied that was not the proper place to come for his money and ordered the fellow to get out. Mr. Fallon then started for his stable, and Watson followed him. Watson was again ordered to get out and was given a push out of the yard. At that Watson drew a razor and made a savage lunge at Mr. Fallon's throat. The latter was too quick for Watson, and ducked his head just in time to save himself from being cut. Mr. Fallon then grabbed a pitchfork and holding Watson at bay forced him into the street where he was detained by the crowd until Officer Bradley, who had been sent for arrived. Watson was placed under arrest and taken before Mr. Fallon for the purpose of identification.

At this time Watson made a break to get away from the officer. The attempt failed, however, and he was landed in jail. He was arraigned in court this morning.

Farewell Party.

A farewell party was held at the house of Mrs. John Smith on Payne street, Saturday evening, previous to her leaving for Glasgow, Scotland, where she intends to take up her abode. A large number of her friends were present and enjoyed a very pleasant evening with songs and dancing. During the evening Mr. David Ramsay, in a neat little speech presented Mrs. Smith, on behalf of her friends with a handsome silver set. Mrs. Smith very appropriately replied. The feature of the evening was the rendition of Annie Laurie by Mrs. Rebecca McLellan, who received a most enthusiastic encore. A collation was served during the evening, and after the inner man was satisfied the fun and frolic was resumed with more zest than ever. Everybody was sorry when the midnight chimes proclaimed the approach of Sunday. All wish Mrs. Smith a safe and speedy passage.

Gunner Shot.

Early Thursday morning Charles L. Prescott and Jack Shugrue of this city went to Nantasket gunning. Mr. Prescott is a good marksman, and soon brought down some coot. He handed his gun to his companion that he might secure his birds. In handling the gun it was accidentally discharged and Mr. Prescott received the charge in the upper part of one leg and in one hand. No 4 shot is usually used, and the wounds were very painful. An Odd Fellow promptly came to the assistance of Mr. Prescott and drove him to his home at Quincy and thence to the Quincy hospital, where he was attended by Dr. Gordon. The shot did not reach the bone in the leg, and will not be serious, but the wounds are painful and Mr. Prescott passed a restless night.

Littlefells Paines.

Is the name of a medicated flannel pad to be used instead of the dreadful soothing syrups for the relief of colic and restlessness in children, and all pains of the stomach and bowels. Made and strongly recommended by the Comfort Powder people. 25 cents at druggists.

Furniture upholstered. Mattresses to order or made over. Carpets cleaned and relaid. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Mrs. P. Dolan of Oak street, is quite ill.

Two large deer are on exhibition at the store of E. H. Doble & Co.

Many of the local stores will close during the middle of the day Saturday.

Rev. Peter Kerr will address the Y. M. C. A. men's meeting Sunday afternoon at 3.30.

John P. Bigelow, Jr., has accepted a position as ticket seller in the South Terminal station.

The Thomas Crane Library will be closed all day Saturday in honor of Dewey's visit to Boston.

Mayor Keith gives notice that City Hall will be closed all day Saturday, as suggested by Gov. Wolcott.

The St. Joseph A. A. of Boston is anxious for a game with the Quincy High school foot ball eleven.

Mrs. Judith Greenleaf of Warren avenue, Whitman, is on a visit to her son, Mr. Charles Derby, the clothier.

William A. McCabe of 16 Penn street left for Camp Meade, Pa., Monday, having enlisted in the 41st regiment.

The estate of Clarence Lincoln of Clive street has been sold, through the agency of Elijah G. Hall, to F. K. Brown of Atlantic.

Mr. John G. Faxon formerly of Quincy, is detailed by the Boston Herald to do the Dewey work on his Montpelier, Vt., tour.

Miss Mary Lyons, clerk for George H. Brown & Co., is taking her vacation, and Miss Elsie Dickey of Braintree is substituting until her return.

An interesting letter has been received from Mr. Albert Keating, dated at Flowers Cove, which will appear in the Saturday eight-page Ledger.

Mr. and Mrs. George Danham of Nantucket are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mueller of Quincy Point. Their little daughter accompanies them.

Mrs. G. C. Jones has enlarged her house in the brick block on Chestnut street, and when the improvements are complete at No. 20 she will open a first class boarding house.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Quincy Yacht club, which was held at the Adams building on Thursday evening, it was voted to accept the cup challenge from the Manchester Yacht club.

The meeting of gentlemen favorable to the candidacy of John O. Hall for Mayor to have been held Saturday evening has been postponed until next Tuesday evening on account of the Dewey celebration.

The new business block of A. Malnati on the corner of Liberty street and Brooks avenue is about completed. This is the first brick and granite building, other than school buildings, to be erected in this vicinity.

Miss Elizabeth Merriam entertained a large audience at the Wollaston Congregational church on Thursday evening with an interesting talk on "Rambles east and west." Her remarks were illustrated with some beautiful stereoscopic views.

The large soldiers' monument unveiled at Peoria, Ill., last week by President McKinley, was cut at the works of McGilvray & Jones in Quincy. There were eleven stones in the monument which weighed from seventeen to twenty-three tons each.

J. W. Gorman's Troubadours tonight at Quincy Music hall will give the best show of its kind that will be seen here this season. By the street parade and all that we can find out they should have a full house. Get your tickets at Durgin's and avoid the rush at the door.

Maj. W. E. Morison presided at a meeting of Co. H of the 5th Infantry, M. V. M., of Charlestown on Thursday evening. Lieut. Henry W. Gilson was elected first lieutenant, but declined, and then Valentine E. Gilson, the first sergeant was unanimously elected. Gilson is 6 feet, 8 inches tall.

For several weeks the Universalist church has been closed, the annual summer vacation having been extended. The pretty edifice will be reopened Sunday, and the change to an afternoon service may be appreciated. All are invited to rally at 2.30 P. M. and listen to an able sermon on "Manifestations of the Spirit."

The first whist of the members of George L. Gill Rebekah lodge, was held Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' hall. Fifteen tables were engaged in play, at the conclusion of which prizes were awarded as follows: Ladies' first, a fern, to Miss E. D. Conklin of New York; second, a cocoa pot, to Mrs. Davidson; consolation, a pitcher to Mrs. J. H. Gillis. Gentlemen's first, a jardiniere to Lester M. Pratt; second, a comb and brush tray, to John H. Gillis; consolation, salts, to J. F. Dunham.

Dr. Fred A., and Mrs. Clara Graham Jones are receiving congratulations on the birth of a little daughter on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Waterhouse are on their annual shooting trip in the Maine woods.

Miss Alice G. Coe entertained the Busy Bee Sewing club, Thursday afternoon. Ices and sweets were daintily served, and Miss Gertrude W. Hall played several piano selections.

Mrs. W. A. Cutting and Mrs. E. F. Spencer of Worcester, are visiting Miss Annie G. Witherill of Braintree.

A very charming reception was held at the Brunswick hotel, Boston, on Wednesday evening of this week, by Mr. and Mrs. Charles G. Schirmer, who were married in Montreal, at St. Paul's church, September 20. The bride was Katherine Duff Ramsay, and well known in the best social circle of Montreal. Mr. and Mrs. Schirmer will be at home on Abbot road, Wellesley Hills, after November 1. Mr. Schirmer took part in the pageant "A New World" which was given a few years ago at Quincy Music hall and his dancing the minuet with Miss Marion Hall of Dorchester was one of the prettiest features of the evening.

Quincy was well represented at the Symphony orchestra concert at Music hall, Boston, Friday afternoon.

Mrs. O. W. Jackson of Braintree has returned home from a two months' visit with relatives in New Bedford.

The Bank Officers association of Boston, propose to eclipse all former entertainments with the operatic comedy which they now have well underway. The performance will be given at a Boston theatre early in the winter. Several Quincy young men are interested and will take part in the production.

Mrs. Alfred Jelenick of Botolph street returned Thursday from a two weeks' stay in New York.

Miss Garland Mischler has been visiting friends at Holbrook this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dutton and daughter of Deerfield, N. H., were guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Stoddard of Braintree, this week.

The friends of Mrs. Susie Foster Page and Miss Mary D. Foster have been pleased to see them in Quincy again. They came east to be present at the wedding of their brother, Harry, and Miss Breed of Salem.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Prescott are in New Hampshire for a week.

Mrs. Frank A. Bates, of Braintree has returned from her visit with friends in Plymouth.

Mrs. W. G. A. Pattee will open her house next Tuesday afternoon for one of Miss Thompson's talks. The subject, "Under an Ulster Thatch, Bits of Irish Life and Folk Love," will be of unusual interest as Miss Thompson will give bits of her experiences in Ireland this summer.

Among October weddings was one in Plainfield, New Jersey, when Mr. Edward Perry of New Orleans, who has for so many years been an annual summer guest at the home of Mr. James H. Harlow, gave the bride, a sister of Mrs. John G. Faxon away. Mr. Perry is 94 years old, and Mr. Faxon's baby daughter, a great granddaughter in the family, was little flower maiden. She was dressed in white, and carried a bouquet of daisies. The bride was Miss Ethel Holmes of Plainfield, N. J., and the groom Mr. Frederick C. Nichols of Fitchburg, Mass.

Ralph M. McGlaulin of South Braintree and Miss Mary Thayer of Braintree were united in marriage at the residence of Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern, pastor of the South Congregational church, Sunday evening. Ernest Margerson, cousin of the groom was best man, and Miss Millie McGlaulin, a sister of the groom acted as bridesmaid.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Stenzel of Botolph street have gone on a visit to Washington to Mrs. Stenzel's sister. They intend being gone until next summer. Meanwhile Mr. and Mrs. Henry Shaw will occupy their home.

The engagement is announced of Miss Lucy H. Osborne, daughter of Mrs. G. H. Osborne and Mr. Albert E. Stephenson of Atlantic.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Jones have issued invitations for the wedding reception of their daughter, Sadie Malzena and Mr. Arthur Warner Harris, at their home on Saville ave., Wednesday evening, Oct. 25, from eight until ten.

Amos W. Stetson of Braintree, has moved to his winter home 656 Tremont street, Boston.

The engagement is announced of Miss Ellie Emma Fowles Lovell and Mr. John White Thomas of Weymouth. Miss Lovell is a niece of Mrs. N. B. Fernald and Mrs. Joseph M. Glover of this city.

Rev. O. Ordway and wife of Braintree returned last week Thursday, from a three months' sojourn in Lowell.

C. Harold Stone of South Braintree, left Thursday on his wheel, for a few days outing at Newmarket, N. H.

Miss Abigail Adams, one of the bridesmaids at the Higginson-Tudor wedding in Trinity church, Boston Monday noon, was attired in a princess gown of straw-colored crepe de chine opened at the side and front to show an accordion plaited chiffon petticoat of the same tint. The maid of honor and the bridesmaids wore black velvet poke bonnets.

Mr. George A. Snow and family, of Braintree, are visiting in Cleveland, Ohio, where they went to attend the wedding of Mr. Snow's sister.

Mrs. George H. White of Braintree is stopping with friends in Winchester, Mass.

Mayo-Houghton.

In response to invitations sent out by Mr. James Houghton of Dorchester about two hundred relatives and intimate friends gathered at the chapel of the Second church, Dorchester on Wednesday, Oct. 11, to witness the marriage of his only daughter Miriam, and Mr. Francis Guild Mayo of Jamaica Plain.

The ceremony was solemnized in the spacious church parlors which had been beautifully decorated by friends of the bride. The large window in which the bridal party stood was banked with autumn leaves, and palms. There was a profusion of autumn leaves, cut flowers, potted plants and asparagus vine throughout the rooms and a bright wood fire the open fireplace added its cheerful glow.

The bride and her father were preceded by the ushers and met by the groom and his best man, Mr. Charles Houghton, uncle of the bride. Mr. Little, pastor of the church spoke the impressive words and the troth was plighted with two rings. A delightfully informal reception followed the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Mayo after a wedding trip will reside at Jamaica Plain where they will be at home at Everett street, on Tuesdays after December 1st.

Miss Houghton made a charming bride and wore a beautiful white satin and gauze gown which was imported from Paris for her mother's wedding, some twenty-five years ago. She wore orange blossoms and carried a bouquet of bride roses.

Mrs. Mayo is a member of Adams chapter, D. R., of Quincy and is well known to many of our people.

THE SINGERS.

He struck his harp a sounding stroke,
And high in heaven the music rang;
The echoes in the skies awake
Fluting the mighty note he sang.

And no one paused to greet his thought;
Life was too swift and love too sweet;
He sang his life's story for naught,
The throng went by with hurrying feet.

But one who listened by the way,
Who wore no singing robe at all,
Lifted a warlike light and gay
As a child's laugh, a throbbing call.

And half beneath the breath his strain
Seemed full of tunes all men had heard
Long, long ago, sweet falls of rain,
The love song of the mating bird.

The rustling leaf, the murmuring dove,
They heard in that melodious sigh;
The whisper of first trembling love
They heard and their first lullaby.

Within their hearts they sang his lay
Again. They kissed his garment's hem
And threw their laurels in his way
That he might rest his feet on them.

The Doctor of the Swamp

The Swamp Swallowed the Locomotive, and the Lake Swallowed the Swamp.

BY MORLEY ROBERTS.
Copyright.

It was undoubtedly a swamp.
"There ain't no shadder of a doubt of it," said the railroad men when they cut sods from the moss with short handled shovels.

North of them stretched the mighty prairies, not yet yielding corn, for half a thousand miles. Beyond the prairie lay the muskeg, the barren lands of northern Canada, haunt of the red eyed, matted musk ox, of the moose and caribou.

South was Lake Superior, a silver green sea, quiet, unruffled and tremendous. Upon its shores thousands of men were working at the making of a railroad, part of Britain's steel girdle round the world.

But now it was on the anvil, and the nature of things was bucking against the intention of man, and every now and again fate piped a card played by the engineers, and this happened sometimes just as the C. P. R. man was reaching out his hand to collar the stakes.

"A swamp, it is true," said the surveyor, "but nothing serious. Let the engineers look to it."

They shifted ahead and measured the rotund earth and left the swamp behind them. And a spell of dry weather took the engineers in. It even took Archer in, who was not truly an engineer, but a man who understood things generally and often was hardest driving when he was as invisible as steam in the cylinder.

"Get on, get on," said Archer, who was a real chunk of millstone grit, originally from Yorkshire and Americanized till he bit like a file into any opposition.

"I just mean having it done," was Archer's motto, and it was forever in his mouth.

"He meant having it done" should be his epitaph and perhaps will be by and by when it gets done finally.

So when the swamp spread out he jumped on it and declared decisively that it wasn't a swamp at all, or, if it was, it wasn't much of a one. And if it was much of a one he didn't care.

"The railroad goes over it," said Archer, for he wanted that section through, and in his mind was the notion of the driving of the last spike, which represents heavenly attainment and paradise to railroad men.

And the railroad did go over it, and then Archer said:

"I told you so. Hurry up, now; hurry up."

As everybody had been hurrying up till the horizon danced the men grunted a little. And Archer sidled east on a train on business and wasn't back for three days. As he returned it rained in a gentle, insinuating way, good for crops and soothing to the farmer's mind, as it was a long time from harvest. But it did not soothe Archer, who wanted nice, dry, warmish weather, as he knew men, if they worked at all, never worked as well in rain, for when a man is thinking about himself it takes him who would shift 15 cubic yards of dirt in ten hours will come down to shifting only 12 or less.

He got out at Neplion.

"It's a bit damp, Mr. Archer," said a man loading there on the platform.

"Humph!" said Archer.

"And they do say there ain't no railroad on that swampy patch," said the Neplion man.

"What?"

"No railroad on that swamp piece, I said," returned Neplion, spitting.

"Gone through!"

"The deuce!" cried Archer, and, going to his office, he found a few telegrams, reading:

1. "Swamp looks very shaky."
2. "Swamp too soft. Can hardly run the gravel train over it."
3. "Road gone in. Locomotive gone with it. Wire instructions."

Archer went outside and shook his fist at Nature and swore a little very softly and a little not loud and, getting on the locomotive with the engineer, went like the wind on a visit of inspection.

"I own it freely," said the man, with his hand on the lever as the engine fled west like a squattering duck. "I own it freely, Mr. Archer, but I never had no confidence in that swamp."

"Nor me," said the fireman.

The engineer shut his left side subordinate up with a frown of surprise which was like a blow with a clinker rake.

"You didn't, eh?" said Archer. "And why not?"

"Waal, Mr. Archer, it's this way," returned the engineer; "I felt that she didn't trust it. And when a man's engine don't trust the road, but gets on a nervous tremulation, like a horse on a plank bridge that's bendy, a man hasn't the proper confidence neither."

"Humph!" growled Archer.

"That's so," said the engineer as he peered ahead through the rain, which was now coming down "kersploh."

The lake was lost under a black squall, but here and there it showed a thunderous green, like live swamp, green and mucky, in hard dried fen. The road's ditches were full of water, and so were the drain culverts running athwart the road.

"It's got to be tried with all weathers," said the engineer, who was rather religious. "The Almighty says that about all things, Mr. Archer, and railroads ain't no exception and haven't no especial gifts of grace. It's good works put the railroad through. We find salvation on the bedrock."

But Archer had no love for theology then or at any time, and he growled.

"Here we are, sir," said the sententious man at the lever.

They pulled up at a bit of a wayside shanty that is now a dandy station, and Archer lit off the locomotive into a puddle.

He found a gang of melancholy makers of railroads awaiting his coming. They looked very much ashamed of themselves.

"So you've let her through, have you?" cried Archer reproachfully.

And Scott, the chief of them, nodded. The others nodded, too, like automatic Chinese mandarins.

"We've let her through, sir," said Scott; "that's a fact."

Archer nodded him by the arm just above the elbow.

"Come in and let's have a look," said Archer. And he went out of the shelter into the rain.

Behind them tailed the gang of subdued subordinates. A dozen of the men came out of their tents and followed.

"Think bully Archer can cure her?" asked one.

"He's a rustler."

"Rustles us."

"And himself, sonny. But this yer swamp! Dr. Archer can cure swamps and give new life and tone to the whole railroad system of the C. P. R. Do not delay till it is too late. Mention this advertisement."

The tail of Archer's group laughed at the joker. But Archer overheard, for he had ears.

"You heard that?" he said to Scott.

"Young Wade is saying I'm the swamp doctor. If so, it's my first case."

They came down to the creek or little river which bounded the swamp. The bridge was wrecked, and the rails gradually disappeared into bubbling slime on the far side of the water. And right across the swamp which now glistened in pools lay a broad band of this same black slime, marking where the road to the Rockies and beyond had once been.

"Oh, British Columbia!" said Archer to himself; "oh, British Columbia, must you wait?"

He spoke out.

"So the gravel train went through?"

"Yes," said Scott, with the curt American affirmative, "it did so."

"Then she's deep?"

"She is so," said Scott, pulling his mustache.

"We'll report this when we've cured it," said Archer. "Oh, hang this rain! How shall we cure it?"

Scott put the end of his mustache into his mouth and chewed it.

"Mr. Archer, it's my opinion that it was a mistake to take this line. It would have paid us to go up yonder."

"Extra miles cost dollars, Mr. Scott," snapped Archer, "and never mind about the ought. What's to be done now? For I just mean having it done, and that settles it."

He sat down on a bank of pine lying on the ground and motioned Scott to sit beside him. The others retreated.

"He says 'he just means having it done,'" said Charley Wade. "He's a tough, isn't he? I'll bet drinks he does it too."

And he and his crowd argued all the way back to camp.

"A swamp can be drained," said Archer.

"This one drains itself," replied Scott.

"We're sitting beside the drain now."

"Then we want another."

"I don't see how it's to be done, sir."

"I just mean having it done!" cried Archer. "But for raising difficulties give me your expert. This man who knows too much knows too little."

"And the man who knows too little often knows too much, sir," said Scott sharply.

"Oh, pshaw!" cried Archer. "I'll cure this swamp or bust. It's late now and getting dark, and I'm wet to the skin. But tomorrow I'll go through this swamp and fix it. I tell you I mean having it done. Think it out, mean. I'll give a month's pay to any man who makes a feasible suggestion, whether it works or not."

He went back to the camp and staid by himself, sweating over the swamp problem, while the crew of engineers and the men argued till the night fell on the lake and the vast fertile northern prairie. And it rained mightily till dawn, when the sky cleared in the east and the sun came up from Ontario to see how the work got on.

It found little Archer sitting over his swamp, thinking it out, and went on to inspect the Rocky Mountain division, where 10,000 human ants strove among the great hills. And when the sun came round again it still saw the man who meant having it done sitting over his swamp, thinking it out.

He called all the engineers up one after the other and found them fixed in cursing the surveyors for having struck this swamp in fine, dry weather. But none of them had any notion of clearing up the difficulty without delay.

"I mean having it done and without any more waste of time," he said to Charley Wade, who was as bright as the best of them. "If this swamp stays, there's a reason for it. What is it, Wade?"

"It's not so much above the lake level, sir," said Charley, "and maybe there's a connection between the two."

"Come here," said Archer, and he walked the young fellow far down the bank of the creek. "Isn't this a good enough drain?"

"Only it don't drain it," answered Wade.

And then Archer clipped him tight by the shoulder.

"I've got it, Wade. Look at the creek and read it and tell me what you read."

Wade knitted his clear young brows and stared at the black and gloomy stream. But he read nothing.

"You see nothing?" laughed Archer.

"Then I'll show you engineers what's wrong. I told you I meant having it done, and when I say so something's got to give. Go and get me the boat up here from the shore. You'll find me here when you get back."

And while Wade ran for the boat Archer strode alongside to the camp.

"Give me an iron rod," he demanded of the storekeeper, "and let me have it quick. One ten feet long, and stiff at that. Steal it, take it, get it, man alive!"

And as he stood waiting he looked back between the steel rails running east past Nemagosa, Metagama and Nipissing till they struck the Ottawa river and went through under the crowned city of Ottawa to Montreal. And westward, westward lay the mighty mountains, and beyond them was the sea.

"Let us get our bit done, my men," said the doctor of the swamp. "Oh, I just mean getting it done!"

The storekeeper came hurriedly, trying not to run for the sake of his dignity and hardly daring to walk while the half tamed bear, Archer, danced on the hot plate of his desire.

So Archer snatched a long clearing rod from the hands of his man and, with it over his shoulder, started back for his sick spot in the millroad, like a thick set little surgeon handling a probang and hungering for enlightenment, for he was more like a surgeon than a doctor, and no dilettante or mere fumbler at that.

"I'll drain you," he said savagely. "I'll give you beans. I'll rake up your vitals, my precious swallower of locomotives. I'll make you a mud spot and scrape you dry with a shovel."

His eyes brightened, and he walked with a swing. Three deep lines betwix his eyes were now two, and if his diagnosis of this swamp disease were but accurate he would smooth out these to a single crease.

He got back to his drain, the slow and dismal creek, and saw Charley Wade in the distance coming up from the lake in a rotten shell called a boat.

"Step light or you'll step through, sir," said Charley. "She's a basket and as crazy as a state asylum."

"Was it easy rowing up, Wade?" asked the little bear, handling his rod like a harpoon.

"Easier up here than below," said Wade, and the bear grunted joyfully.

"And still she tells you nothing?" Wade looked up chortfallen.

"Not a word, sir."

"You came through a place where it was a bit weedy, eh?"

"I did," said Wade.

"Let her drift," said Archer, like a bear when he smells honey.

And he let his iron hang deep in the water, but found no bottom.

"I'm on mud," said the boss, and he stood up.

"Let her drift," he said sharply, and he jabbed into thick ooze.

"Not yet," he growled. "Go lower."

Again he jabbed at the under earth, and the rod went deeper.

"Ugh!" said the boss, and there were three lines between his half closed eyes.

"Oh, a yard more!" he cried to Wade, and then he rammed again at the earth and struck a rib. The divining rod rang.

"Oh, I've got it!" said the surgeon, and the world was a happy place for him that moment. "I touched her—oh, I touched her! Ribs o' rock!"

Wade opened his eyes and understood.

"Hurrah!" he cried.

"You read her now?" said Archer, with the open brows of a child.

"She's A. B. C.," laughed Wade, and the boss and the boy shook hands.

What greater joy than to circumvent the ancient, cunning earth! The Maker of Things and the builder can declare it. Let those of a city's meaner joys and those who play their little wiles against a brother ant's brains laugh if they will, but they are nothing in the scales of Fate when God holds the balance and sets against their golden plumpness some natural lord of the open air.

"Say nothing about this, Wade; not a word," cried Archer. "Some of you think I'm nothing but a whip and spur."

"Not I," said Wade. "I told 'em."

"Lemme ashore," cried Archer, "and take your boat back."

He marched to the camp triumphant, holding his hat in his hand.

"Send me quick three rock men, with drills and dynamite," he cried east.

"And this is private," he added to the operator ticking the message.

And early next morning he had three lads of metal drilling under water into a rib of the earth.

"There's nothing in it," said Scott, a bit sulky at being dispossessed of the initiative by this brigadier who believed he saw the enemy's weak spot.

"There'll be dynamite in it," said Wade to himself. "And grumpy Archer's in it, and he's a whale at things."

And grumpy Archer growled and swore and tramped and stamped and walked round and round his swamp and up and down it and waited for the crisis and the proof. Between his eyes came other lines, and they were criss-crossed with other wrinkles.

"I'll rake your insides out," he told the swamp that regarded him with fat, black contempt and stood in ooze. "I'll rake and scrape you and make dry peat of you and get my locomotive back."

The lads drilling went at it steadily, and when one hole was made under the dark water Archer ordered another.

"I'll give you pills, my boy," he told his sick railroad, "and fetch you out hale and hearty."

He sat watching the men work, one of them turning the drill solidly and the others striking.

"Keep the hole up and down. Don't go out of the rib," said Archer. "It's not so big across."

All who were doing nothing came down to look at the operation, and they made bets for and against, according as they believed in Archer or in Scott.

"A dollar he does!"

"And a dollar he doesn't!"

"Fifty dollars I do!" said Archer. "I just mean having it done."

And next morning early they put in the dynamite cartridges, tailed like fizzing comets, with Bickford's fuse.

"Set 'em going," said the doctor, and all hands sat back to watch for geyser spouts in the creek.

And presently the crack came, and the water heaved, and a rock lump leaped in foam.

"Bully for our side!" said Wade, jumping. "I'll double my bet."

And now the creek was lined with men who watched it in doubt that soon was doubt no more.

"She's moving!" yelled Wade, and the others cheered. For the current of the stream was swift. Archer with his rod, was jabbing for that earth rib, and found it no more. The ancient accumulation of weed and wreck and ooze piled up against it began to go, and the stream moved swifter and swifter as it cut its way into the earth. And as it moved it sank inch by inch.

"Have I done it?" asked the doctor.

"It looks like it," said Scott, "and I own you've beaten me. She's draining—draining fast."

"Let's go up higher," said Archer. "Where's my locomotive?"

He set men by the place of blasting, and as the creek fell they cheered the way for it. He piled them into the water with their shovels, and the swamp went out into the lake and made a black, broadening band in the silvery waters lapping on their beach.

"I'll teach you," said Archer to the enemy; "I'll teach you! Give me back my locomotive!"

And presently they saw the engine show itself above the sinking ooze, and from both sides of the swamp the length of three long rails was visible.

"A bit of sun," said Archer, "will make it peat. I'm wanted east just now. Hurry up, hurry up."

And the man who meant having it done went back to do something else.—New York Press.

Made Him Sing Bass.

"What man has done man can do," is a good motto, but it needs to be interpreted in the light of common sense. Every now and then we hear of a man who takes it to mean that a little perseverance will make a Newton or a Beethoven out of the stupidest of us.

Here is a story connected with Liddell, the somewhat overpositive dean of Christ church, borrowed from The Spectator:

Dr. Corfe, the organist of Christ church, was at this time sorely plagued by one of the choirmen, whose alto singing was miserably bad. He came to the dean.

"Mr. Dean, I really cannot have that man singing any longer. He spoils the whole choir. If only he sang bass it would not so much matter, but such an alto is intolerable."

"Very well, Dr. Corfe," said the dean, "I will deal with the matter."

The choirman was sent for.

"Dr. Corfe complains of your singing and says he cannot have you singing alto any longer, but that it would not be so bad if you sang bass. For the future, therefore, be good enough to sing bass."

"But, Mr. Dean, I cannot sing bass," rejoined the man.

"Well," answered Liddell, "I am no musician, but sing bass you must. Good morning."

And for many a year afterward, as can be but too well remembered, the man sang bass till he was finally shelved.

Makes Artificial Eyes.

Tucked away in quaint old world corners we find some of the most odd personages. Such is the great artificial eye maker and painter, A. Muller Hipper. In quaint Lauscha, in the very heart of old Thuringia's dense forests and high mountains, he sits and works away day in and day out, surrounded by his family, the male members of which are all experts in this delicate work and have been such since the days of his great-grandfather, who first started the work in Paris, but who, owing to the strong anti-German feeling, was forced to return to his native mountain land. They have grown rich, but lead simple, quiet lives.

While the writer sat in front of Mr. Hipper he deftly mixed different colored glasses over his gas lamp and within half an hour brought forth a perfect reproduction, in everything but real sight, of the writer's eye. Every year thousands of eyes made by this old world family find their way to America.—Leslie's Weekly.

London Times Says Great Britain's Position Is Graver Than Ever.

A Despair of Definite News From the Various Scenes of Hostilities.

London, Oct. 14.—The Daily Mail's Cape Town correspondent, telegraphing Friday evening, says: I learn on good authority that the Boers are attacking Makefeking. They are reported to have already suffered several repulses. It is generally admitted that Vryburg cannot stand a strong Boer attack.

A dispatch from Makefeking, dated 3:23 o'clock Thursday afternoon, says: It is officially stated that the enemy will probably approach this afternoon or tomorrow. Parties will be sent to watch on all sides, and guns will be posted on the high ground south of the town. It is likely that the enemy will shell the town for some hours before attempting to take it by assault. Already the Boers complain. They want to attend to their crops, and many are deserting. Meat is scarce, and dysentery is prevalent. If the garrison does nothing, it is probable that the Boers will retire, giving the garrison in the meantime opportunities for hitting them hard.

Information has been received from another source that the Boers have actually crossed the frontier some miles south of the town. This information is believed to be correct.

The Ladysmith correspondent of The Daily News telegraphs his paper, under date of Thursday, that it is anticipated that the enemy will attack simultaneously Dundee, Glencoe and Ladysmith. The defending force, he says, includes the Natal mounted infantry and Camboos, all remarkably smart and workmanlike. The main Boer force of 11,000 men is at Sandspuit. The correspondent adds: "Much discontent exists here, owing to the presence of suspected Boer sympathizers. The troops are kept under arms, and the volunteers are ordered to sleep booted and spurred ready for instant call."

A dispatch to The Daily Telegraph from their correspondent at Ladysmith, dated at noon on Friday, says: A strong mobile column under General White, accompanied by General Hunter, proceeded before daybreak this morning towards Action Homes for the purpose of reconnoitering. General White's object was to observe what was going on and also to test the mobility and efficiency of his forces. General White had 12 guns and the Boers 11.

According to the Kimberley correspondent of The Daily Telegraph, Cecil Rhodes had a narrow escape from capture while on his way there. His train was delayed and he passed the Modder river three hours after the expiration of the ultimatum, when the Boers were only five miles distant, and some of their spies were actually on the platform. Rhodes lay low and was not recognized. Had he been his capture would have been easy, as the line was not defended. He believes the strength of the enemy is greatly exaggerated, and that they will not attack the intrenchments. The chief cause of anxiety is ignorance of their artillery strength.

A British armored train has been wrecked by the Boers near Kralpan station while on the way to Makefeking with guns. The armored train had acted as pilot for a refugee train going south, and was blown up and 15 soldiers were killed on its way back to Makefeking. The Boers, it is reported, shelled the wreckage after the train was derailed. A young man named Neethling, who pluckily rode into the Boer camp to arrange for the safety of the women and children, has been detained as a prisoner.

The news of the outrage has aroused the population at Cape Town to the pitch of violence.

If a Vryburg telegram received at Cape Town is correct, it is probable that the Boers are attempting a turning movement on Makefeking, otherwise the presence of 3000 Boers between Makefeking and Mariborg is incomprehensible. It is possible, however, that they have merely cut the telegraph wire and taken possession of the line.

The Times this morning, discussing the situation, says:

It is idle to ignore the fact that if the Boers make a determined advance on a large scale into Natal, as appears to be the case, a sustained condition of masterly inactivity might become hopelessly out of the question. We have no means of estimating the exact number of troops at Ladysmith, Glencoe and Dundee, and if we had it would not be expedient to discuss the point. But if 12,000 Free State troops are to be reckoned in addition to Commandant General Joubert's contingent, the situation is undoubtedly graver than it seemed yesterday, and further details will be awaited with anxiety. A point in favor of the defense is that the Free State and Transvaal Boers are not accustomed to working in unison, and that any attempt on their part to apply the principle of converging columns to an attack on Ladysmith would not be likely to meet with complete success. The armored train incident is regrettable, but is scarcely disastrous, except that it tends to cut Makefeking off from touch with Plumber's force in Rhodesia.

The Daily Mail's correspondent at Dundee, Natal, says: Reports are circulated here that the Boers have reached Newcastle, but no confirmation of either this or of the reports of fighting at Makefeking and Ladysmith are yet arriving.

The telegraph line between Kralpan and Maritzburg has been cut and a strong commando of Boers has occupied the Kralpan railway siding.

Evert Grobler, member of the volkraad for Philippolis, has been elected commandant general of the Free State forces. He is only 35 years of age, is well educated and was Free State delegate to the Chicago exhibition.

Lord Edward Cecil, son of the Marquis of Salisbury, is with Colonel Baden-Powell at Makefeking.

According to The Daily Mail's Cape Town correspondent, Mr. Schreiner, premier of the Cape Colony, will unreservedly support the imperial government. His previous reserve was dictated by desire not to drive the extreme Dutch residents to excesses.

A Home For Schley.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Members of the Woman's National Industrial league called upon Admiral Schley last night and presented the resolutions recently adopted by that organization, calling for subscriptions to purchase a home for the admiral. He expressed his appreciation of the motives which actuated the league and his willingness to leave the matter in its hands. While touched by the desires of the committee, the admiral said he felt that he ought to ask them to defer the matter until the winter and needs of a cold winter, now coming on, have passed, and its demands on the households of some of the great industrial workers have been met, before any provision is made for him. The work of raising subscriptions will be started at once. The plan adopted is to have every contributor give a dollar.

Has No Fear of Congress.

New York, Oct. 14.—Congressman-elect Roberts, from Salt Lake City, Utah, is here on private business. Speaking to a reporter, he said that there was no indictment against him when he left Utah that he knew of now. He had broken no law. That he had a plurality of wives was true, but he married them before the enactment of 1890. There have been no plural marriages since then, nor would there be any. His election, he said, had been accomplished independent of the church, and it had been an election of the people. He had no fear about facing congress, nor any misgivings in regard to the general outcome of the situation.

The Ship Old Cory.

New York, Oct. 14.—A Gense fog and the lack of a breeze yesterday lengthened the unprecedented record of flukes in a cup contest to six. Columbia and Shamrock did not leave their anchorage inside of Sandy Hook. It was useless to make another attempt in such weather. So, at the hottest for the start, the regatta committee boat poked out to sea through the thick vapor and announced to the vessels assembled about the lighthouse that there would be no race. Everybody is thoroughly disgusted. From 50,000 people who went out on the first day the crowds have dwindled until less than 5000 persons were afloat yesterday.

Guns Restored to Spain.

Washington, Oct. 14.—A lot of ordnance of heavy calibre, mostly of antique pattern, in the fortifications in and around Manila and other cities in the Philippines, has passed under the control of the Spanish government. Under the terms of the treaty of peace, this ordnance was to remain for six months in the emplacements, during which time the United States might purchase it. Otherwise it was to be the property of Spain. The six months period has just expired. The collection includes some old bronze weapons of great beauty as specimens of antique gun founding.

McKinley in North Dakota.

Fargo, N. D., Oct. 14.—Over 10,000 persons greeted President McKinley and his party when they arrived here last night. The party was driven to a reviewing stand, through lines of the First Dakota volunteers, who recently returned from the Philippines. The president, in his address, referred repeatedly to the situation in the Philippines. He declared that the United States government would send 65,000 men to the Philippines to uphold the American flag, where the volunteers had placed it, the crowd approved the declaration with applause.

Rebels Driven Back.

Manila, Oct. 14.—Major Cheatham, with a scouting party, while proceeding along the west shore of the lake, encountered a force of rebels strongly entrenched at Muntinlupa. Major Cheatham reports that he drove the rebels from their position and that in the engagement three Americans were killed and two were wounded. Rumors are in circulation in Manila that Major Cheatham discovered three American prisoners who had been bound, gagged and shot by the insurgents. These rumors, however are not confirmed.

Hol Twenty-Five-Rounder.

New York, Oct. 14.—"Kid" McPartland received the decision over Owen Zeigler after 25 rounds of hard and fast fighting at the Broadway Athletic club. The men met for 25 rounds at 133 pounds, under Queensberry rules. Both men were badly battered, and would not have been able to have gone two more rounds.

Missouri Bank Robbed.

Nevada, Mo., Oct. 14.—Burglars entered the Farmers' bank at Schell City, blew open the safe and secured $3500 in cash, with which they escaped. Previous to the robbery the town watchman was captured by armed men and bound and gagged.

Seo'sman a Total Loss.

Halifax, Oct. 14.—A dispatch from the steamer Lady Glover, which went to Newfoundland to try to save the Scot'sman, says she is in deep water, and will be a total loss.

PROSPEROUS CONDITIONS

Continue to Prevail in the Business World. General Activity in Manufacturing.

New York, Oct. 14.—Bradstreet's says: Trade activity is widespread, all measures of volume and value testifying to prevailing prosperous conditions. Only good reports are received from distributive trade centres, and some markets report fall demand as holding out longer, and quotations of staple prices all point to a maximum volume of business for this period of the year. Crop returns for October bear out earlier impressions of short yields of most leading agricultural products. Expectation of more moderate yields of leading cereals is not confined to this country.

The higher range of prices of all staples, and particularly of agricultural products, however, will furnish a profitable balance to producers. The advance in the price of cotton has been notable, and its effect upon general southern trade and industry are particularly beneficial.

War rumors and realizing of speculative profits have furnished additionally depressing features in this respect, but in the manufacturing branch of trade strength is well high universal. While a source of depression to cotton, the Transvaal situation has proved rather favorable to wheat and other cereals, offsetting heavy increases in visible supplies.

The liberality of foreign demand is best shown, perhaps, in the September report of exports of leading products. Shipments of breadstuffs were as large as those of August, and cotton exports were double those of the same month a year ago.

General manufacturing industry is running full, and activity is so widespread that it is hard to prefer one industry to another in this respect. Coal production is particularly heavy, but a scarcity of cars is complained of in this and the coke industry. Iron and steel are active as to production, but new business is limited by the small quantities available for nearly delivery. Liberal orders are still reported for the first half of next year.

Wool is very firm, though quieter at some markets, while the manufactured product is selling well on next spring's account.

Some manufacturers are busy, and leather and hides are sympathetically strong. Lumber is in urgent demand at many markets, and prices are firm.

Failures for the week have been 164 in the United States, against 265 last year, and 27 in Canada, against 25 last year.

Publishers' Building at Paris Show.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Commissioner General Peck has just arrived in the city for an important United States building at the Paris exposition of 1900. The structure will be known as the publishers' building. It will be made the displays of American printing house machinery, devices, appliances and supplies, such as machines for the mechanical composition of type, modern commercial printing office, various styles of color and book printing presses, platen presses, complete bookbinding establishment and a large newspaper perfecting machine. In this building will be the general headquarters or rendezvous for United States publishers.

Were Badly Treated.

Santiago, Oct. 14.—A party of 32 Dominicans, who had been confined at Barraco for two months, were released yesterday. They were members of the Jimenez expedition. The two months spent in jail had a terrible effect upon the party. One of the members is dead and several have become invalids. The Dominicans are very bitter against the Americans, and declare that their imprisonment was worse than any Spanish outrage.

Wicked Editor Punished.

Ponce, P. R., Oct. 14.—The United States provisional court and a jury of prominent natives yesterday convicted Isacio Diaz, editor of El Combate, formerly La Bomba, which General Guy Henry suppressed, of sending obscene matter through the mails. Diaz was sentenced to 18 months' imprisonment with a fine of $500. El Combate has been strongly anti-American in its policy. This was the first trial by jury in the island.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The war department has ordered the Forty-second regiment of volunteers to proceed from Fort Niagara, N. Y., Oct. 20, for San Francisco, there to embark for the Philippines. The Fortieth regiment, at Fort Riley, Kas., is also ordered to proceed to San Francisco on the same date, bound for Manila.

The brush factory of C. Withington & Sons, at Bucksport, Me., was destroyed by fire. Loss, $8000. Twenty-five persons are thrown out of work.

The farm buildings of John Burrage at Riceville, Me., were burned. The fire was caused by a defective flue.

Emperor William, it is authoritatively announced, will not visit England this year. He had made Queen Victoria a conditional promise to do so, but the altered political complexion has compelled him to abandon his intention.

Lorenzo Dow, the inventor and abolitionist, died at New York, aged 72 years. He was the first mayor of Topsham, and was for many years a member of the supreme court of Kansas, and prominent in the free soil struggle. He invented the Dow water-proof cartridge.

At a meeting of the loom fixers employed at the Boot mills, Lowell, Mass., the proposition of General Agent Kerr to reinstate one of the three discharged loom fixers was accepted and a strike is averted.

John Covey was instantly killed at the East Cambridge crossing of the Boston and Maine railroad.

Rev. Percy Gordon, pastor of the Grace Episcopal church, North Cambridge, Mass., has tendered his resignation, to accept the pastorate of the Grace Episcopal church, New Bedford, Mass. William R. Crosby of Batavia, N. Y., defeated Rola Heikes of Dayton, O., for the inanimate target championship, by a score of 132 to 130. Crosby retains the championship, which he won from Elliott of Kansas City.

As a result of the efforts of the Rockefeller interests and their heavy purchases of iron ore carrying vessels, the lake freight rates for next season will be $1.25, which is an advance of 65 cents over this season's rate.

PURGED HIS SINS BY FIRE.

Man Set His Clothing in Flames to Aton for His Evil Deeds.

A violent struggle took place in Fairmount park, Philadelphia, the other morning between a man, who, in an attempt to expiate his sins, had poured oil on his clothing and set himself on fire, and a park guard who discovered the flame covered man in the bushes and sought to save him, and put out the fire, says the New York Sun. The victim of the strange hallucination who thought that he was so sinful that nothing but fire would purge him was Peter J. Smith, a salesman in a jewelry store and proprietor of a paying cigar store in Philadelphia.

The guard, John C. Boyce, saw flames in the bushes about 8 o'clock. He walked over to the spot to see what was burning and was horrified to see lying on the ground writhing in agony the body of a man, enveloped in flames. He took off his coat and threw it over the blazing form, but the man threw it off and rose to his knees, seeking to catch hold of Boyce. Boyce evaded him, and grasping the coat again threw it on the blaze, and again it was thrown off. The guard, perceiving that he had to deal with a madman, shouted for help, and a milkman who was passing responded. He had in his wagon a rubber blanket, which he procured and threw over Smith, and he and the guard held it down until the flames were quenched. The man, terribly burned and then unconscious, was put in an ambulance and sent to the German hospital. On the way he recovered consciousness and asked why he was not allowed to die. The odor of oil was noticed, and being asked what caused it, Smith said he was the most sinful man in the world, that he was tired of life and had determined to die. He said he had procured a gallon of kerosene, gone to the clump of bushes in the park, poured the fluid over his clothes and ignited it.

Smith has been melancholy for months and has talked much of religion and sacrifices made by Biblical characters. The physicians say he cannot live.

MARRIED IN RHYME.

An Ionian (Mich.) Justice Performed the Marriage Ceremony Poetically.

Palmer H. Taylor, the poetic justice of Ionian City, Mich., married Norman P. Morse of Lowell and Mrs. May Wildbahn at the county clerk's office the other day, says the Grand Rapids Democrat, using the following language:

Our spoken words are sometimes lost, Like thistle down when blown away, The whispered one is often kept, Like some rare, precious gem, for age. You came to have me say these words; I now pronounce you husband and wife. Each be unto the other true—I speak for you a happy life. Forbid that in your cottage home One thought of jealousy arise, That home so filled with love and joy—You both shall call it paradise.

The Wheat Belt.

The wheat belt is moving southward, and some day it will touch the Rio Grande, says the Galveston News. It has jumped from Dakota to Kansas and from Kansas to Texas. Diversification in farming has taken a fine hold on the agriculturists of Texas, and it is destined to become the banner wheat growing state. Cotton is no longer king.

The Development of Navies.

The new British battleship London, launched the other day, cost $5,000,000. For much less than that sum a whole navy was formerly built, says the Newark (N. J.) Advertiser. But, then, the London could whip all the combined navies of the world of a century ago.

Good Afternoon.

A study of the votes on the License question since Quincy became a city is of interest and value at this time, and the showing is a most favorable one for the temperance cause. The summaries below are something new, giving the votes by wards for each year from 1888 to 1898 inclusive.

The first table shows the votes "for license." The total at the first city election in 1888 was 458 and it increased each year until 1894 when there was a drop. License rallied again in 1895 and 1896, but since then the total has diminished.

In Ward One, the largest "Yes," vote was reached in 1896, and at the last election it was no larger than in 1893.

In Ward Two also the high water mark was reached in 1896, and last year it was smaller than in any year since 1891.

Ward Three cast its largest license vote in 1896. The vote of last year was 61 less than in 1896 but at the same time 6 more than in 1897.

The West Quincy ward cast 14 less votes for license last year than in 1897, and 58 less than in 1896, which was high water mark.

Wollaston last year cast its largest "Yes" vote, and license has made its largest percentage of gain in this ward. At the same time no ward cast as few "Yes" votes.

The Atlantic ward also cast its largest license vote in 1897, which with three exceptions has increased a little each year.

The votes for license by wards is shown in this summary, the West Quincy ward in 1896 having given license per largest vote:

Year.	I	II	III	IV	V	VI	The City.
1888,	89	81	102	116	8	62	458
1889,	127	124	124	171	18	54	618
1890,	129	133	137	224	26	71	720
1891,	154	150	160	271	25	75	835
1892,	162	174	212	264	31	113	956
1893,	205	176	251	265	34	129	1060
1894,	172	173	231	229	46	116	1037
1895,	200	205	282	300	54	136	1177
1896,	236	234	333	365	66	146	1370
1897,	209	201	266	321	58	137	1191
1898,	205	170	272	307	78	159	1191

A gratifying part of the vote against license is the fact that Wards One, Two and Three cast their largest "No" vote last year.

The West Quincy ward cast its largest "No" vote in 1895, and the 414 rolled up then was a record breaker for the city. But Ward Four fell off in 1896, and Wollaston led the city. In 1897 and again last year, Ward Three had the honor of casting the largest vote against license, and the 440 of 1898 has never been beaten.

Wollaston and Atlantic cast their largest "No" vote in 1896, and the vote of last year was close up to the 1896 level.

The summary of "No" votes follow:

Year.	I	II	III	IV	V	VI	The City.
1888,	303	214	268	271	250	88	1394
1889,	234	181	213	221	187	126	1162
1890,	267	196	269	258	220	129	1336
1891,	325	241	317	319	278	179	1659
1892,	371	268	346	353	350	172	1860

The total vote against license in the city was never larger than last year, but an effort should be made this year to make the "No" vote over twice as large as the "Yes." A change of 100 votes from "Yes" to "No" will do it.

Many indignant eyes will be cast on that observation stand on Boston Common.

The international yacht races off Sandy Hook will have to take a back seat in New England today, for all eyes are on Boston, which is paying homage to Dewey.

Dewey day, and Massachusetts is having a holiday in honor of Admiral Dewey's visit to Boston. We should do our best this day to give up labor and see the hero. Never were the buildings in Boston so prettily decorated with flags, bunting, etc.

Drift of Opinion.

We are apt to think that it is the man who has some idea that no other man has who commands the world's admiration, but, as a matter of fact, one isn't obliged to be an original to be widely noticed. It is the man who does best what many do well that gains the highest plaudits of his fellows.—Beverly Times.

Culture is not the miscellaneous absorption of facts; it is rather the way of looking at life, the point of view. This primary fact does not seem to be held very clearly in mind in most modern systems of education. Knowledge comes, but wisdom lingers. The air is full of the babble of the imperfectly educated, but in all the multitude of councilors there is no safety. The teachers of the United States ought not to ignore the dangers of this condition of things. Ignorance is not more capable of harm than education of the wrong kind.—Providence Journal.

All the millions given to hospitals and colleges will not save a nation from materialism if its people are prone to measure things by the material standard. Indeed many religious teachers have argued that the new humanitarianism far from proving absence of materialism are giving a material impulse to Christianity itself. They have said that the church was being made too much the purveyor of physical comfort instead of spiritual strength. A people may spend millions on churches and schools but if their conception of good in life is merely general physical well being and a good time for everybody with four hours work and twelve hours play all around it cannot be said to have advanced beyond materialism. No people in the world have so high an average standard of physical comfort as the Americans. It is something to rejoice in and be proud of but nevertheless the blessing has its danger and a danger as no thoughtful observer will be too confident we have not fallen into. "Three acres and a cow" was a happy promise to struggling millions but if the millions, or their leaders and teachers, think that the acres and the cow for every man are the goal of civilization they are lost in materialism. And modern life, with its tendencies to the socialistic deal, is peculiarly likely to worship the materialistic gods of ease and comfort, forgetting the higher things which in other times men sought, if for nothing else, in simple refuge from the hard conditions of their lives.—New York Tribune.

Dewey's Double.

Everybody will not be able to see the only and original Admiral George Dewey but Quincy people can see his counterpart at home any day, in the person of John Farrell, one of Postmaster Hammond's letter carriers. Mr. Farrell resembles Admiral Dewey, and if dressed in the admiral's uniform there is not one in a thousand who would know the difference. A number have remarked the striking resemblance of the two gentlemen to each other, and as they have made it known Mr. Farrell is attracting an unusual amount of attention as he goes about delivering his mail. He carries his honors easily.

Welcomed Dewey.

Paul Revere Post 88, G. A. R., under command of Commander Warner and John A. Boyd Camp of Spanish War Veterans took part in the Dewey parade in Boston last night. The Grand Army marched from headquarters to the depot and took the 4.12 train.

SHEPPARD AND SPRAGUE.

The Republicans Renominate Both Representatives Unanimously By Acclamation.

Eugene H. Sprague and Eben W. Sheppard are again the Republican candidates for Representatives from the Quincy double district. The convention was held last evening at the Republican headquarters on Washington street.
Chairman Doliver of the City Committee of the City Committee called the convention to order, and a temporary organization was made by the choice of R. R. Freeman as chairman and E. F. DeNormandie as secretary, both of Ward Five.
Messrs. John F. McKnight, H. O. pointed a committee to introduce the candidates to the convention. After a long search both were located and presented.
Representative Sheppard in accepting the renomination thanked the convention. He would endeavor if reelected to do his full duty as at the last session. He would fully weigh every subject.
Representative Sprague thanked the REPRESENTATIVE SHEPPARD.

The committee on credentials included one from each ward, viz: John F. McKnight of Ward One, John S. Gay of Ward Two, Murray of Ward Three, H. W. Campbell of Ward Four, H. O. Fairbanks of Ward Five, and H. W. Read of Ward Six. They reported Ward One entitled to 9 and 7 present; Ward Two to 6 and 5 present; Ward Three to 9 and 8 present; Ward Four to 6 and 5 present; Ward Five to 9 and 8 present; and Ward Six to 6 and 3 present. A total of 36 out of a possible 45.
Fairbanks and H. W. Read were ap-delegates sincerely and spoke more at length. He took the renomination to mean an endorsement of his service this year. We cannot all be expected to think alike. We look at different subjects in different lights. We are often wrong when we think we are right. The views of Columbus previous to his voyage were criticised. Spain probably thinks the United States is her enemy, but may find us her friend. The wisdom of the gypsy moth and State highway appropriations were questionable, but time will tell. Constituents should not expect perfection.

REPRESENTATIVE SPRAGUE.

The report was accepted, and the organization made permanent.
John F. McKnight in a brief speech presented the name of Eben W. Sheppard for Representative, and moved his nomination by acclamation. The motion prevailed.
Hon. H. O. Fairbanks then placed in nomination as the other candidate Eugene H. Sprague, who was also renominated by acclamation.
It was voted that the City Committee

The members of Paul Revere Post 88 G. A. R., are having their photographs taken for a souvenir album.

The Quincy members of the Kearsarge Veteran Association participated in the Dewey parade in Boston last night.

The granite firms report that orders for early spring delivery have begun to come in and it looks like a busy fall season.

The letter from Albert Keating intended for this issue will appear the first of next week.

The indications at sunrise were indeed a Dewey day, but the prediction was fair, clear weather and the sun shown before noon.

It is a pleasure to learn that Mrs. Lucy E. Larkin has again a clear title to her property which has been involved over the Walker street extension.

Mr. G. L. Richards of Malden and Gen. Secretary Hoehn of the Y. M. C. A., will occupy the pulpit of the First Presbyterian church on Water street in the absence of Rev. R. W. Peach the pastor on next Sunday evening.

The dead woman found at Newton Thursday was identified yesterday by Officer Edward J. Sanberg as Alma Josephine Peterson, who formerly lived in Quincy where she always had borne a good reputation.

Gorman's Alabama Troubadours appeared at Music hall last evening before a fairly good house. They gave an excellent entertainment. For this kind of an amusement it was far ahead of anything yet given at this hall.

"Aunt Jimima's Album" will be given by the Unity Circle of King's Daughters, Wednesday night, Oct. 18, at eight o'clock, in Bethany chapel, under the supervision of Mrs. Mercie Read of Rockland. Music by the church quartette.

City Messenger Tirrell lost his wife on Boston Common last night, and for a time the telephone line between Boston and the Quincy Police station was kept hot by his anxious inquiries. It came out all right, however, for when Mrs. Tirrell missed her escort she made her way to the depot and came home.

The Belcher club met with Mrs. A. A. Brackett of East Milton Tuesday evening with thirty-five present, the largest attendance in the history of the club. Miss Ella Shields and Miss May Narramore sang two duets and solos and Mrs. McKnot read an interesting paper on "Influence of Public Schools on Character."

The Street department dumped a lot of large pieces of crushed stone on Hancock street a few days ago, but as no attempt has been made to roll them down or to even cover them with top dressing. As a result they have been kicked all over the street for horses to step on and for bicycle riders to run against. If someone does not meet with an accident they will be lucky.

HOSPITAL SUNDAY.

The Trustees Make Their Annual Appeal.

Editor of Patro :

Once a year the trustees of the City Hospital ask the citizens of Quincy for contributions for its maintenance. The annual expenses of the hospital are from ten to twelve thousand dollars. The income from paying patients and outside services of nurses is about $3,000; From Endowment Fund, $1,000; From City, $3,000; Leaving $3,000 to be raised from other sources.

During the business depression of the years '95, '96 and '97, a debt accumulated amounting to $6,500. It is hoped that a part or all of this may be paid this year. Sunday, Oct. 15th, 1899, will be called Hospital Sunday, and on that day a contribution will be taken in all the churches. During the following week, a committee will call upon the people generally, giving an opportunity to those who are able to assist in maintaining in our city an institution which ought to, and we believe does, deserve the support of every citizen. Heretofore all appeals have been responded to liberally. Quincy men and women have always been prompt to provide for the sick and unfortunate among them. In this year 1899, when on all sides there are signs of material prosperity, may we not hope to raise at least $5,000, not more than an average of 25 cents for each inhabitant. This sum would meet all unpaid bills for the year and considerably reduce our debt. Criticism may have been justly made, that in some form or other the hospital is too frequently asking for money. It is the intention of the trustees that hereafter there shall be but one appeal annually, and that in the Hospital week in the middle of October, and they ask that this year our citizens will subscribe with the understanding that the amount will be an annual contribution, thus simplifying the work of collection in future years. It is hoped that the time may come when such liberal additions may be made to our endowment fund that its income may cover all expenses; but it must be remembered that the work is constantly growing. An increasing population makes increasing demands. We need at once a contagious ward. Whenever the income to meet the extra expense is certain, such a ward will be provided. A nurse's home is desired so that the hospital may enlarge its number of young women who are training to become nurses, and that it may also be prepared to send at once, when required, capable nurses out to the homes of Quincy.

The time never will come, and ought never to come, when we shall be discharged from any responsibility or the proper maintenance of a hospital. It is not a charity only; it is a necessity to many and a convenience to all. To maintain it liberally, is simply to do our duty and care for our own.

A meeting of the trustees and others interested will be held at the hospital on Sunday afternoon, Oct. 15th, at 4 o'clock to which all are invited.

For the Trustees,
William B. Rice, President.
Timothy Reed, Secretary.
Quincy, Oct. 11, 1899.

GUEST OF THE HUB.

New England Metropolis Pays Its Respects to Dewey.

A General Outpouring of Citizens and Visitors.

Presentation of Magnificent Watch in Front of City Hall.

Singing of Children and a Parade Among the Entertainments Furnished.

Boston, Oct. 14.—As Admiral Dewey's train passed from New Hampshire to Massachusetts territory yesterday, General Carter, representing the military of Massachusetts, and President Smith and Speaker Bates, representing Governor Wolcott, went into the admiral's car and were introduced by Governor Rollins, who then turned the guest over to the care of Massachusetts. The admiral's journey through Vermont and New Hampshire was one continual ovation, which for spontaneous enthusiasm has never been equalled, not even when a president was the chief figure.

On the admiral's arrival in Boston fully 25,000 people were crowded in and around the Union station, and in the rush to get a look at the hero he was well carried off his feet. Met by Mayor Quincy, and accompanied by a delegation representing the Home Market club, the Chamber of Commerce and other municipal bodies, the admiral was conducted to a carriage, which was waiting, and in which he rode at the head of a column of nearly 10,000 war veterans through the city's principal downtown streets, to the Hotel Touraine, which will be his place of entertainment during a three days' stay.

The admiral's escort last night were the naval veterans, and following them were posts of the Massachusetts department of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Spanish War Veterans. All the streets were profusely decorated, and crowds lined the sidewalks. Red fire was burned with lavishness.

The admiral, after dinner, witnessed a fine display of fireworks on Boston common, from his apartments in the hotel, and retired at a seasonable hour.

When Admiral Dewey arrived at his suite of rooms in the Hotel Touraine, last evening, he found a beautiful floral design, fully six feet in height, the gift of the Daughters of the American Revolution of Massachusetts, and each chapter in the state contributed. The piece was made up of the choicest American beauty roses, arranged like an enormous bouquet. The long stems were tied with ribbons of blue and white, the colors of the society. In the ribbon bow, twined around the base, were two silk flags, the Stars and Stripes and the admiral's colors.

The streets of Boston were never more lavishly decorated than for this celebration. "Dewey day" is a worthy rival to that celebration which in New York signified the admiral's return to his native land. The city is crowded to its capacity. The feature of the celebration, but previous to that was the presentation of a watch to Admiral Dewey at city hall in behalf of the city of Boston, and then the singing of over 20,000 school children on the Common. After the procession occurred the ceremony attendant upon the transfer of the colors of the Spanish war to the state.

At 10 o'clock this forenoon there were exercises on the Common by 25,000 school children, who sang patriotic songs. Admiral Dewey reviewed the children and listened to the singing. The children were arranged in double lines on the Charles street mall and Admiral Dewey drove between the lines in his carriage. "America" and the "Star Spangled Banner" were sung and the Municipal band, increased to 50 pieces, accompanied the singing.

At 10:30 Mayor Quincy presented the gift of the city to Admiral Dewey, the presentation being made on a stand in front of city hall. The gift is a $1000 gold watch, containing 21 diamond and ruby jewels. It bears Admiral Dewey's monogram and his famous words to the captain of the Olympia opening the battle of Manila: "Gridley, you may fire when ready." Mayor Quincy made the presentation and the Handel and Haydn society, to the number of 200 voices, sang. Representatives of Governor Wolcott then assumed charge of Admiral Dewey and took him to luncheon. The parade was led by Governor Wolcott as commander-in-chief of the state forces. He was mounted. Admiral Dewey and those of his captains who are present rode in carriages in the procession. The admiral was escorted by the navy yard marines. Governor Wolcott and Admiral Dewey reviewed the parade from the stand at the state house.

The procession formed in the following order:

City Municipal Band,
Seventh United States Artillery—Battalion Regulars, Major Morris Commanding.
Governor Wolcott and Staff.
Navy Yard Marines, escorting Admiral Dewey and Captain Spangler of the Olympia and officers, Captain Dyer of the Baltimore, Navy Yard Officers from Yard.
Governors of States and Staffs.
Joint Committee of State, City, Chamber of Commerce, Home Market club and others.
Crew of the Olympia.
First Brigade, Brigadier General Bancroft commanding.
Naval Brigade, Captain Weeks commanding.
First Corps of Cadets, Lieutenant Colonel Edmonds commanding.
Second Corps of Cadets, Lieutenant Colonel Peck commanding.
Ambulance Corps, Captain Standish commanding.
Platoon Mounted Police.

When the head of the line reached the state house the governor, with Admiral Dewey and guards, went to the arch on Mount Vernon street, entered the state house and went to the reviewing stand from the front door of the state house. After review the party again mounted and entered carriages and proceeded to the Common, where the governor dismounted and conducted the admiral to a position in front of the center of the line already formed, when the bands consolidated at the center. The colors, with the commanding officers of the troops who were in the Spanish war, were brought to the front and center. General Mathews commanded the ceremonies and presented arms to the colors. Trumpeters sounded to the colors and the troops, having been brought to order arms, the consolidated bands played "The Star Spangled Banner." As soon as the band had finished the officers commanding the regiments and naval brigade turned over the war colors to the governor, the governor replying to them collectively. The ceremonies being concluded, Admiral Dewey and party, with the committee, left the Common for Hotel Touraine. They were accompanied by cavalry outriders.

Officers from many of the large cities in the east were here on the occasion of the arrival of Admiral Dewey, and from the crowd they gathered six suspicious characters.

Ike Jobe's Misdoings.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Captain Ike T. Jobe, late of the Sixth United States volunteer infantry, has been arrested here on the charge of using war department envelopes for private letters. In default of $500 bail he was remanded to jail. Jobe, who was formerly mayor of Johnson City, Tenn., was discharged from the army in March last. He was arrested recently in New York, where it was alleged he had sold a number of blank transportation requests to ticket scalpers. He was then held in $2000 bond, which he furnished and soon after went west. Recently a notice of Jobe's death appeared in a Covington, Ky., newspaper, with a complimentary obituary notice.

Three Robbers Laid Out.

Sevierville, Tenn., Oct. 14.—Three masked robbers entered the bank here yesterday and attempted to rob the vault. President MacMahon threw his loose money into the safe and seized a gun. His first shot killed the leader of the robbers, Pearl Thurman. Assistant Cashier Marshall rushed out of a side door and shot two of the robbers' horses. Cal Derick, one of the robbers, was arrested after being wounded. Will Derick, the third robber, got on a horse and rode a mile, hotly pursued by a posse. On being surrounded by the men he fled into a barn, where he committed suicide by shooting.

Mariscal at New York.

New York, Oct. 14.—Senor Ignacio Mariscal, vice president of Mexico, arrived here yesterday. Senor Mariscal said he was much impressed with the celebration in Chicago, and with the treatment that he and his party had been accorded by the committee. Speaking of the relations between Mexico and this country, Senor Mariscal was enthusiastic. He said that both were helped by the existing mutual friendship, and that nothing should be left undone to cement the close feeling already firmly established between the two republics.

Half a Million Damage.

New York, Oct. 14.—A fire which destroyed property to the amount of perhaps $500,000 broke out on the lower floor of warehouse No. 3 on the premises of the Bush company, Limited, at South Brooklyn. This is the second fire the company has suffered from within five months. It is said that spontaneous combustion caused the blaze. Three firemen were painfully injured by flying bricks, but none of their injuries are regarded as serious.

To Drop the Case.

Wilmington, Oct. 14.—Judge Bradford, in the United States district court yesterday, granted to District Attorney Byrne permission to enter a nolle prosequi in the case of United States Senator Kenney, indicted for conspiring to aid and abet William N. Rogers, defaulting paying teller of the First National bank of Dover, who robbed that institution of $107,000.

Applications Were Numerous.

Salem, Mass., Oct. 14.—Lieutenant Stopford, who opened a recruiting station here on Aug. 31, and also at Haverhill, Newburyport and Lowell, has returned to join his regiment at Fort Niagara, N. Y. From the above stations 114 men were enlisted. Over 500 applications were received and the average of men accepted was one in every eight.

Weather Conditions and Forecasts.

Sun rises—5:57; sets, 5:02.
Moon sets—1:56 a. m.
High water—7:30 a. m.; 8 p. m.
The northwestern cold wave has extended over the middle Missouri valley and the middle Rocky mountain region, attended by snow as far south as central Colorado and by temperatures 14 degrees below freezing in parts of Montana. The disturbance which occupied the middle Missouri valley has moved northeastward over Lake Superior, and the barometer has risen rapidly over the northwestern states and continues high over the middle Atlantic and New England land states. The indications for New England are fair weather in southern, showers in northern, portion.

RAVAGES OF PLAGUE

Could Be Checked If British Authorities Took Proper Course.

Inefficiency of Existing Quarantine Conditions

Responsible For the Widespread Invasion of the Disease in Europe.

New York, Oct. 14.—The Medical News says editorially in its issue today that the laxness of British India government is responsible to a great degree for the prevalence and the ravages of the plague. The editorial quotes a short paragraph from a letter written by Wilfred Watkins-Patchford, late special plague medical officer in the English service, to the British medical journal, in which he asserts that the opportunity afforded the Indian government of systematic research into the disease has been neglected; that scientific research into the plague was not encouraged by the authorities, and that the problem was only dealt with as a civil misfortune to the Indian dependence.

In commenting on this statement made by Dr. Watkins-Patchford, The Medical News claims that it has waited before commenting on the assertion until there would be some explanation on the part of the British Indian authorities. This explanation not having been forthcoming, The Medical News goes on to say that there has been a growing feeling in the medical world for some time that the plague might have been kept in closer control had the British authorities been more ready to use the resources modern hygiene and sanitation placed at their command.

The civilized world has a right to demand that this should be done, the editorial claims, but the opinion that the plague is coming to be looked upon by the British authorities as a matter of course is becoming more and more prevalent. To prevent the plague, The News says, requires special men and special service rather than sporadic efforts at times of awful mortality. England should realize the interest the disease has for the human race and should act on a corresponding scale. The British empire owes this to herself if she is to justify her mission to the world as the great civilizer and fosterer of progress.

The widespread invasion of the disease, the editorial asserts, demonstrates the inefficiency of existing quarantine conditions, and it declares that Europe has been derelict in allowing the plague to gain a foothold within her borders; that Europe has heretofore been looked upon as the natural barrier between the seat of the plague and our own country, and that this having been broken through the responsibility comes back to us for our own safety.

Accurate scientific knowledge of the disease is steadily on the increase, but as yet no specific remedy has been found that ensures safety from the invasion. Our security dies in not coming within the range of infection; or, in other words, quarantine.

Will Accept Executive Board's Decision.

Brooklyn, Mass., Oct. 14.—At the meeting of the joint shoe council last evening it was voted to abide by the decision of the executive board of the American Federation of Labor in the matter of their pay. The local union had protested the making of a new charter by the Boot and Shoe Workers' union and had refused to abide by it. The general officers had annulled that charter, and the present investigation was the result. The council appointed a committee of three to go to Washington to present their side of the case at the executive board meeting next Monday.

Train Held Up in Illinois.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—The Northwestern limited train leaving Chicago at 10:30 p. m. last night was held up at Tower W, not far from De Kalb, Ill., and robbed. The robbers demolished the express car with dynamite, blew open the safe and rifled it. It is said there were five masked men engaged in the operation. The train was flagged, and while two of the men compelled the engineer and fireman to run the engine ahead the other three robbed the train.

A Valuable Derelict.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 14.—A special from Beaufort says the large three-masted schooner, Carrie Lane, lumber laden, from Apalachicola, for Norfolk, Conn., drifted inshore yesterday. In the recent gale, the vessel sprang a leak, her cargo shifted and her masts were cut away by the crew, which finally abandoned her. They were rescued by the British steamer Rhodesia on Sept. 26, 70 miles east-southeast of Cape Fear. Only part of the deck load is gone. The cabin is burned, otherwise the cargo and hull of the vessel are in good condition.

To Be Sent to Manila.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The navy department has received a cablegram from Chief Engineer Norton, who is at Newcastle, Eng., inspecting the progress of the work on the cruiser Albany, stating that a trial of the ship had just been had with two boilers, with satisfactory results. The ship is now nearly ready to be turned over to the United States government, and she probably will go directly from England to Manila, a crew being sent out for her from this country.

Stolen by a Porter.

Dover, N. H., Oct. 14.—A ring valued at $125 was taken from the apartments of Miss Alice Hodsdon at a local hotel on Oct. 5, and since that time police have been at work on the case. Edward Heath, employed as porter at the hotel, was arrested yesterday and later confessed to the theft and gave the officers the pawn ticket.

FRESH STYLES FOR FALL.

Many New Things Which Every Woman Wants to Know.

Hints on the fashions of the coming winter which will assist in the early preparation of "something fit to wear" are given as follows by a writer in the New York Herald, to whom an opportunity privilege has revealed some of the splendors and luxuries of coming modes as brought over by a returned foreign buyer for a well shop:

This year's styles fulfill a twofold mission. They make the stout woman look thinner, and the slender woman becomes a dream of loveliness and shapeliness when she dons a princess effect gown, a Russian pelisse and a directoire hat. Every skirt is tight fitting about the hips and very much flaring about the bottom, sleeves are small, collars are high, some basques are shown, and fringe is the acme of novelty.

The favorite model in skirts will be a seamless circular shape, fitting like a glove over the hips and back and flaring at the bottom to the width of from 4½ to 5 yards. This flare is very perceptible as the skirt is held up, with one hand holding the bottom and one the belt. The front breadth, which used to be cut perfectly straight in order to insure a "good hanging skirt," is now perceptibly flared in the skirts, which are made on the gored pattern, which will also be very much worn.

Of course the seamless skirt is suitable only for very slim figures, as it outlines the shape too plainly to be worn by a stout woman. The perfect fit and cut of this skirt to make it hang properly will insure its exclusiveness. It could not be copied in cheap, ready-made skirts and have any kind of style to it.

The shaped Spanish flounce is also very much in evidence and will be more popular in cloths than the seamless cut, as it is suited to almost any figure. The upper part will still fit closely, but the flounce, allowing of so

STREET DRESS WITH THE NEW FRINGE. much more of a flare, makes on the whole a more graceful fullness around the bottom.

The skirts are just as long in front and train in the back as much as they have all summer. They may be disease breeders and microbe gatherers; but, for all that, lovely woman goes on her way serenely, and her gown trails behind her.

Most of the long coats have very sloping shoulders, with the sleeves cut in one piece with the body of the garment. All the collars, whether of fur, velvet, satin or silk, are soft and full, falling in crushed jabots from the neck.

In fact, this softness and flimsiness are new features of the coming season. Everything—the cloths, the silks, the satins—is just as flimsy as it can be. To rustle is to be out of the fashion. There are no stiff taffetas either for linings or petticoats. The woman who rustles is either wearing an old gown or is not up with the styles. All the new gowns are lined with oriental satins, taffetas, mousseline and all the newest weaves of soft finished silks.

Brown tan and pastel shades are mentioned as being the most in favor this coming winter, though there are some reds and a few blues.

Fringe is the very latest in novelties and will be the rage this winter. It will be made to order in colors to match the gown and will be used profusely. One of the simplest yet smartest gowns shown to the writer was a costume of shepherd's plaid in a blue and white check. The lower skirt was devoid of any trimming, but flared considerably. The overskirt was a long, pointed affair, fitting like a glove over the hips and finished at the bottom by a 12 inch woolen fringe of the same colorings as the gown.

Fashion's Echoes.

Alpaca is to make morning gowns in all colors from light to dark. This hardy annual is never long out of favor, for it is an evergreen for wear, resisting dirt and emerging scathless from every ordeal.

Many of the new dresses have tabliers distinct from the front of the skirt or simulated by trimming. They are pointed or oval and reach almost to the hem of the dress.

Fur collars for the coming season will be built very tall, and muffs, large or small according to your fancy, will be worn on chains and cords.

No more belts of any kind for men, says Paris fashion. They are not now chic. When no waistcoat is worn, the jacket is buttoned up.

Parlor Stoves and Oil Heaters.

All homes are not blessed with a furnace, but this is no disadvantage unless you have money to burn.

There is nothing so cozy, so comfortable and economical as a good parlor heater. Small size for sleeping rooms as low as $2.98, and from this price to $25.00 for large and stately ones that heat from 2 to 3 rooms with ease.

Then Oil Heaters for chilly evenings and extra cold days. The greatest invention of the age. Every house should have one.

When fires are playing the old jinks with your patience, an Oil Heater will keep you warm. Prices from $1.75 to $4.75.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.
Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 15.—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.
Topic.—Lost opportunities.—Jer. viii, 20; Math. xxiii, 37-39; Heb. xii, 17.
Several phases of opportunities and their loss are presented to us in the topical references. They should make a serious and lasting impression upon us because of the greatness of our opportunities today.
1. The greater the opportunity the more serious its loss (Jer. viii, 20). "The harvest is passed, the summer is ended, and we are not saved." The Jews had their opportunity to be saved, but they rejected salvation, and the kingdom was lost, and the seriousness of the loss was tremendously magnified because of the priceless value of that which was lost—the life and well being of a nation. To lose an opportunity that involves little is perhaps of small moment, but to lose an opportunity that involves the destiny of a nation or the eternal destiny of an immortal soul, is a matter of the most stupendous importance. Our most valuable opportunity is for salvation in Christ. Let us see to it that the harvest does not pass without our being saved.
2. Opportunity brings responsibility and, if lost, places the blame upon ourselves (Math. xxiii, 37-39). Christ had been willing to gather the people of Jerusalem to Himself, to protect them as a hen doth her brood, but Jerusalem would not. The opportunity to be saved placed the responsibility of salvation upon the people, and when they rejected it and doom came they alone were to blame. The fact that God gives us opportunities relieves Him of the responsibility and places it upon us, and if we fail we can pass no censure upon God, but must bear the brunt of failure ourselves. This serious fact should inspire us to seize and use every opportunity of life for being good and doing good and for making the salvation of our souls absolutely certain.
3. Lost opportunities are irrevocable (Heb. xii, 17). Esau had the opportunity of inheriting the blessing of the firstborn son of Isaac. He lightly esteemed it and rejected it, and "when he would have inherited the blessing he was rejected, for he found no place of repentance, though he sought it carefully with tears." It was too late. He had lost his opportunity. Another possessed the blessing, and it could not be returned to Esau. But undoubtedly the blessings here do not typify the salvation of the soul, but rather opportunities for service. But in the parable of the virgins we have an illustration of an opportunity for salvation which, once lost, never returned. This is the saddest phase of opportunities. Once gone, they never return. The past is irrevocable. We may regret our loss, we may mourn for our opportunities, but no repentance, no mourning, will ever recall them. How important, therefore, that no opportunities should be lost!
Bible Readings.—Ps. xxxii, 6; Eccl. xii, 1; Isa. lv, 6, 7; Math. v, 25; xxv, 1-13; Luke xiii, 24, 25; John vii, 32-34; iii, 21; ix, 4; I Cor. xv, 58; II Cor. vi, 1, 2; Heb. iv, 1-11.
To Love Them.
Every relation to mankind, of hate or scorn or neglect, is full of vexation and torment. There is nothing to do with men but to love them; to contemplate their virtues with admiration, their faults with pity and forgiveness. Task all the ingenuity of your mind to devise some other thing, but you can never find it. To hate your adversary will not help you; to kill him will not help you; nothing within the compass of the universe can help you but to love him. But let that love flow out upon all around you, and what could harm you? How many a knot of mystery and misunderstanding would be untied by one word spoken in simple and confiding truth of heart! How many a solitary place would be made glad if love were there, and how many a dark dwelling would be filled with light!—Orville Dewey.
Think of God.
Just turn from the world a moment and think of God. Do so especially when you are anxious and worn with care. Turn to Him and leave your trouble with Him. Many of them will shrink and look foolishly small when His light falls on them. You will find, like the man in the fairy tale, that the devil has been leading you on by making you believe that withered turnips were gold. Turn to God in your moments of joy and gratitude too. Share them with Him. Apply the social instinct to the best companion of all—to your Father.—Watchman.
Sunshiny People.
When we come to count over the qualities that endure our friends to us, we naturally think of the bright and cheerful talker, who has been foremost in giving us enjoyment. The sunshiny men or women, boys or girls, who bring bright words, who can talk on all sorts of subjects without seeming hopelessly bewildered, because the subject on hand is not a local one, will be always as welcome in society as flowers in May.—Christian Instructor.
Never Alone.
They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.—Sidney.
The Sabbath.
This is the day of rest.
Our falling strength renew.
On weary brain and troubled breast
Send Thou Thy refreshing dew.
This is the day of peace.
Thy peace our spirits fill.
Bid Thou the blast of discord cease,
The waves of strife be still.
This is the day of prayer.
Let earth to heaven draw near.
Lift up our hearts to seek Thee there;
Come down to meet us here.
This is the first of days.
Send forth Thy quickening breath
And wake dead souls to love and praise
Oh, Vanquisher of death!
—John Ellerton.

Many a citizen drew a long breath this morning upon receiving their sewer assessment bills.

Several aliens took the oath of allegiance to the United States at the district court this morning.

The striking of the fire alarm this morning was caused by men working on the line, and was not a salute to Dewey as some supposed.

All the inward trains this morning were a few minutes late and they were all crowded when they reached Quincy, so that most of the Quincy passengers had to stand.

T. H. Kingston is now grading the Foster estate on Chestnut street, where he has made extensive changes. The house now has two tenements entirely separate, with many of the modern improvements, new papering, etc.

Peoples Star Course.

The demands of the public for bright, novel and pleasing entertainments during the fall and winter months, appear to have been well considered in the plans for the People's Star Course at the People's Temple on Columbus avenue, corner Berkeley street, Boston, which begins on Monday evening, October 23, and continues at weekly intervals. The design in arranging this course has been to afford opportunities for its patrons to become acquainted with what is new and best in the entertainments of the present season, and the selections made to justify the full confidence in the results of the enterprise.

Among the attractions to be presented may be named the following: Major J. B. Pond, Dr. Roland D. Grant, The Kalmia Ladies' Quartette and Concert company, Mr. Hoyt L. Conary, The Boston Favorites, The Ainsworth company, The Adams Choral Society (80 voices), Rev. L. H. Dorchester, The Boston Carnival and Concert company and "Ben Hur," illustrated by Hon. John Wilder Fairbank.

The first of the entertainments is announced for Monday, Oct. 23d, when Major James B. Pond of New York, the well known Lecture "20 Years a Dealer in Brains," illustrated by 150 stereoscopic views.

The completion of the torpedo boat destroyers at the Fore River Engine Works will be several months ahead of the contract time of seventeen months. They are now over 60 per cent, completed. Foundations upon which to set up the engines for the boats are now completed and the work of setting up the engines has commenced. The machinists are at present working nights until nine o'clock.

There was a very large gathering in the First church chapel, Wednesday afternoon, of the Ladies' Home Missionary society. A bountiful supper was provided by Mrs. E. A. Belcher, Mrs. C. A. Belcher, Mrs. L. H. Dearing, and Mrs. H. A. Jones. Letters were read from Mrs. Camfield of South Dakota and Mrs. Booker T. Washington of Tuskegee.

P. J. Walsh a well known South Braintree young man and who for the past two years has been connected with newspapers in this town, left Wednesday for Colorado, where he takes a position in a leather house. His many friends wish him success in his new venture. "Patsy," as he is called by the boys will be missed by the pencil pushers, for he always was ready to help a brother. Here's luck to you "Patsy."

Keith's Theatre.

The programme at Keith's Boston house for the week of Oct. 16 promises to be one of the best offered for months, as per the following list of bookings: Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Milton Royle and company, in the new one act comedy, "Miss Wickett of Wall Street," Press Eldridge, blackface comedian and singer; the Monte Myro troupe, musicians, dancers and pantomimists; the Onlaw trio, acrobats and wire performers; Leo Dervalto, the revolving globe expert, who ascends and descends a spiral platform poised on a sphere; McBride and Goodrich, in a singing and comedy sketch; James A. Dunn, singer and comedian; Peck and Keller, comedy acrobats; Kennedy and Quartelle, aerial experts; Lozell, a European juggler; and Rita Linde, vocalist and musician. A new motion picture machine, the Chrono, is to make its debut. The views to be shown will include scenes in the Klondike, Manila, Japan and the Western plains, all of which should prove very interesting.

THE SOCIAL REALM.

Sunday evening, Miss Cora F. Keith was presented, by her friends of Braintree with a set of books on the Bible. This token of friendship was given in parting as Miss Keith left Tuesday for Tokio, Japan, whither she has been sent by the American Board of Missions. On the way she will stop at Tacoma the guest of her brother, W. B. Keith. She voyages by the way of San Francisco leaving there Oct. 24.

Miss Nina B. Eddy, who has been visiting Miss Helen Claffin of this city, has returned to Plymouth.

The Rev. and Mrs. E. S. Tobey, Miss Eaton, and Avie Tobey of Wollaston, returned on Tuesday from a trip to Montreal.

Miss Mary B. Fadden of Holbrook is visiting her aunt Mrs. Clara Stoddard of this city.

Miss Mary Perkins left today for New Hampshire for a short visit.

Mrs. William Porter of Randolph is spending a week at Montpelier, Vt., and has enjoyed the Dewey festivities.

On Wednesday last, the 11th instant, in Cleveland, Ohio, Miss Edith Francis Snow, of Cleveland, and Mr. Lloyd Wellington Sanborn, formerly of Cambridge, Mass., were united in marriage. Miss Snow is a sister of Mr. George A. Snow of South Braintree.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Fannie Gertrude Badger of Braintree and Dr. Charles Whitney Pollard, at the First Congregational church, Braintree, Oct. 25, at eight o'clock. A reception will be held after the ceremony at the home of the bride, corner of Washington and River streets.

Castle Square Theatre.

The announcement of Dion Boucicault's comedy drama "The Jilt," by the Castle Square theatre management, for production the coming week, will warrant pleasant anticipations as the play is one of its author's happiest efforts and is admirably adapted to the players at this theatre. Its original performances in this city, at the Boston Museum, with Boucicault as the gentlemanly horseman, Myles O'Hara, gained the marked favor of local audiences. The story is interesting, the situations are skilfully planned and the dialogue has the brilliancy for which its author was so noted. The cast announced for this production is as follows: Myles O'Hara, John Craig; Sir. Budleigh Woodstock, Charles Mackay; Lord Marcus Wylie, N. H. Fowler; Colonel Tudor, J. L. Seelye; Geoffrey Tudor, Tony Cummings; Kitty Woodstock, Lillian Lawrence; Phyllis May Sanders; Mrs. Pincott, Leonora Guito. At the matinee of Monday next, the 16th inst, every patron will be presented with a gold-plated bon-bon spoon with a Dewey bas relief on the handle and an engraving of the Olympia on the bowl. "Too Much Johnson" follows "The Jilt" on Monday, Oct. 23.

Civil Trial List.

Good Afternoon.

Those who have belonged to assessment insurance societies, have become used to double assessments, but the size of the sewer assessments on top of the annual city taxes is almost too much for many. In some cases the sewer assessments are smaller than the taxes on the estates, but in many cases they are larger. Then there is the cost of sewer connection, sidewalk assessments, and street watering assessments, and the life of real estate owners is not a happy one just now. And then some say rents are high.

Dedham which is further from Boston than Quincy, and upon a branch railroad, is making a great hubbub because it has but 38 trains each way between the town and Boston. Dedham people must be awful kickers or Quincy people are very forbearing, for the "City of Presidents" has but 25 each way. Dedham is a town of 7,211 population and gained 88 souls from 1890 to 1895. Quincy is a city of 25,000 population and gained 3,989 during the same period. It is probably a fact that Quincy has not kickers enough.

The taxes and debt of Quincy are not as heavy as Brockton, but the comments of a correspondent of the Enterprise are applicable. He says, "Manifestly the time is ripe for the taxpayers of the city to come to the front in the matter of selecting candidates for the coming city election. Cannot some citizen be induced to represent the people, who, unhampered by party affiliations, will give the property owners an economic administration? Let his platform be as simple and businesslike in its principles as the conduct of a well regulated family. Let it embody a lower tax rate, such public improvements as are consistent, with our ability to pay for, without becoming a burden on the taxpayer."

It must be refreshing to the Assessors to have some property holders come forward and say that their estates have been greatly undervalued. Three of the abutters on Coddington street object to the awards made by the City Council which has decided to widen the street. All the corner lot of 2,485 square feet is taken, and the owner awarded $2.82 per foot for the land. The taking of this corner lot leaves the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Company a corner lot, but it is awarded $1,000 for the taking of 1400 feet, and is not satisfied with 67 cents per foot. The City Hospital has been allowed 91 cents per foot for the 4,300 feet taken, but wants more. The betterments to all the property on the street are great.

Drift of Opinion.

If the politicians be permitted their way, Admiral Dewey will be pitched into the presidential battle. And yet if the Admiral be wise he will keep hands off. He has nothing to gain and much to lose in this matter.—Haverhill Gazette.

One set of weather prophets are prophesying a long, cold winter, while another lot are announcing with equal assurance that the season will be mild. There is no question that it will be one or the other if it will be a happy medium.—Marlboro Enterprise.

John Wannamaker has just closed a contract with the Philadelphia Record for a page advertisement in that paper every day for one year for $100,000. And this is only a part of his advertising! Ye of little faith in advertising may well profit by Mr. Wannamaker's example.—Waltham Free Press.

Those Denver steam whistles which the inhabitants of that city are complaining about as nuisances are one of the evils of a Republican protective tariff administration. When Republicans are in power factories are always running, whistles blowing, chimneys smoking and like misfortunes worrying the people.—Arlborough Sun.

Perhaps it would be advisable for the committee in charge of the yacht races to charter the Holland submarine boat and use her to tow the competing yachts to within a short distance of the finishing line. In this manner there is a possibility that the races may be finished before winter sets in. And the dear public need be none the wiser for this subterfuge.—Providence Telegram.

The fight is being resumed against that rank polygamist, Congressman-elect Roberts of Utah. The women of the country are after his scalp, and a good part of the men are anxious to aid them in their efforts to obtain it. If he is seated as a member of the next national house, it will be in the face of the strongest and most active opposition that ever met a new member. The fight is not against the man but against the principle he represents. His election was a defiance and a challenge to the country, and to allow him to take his seat will be a surrender to Mormonism.—Kennebec Journal.

For everybody today there is more comfort in living than there was in the golden ages of the fathers and grandfathers of the present generation. The proportion of well-to-do individuals to the whole population is greater now than it was then. The chances for young men are as good as they ever were. Times have changed, but they have changed for the better, not the worse. The young man of today—if he is capable and trustworthy—has a dozen chances for a position with a good salary, where his father had only the single chance of embarking in business on his own account and running a difficult career with almost inevitable failure at the end.—Milwaukee Evening Wisconsin.

Out upon us if we revile at labor. To live, in the best sense, is to labor, and in the narrowest sense we labor to live. Dull sloth will sooner droop our jaw and slant our foreheads than will the hardest kind of toil. Toil is sanity, and toil is sweetness; for after the toil comes rest, and a well-earned rest is always sweet. The toiler in the open air is dead to despair indeed: he is too healthy for that. Despair is for the wrong-doers, and the slaves of such an unnatural thing as indolence. The finest rapture, the rapture of conquest, the knowledge of something accomplished, something done is the rapture to which the toiler is never dead. He grieves not, for why should he? His hopes, his healthy hopes, are those of the leaves that fall—to do all that is called for by the place in which he finds himself, and then, quietly, healthily, unquestioningly, sink to the rest that remains for those who do what they can and ought, without ever dreaming wildly of doing every varying thing that all the varying men are called to do.—G. G. Dawe in Dedham Transcript.

Union Choral Society.

The Union Choral society of Braintree is having meetings again, and is on its fourth year. The meeting place now is Pythian hall, instead of the First church vestry as heretofore.

Last Wednesday night the first meeting of the season was called to order by the president Mr. Everett Stone, who made a short address. He is desirous of making the members more familiar with each other, more sociable, at the rehearsals.

Mrs. Martha Dana Shepard, the leader, also spoke of last season's work and what she expected this winter.

There were about 75 present and many members were unable to get there. The book taken up is, The Holy City, and the way the leader handled the voices, you would have thought the selection sung had been practiced before.

Rehearsals are held in Pythian hall every Wednesday evening from 7.45 to 9.15. All singers are invited to join.

Lessons from Dewey.

The Wollaston M. E. church was crowded to the doors on Sunday evening by people who came to hear the Rev. J. E. Waterhouse speak on "Lessons from the life of Dewey or the range of a man's influence." In treating on this subject, Mr. Waterhouse drew his inspiration from Psalms 31:8, "Thou hast set my feet in a larger room." The decorations, as well as the music, were patriotic. In the alcove at the rear of the pulpit a large American flag was suspended, the pulpit itself was draped with flags, as also were the organ and some of the exposed timbers.

TALKED WITH DEWEY

Massachusetts Field Boy a Hero With Playmates Today.

Harold Steward Tuck of Billings road, Norfolk Downs, was one of the last to say good bye to Admiral Dewey after he boarded the train at the South Terminal in Boston Sunday evening, and today he is a hero among his playmates of the Massachusetts Field school.

The Boston Journal says that Admiral Dewey on his arrival at the big South station, was at once taken to his car, where Gen. Dalton bade him goodbye in behalf of the Governor and the Commonwealth. Harold Steward Tuck, the little grandson of Assistant Trainmaster Tuck of the South Station, was taken into the car, and the Admiral shook him cordially by the hand.

"Have you any father and mother?" said Admiral Dewey.

"No," said the little fellow, "I haven't; I live with my grandfather."

"And what are you going to do when you grow up?" asked the Admiral.

"Going to work," promptly replied the ten years old.

"That's right, my boy," returned the Admiral.

Mayor Quincy came hastily into the station at 6.45 and was quickly lifted into the car. He spent ten minutes in conversation with the Admiral, and bade him goodbye to the citizens of Boston.

The last hand that Admiral Dewey clasped as his train was rolling out of the station was that of a sweet little girl—Helen Porter, eight years old, the daughter of Station Agent Porter. She was held up to the Admiral by Mr. Tuck.

Mr. C. S. Tuck, the trainmaster, resides at No. 1 Billings road, Norfolk Downs.

Harold Tuck, like most of the Quincy school boys was enthusiastic over Dewey. Before it was known that the admiral was coming to Boston, Harold was so anxious to see the great hero that his grandmother, Mrs. Tuck, took him to New York, and he paid $1 to view the parade from the orphan's stand.

Big Liquor Seizure.

Chief Hayden, Inspector McKay with Officers Murray, Barry, Goodhue, Cameron and George McKay, made a descent upon the Italian slant of Pasqually Triglia on Centre street, near Capens bridge, Sunday afternoon, armed with a search warrant. When the officers arrived there was a crowd of nearly two hundred present, many of whom the officers recognized as residents of West Quincy, and beer was dousing down to thirsty throats of the crowd present as fast as the alleged proprietor could uncork the bottles. The scene was one that resembled a German beer garden without the usual orchestra accompaniment. When the officers entered Pasqually flew out of the window and the last seen of him he was making tracks for the woods. The officers confiscated the contents of the building which included 108 full bottles of beer, 400 empty beer bottles, two half gallon jugs that had contained whiskey, 33 beer cases, tumblers, whiskey bottles, etc.

Old Colony Club.

The Old Colony club of South Weymouth opened the season of 1899-1900 in a most auspicious manner, its first meeting being held on Thursday, afternoon, October, the twelfth, in the Union Congregational church vestry. A large number was in attendance, and greatly enjoyed the entertainment of the afternoon, which consisted of papers by club members, music and a club poem.

At the conclusion of the programme, a reception was tendered, in the church parlors, to the newly elected president, Mrs. T. R. Newell, and the past president, Mrs. Frederick Holbrook.

The next meeting will be held in the Union church on Thursday, October the twenty-sixth, at 2.45 P. M. when Miss O. M. E. Rowe, President Massachusetts State Federation and Mrs. Anna D. West of the General Federation will be the speakers. The public is cordially invited to be present.

City Council Business.

Four public hearings will be held by the City Council at its meeting tonight as follows: on order for widening Newport avenue, and petitions to accept Cranch street, Delford street, and Whitney road. The Committee on streets will report on the following matters: sidewalk on Winthrop avenue, location of tracks on Alleyne street, and the rebuilding of Newcomb street. There may also be some reports from the Committee on Finance.

Wouldn't Be Without It.

Mrs. M. F. F. Dana Green, Trained Nurse of Hinsdale, Mass., says: "Comfort Powder keeps children from scratching, and saves many sores. It cures prickly heat, eczema and chafing."

Everything you can think of or can need in your kitchen. The finest store of its kind Quincy has ever owned. Quincy 5 and 10 cent store, Tirrell's Block.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Sunday was a delightful day.

Regular meeting of the City Council this evening.

Two years ago today the noon temperature was 83.

Charles E. Ford, clerk at L. M. Pratt & Co.'s store, is having his vacation.

John McKnight is to move from Butler road to the Hardwick house on Chestnut street.

Mr. Frank F. Shurtleff of Farrington street, Wollaston, is quite sick with the typhoid fever.

Mr. Brown, the Atlantic hardware man, has recently purchased a new house on Clive street.

General Manager John R. Graham of the Quincy & Boston has gone to Chicago on a business trip.

Miss Florence Hill has returned from Cambridge where she has been the guest of Miss Gertrude Austin.

Mrs. J. F. Dozier and daughter of Lynn, formerly of Quincy, are the guests of friends in town for a few days.

Miss Lelia Moxon of Squantum street is spending these delightful autumn days at Hull, with Mrs. Peirce of Norfolk Downs.

But two arrests were made in Quincy Saturday night, one for drunkenness, and one for displaying a fire arm in the public streets.

The biennial session of the Universalist general convention will open in the Columbus Avenue church, Boston, on Friday, continuing one week.

Harry H. Sheen formerly of Quincy is first lieutenant in Co. B of the 40th U.S. Regiment which left South Framingham today for the Philippines.

Many of the Atlantic men, after a rest afforded by Saturday's holiday, went fishing Sunday and came home heavily laden with marine treasures.

Hon. W. B. Rice attended the banquet of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts to Admiral Dewey at the New Algonquin club Saturday evening.

W. R. Gay of Botolph street has purchased the house on the corner of Webster and Squantum streets, and expects to move in as soon as the house is completed.

Councilman Charles M. Bryant is still at his home in Wollaston not having gone south. He is a very sick man but was reported as comfortable Sunday night.

Tomorrow, the Quincy High eleven goes to Brighton to play Mr. Tupper's school. A hot game is anticipated. A full account of the game will appear in Wednesday's Ledger.

Butlers pond, which was filled some weeks ago from a hydrant, has been gradually lowering, which shows that there is an outlet somewhere. Just where the water runs out is as yet a mystery.

John W. Sanborn, the optician, gave away several bunches of bananas during the parade Saturday. Mr. Sanborn had a megaphone and told the boys to look up and then showered them with bananas.

The brick block on Chestnut street is undergoing changes in the hands of its new owner, Mrs. Washburn. Mrs. A. E. Faxon and family, occupying a house in the block, will give up their residence and go to Boston to live.

The Quincy High and the Weymouth High schools put up a hot game of foot ball, Friday afternoon at Merry-mount park. Two fifteen minute halves were played, and the game resulted in a tie, the score being 5 to 5.

Fred Thayer of Quincy Neck caught Saturday, near Bent's creek, where the salt water runs into a fresh brook, a very large blue fish about 20 inches long and weighing 8 pounds. The fish was floundering about in low water and mud when found.

Wednesday night's celebration at Wollaston in honor of Harry R. Osgood and other Spanish war veterans will be a grand affair. The citizens have subscribed liberally towards it. There will be lots of music, enthusiasm, speeches and a "hot time in the old town" generally.

Although the sewer assessment bills were not sent out until Saturday morning, the requests have begun to come in to have the assessment apportioned over ten years. The first request came in Saturday morning shortly after the Sewer Commissioners office was opened.

Mrs. Joseph Rogers of Cross street was surprised Thursday evening, Oct. 12, friends proposing that her thirtieth birthday should not go by unnoticed. They gathered in large numbers, well laden with refreshments and more substantial gifts and took possession of the house. Mrs. Isaac Rogers in behalf of the surprisers, presented a beautiful dinner set and also a hanging lamp. The evening was spent merrily until the early morning hours.

THE COLUMBIA.

Is Leading in the Cup Race
Today.

Turned Outer Mark Nearly
a Mile Ahead.

Will Probably Finish Within
the Time Limit.

Oct. 16, 10.55—The boats are now at the line, and the preparatory gun has been fired. The wind is about eight miles an hour, and is freshening, and there is every prospect of a race. Word from the observation stand, three miles out, says the fog is lifting.

COLUMBIA LEADING.

Oct. 16, 12.30 P. M.—The race is on.
The Shamrock crossed the line at 11.01.03, and the Columbia three seconds later. The Columbia gained the windward position and passed the Shamrock. At four miles out from the start, the Columbia still held the windward position and was a slight distance ahead.

WILL FINISH TODAY.

Oct. 16, 1.30 P. M.—The Columbia is leading the Shamrock about a mile, and is about 2 miles from the turning stake. They will undoubtedly finish within the time limit today.

TEN MINUTES AHEAD.

Oct. 16, 2 P. M.—The Columbia turned at 1.47 and the Shamrock at 1.57, and the yachts are now homeward bound.

HALF WAY HOME.

Oct. 16, 2.40 P. M.—The boats are about half way home and the Columbia is leading the Shamrock about 2 miles.

Harvest Concert.

The annual harvest concert of the Wollaston Unitarian Sunday school was held at the church on Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. There was a large audience. The pulpit was profusely decorated with autumn foliage,
apples, squashes, potatoes, onions,
grain and other gleanings of the harvest. Besides the music and recitations there were addresses by the Rev. L. C. Cornish and Mr. John O. Hall.

The programme was as follows:
Invocation by Rev. Mr. Cornish.
Hymns.
Responsive reading and singing.
Prayer by Mr. Littlefield.
Hymn.
"October's Bright Blue Weather," Helen Josselyn.
Recitation, Neponset school.
Autumn Song of a little girl, by Marion Bowker.

Song, Miss Emery.
Song, "Wishing," Dorothy Fay.
Song, "The Meadow," Alice Arnold.
Solo and chorus.
Recitations, Marion Moorhouse, Marion Bagley, Beth Marcy.
Song, infant class.
"The First Thanksgiving," George Brown.

Hymn 207.
Addresses by Rev. Mr. Cornish, Mr.
Hall, and Mr. Littlefield.
Closing hymn 201.
Benediction.

TWO MONTHS AFLOAT

Mr. Albert Keating Writes of Voyage to Labrador.

Editors of the Daily Ledger:

The first port on Nfld since leaving the Labrador coast is Flowers Cove.
Capt. Sheldon having some unfinished business to transact we put in here Sept. 28. Head winds and stormy weather held us here till today. Although a heavy wind, we run up fore-sail and left for Currant Island, where I am to join the S.S. Harlaw for home, due there Monday.

We made a quick run and got in before dark Friday. Mr. Chitman, the owner of the lobster canning factory
here, invited us to join in a trouting
party in the afternoon, the skipper, steward and myself, with Mr. Chitman as guide and two friends of his making a party of six were off. If there is a man who knows how and where to catch trout, that man did for, he put us exactly on the spot. We had an afternoon of fine sport trout fishing as could be desired. We caught over a hundred fine sized trout some weighing fully two pounds and like all fishermen "we lost the largest ones."

Tuesday, Oct. 3d, the steamer not coming in yesterday, we got underway
at a very early hour in the morning.
The wind was fair and we sailed to the next bay, "Brie Bay," where the steamer would call upon her way up.
Upon arriving, we were still ahead of her, she not arriving till late Wednesday afternoon. The wind and weather had been so bad, she was obliged to lay in harbor.

I reluctantly packed my trunk and took leave of

THE GOOD YACHT SELENA

upon which I had spent two months with the captain and crew, cruising hundred and hundreds of miles
through the gulf of Saint Lawrence,
the straits of Belle Isle, and along the coast of Labrador. Two months as pleasant as any in my life. While I knew I was to part with such agreeable shipmates, I knew I was about to join others not one whit less social and jolly on board the S. S. Harlaw, as I found them to be while on my trip down, and of which I referred in my first letter.

I was welcomed most heartily on board by Capt. Scott and officer; also the deck hands in their "sou-westers"
and oil suits expressed pleasure by their smiles and nods of my coming.
If there ever were ship officers and men exerted themselves to make a passenger enjoy a trip, the honor belonged to them. Upon stepping aboard you will find the obliging steward and assistant steward close to your elbow, cordially welcoming you. They take your land baggage and conduct you to a neat and comfortable state room.
The table and service is first class and plenty of everything. Any one contemplating a sea trip next season could not possibly find a pleasanter
one.

THE SCENERY

surpasses everything. Mountain above mountain, thousands of feet high,
rising straight and steep up the ocean,
and snow clad in August. One could sit on the slide and drop a lead a hundred fathoms and not find bottom.
One can take Harlaw at Halifax, pass through Bras d' Orr Lakes a most beautiful trip to Sydney, then cross to Nfld, leave her at bay or islands,
twenty-five miles in from the coast,
take the train there, and in a short time
be landed upon good trouting brooks
and right in the heart of deer hunting grounds, stop two weeks and return on her next trip, if you wish to return as soon.

We left Currant Island Thursday
noon. About three o'clock, a heavy southwest squall struck us and from that time till six it increased to a perfect gale, the sea running (I can't say they were mountains high) good size hills high, till staunch steamer pitched and rolled till I thought she would not come back. After that hour
we had six miles to run before we could make a harbor, and the captain was obliged to find it without a single light house to guide him in. There are only two light houses on the coast for over two hundred miles, with many excellent harbors between. The captain was about to give up hope of getting in, and to stand out to sea for night,
when it lighted up sufficiently for him to discern the opening between mountains and he anchored in the harbor of Port Saunders, greatly to the relief and comfort of ninety-five passengers.

You can judge (if possible) something of the FURY OF THE GALE
when the few of us who stood upon the bridge would be covered with the sea shipped over the bow and sides of the steamer. There was not a head lost, but I saw the captain's hat that had stood many a hard gale go off
his head into the sea.
The storm continued all night and next day, so hard that we were obliged to remain in harbor till Saturday morning. It was then very rough. On our way we fell in with a schooner in distress, and took her in tow to Bonne bay, our next stop. The undertaking was very skillfully managed in so rough a sea.

We left Bonne Bay about six P. M.
for our next port, a run of about fifty miles, a five hours' run in good weather. After getting out of the bay which is eighteen miles, we run into another storm out at sea, thick and dark. The captain could not make the harbor and was obliged to turn back and lay on and off, pitching and rolling about till daylight. We went into Bay of Islands Sunday morning.
The storm continued all day, so hard
we did not leave till five in the afternoon, when it came out clear.

By these delays we were two days behind time. We took on at Port Saunders as passenger, C. O. Norton, better known as Cairbair Charlie, a Labrador and Nfld trapper, who is credited with killing more caribou than any man living. He is seventy-seven years of age, tall, straight and in perfect health. He has a valuable collection of furs and skins that represent the animals to be found in the forests of Nfld. He is employed by the Nfld government to take them to the sportsman show to be held in Boston the coming winter.

Tuesday, we had a very pleasant run
from Bay of Islands to channel at Port Abasque the last stop on the Nfld side;
also from Port Abasque to Sydney,
where the H. M. Whitney syndicate will expend $5,000,000 during the next few years. We are now passing through Bras d' Orr Lakes, and having a most delightful run on our way to Halifax,
where we expect to arrive tomorrow morning. I shall then take the Steamer Halifax for Boston, having traveled over four thousand miles upon the water and slept on land only one night since July.

Drowned in Pail.

A sad accident took place Saturday
at the residence of John Clark on Walnut street, Atlantic, when his 22 months old twin son was accidentally drowned in a pail of water. Mrs.
Clark had been washing some clothing,
and taking a basket of clothes stepped into the yard to hang them out to dry.
Thinking that the child would be all right she left it playing on the floor.
Mrs. Clark was gone but a few minutes and upon her return was horrified to see her baby boy in the pail of water.
With a bound she had the baby in her arms. Aid was quickly summoned but human skill was of no avail, for the baby was dead, having been drowned.
As near as can be learned the child
must have been playing about the pail
and lost its balance and fell in head
first, and being unable to help itself was drowned before assistance reached
it. Mrs. Clark is almost heartbroken over the affair. The funeral of the little one was held Sunday.

Gilmartin-Powers.

Mr. Hugh Gilmartin, a very popular young man of Atlantic, was united in marriage to Miss Minnie Power of Dorchester Wednesday Oct. 11, at 8 P. M., at the parochial residence of Rev. Fr.
Murphy of Neponset. Miss Kittie
Powers a sister of the bride was bride-maid and Mr. Patrick Gilmartin, brother of the groom acted as best man. Mr. Gilmartin has a handsome new house situated on Squantum street
just completed, where the young couple are to reside. The reception was held there. They were the recipients of many costly and beautiful presents.
Many good wishes are extended to the happy couple on their voyage through life.

N. W. on Myself Still Unsoved. Newton, Mass., Oct. 16.—The police of this city are still endeavoring to solve the mystery which surrounds the death of William McAuley and Alma Josephine Peterson, whose bodies were found Thursday in the Casey barn on Park street. While additional facts have been gathered, there is much which remains to be cleared up. Medical Examiner Meade has not yet completed his autopsy, and will make no statement as to the cause of death. It is known that McAuley was engaged to the Peterson woman. Whether or not he was married to her is still in doubt. The murder and suicide story is still adhered to, and is thought to have been the result of a quarrel, which took place in the barn Wednesday night.

Andrade May Be Forced to Retire. Caracas, Venezuela, Oct. 16.—Advices from Petare, 10 miles from Caracas, say the people have risen against President Andrade, and a crisis is imminent here. The commander of the government forces has betrayed the president, and will allow the revolutionary army to march upon Caracas without a battle. President Andrade will probably be forced to retire, re-establishing his government at Maracaibo or Puerto Cabello. Tuecas has been taken by the revolutionary forces.

Rich Man Kills Himself. Vincennes, Ind., Oct. 16.—Leslie D. Sinclair, a prominent citizen, while sitting in a restaurant. He was worth $100,000, and belonged to one of the most prominent families in southern Indiana. Sinclair had written to his sister, in which he said his life was a failure. Sinclair was 28 years old, and unmarried.

Beware of Ointments for Catarrh That Contain Mercury, as mercury will surely destroy the sense of smell and completely derange the whole system when entering it through the mucous surfaces. Such articles should be used only on prescriptions from reputable physicians, as the damage they will do is ten fold to the good you can possibly derive from them. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, O., contains no mercury, and is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, in buying Hall's Catarrh Cure be sure you get the genuine. It is taken internally, and made in Toledo, Ohio, by F. J. Cheney & Co. Testimonials free. Sold by Druggists, price 75c. per bottle. Hall's Family Pills are the best.

LEAGUE "RACE" ENDED

Brooklyn Almost Sure of Winning the Pennant Since Last May.

Real Struggle Came in Contest For Second Place.

A Glance at the Work of the Various Clubs During the Past Season.

New York, Oct. 16.—In the National league baseball race, just finished, excitement on the whole was at a discount. There were many exciting games, and in some respects the playing, generally speaking, was high class. It was too much of a procession to be a race. Long before the season ended, the Brooklyn were conceded to be the coming champions, their lead, after they once went to the front, which was on May 22, seldom being so small as not to be reckoned as safe. The real fight was for second place. Brooklyn's win of this year's pennant, while doubtless a grandstand element, was thoroughly impressive. The Brooklyn, as a result of their consistently strong game, performed the remarkable feat of never relinquishing their grip on first place, after taking that position. They had a couple of bad spells, however, in which their lead was reduced materially, but each time they pulled up. Their most uneasy time was towards the end of June, when they lost eight straight games.

Boston gave indications at times of wresting the lead from Brooklyn, doing some fine playing in the west, but failing to put up the old invincible game at home. One of the best periods of the champions was in May. On May 16 they were sixth, on June 1 they were second. The Philadelphia team, which finished third in the race, were a bit too streaky to win the pennant, but still enough to be dangerous. They held the lead at one time, in the first part of April, but by the middle of June they were as low as fifth. Then they began climbing up again, and for the last three months alternated with Boston in second and third places.

Baltimore finished fourth. In April and May the Baltimore were in the second division, but they went into the first division with a rush. They jumped from seventh to third place in the short space of two weeks. Within two weeks more they had dropped back to sixth place, then they went up the ladder again, staying in fourth place for the last 2 1/2 months.

The St. Louis team proved disappointing. They were the only team, besides the Brooklyn, that held the lead for any length of time. At different times, however, they occupied every position in the first division, their close fight with the Cincinnati for fifth place being one of the season's features.

The Cincinnati have to their credit the most remarkable spurt of the season, winning 13 straight games. They were, however, once the race was fairly under way, never prominent for the pennant. The Pittsburgh team was a second division factor from the start, but they did especially well in the last two months, when their playing was of first division caliber and better than one or two teams just ahead of them.

The Chicago, who started off well, gradually went down the scale, winding up eighth, and the Louisville did a shade worse. The New York made the worst showing ever made by a New York league team. It may be said that the New York, that they got away poorly and stayed there. Apart from general demoralization the New Yorks had the worst luck in the league. Many players were hurt during the season, and these accidents, together with the weak pitching staff, brought the home team way down.

The Washington and Cleveland aggregations were next to last and last. The former was conspicuous for the great amount of experimenting in players that it did and the persistence with which it hovered near the tail end. Of the Cleveland, it can simply be said that no leader was ever seen so poorly. Following is the standing for 1899 and 1898:

In Danger of Lynching.

Columbia, Tenn., Oct. 16.—Horace Campbell, a negro phosphate miner, is in jail here and a strong guard stands watch to prevent a threatened lynching. Campbell and another negro, while resisting arrest at the Tennessee phosphate companies mines, fired on the officers, killing James Glimmer and wounding Officer Ladd twice. Later Campbell was arrested and identified.

Killed by Electric Shock.

Kennebunk, Me., Oct. 16.—Peter McFarland, a fireman, at work repairing the fire alarm yesterday, fell from the pole, and in falling grasped a live trolley wire. The shock from the wire, which was carrying 10,000 volts, instantly killed him. He was 35 years of age.

A DISFIGURED COMPSE.

Boston Woman Found Dead and Her Common Law Husband Placed Under Arrest.

Boston, Oct. 16.—Murder is the charge against John Fleetwood, 50 years old, arrested Sunday morning after the police of station 5 had found Catherine McDonald, 35 years old, dead and brutally disfigured in a flat at 75 Dover street, where she lived with Fleetwood as his common law wife. Both, it is alleged, had been drinking heavily Saturday night. David C. Almsworth, 26, and Charles Edlar, 35, the former an unemployed bridge worker, and the latter a street vendor of novelties and small wares, are also detained at station 5, as witnesses in the case. They were lodged in the flat where the McDonald woman met her death.

The dead woman, when seen by Dr. Onikow, who was called by Fleetwood, was lying on the floor of the kitchen. Fleetwood told the police that he went to see the parade on Saturday with Catherine McDonald, and that while in the crowd, early in the afternoon, he lost sight of her. He returned home, he says, about 10 o'clock, and found that she had not arrived. Soon after she came in, accompanied by a strange man, who was intoxicated, and he also claims the woman was.

After a short time he remonstrated with the stranger, who immediately began to fight, and a severe struggle took place, after which the man left the place. Fleetwood then went to bed, and left the woman lying on the floor in an intoxicated condition. Sunday morning when Fleetwood awoke, he says, she was lying in the same place, and he so went for a physician, but the latter found her dead.

David Ashwood, one of the witnesses, told the police that Fleetwood had beaten the woman in a terrible manner. Charles Eichler, the other witness, said he heard the woman cry out, "Don't kick me in the stomach," and "For God's sake, let me up and don't kill me." During the night these cries were continuous, and Fleetwood's voice could be heard and sound of blows were struck for some time. An autopsy will be held.

Sampson in Command.

Boston, Oct. 16.—At the height of the demonstration to Admiral Dewey Saturday Rear Admiral Sampson arrived in Boston and at once assumed command of the Charlestown navy yard. In the evening after his arrival at the yard his first act was to break out from the mizzenmasthead of the receiving ship Wabash to the salute of 13 guns from the yard battery, as required by naval regulations. Hardly had this concluded when with a flash and a roar came an additional salute and recognition from the Olympia. The admiral, carrying arms and ammunition, with flags and signal pennants. It was just 3:38 p. m. when the salute was given from the yard, and this marks the time of the official assumption of command.

In Defense of Bedoe.

Washington, Oct. 16.—Edwin B. Hay, counsel for W. F. Sylvester, owner of the steamer Abbey, which was seized by the Philippine insurgents, yesterday made a lengthy statement in defense of Dr. Edward Bedoe, United States consul at Canton, China, against whom charges were made in connection with the grant of the American registry to the Abbey. He says that Bedoe's actions were purely routine in character, and that the consul did nothing that any other United States consul would not have done under the circumstances.

Lively Week in Kentucky.

Cairo, Ills., Oct. 16.—State Senator Goebel, Democratic candidate for governor of Kentucky, accompanied by a distinguished party of Kentuckians and a number of new representatives, reached here last night from Louisville. William J. Bryan and National Committeeman Woodson of Kentucky arrived during the night, and all left today for a tour of Kentucky, extending from west to east. The trip will be made in a special train and consume the greater part of the week. Mr. Bryan is scheduled for from five to eight half-hour speeches per day.

Steam Propeller Destroyed.

South Norwalk, Conn., Oct. 16.—The steam propeller Pottsville was wrecked and burned off Norwalk islands, near the mouth of the harbor, late Saturday night and Sunday morning. Captain Ryan and crew of nine men escaped unhurt, but lost all of their effects. In making the harbor the captain miscalculated and struck the reef at full speed. A big hole was stove in the bottom of the boat and she was soon on her beam end. Live coals scattered over the engine and set fire to the vessel, which the crew was unable to subdue, and finally they were forced to make their escape in small boats.

Took Poison by Mistake.

Boston, Oct. 16.—Frederick H. Clark, a banker of New York and this city, narrowly escaped instant death by poison at his father's house on Beacon street yesterday. He took as he supposed, some medicine for a cold, and had swallowed a portion of the liquid, when he discovered that it was a deadly poison, for which there is no known antidote. Only by instant application of narcotics and stimulants was his life saved. He is now considered out of danger.

Central Vermont Troubles.

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 16.—The trouble among certain employees of the Central Vermont road apparently is not yet settled, for no report of a compromise came from the meeting here yesterday of the federated unions. The general impression among the union men is that a strike is unlikely.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Sun rises—5:59; sets, 4:59. Moon sets—4:26 p. m. High water—9:30 a. m.; 10 p. m. The temperature is below the seasonal average from the middle and upper Missouri valley and the Rocky mountain district to the Pacific coast. The center of a low barometer has moved from the southern Rocky mountain districts to Minnesota, and the barometer is low from Manitoba to Texas. The barometer continues high over the New England states. The weather will continue fair in the New England states. Along the New England coast the winds will be light from the southeast.

SPENT A QUIET SUNDAY.

Boston, Oct. 16.—Dewey is gone. The miles of decorations hang limp and torn, for the hero who had inspired their creation is "far from the madding crowd," and Boston is herself again. The bells tolled 71 last evening for the admiral, and the human forms were surging in a great black sea of howling humanity within the great train shed. The clang of the engine bell was drowned out by the farewell chorus of cheers. A stalwart man ran behind the rear platform, holding a child aloft. Dewey bent far over and caressed the dimpled little hand, "Good-by, my dear," he said. He disengaged his fingers and stood erect. He bowed thrice to the crowd. Then the car was whisked around a curve, and Dewey was seen no more.

The admiral spent a very quiet Sunday in the city, necessitated by fatigue which had followed his arduous duties of Saturday, and in fact, of the past four days. He did not stay all day in his apartments in the Touraine, but while there he did receive many calls from friends. After breakfast he spent some time with Dhis mail, and then Governor Rollins of New Hampshire called. Later, accompanied by Lieutenant Brumby, the admiral went to the Somerset club, where he was the guest of E. R. Morse. At the club lunch was partaken of, and when the time came to leave the crowd of expectant spectators was so large at the Beacon street entrance that the admiral and party stepped out a rear entrance. Here Police Commissioner Clark joined them, and all walked back to the Touraine, the admiral, apparently, not being noticed.

When the admiral, Lieutenant Brumby and R. T. McKeever left the hotel in a closed carriage for the Southern Terminal, it was under escort of mounted police officers. The crowd which followed was a large one, and a greater one was at the station. The party at once went aboard the express, which immediately left.

Even Burned or Drowned.

New York, Oct. 16.—Eleven persons met death in the torture of flames or by drowning in the disaster which occurred to the Bridgeport line steambot, the Nutmeg State, off Sands Point, L. I., at sunrise Saturday. The list of injured is very short, as most of the passengers who escaped suffered nothing more than shock from submersion in the chilly water and only four persons were sent to the hospital. The steamer was run to the beach at the outbreak of the flames and burned to the water's edge. The Nutmeg State, with over 100 persons on board, bound from Connecticut towns to New York, was discovered afire when she was within a few miles of Sands Point, L. I. Just how the fire started will never be known.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

In his annual report to the secretary of the navy, Chief Constructor Hiehnborn lays special stress upon the importance of continuing the work of improving the plants at the various navy yards, inviting particular attention to those at Boston and League Island.

The plant of the Richmond (Vt.) Furniture company was entirely burned, causing a total loss of $25,000.

St. Mary's training school at Feehanville, Ills., burned to the ground. Loss estimated at $200,000.

Senator Dewey, being asked when the will of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt was likely to be produced, replied that the matter had not been decided by those directly interested. "No conference has been had in regard to the matter lately," the senator explained.

The mills of the American Thread Trust company, at Ashland, Mass., which bought out the Warren Thread company, last June, and which have given employment to about 100 hands, have been permanently closed. The employees, however, will receive their wages very week until Jan. 1. The closing down of the mill will end the manufacture of thread in Ashland.

The navy department has substituted the Ranger for the Badger as one of the reinforcing fleet for the Philippines. The Badger was found to require repairs so extensively as to make it impossible for her to get off for a long time. The Ranger is just out of the navy yard, and is in excellent condition.

Mrs. Katherine McGrath, aged 70 years, was so badly burned at Southington, Conn., that she will probably die. She dropped a kerosene lamp, and the burning oil set fire to her clothes, burning her frightfully about the body.

Steamer W. P. Ketcham ran down the little schooner Typo in Lake Huron. Typo was instantly sunk, and four of her crew were drowned. The captain and two seamen were saved.

Tim Kearns was awarded the decision over Joe Mullins in the third round of what was to have been a 20-round encounter at Brooklyn.

The navy department has been informed that the New Orleans will be able to sail from the New York navy yard for Manila next Friday. The boilers were found to be in a much better condition than was at first supposed.

James H. Eckels, controller of the United States treasury under President Cleveland, was knocked down by a team at New York. His injuries consist of bruises and contusions of the body, and are not serious. The driver of the wagon was arrested, but Mr. Eckels refused to make a complaint.

The strike of machinists, boiler-makers and blacksmiths on the Canadian Pacific railway, western division, is practically at an end, the officials of the road having consented to meet the general committee of the employees, and treat with them as representatives of organized bodies.

The Windsor hotel at Chatham, N. Y., was burned to the ground. Wallace C. Hale, a drummer, was suffocated. All the other guests escaped in their night-clothes.

Colonel John J. Williams, mayor of Winchester, Va., and ex-grand commander of the Virginia camp of Confederate Veterans, died at Baltimore. He was a leading lawyer of Virginia.

Mrs. Cantius Lange, a well-known district attorney, died at New York, the result of a fall. She was attacked while speaking from the platform, and the last words she uttered were, "Women must be free."

CUP IS SAFE

According to Opinion of Nautical Sharps.

First Race For America's Cup Easily Won by Columbia.

Wonderful Work of Defender From Start to Finish.

Barr Outgeneraled Hogarth at Every Point of the Contest.

Lipton Admits the Challenger Was Fairly and Squarely Beaten.

New York, Oct. 17.—Columbia defeated Shamrock in the first race for the America's cup, beating the challenger at every point in the windward work, and holding her advantage in the run to the finish mark. It was the eighth attempt, and the conditions at the start were more promising for a finish race than at any time for a week. In the early morning the wind, while light, showed evidences of increasing. At the time of the start it was blowing about 10 miles an hour. The weather was thick, but showed signs of clearing.

Columbia bounded across the finish line fully a mile and a half ahead of the challenger, defeating her by 10 minutes and 14 seconds, actual time, or 10 minutes and 8 seconds corrected time, after allowing the six seconds handicap, which Columbia must concede to the challenger on account of her longer water-line. It was a magnificent race, skillfully sailed and decisively won. Opinion as to the merits of the two boats had been somewhat divided, as a result of the flukes during the past two weeks, but no nautical sharp expected that Shamrock would be so overwhelmingly vanquished as she was in Monday's contest. The Yankee boat outgeneraled her at the start, beat her hopelessly in windward work to the outer mark, and gained 22 seconds in the run home before the wind.

No excuse can be offered for Shamrock's defeat. There was a good, strong 10 to 12-knot breeze, and it held throughout the race, true as the needle to the pole. The regatta committee, as a result of the showing made by the defender, are convinced that the cup is safe. Blow high, blow low, Columbia, it is believed by her manager, can take the measure of her rival. Sir Thomas Lipton admitted after the race that he had been fairly and squarely beaten. He had no apologies to make, saying that he would die game, and race the series.

The race was a magnificent duel, and made up for the repeated disappointments the sightseers have suffered. It was anything but a comfortable day on the water. A wet grey veil of vapor hung over the sea when Sir Thomas took his first look at the weather. The prospect was not very alluring. Still the mist wreaths were carried along by a good 10-knot breeze from the east, and the old shellbacks said there was more wind where that came from.

But the excursionists who went down the bay were not very hopeful until they got outside. The low, leaden clouds overhead shut out the sky. The wall of vapor blotted out the horizon. The mist made everything look gloomy. The only color in the dull scene was furnished by the ensigns and the flags which adorned the excursion fleet, and the dash of red from the big hulk of the lightsail. Outside the wind was fresher and whipped some foam out of the waves.

Both yachts were towed out from the anchorages, and raised mainsails before casting off. The crew of Columbia had on their working suits of white, and wore watch caps of black and red, Iselin's private colors. Several of the crew of Shamrock had on gold-washers. From the truck of Shamrock's topmast floated Lipton's flag, a green shamrock in a yellow field. The wind kept freshening all the way out to the lightsail, and the seas split more froth.

No large assemblage was on hand to witness the start, yachts, however, got out in time to see the finish. Promptly at 10 o'clock the committee boat signalled the course, 15 miles dead into the eye of the wind, to the eastward and return. Immediately a tug steamed out parallel with the Long Island shore, to set the outer mark. Just as the warning gun boomed, a driving mist swept in from the east, beating into the faces of the excursionists, and adding to their discomfort. There was some lively jockeying behind the line, before the start, and the Yankee boat got the better of it. She out-manuevered her rival, even to forcing her over the line first by a half length, but leaving Columbia in the weather position.

Close hauled on the starboard tack the yachts plunged seaward, heeling to the 12-knot breeze. The first few minutes of the race were the most interesting. The yachts made a beautiful picture as they raced away. Their sails, to the nautical eye, were perfection in fit. The crews were piled up on the weather rail as the yachts smashed into the head seas, pounding the spray from their bows. Plenty of smother came over, but neither shipped crests forward.

It was soon apparent that Columbia was forging ahead. The clear winner began to show between them. Columbia not only seemed to outfoot the challenger, but also pointed higher. It was astonishing how she sliced her way up into the wind. Within 15 minutes she had established a lead of five lengths, and from that time on the race was hers. The patriots were jubilant, and the bands began playing.

Columbia seemed more tender than the foreigner, showing yards of her bronze underbody as she leaned away with her lee rail almost awash. Steadily she continued to draw ahead until within half an hour, having demonstrated her superiority in windward work, it became only a question of how much Columbia would beat Shamrock to the outer mark.

As the yachts got farther out the seas grew more turbulent and the spray spouted higher from their bows. Many excursionists came to grief, and some of the tugboats were flooded from stem to stern. The work of the patrol fleet was perfect. They held the yachts in the hollow of a moving right angle, and kept them entirely free from interference.

Shamrock footed valiantly, but neither in speed nor in pointing could she compare with Columbia. Then the three skippers on the challenger tried new tactics. Shamrock made a dozen short boards. But Columbia proved quite as nimble as Shamrock. Time by a stop watch both boats were 15 seconds in stags, and the defender was fully as clever as the challenger at fore reaching. When Shamrock got through with this line of tactics Columbia had increased her lead until she was half a mile ahead. At the end of another half hour, as the wind continued to freshen, Shamrock took in her baby jib topsail. Columbia held on to her's, and as Shamrock did not improve her position at the end of 10 minutes her skippers again set this sail. By 1 o'clock Shamrock was fully a mile and a half astern of Columbia, a winner all over. It was not close enough to be exciting.

Nothing could have been prettier than the way Columbia swept around the outer mark. Both boats had edged far to the southward of their course, and as the rules required that the mark should be passed on the starboard hand Columbia tacked down to port and came over on the starboard tack as she approached the mark. As she noted it her skipper's pole was poised like a lance in rest. As she swung around she cast off her main boom, let her spinnaker pole drop to port and, breaking out the cloud of canvas, fled homeward. Her big balloon jib blossomed out 15 seconds later. The few ships of the excursion fleet at the outer mark gave her a rousing reception with their whistles as she started for home.

Shamrock was already hopelessly beaten. A quarter of a mile down the home run Columbia crossed the path of Shamrock. Still bearing to windward, close hauled, and robbed her of the wind for a minute as she sped past. It was 9 minutes and 49 seconds later when Shamrock swung round the mark and squared away for the finish. The excursion boats, however, hung on until she had rounded the mark and given her an ovation.

Columbia was already almost two miles away, and in the thickening mist could hardly be discerned. The excursion boats went ploughing down on either side of the course to be in at the death. Ering, however, remained absent of the race. Sir Thomas and his friends aboard looked disconsolate. From that time it was simply a procession.

There was a soul-stirring scene as Columbia approached the finish, with all her bulging balloons drawing. The excursion boats had gathered there, and as she swept across the finish line steam whistles shrieked, the sirens wailed, several yachts fired salutes and the crowds on the side-wheelers cheered. Corsair hauled down her private signals and set old glory at each masthead and gaff and taffrail. The crew of Columbia gathered aft and hurrahed.

After Columbia had lowered her headsails and taken the tow line from her tender, the crowd waited over 10 minutes until Shamrock had crossed and the fleet had given her a stentorian greeting of good will. Then the steamers assembled after Columbia, crowding about her and cheering her again and again, while the bands played patriotic airs. They escorted her all the way to her anchorage inside the Hook.

The race today will be over the triangular course, 10 miles to the leg, and Shamrock will have an opportunity to show what she can do at her favorite point of sailing.

How Britishers Felt.

London, Oct. 17.—Partly owing to the diminished interest after so many abortive attempts, and partly to disappointment over the result of Monday's race for the America's cup, London demonstrations were rather tame. Great crowds had collected on the Thames embankment and at other places where the progress of the race was exhibited, and cheers were frequently raised for both boats, but the disappointment over the result was very keen. "Yankee Doodle" was sung at the music halls. When the result was communicated to the audiences there was a general manifestation of disappointment, but this speedily gave place to the hearty hurrahs and the bands played American tunes.

A SCARCITY OF NEWS

Because of the Cutting Off of Points of Hostilities.

Stories of Fights Are Premature and Speculative.

Boers Have Evidently Occupied Newcastle and Dannhauser.

Serious Disloyalty and Much Anti-British Agitation in the Cape Colony.

London, Oct. 17.—Dispatches from the Cape are very meager, but they include an important message from the Glencoe camp, dated 3:35 Monday afternoon, announcing that the Boer commandos which invaded Natal through Laing's Nek and, after occupying Newcastle, advanced to Dannhauser, retired on Ingagane Sunday evening, their transport service being reported defective. This will delay indefinitely the anticipated and hoped for assault on the strong British position at Glencoe.

Another dispatch reports activity on the part of the Free State commando in the neighborhood of Aliwal, north, on the southern frontier. The Boers' advance patrol, the dispatch says, go to the frontier bridge nightly, to keep watch, firing shots at intervals as signals. It is believed the enemy intends shortly to try to rush the railway station with the help of artillery posted on a ridge commanding the town.

The gradual cutting of the outlying points at the scene of hostilities in South Africa from telegraphic communication reduces the accurate news obtainable to a minimum. No reliable information has been received of any actual fighting outside the affair at Kraaipan and occasional exchange of shots at various outposts.

There is no lack of circumstantial stories regarding fighting at various points, but these are scarcely published before they are denied. The only salient facts are that the Boers have advanced beyond Newcastle and formed a laager near Dannhauser, about 12 miles above Dundee, and that Kimberley is isolated and probably invested. Kimberley has thus become the immediate centre of interest. The last message from Kimberley, prior to the cutting of the telegraph and railway by the Boers, said: "All the troops at Kimberley are well."

A Fine Baby

Makes any mother proud. There are a great many proud mothers whose children have been puny and sickly until the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That medicine which "makes weak women strong" has given them the strength to bear hearty, and healthy children for the first time.

"I was left in a weak run down condition," says Maria O. Hayzel, writing from Brookland, D. C. "My health seemed utterly gone. I suffered from nervousness, female weakness and rheumatism. Life was a burden. I doctored with three different physicians and got no relief. I tried several patent medicines, all with the same result. I began to get worse and to add to the complications I suffered terribly from constipation. I chanced to see one of your advertisements and I commenced to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Pleasant Pellets' and began to improve right away, and continued improving and gaining in strength. I cannot express the relief, it was so great. Seven months later my little daughter was born without much trouble. I feel that I would never have been able to endure my confinement only by the help due solely to Dr. Pierce's medicines. She was a fine healthy child and the only one I have ever been able to nurse. She is now two years old and I have never had to take any medicine since, so I feel that your medicine has made a lasting cure with me."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to defray expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper binding, or 31 stamps for cloth. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

As there are 3000 troops at that point, there is little anxiety for the safety of the town, especially as the Boer force is said to be only of about the same strength.

Many stories of brisk fighting at that point are in circulation, but all alleged details must be regarded as premature and speculative, especially if the report be true that the Orange Free State troops are now in complete possession of the railway from Kimberley to the Orange river, 70 miles away. The alleged virulence of the Boer attack upon Mafeking and Kimberley can be readily understood when it is realized that Bechuanaland is to the Boers what Alsace-Lorraine is to France. It is therefore probable that both towns will be forced to undergo a long and dreary investment before the British are in a position to send a relieving column. On the other side the Boers are closing around the British outposts, and have already come into touch with them, and exchanged shots. Therefore, more stirring news is expected.

Good Afternoon.

The balance of the appropriation for streets for 1899 is getting insignificantly small. The official figures of the City Auditor's report for Oct. 1, 1899, show the balance to be but $225.47, probably not enough to settle outstanding bills. Merchants and laborers who know of the experience of some in collecting Fire Department bills of 1898, should be shy about furnishing supplies or doing work to be charged to this appropriation. The appropriation for miscellaneous street expenses, including maintenance of horses and purchase of tools, was $22,000, but there have been receipts credited to the amount of $233.00. Of this total of $22,233.00, the Commissioner has expended $22,007.53, leaving a balance of but $225.47 for maintenance of horses and care of tools for three months, to say nothing of care of streets, cleaning the gutters of leaves, etc. Even the street crossing sweeper is in danger if he depends upon the appropriation for street crossings, as there was a balance of but $2.77 of the $1,000 on Oct. 1.

The appropriation for the Hancock street paving was upon the Commissioner's estimate, and although considered generous it was all required; the balance Oct. 1 on the appropriation of $11,000 being but $25.06.

The Commissioner is fortunate in having generous special appropriations like the Coddington street widening and Hancock and Quarry street paving, against which to charge expenditures, but with all of the extravagance which has marked his administration he has caused the appropriation of $22,000 for streets to vanish in nine months. Wonder what appropriation is now maintaining the horses and caring for the tools of the department?

We do not know which side to the argument is to be regarded with the more impatience—that which argues that the Philippines should be retained, or that which argues that they should not be. That is a point which has already passed beyond practical discussion. Of course the islands will be retained. We might as well debate whether the sun ought to rise tomorrow morning.—New Bedford Standard.

The presidency appears to be a money-making institution, both before taking and after. Mr. Bryan, it is said, has made $200,000 as a candidate for the presidency, while ex-President Harrison as legal counsel for the Venezuelan republic before the Paris arbitration is to get a fee of $250,000. If it pays well to be a presidential nominee, moderately so to be a real president, it would seem to pay a great deal better to be an ex-president.—Beverly Times.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Hot Resolutions Against N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R.

Depots and Service Both Criticised.

The Q. & B. Asks for Double Track Through City.

Councilmen Badger, Bryant, Dugan, Hill and Swithin were absent at Monday night's meeting of the City Council.

COMMUNICATIONS.

The Mayor forwarded a notice of a public hearing of the Harbor and Land Commissioners Oct. 18, on the petition of A. A. Meyers to build a sea wall and wharf at Houghs Neck. Placed on file.

The Mayor in a communication stated that it had been found that Newport avenue could not be widened to fifty feet and he enclosed a new plan for the widening of the street. Laid on the table until later, when an order for a public hearing Nov. 6, was adopted.

BETTER RAILROAD FACILITIES.

The Mayor sent the following resolution in relation to better railroad facilities, which was laid on the table until later in the evening when an order was adopted authorizing and requesting the Mayor to obtain such relief as may seem advisable and necessary.

To the Honorable Board of Railroad Commissioners for the Commonwealth of Massachusetts:

The undersigned, Harrison A. Keith, Mayor of the City of Quincy, hereto duly authorized and directed by the City Council of said city, respectfully represents as follows:

First. That the station accommodations at Quincy proper are inadequate, unclean, offensive, antiquated and unsuitable for the accommodation of the large number of persons who have occasion to use said station, and considering the importance of that city and the traffic to and from its principal station, and prays your Board that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company be required to provide for the public using its station in Quincy, additional accommodations in the shape of larger, cleaner and more suitable waiting rooms, stations and conveniences, and for such other accommodations as your Honorable Board thinks justice to all parties concerned requires.

Second. That the station and its accommodations at Atlantic in the City of Quincy are inadequate, antiquated and unsuitable for the use of the people of Atlantic who have occasion to patronize the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company at this point, and respectfully requests that your Honorable Board require said railroad company to furnish larger and more suitable station accommodations at Atlantic.

Third. That the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, being the only railroad company having a location through the City of Quincy, does not provide adequate train service for the principal station in said city, viz., at Quincy proper, and that your Honorable Board is requested to require said railroad company to give additional trains between Quincy and Boston and to increase the number of cars on said trains.

Fourth. That the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company does not provide sufficient facilities for the receipt and handling and despatch of freight at the different stations situated within the limits of said city, and that said railroad company be required to provide more track room at Quincy, and to do such other things as will be necessary to remove the defects complained of.

Fifth. That your honorable Board will so modify your recommendations of October 25th, 1897, in relation to the approaches to the Wollaston station in Quincy, as to require the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company to erect an open iron or wire picket fence of suitable height and design with gates of suitable width to take the place of the present unsightly and objectionable stockade with its dangerous turnstiles and narrow gate; and that in erecting the said iron or picket fence the railroad company be required to place the same ten or fifteen feet, at least, farther in upon its location, or in a more easterly position than that which the present fence now occupies.

Sixth. That a public hearing be given by your Board on the complaints herein enumerated.

The Auditor requested authority to charge bills of $28 for Miscellaneous City Expenses of 1898 to account of 1899. To Committee on Finance.

A communication was received from Sarah L. Shuman of Wollaston, objecting to the building a sidewalk on Winthrop avenue.

DOUBLE TRACK WANTED.

The Quincy & Boston street railway petitioned for a location for a double track on Hancock, School and Franklin streets and Independence avenue to Braintree line. To Committee on Streets.

OTHER PETITIONS.

H. C. Chapman of Wollaston petitioned for an appointment of his sidewalk assessment. Laid on the table until later when an order granting the request was passed.

The Electric Light & Power Co. petitioned for a location for two poles on Belmont street and two poles on Highland avenue. To Committee on Streets.

NO MORE SIDEWALKS.

The Committee on Streets reported ought not to pass on the order for a gravel sidewalk on Winthrop avenue.

Councilman Jameson asked the reason.

Councilman Pinkham said it was a short street and had a good sidewalk on the opposite side of the street. The Committee did not propose to put in any more sidewalks this year.

Councilman Jameson did not know by what right they took that power. Every time it rains the soil from the two vacant lots on this street were washed into the street. The Commissioners say a sidewalk here would be a saving in the end.

Councilman Pinkham—Another reason was, that the order provided that the $400 should be changed to an appropriation made for another purpose. He possibly gave a wrong impression in his statement, for what he intended to say was, that at present the Committee had no intention to advocate more sidewalks this year.

Councilman Jameson moved to amend, so as to provide for the borrowing of the amount.

The chair ruled the motion out of order, and the report of the committee was accepted.

NEWCOMB STREET.

The Committee on Streets reported reference to the executive, on the order to rebuild Newcomb street.

Councilman Pinkham said the Commissioner had informed the Committee that he could do this job with surplus gravel taken from Coddington street.

Councilman Packard asked if anyone had found out whether there would be damages by change of grade.

Councilman Pinkham said he had heard that abutters would claim damages.

ADAMS STREET TRACKS.

The Committee on Streets reported leave to withdraw on the petition to change the street car tracks from Adams to Alleyne street. Accepted.

A public hearing was held on the widening of Newport avenue. No one appearing for or against, the hearing was closed and the order recommitted.

A public hearing was held on the acceptance of Cranch street as a public way. Edward Powers and another citizen inquired if any land was to be taken. Upon being informed that none was, they favored the acceptance. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

A public hearing was held on the acceptance of Delford street as a public way. No one appeared for or against, and the hearing was closed and the order recommitted.

A public hearing was held on the acceptance of Whitney road as a public way.

Henry L. Kincaide favored the acceptance of the street, as it was for the best interest of the city. This was one of the new residential streets near the centre. There were many who contemplated building, but objected to building on a private way. It would bring a revenue to the city in a large degree. The street was in a first class condition. It was bound to be a popular street. Hearing closed and order recommitted.

STREET WIDENING.

Councilman Pinkham offered a resolution which in substance was that public necessity having demanded the widening of Hancock street between Music hall and School street, that the proprietors of building, fences, trees, etc., on the land taken for the widening, remove them within fifteen days. If not done the Commissioner of Public Works was empowered to proceed as provided under Chapter 49.

A similar resolution was offered relative to Coddington street, both of which were adopted.

REGISTRARS MEETING.

Councilman Freeman offered an order establishing an ordinance which provided that after January 1, 1899, the Board of Registrars of Voters shall hold one meeting in each of the wards of the city before the State and Municipal elections.

Councilman Packard could see no reason for the change. It would cause additional expense. There was no general demand for it.

Councilman Freeman—The statutes provide that the Registrars of Voters shall hold such meetings as the Council may direct. It was not necessary for the Assessors to be present. Referred to Committee on Ordinances.

The petition of John H. Gillis for a license for two pool tables was taken from the table and granted.

ELECTION ORDERS.

Councilman Jameson offered an order for the holding of the State election Nov. 7, which was adopted.

He also offered an order designating the polling places for the Municipal elections in December which was adopted.

THE QUARRY TRUST

Not in Favor with Manufacturers or Cutters.

Alex Souter, the Quincy correspondent of the Granite Cutters' Journal, in commenting on the proposed combine or quarry trust in this city says, "The promoters are certain that the price of the best quality of stock for monumental purposes can be raised 50 per cent. It also appears to be their intention to boom Quincy stone for building purposes, and also the annexation of Quincy to Boston because of an ordinance of the city of Boston which directs the purchase of supplies for public works within the city limits whenever possible. Now there can be no objection to that provided it is for the best interests of all the citizens; but if the only benefit to be derived from annexation is increased dividends to the Quincy Granite Quarries Co., it would be better to remain as we are. I believe the success of the scheme to form a combine of all the quarries depends on the present owners' willingness to take stock in the new corporation as part payment. Those conditions are objected to and unless they are prepared to pay the full value in money there will be no combine in the meantime. Those who are employed only in cutting and have only the sheds, are very much opposed to it, as they fear that their interest will be jeopardized, which is quite probable. It would also have some effect on the Quincy branch, but what shape the change in our relations will take can only be a matter of guess work at present."

Boston's Exports.

It will be a matter of surprise to many to learn that bacon is a leading export from Boston. It was the leader last week and the value was $470,421, against $278,728 for raw cotton, $263,752 for wheat, $204,678 for flour, etc.

The exports for the week ending Oct. 13, 1899, were as follows:

LATEST!

AN ACCIDENT

Gives Columbia a Second Leg for Cup.

Shamrock Disabled Shortly After Start.

Carried Away Her Top Mast and Withdrew.

New York Oct. 17, 10.45 A. M.—The weather conditions for today's race are most favorable. The weather is clear and the wind about 15 miles an hour.

SHAMROCK TO WINDWARD.

Oct. 17, 11.15.—The boats are off. The Columbia crossed the line at the start at 11.01 1-2 and the Shamrock at 11.02. The Shamrock has the windward position.

COLUMBIA LEADING.

Oct. 17, 11.25.—The Columbia continues to lead. The course today is over the triangle, 10 miles to a leg.

ACCIDENT TO SHAMROCK.

Oct. 17, 11.30 P. M.—The Shamrock has met with an accident.

SHAMROCK WITHDRAWS.

Oct. 17, 11.40 P. M.—The Shamrock has withdrawn and is being towed back. She carried away her top mast. The Columbia continued on over the course, and will be a sure winner.

MUST FINISH WITHIN LIMIT.

Oct. 17, 1.30 P. M.—Interest in today's race lags now that the Shamrock is out. If the Columbia finishes within the time limit, of which there seems no doubt, race No. 2 will be a victory for her.

IN A FOG.

Oct. 17, 2 P. M.—A fog settled down soon after the accident to the Shamrock, and the Columbia is hid from sight, so that the news of the progress is meagre.

Utopian Club Reception.

The first annual reception of the Utopian club of Wollaston was held in the vestry of the First Baptist church on Monday evening. The occasion brought together a brilliant assemblage of people. The reception was from eight to ten o'clock. The members and guests of the club were received by Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Albee, Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Fiske, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar A. Blaisdell, Mr. H. A. Rideout and Miss Rideout, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Pinkham, Mr. and Mrs. James M. Nowland, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Goodspeed. Lemonade was served by Mrs. Fiske, Miss Rideout and Mrs. Blaisdell.

There was a well rendered musical programme, consisting of vocal solos by Mrs. F. A. Page and Mr. Buffum of Newtonville; violin solos by Miss Thomas, and a selection by a quartette, consisting of Mrs. Page, Mrs. E. A. King, Mr. Charles F. Wilde and Mr. Buffum.

Williams—McLane.

Samuel E. Williams, one of the well known motormen of the Quincy & Boston street railway, and Miss Mary A. McLane of Quincy Point were united in marriage Monday evening. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the residence of the groom's parents on Quincy avenue, which was largely attended. Mr. and Mrs. Williams received many presents, among which was a Morris chair and a dining set from the street railway employees.

The contract for constructing a concrete dock, faced with granite, at the navy yard, Portsmouth, N. H., bids for which were opened August 26, was awarded September 20, to John Peirce, New York city, at $1,098,000.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News in a Nut Shell.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Hall of Walker street have gone to New York for a brief stay.

A meeting of the Fragment society will be held in the Unitarian Chapel Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 18, at two o'clock.

If you want to vote at the State election you must have your name upon the voting lists before 10 P. M. tomorrow.

The Utopian club of Wollaston will hold its meetings in the vestry of the Baptist church on the third Monday of each month.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Doble, and Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Doble have returned from a hunting trip in the Maine woods. They met with great success, having shot several deer.

Councilman Bryant enjoyed his first ride on Monday, after his recent siege of sickness. Barring the severe trouble which he is having with his eyes, his rapid convalescence is assured.

The following estates were connected with the sewer system last week: Edward Manning, Grand View avenue; Mary Barnicot, Independence avenue; Baptist parsonage, Prospect avenue; Arthur Murphy, Fayette street; Richard Harper, Prospect avenue; Freeman Foster, Safford street; Terrance Baker, Safford street.

The conductor and motorman of the Squampan car, which came to Atlantic for the school children Monday morning, found it difficult to find the destination, namely "Reed's corner." A few side remarks were passed between the two as to the loneliness of Atlantic. Evidently they were strangers and knew nothing of the charms and attractions of Ward Six.

Greenleaf Park Sale.

The most rapidly growing section of the city is between City Square and the Boston line and some of the most desirable land is at Greenleaf Park. This property has been held at high prices, but the owners propose to give the public opportunity to buy at auction at reasonable figures. At the sale 150 presents will be given to those in attendance, including watches, tea sets, opera glasses, etc. It will be conducted by L. H. Green who had a similar sale at Adams shore recently. To be qualified for a present, people must be on the ground before 1.30 on the days of sale. See "ad" on fourth page.

Braintree Statistics.

The following figures copied from the Assessors' books, showing the real and personal property, and the total valuation of Braintree for the past nine years, will be of interest to our taxpayers, if not to our readers generally.

The real estate has gained 50 per cent. during the past ten years, while the personal property has been rapidly decreasing; and it is now only about one-half what it was six years ago.

Fight For Reed's Seat.
Saco, Me., Oct. 17.—The political fight in the First Maine congressional district, late Speaker Reed's district, began last night with a Democratic rally. Samuel L. Lord asked everybody to turn out and help elect Luther F. McKinney to succeed Mr. Reed. John S. Derby of Alfred spoke on local issues, while Mr. McKinney handled the national questions involved in the canvass.

A Dangerous Spot.
Highland Light, Mass., Oct. 17.—The cargo of wood pulp of the schooner Thomas W. Holder, which went ashore at Cahoon's Hollow Oct. 9, has been landed on the beach. The schooner's spars are gone and she is full of water. Four of the five scows lost from the tug Halenbach at the same place are buried in the sand.

Insurgents Repulsed.
Manila, Oct. 17.—The insurgents made an attack upon Angeles at 2:30 Monday morning. One American was killed and seven were wounded. The Philippines used artillery, few shells exploding. The Seventeenth, Ninth and Thirtieth regiments engaged the enemy, who retired at 5:30 a. m.

NOT SOLD.

The Commissioner Too Hasty in Advertising

Sale of Buildings on Coddington Street.

Will Probably Try It Again in Two Weeks.

Quite a number of citizens assembled on Coddington street this morning to see the buildings of N. B. Fernald, the Quincy Mutual Fire Insurance Co. and of the City Hospital sold under the hammer, to make room for the widening of the street.

It was evident to those in attendance at Monday night's City Council meeting that there would be no sale. Commissioner Cavanaugh and City Solicitor Blackmur were present to look after the city's interest.

At 10 o'clock the hour announced for the sale Auctioneer Crane briefly announced that owing to an error in the order as passed by the City Council it became necessary to postpone the sale indefinitely, which was done. The city officials then took their departure, while several citizens remained talking over the possible outcome of the affair.

An order adopted in the City Council Monday evening authorizes a sale of these buildings after 15 days if not removed and a similar order authorizes removal of portions of the residence of Dr. Fred L. Jones' and Fitzgerald's tin shop on Hancock street.

Shafter's Recommendations.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The war department has made public the report of Major General Shafter, commanding the department of California. The bulk of the work in this department pertained entirely to transmission of stores and the shipment of men to the Philippines, and taking care of those returning from there. General Shafter says that the men in the recruiting camp have been systematically and thoroughly instructed in their various duties with special attention to target practice. He recommends that, so long as any large body of troops remain in the Philippines, the recruiting camp be continued at the Presidio, and that as a rule the troops be congregated here and drilled for at least three months before shipment.

Shore Day For Printers.

Meriden, Conn., Oct. 17.—The Connecticut typothetae, at a business meeting last night, passed unanimously the nine-hour a day resolution, by the terms of which the employing printers of the state are to grant compositors, pressmen, bookbinders, etc., 10 hours' pay for nine hours' labor. The shorter work day will go into effect Nov. 21. The wages per day or week under the new order will remain the same as heretofore in all cases. At the national convention of the United Typothetae, held recently in New Haven, the adoption of a nine-hour day was recommended, but the members were not bound by that action.

Woodbury Vs. Eddy.

Boston, Oct. 17.—The suit of Josephine Woodbury against Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, head of the Christian Science church, in which the plaintiff seeks to recover $150,000 damages for alleged libel, came up before Judge Fessenden yesterday. It is contended that in the report of the defendant, regarding the plaintiff, which was four times read in public on June 4, the slanderous words used were heard and believed by the members of the church, who have faith in the extraordinary powers which the defendant claims to possess. After a discussion by the counsel, the court took the papers under consideration.

No More Bodies Found.

New York, Oct. 17.—The work of searching the charred hull of the steamer Nutmeg State, which was burned on Saturday morning and grounded off Sands Point, was begun yesterday. She lies in the same position as when her captain ran her ashore. No bodies were found yesterday, and it is probable that several days will be consumed in lifting out the heavy parts of the machinery and iron work which fill the upper part of the hull.

Considering the Batteries.

Washington, Oct. 17.—The features of the three battleships authorized by the last congress were under discussion by the board of construction yesterday, but final decision was not reached. The weight of opinion in the board inclines toward main batteries of six-inch, eight-inch and 12-inch guns. Double vs. triple screws were also talked over.

Insurgents Repulsed.

Manila, Oct. 17.—The insurgents made an attack upon Angeles at 2:30 Monday morning. One American was killed and seven were wounded. The Philippines used artillery, few shells exploding. The Seventeenth, Ninth and Thirtieth regiments engaged the enemy, who retired at 5:30 a. m.

Mortgagee's Sale.

BY Virtue of the power of sale contained in
a certain mortgage deed given by Margaret Fontaine to Mary P. Sheldon, dated November 17th, 1891, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, lib. 694, folio 501, for breach of the condition thereof and for the purpose of foreclosing the same will be sold by public
auction on the premises hereinafter first described at Three o'clock in the afternoon on WEDNESDAY, the Twenty-fifth day of October, A. D., 1899, all and singular the
premises conveyed by said mortgage and described therein as follows, viz:

Four certain pieces or parcels of land with
the buildings thereon, all of which are situated
in that part of said Quincy known as West Quincy. The first of said parcels of land is situated on the easterly side of Buckley street
on Bass Common, so called, and is bounded and
described as follows: Beginning at a stone
post set in the ground on the easterly side of
said Buckley street, thence running northerly
on said street to another stone post 66 feet,
then turning and running in an easterly
direction 140 feet to a stone post, then turning
and running in a southerly direction to an iron
bolt in a rock, 66 feet, then turning and running in a westerly direction along the line of land now or late of N. F. Safford, 140 feet, to the point of beginning, being the same premises conveyed to the grantor by deed of N. F.
Safford, dated June 7, 1889, recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 622, fol. 403. The second
of said parcels of land is situated on the easterly
side of an old drift way, and is bounded and
described as follows, viz: Northerly on land
now or late of E. V. Trask, 140 feet; easterly
on land now or late of J. W. Robertson, 100
feet; southerly on land now or late of David
Thomas, 175 feet, and westerly on said driftway, 100 feet; containing 10,800 feet; being the same premises conveyed to this grantor by deed of E. V. Trask, dated February 3, 1888, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 621, fol. 187.
The third is a certain lot of land containing 24,500 feet, and is bounded and described as follows: Northwesterly on land now or late of J. Q. Adams, 30 feet; northeasterly on land
now or late of J. W. Robertson, 280 feet;
southeasterly on land now or late of E. V.
Trask, 145 feet, and westerly on an old drift-
way, 280 feet more or less. The fourth is a certain lot of land containing 31,750 feet, and is bounded and described as follows: North-
westerly on land now or late of P. N. Ferron, 335 feet; northeasterly or easterly on an old driftway, 100 feet; southeasterly on land now or late of Moses Gerson, 300 feet, and southwesterly on land now or late of one Elcock, 100
feet; the last two lots of land were conveyed to
said Margaret Fontaine by deed of E. V.
Trask, dated July 30, 1888, and recorded with Norfolk Deeds, Lib. 615, fol. 76.

Said premises will be sold subject to a prior mortgage for $1,500, given by said Fontaine to Daniel G. Chase, duly recorded with said Norfolk Deeds. Also subject to all unpaid or outstanding taxes, assessments or tax sales, if any such there be. Terms at sale.

3 O'CLOCK.

SAILED ALONE

Cup Defender Scores a Hollow Victory.

Shamrock Becomes Victim of a Serious Accident.

Lost Her Topmast Soon After the Race Started.

Columbia Makes Splendid Showing, Finishing Within Time Limit.

Would Probably Have Repeated the Beating Given the Challenger on Monday.

New York, Oct. 18.—Shamrock lost her chances for a victory in the second race for the America's Cup, by carrying away her topmast and the big clubtop-sail, which was the pride of the challenger. The accident happened at 11:24, when both yachts were on the port tack, about three miles from the start, with Columbia in the windward position with small lead. Columbia crossed the line first, with Shamrock in the windward berth. Columbia outpointed Shamrock and gained the weather position after a short time of sailing by tacking under the challenger's stern. After the accident Columbia continued over the course according to the agreement signed by Sir Thomas Lipton and Mr. C. Oliver Iselin, who were on hand to witness the race, to the effect that if one yacht was disabled, the other should sail out the race alone to the finish.

The accident to Shamrock ruined the race and caused the keenest regret among the yachtsmen and the thousands of sightseers who were on hand to witness what had promised to be a glorious duel. It is unfortunate that the defender should have been the beneficiary of an accident, but the rule is ironclad. If crippled before the start, time for repairs is allowed, but once over the line if anything carries away the sufferer must make such repairs as he can or, if rendered hors de combat, as Shamrock was, he must take the consequences.

There is good sense and logic behind the rule. The races are a test of construction as well as design and seamanship. Doubtless Mr. Iselin could have had his choice in the matter he would have generously declined to continue, in view of the crippled condition of his rival, but the rules gave him no alternative. He was in duty bound to go on and as he finished well within the time limit the race was his. Had the accident not occurred, however, it is believed that the Yankee boat would have repeated the beating she gave the challenger Monday. During the 25 minutes the yachts sailed she had established a lead of more than 300 yards on her weather bow.

Her time was little short of marvelous. She covered the course in 3:37:00; the beat, 10 miles to windward, in 1:39:11; the reach to the second mark in 53:59; and the last leg in 1:02:50. As she crossed the finish line she let go her headsails and one of the Deer Isle sailors treated the spectators to an exhibition of derring-do, as he climbed over the peak halyard, 80 feet in the air, to loosen the clubtop-sail.

When Puritan fouled Genesee on the inside course in 1887, carrying away the challenger's bowsprit and topmast, although the race was at his mercy under the rules, Lord Sutton refused to claim it. To avoid just such a contingency a special clause was added to the regular rules leaving absolutely no option in the matter. This clause was signed by Messrs. Lipton and Iselin a few days before the date of the first attempt to race. The accident shows what a delicate machine a racing yacht is nowadays and how close to the limit of safety it is built. The slight breaking of a stay wrecked Shamrock.

The wire backstay of the topmast, which helps to support the slender, skyscraping spars, gave way, and this support removed, her Oregon pine topmast, 60 feet long and 14 inches in diameter, snapped off like a match, just above the lower mastcap. This mast was not only supporting the pressure of a 15-knot breeze against her big kite, but was also sustaining the crushing weight of the sail itself and the two clubtop-sail yards, each 40 feet long.

Later in the afternoon Shamrock was towed up to the Erie basin. A new topmast will be sent up and she will be remeasured. She will probably be taken out for a spin to try her new stick and the third race of the series will be sailed tomorrow. This race will again be over a windward and leeward course, and if Columbia wins the series will have been completed without giving Shamrock an opportunity to test her merits in her favorite point of sailing over a triangular course.

The day had promised a glorious contest. A hard, strong 12-knot breeze out of the east kicked up the white caps. A big excursion fleet ploughed out to witness the second duel between Shamrock and Columbia. Later in the day the wind drove the clouds away. Shamrock went out eager for the fray. She cast off her tow before she reached the bell buoy at the head of the swash channel and made the remainder of the way with a light shift under her canvas. It looked like a blow such as Shamrock is reported to have been praying for, and her sailors made everything snug aloft. The race was to be over an equilateral triangle 10 miles to the leg, which would give the challenger a chance at her favorite point of sailing, reaching.

The committee had signalled the course, the first leg a beat to windward, east by south, the excursion boats lined up back of the lights to watch the jockeying for position. Never probably was there a more exciting start in a cup contest, and the Irishman carried off the honors. The two yachts wheeled and circled about, each striving for the advantage.

Shamrock got Columbia under her lee two minutes before the start, and, try as the defender would, she could not shake off her rival. Both were on the port tack to the southward of the lights. Finally, when but 70 seconds remained, Columbia wore around beautifully, while Shamrock simultaneously tacked in the other direction, and thus making two divergent circles they came around on the starboard tack, and headed for the line. A collision was almost inevitable, had they approached each other at an acute angle under the lee of the lights. But Shamrock established an overlap, and Columbia had to keep off, and almost together they bounded away in the smoke of the gun, so close that a sailor might have stepped from one boat to the other. Shamrock was perhaps half a length ahead, and in the windward berth. Both had their sheets trimmed straight aft, and, as she went across, Columbia set her baby jibtop-sail. It was broken out and sheeted home in eight seconds.

Columbia was blanketed, but, instead of dropping astern, she gathered headway and went through Shamrock's lee. Madly she footed, and in five minutes she was clear of her adversary. Five minutes later Shamrock went about on the port tack, but the Yankee held out for a minute, to be sure of the weather gauge. As both heeled away on this tack it seemed that Columbia would repeat her performance of Monday, for she footed fast and pointed higher. Fifteen minutes after the start she was 300 yards well out on Shamrock's weather bow, and forging ahead at every bound. Shamrock did not set her handkerchief forward, evidently believing from her long swim that she had kicked her lead off the wind. Captain Hoar was able to keep her closer, but he could not hold her as high as the Columbia. Columbia's head sail lifted her head out of the waves, and made her splash more spray as her bow went smashing into the green bow of the challenger. The wind made her spill wind out of her sails. The excursion boats chased after the big flyers, and the wind was freshening, until it blew 15 to 16 knots.

About 20 minutes after the yachts had started, some of the sharpers, with their glasses glued on the two boats, noticed that Shamrock's topmast appeared to sag a little. Several times she was luffed up sharply. Suddenly, at 11:24, the big kite and the whole top hamper of the green boat tumbled downward, and the challenger was a helpless cripple. It was almost a cry of agony that went up from the sightseers, and never were there more sincere expressions of regret than when Shamrock gave up the contest.

Columbia went on, as she was bound under the rules to do, but several of the steam yachts went over alongside the Erin and former Commodore Benedict and others expressed sincere regrets over the hard luck which had befallen the challenger. Sir Thomas philosophically replied that it was one of the fortunes of war.

A large majority of the vessels of the excursion fleet continued over the course with the Columbia, but the interest in the race was gone. They saluted her with their whistles at the outer marks and gathered at the finish to give her a stentorian welcome. Columbia made a fine race of it, holding on to her clubtop-sail throughout, and setting her balloon jib in the final reach for home.

Betting on the yacht races practically came to a standstill with Columbia's hollow victory. Bookmakers declare that the odds that the cup will remain in the United States should be more than 10 to 1, but there seems to be no anxiety to take the short end. About the hotels it is generally believed that there is very slight possibility that Shamrock can win three consecutive races.

Sun rises—6:10; sets, 4:56.
Moon rises—5:08 p. m.
High water—11:15 a. m.; 11:48 p. m.

Unsettled weather prevailed Tuesday from the lower lake regions and the Ohio valley to the Gulf and Atlantic coast, and from the lower lakes over the Ohio valley and interior of the Gulf states a marked fall in temperature was attended by rain. The area of high pressure, which has persistently occupied the middle Atlantic and New England states during the last seven days, has passed eastward over the ocean. The area of rain and cooler weather will extend over New England today.

WAR ON EXPANSIONISTS.

Anti-imperialists Begin Their Crusade at a Slimly Attended Meeting.

Chicago, Oct. 18.—The opposition of the anti-imperialists to the subjugation of the Philippines took tangible form in the meeting of delegates from different parts of the country to launch a national crusade against the policy of the administration in the Philippines. The opening session was not a success from the standpoint of attendance. But few persons were in the hall when Edward Atkinson was asked to preside as temporary chairman.

But the few men who were there were as enthusiastic in their cause as they could be. Mr. Atkinson was cheered when he took the chair, and in a characteristic anti-imperialist speech he said that history would soon repeat itself. He referred to the adherents of his cause as those being in the minority, but he said that they were in the "dominant minority," and urged aggressive warfare in politics in close districts to accomplish the downfall of the Republican candidate for the presidency. He said that as the dominant free-soilers, years ago, triumphed, so the dominant anti-imperialists today could win victory for their cause by hard and aggressive work. J. Sterling Morton was made permanent chairman of the conference and the faithful few listened to the long and bitter speech of Edwin B. Smith. Mr. Smith strongly arraigned the policy of President McKinley.

"The real firing line is not in the suburbs of Manila," said Mr. Smith. "It is here. The enemy is of our own household. He comes to us prating of 'loyalty,' uttering fine phrases about benevolent assimilation, priceless principles and hoisted flags. The attempt of 1898 was merely to divide the country. That of 1899 is to destroy its most cherished ideals, to make shipwreck of what has made it distinctive among the nations. Whether the ruthless slaughter of the natives shall end next month or next year is but an incident in a contest that must go on until the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States are rescued from the mire of militarism."

Carl Schurz's speech was a long, exhaustive arraignment of "Imperialism, McKinleyism and militarism." In concluding his speech, Mr. Schurz said: "I plead the cause of the American people, and I here declare my profound conviction that if this administration of our affairs were submitted for judgment to a popular vote on a clear issue, it would be condemned by an overwhelming majority."

New Franklin Fund Will Be Used.

Boston, Oct. 18.—The trustees of the Franklin fund have settled the question as to the disposition of the fund. The fund amounts to $366,424.42, and the plans of the trustees provide for the expenditure of about half this sum. The trustees comprise the board of aldermen and the pastors of the three oldest Episcopal, Presbyterian and Congregational churches. The proposition authorizes the trustees to use a necessary amount of the fund in erecting a building to be known as the Benjamin Franklin building. It is to contain a branch of the public library, with reading rooms, a ward room, public hall, and lecture rooms for the use of the Grand Army posts. The remainder of the land is to be used for erecting buildings to contain baths combined with a public gymnasium, which would be desirable. The order provides for all-the-year-round baths, and public gymnasiums in the other sections of the city.

The World Growing Better.

Washington, Oct. 18.—At the national conference of United States and other Christian churches in the United States, Senator Hoar, president of the conference, delivered his annual address and took occasion to reiterate his views on the question of expansion. He said he did not believe in fatalism or in blind force. He believed that nations must work out their own salvation without coercion; that free institutions could not be given by one people to another, but must be an indigenous growth; that a republic was better than an empire, and that a Washington was better than a Bonaparte. Whatever clouds darkened the horizon the world was growing better.

Roosevelt Removes a Treasurer.

Albany, Oct. 18.—Governor Roosevelt last night issued a formal order removing Thomas Hutton from the office of treasurer of Chautauque county. This removal is the culmination of an investigation into the methods that official employed in dealing with public money entrusted to his care. The governor does not believe that Hutton had any wrong-doing in drawing and keeping an interest on public money which he deposited. This practice has been in vogue in the county for fully 20 years. It is contrary to law, however. It was stated to the governor that the people of Chautauque county intended to vindicate Hutton by re-electing him.

Looks Bad For Fleetwood.

Boston, Oct. 18.—John Fleetwood, charged with the murder of Catherine McDonald last Saturday, after a hearing before Judge Adams, was held without bail for the grand jury. Medical Examiner Draper testified that the woman came to her death as a result of a series of bruises from head to foot, and the puncturing of her lungs by two broken ribs. He stated also that 10 ribs on her left side and five on the right were broken, and that the ends had entered the lungs and chest, causing them to collapse. Scalp wounds and a clot of blood on the brain also were noted. David Ashworth, a lodger in the house, said that he found the McDonald woman lying on the hall floor Saturday evening. She was calling for help. Fleetwood kicked her in the chest and abdomen eight or nine times. Witness protested, and Fleetwood dragged her into a room and shut the door, after which Fleetwood went out and did not return until early morning.

It would be for the best interests of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad to cultivate a more amicable feeling on the part of its Quincy patrons. The depot service is disgusting, and our people are mortified when they meet a visiting friend at the station, or accompany him thither on his departure. It is difficult for people of the city of Quincy to understand why the railroad will tolerate such stations as the Quincy depot, the Quincy Adams depot and the Atlantic depot, and at the same time erect up-to-date depots at Neponset, Norfolk Downs, Braintree, South Braintree, Brockton, Montello, Campello and North Easton.

Ten years ago Quincy had over 20 trains per day, several of them express, but of late has had but 25 all of which make two or more stops. Quincy should have half hour service throughout the day, and there is more reason why it should have 15-minute service than Forest Hills on the Providence division.

The mayor of Newton has already submitted his estimates of the receipts and expenditures for 1900. His total recommendations are $2,965.50 less than for 1899. In these days, when a little is added to the annual appropriations each year on the plea that the city is growing, it is a pleasure to note that there are exceptions in thriving cities. Again, when the rich city of Newton deems it advisable to retrench, it is time that less favored cities should do likewise. It is imperative that Quincy shall have a more economical administration, and John O. Hall is a man who as Mayor would be a check on reckless appropriations by the City Council, and limit expenditures to the ability of the city to pay.

A marked reduction in the tax rate should not be expected in one year, and could not be accomplished without refunding a portion of the maturing debt. This year the Ledger gave encouragement to the movement to refund a portion of the maturing debt, and is still of the opinion that it would have been advisable under the circumstances. The movement came up after the annual appropriations had been made and when there seemed no other way to escape a burdensome tax rate. We realized that relief would be only temporary and that further sums must be refunded in 1900 and 1901 before the city debt could be equalized.

The refunding of a debt is bad policy and should not be resorted to only in emergency. By grasping the situation in 1900 thus early it is possible to reduce the tax rate of that year a dollar or more without refunding any of the debt. First there is the item of salaries. While none of the officials are paid extravagant salaries several reductions could be made which would not impair public service. Salaries are regulated by ordinance and changes must be made before Jan. 1 to be operative in 1900. Then a new contract is about to be made for street lighting which should be more advantageous to the city.

No large reductions are possible in any of the items of the annual appropriations but there could be a scaling down which would amount to considerable in the aggregate. Mayor Wilson of Newton thinks $2500 all that that rich city should appropriate for the Newton hospital yet Quincy appropriates $3,000. Newton has a valuation of over $90,000,000, three times that of Quincy and could afford to appropriate $10,000 where Quincy appropriates $3,000. Perhaps there are other departments like the Water "bureau" and the public library which could better stand a reduction.

Drift of Opinion.

Socialist Mayor Chase of Haverhill, in a recent speech, said the condition of the working people today is worse than ever before in the history of the world. There have been times in the history of the world when this sort of talk would be properly styled a lie.—Milford Journal.

Candidate Paine hopes to cut down the Republican plurality in this state to 30,000. He will hardly do it this year, but he is a man who is quite likely to make as much trouble for the Republican party as William E. Russell made. It is wiser to be prepared for him than to laugh at him.—New Bedford Standard.

Napoleon III built better than he knew when he shaped the phrase "the logic of events." In a tumult of popular passion the wise man can often wait in patience knowing that the temporary madness will pass when the logic of events has shown where the truth lies. There could be no hope of moral progress in a world made on any other plan.—Christian Register.

We are in America. Canada has not, and should not have, any ambition to play a role in European diplomacy. We believe we are not mistaken when we say that the population of this country has no other desire than to develop quietly its resources and to live at peace with the world. We are willing to defend the land we live in, and the British flag, which protects it against all aggression, but it is another thing to go beyond this role, and to throw us into the discussions and wars with which Europe is constantly menaced.—Quebec La Patrie.

It is the duty of the government to at once make a formal offer of troops. If the offer is declined, the government will be exonerated from the charges of apathy that now lie against it. If the offer is accepted, the acceptance can be construed to mean either that the Canadian contingent can be made good use of, or that they are accepted because the imperial authorities desire to foster such practical exhibitions of loyalty on the part of Canada. In either case, Canada can proceed to give its best and its bravest—freely and enthusiastically. Let the offer be made at once. Since Australia and New Zealand have tendered troops, Canada should not stay in the background.—Ottawa Journal.

The early founders of the American cotton industry were practical men who had mastered the business in all its details. The Slaters, Shepards, Batchelders and others knew what economy meant and understood the possibilities of the machinery under their charge. Under the teaching of those men a body of mill managers came into existence who thoroughly understood their business and were able to produce coarse cotton cloth at such low figures that the English manufacturers were practically driven out of the South American market. It is a fallacy to suppose that the American cotton mills cannot compete with the mills of Europe. All that is required is that those in charge shall be as expert as the operatives.—American Wool and Cotton Reporter.

A healthy revulsion has now set in regarding Mr. Markham's sad poem and on all sides have been efforts in both prose and poetry to refute his statements. The man with the hoe among us is the man with the power. His hoe may indeed bend his back but at the end of the hoeing he can straighten up as well as any man for he is the equal of any man. He may indeed have a hard task keeping down the weeds on the ground that he tills but he it is who has brains enough also to attack with the clear vision of a free-born, free-thinking American the weeds that occasionally grow up in our political fields. His open air life makes him strong to act and stern to perform. His ability to read brings to the door of his modest home all the news of the world and many of the great thoughts of the great men that have transformed a world of savagery into one of constant ascent and change and constant change because of constant ascent.—Dedham Transcript.

BOSTON CAUCUS ACT.

Republican Movement for Adoption Abandoned.

The movement on the part of some Republicans to petition for the adoption of the Boston caucus act has been abandoned. A meeting held in the Savings Bank building Tuesday evening was attended by representative Republicans from all the wards of the city. The general sentiment was against the Boston act and satisfaction with the present rules with some exception.

Henry H. Faxon argued at length in favor of the Boston act but when he found that that did not provide at what hour nomination papers could be filed he was not so anxious about it. It was shown that the City Committee could adopt such a rule without the adoption of the intricate Boston act and the matter was dropped.

It was claimed that in some wards nomination papers were filed with ward secretaries in advance of public notice in the newspapers, giving ward committees the first place on the caucus ballots. When the City Committee adopts a rule that nominations shall not be filed before a certain hour at a certain place the anxious ones will probably line up outside the door several hours in advance, possibly the night before as in Boston. Mr. Faxon says he would be willing to rest on the stairs at least half an hour.

HALL VS. KEITH.

Both Parties Unite on Their Mayoralty Candidates.

Tuesday was the last day for holding conventions for nominating candidates to go on the ballot at the State election. Today registration closes for the State election. The Quincy Registrars met at 12 M. and will continue in session until 10 P. M.

Stillman J. Spear of Medfield is the Republican candidate for Representative in the Ninth Norfolk district and the Tenth district has nominated L. J. Burrington of Franklin and W. E. Fairbanks of Bellingham.

Richmond J. Pratt of Holbrook is Republican candidate for Representative in the Avon, Holbrook and Randolph district.

The Democrats of the Franklin-Hampden Senatorial district propose that the Republicans shall fight it out on the lines of expansion and anti-expansion. Senator Parsons, who is an anti and opposed the election of Senator Lodge, was defeated for a reelection at the Republican convention and Charles W. Hazleton nominated. Parsons will run independent and the Democrats have decided not to make a nomination.

Four weeks from next Monday is the last day for holding conventions in Quincy for the nomination of candidates for Mayor and they will probably be held a few days before. Caucuses must be held within four weeks and nominations will have to be made for the Australian caucuses within three weeks so that the municipal election is near at hand. Both parties were never more united on their candidates than this year. Mayor Keith will be renominated by the Democrats and City Auditor John O. Hall by the Republicans. All of the other gentlemen who have been mentioned for the Republican nomination have stepped aside for Mr. Hall and are united in his support. It looks now as though there would not even be a contest at the caucuses and that the nomination of Mr. Hall would be by acclamation.

Stock Sale.

Auctioneer Crane had a very successful all-day sale of horses and carriages at Tisdale's stable on Monday, selling 14 horses and 60 carriages at good prices. Among the horses were two which are well known on the track viz: Blue Belle Clay with a record of 2:32-4, bought by Peter B. Bradley Esq. for $140, and David S. by Daniel Lambert dam Lady Bates by Ashland, marked 2:28 1-4, to G. W. Plummer of Hanover for $100.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of Patrick Farrell was called and he paid a fine of $5.

The continued case of John W. Curtis for assault at East Weymouth was heard. The court gave Curtis the choice of going to the soldiers' home, serving a term in the House of Correction, or being examined as to his sanity, and continued the case until next Wednesday for judgment.

William A. Pierce and Hiram Patterson were arraigned for violation of the game law at Quincy by gunning on the Lord's Day. The former entered a plea of not guilty, and the latter of guilty. Patterson was fined $20, and the case of Pierce was continued one week for judgment.

NO SERIOUS FIGHTING.

Censorship Causes a Dearth of News From Africa.

Irish Members of Commons Express Their Views.

Balfour Says England Holds Cards and Means to Play Them.

Queen's Speech a Simple Request For Money to Carry on the Campaign.

London, Oct. 18.—No further reliable news from Mafeking has been received. A special dispatch from Pretoria says the Boers destroyed the Bechuanaaland railway during Friday night, from Lobatse to Asvoget Kop.

The correspondent of The Daily Mail at Glencoe telegraphs that General Symonds says there are only 3000 mounted men in the Boer column, immediately north of Ladysmith, but that there are large numbers of men on foot. The horses of the Boers are in wretchedly poor condition, and the men look worn out. The Boers are robbing all natives traversing the Transvaal.

Dr. Leyds, the plenipotentiary of the South African republic to European governments, is said to be going to Berlin shortly to confer with political personages.

Advices from Durban announce that the consul of The Netherlands there has issued a warning to all subjects of The Netherlands to remain neutral.

The Hopetown bridge, over the Orange river, which Cape Town advises yesterday said had been blown up by the British, is not the railway bridge, as before reported, but a bridge over two miles west of the railway, over which the old coaching road passes.

Belated dispatches from the scene of action in South Africa throw little fresh light upon the situation. The Boers appear to be strengthening their position in Natal and biding their own time for attack. The Orange Free State burghers are apparently threatening to invade Cape Colony, by way of Norval's Point and Allival North, both of which are at their mercy if they possess artillery. So far as is known the only British force stationed at Allival North is a detachment of the Royal Berkshire regiment.

News from the western border probably reduces the alleged heavy fighting at Mafeking to ordinary proportions. Apparently the earlier sensational stories originated in the skirmishes between the armored train and a small detachment of the Boers, although since then much may have happened to the little garrison.

It is difficult to understand how refugees arriving at Lorenzo Marquez should have come into possession of news of serious Boer losses at Mafeking. At the same time it must be remembered that much news from the Transvaal is likely to come by way of Delagoa Bay, as most other channels are strictly censored.

It is persistently reported from widely different sources that a large force of Boers resolutely attacked Mafeking on Friday, and, after several hours' fighting, were repulsed with heavy loss.

The British parliament yesterday convened in special session to consider the situation in South Africa. The speech from the throne was in effect a simple request for money to carry on the campaign against the Boers. Her majesty said:

"My Lords and Gentlemen.—Within a very brief period after the recent proclamation I am compelled by events deeply affecting the interests of my empire, to recur to your advice and aid.

"The state of affairs in South Africa has made it expedient that my government should be enabled to strengthen the military forces of this country by calling out the reserves. For this purpose the provisions of the law render it necessary that parliament should be called together.

"Except for the difficulties that have been caused by the action of the South African republic the condition of the country continues to be peaceful.

"Gentlemen of the house of commons, measures will be laid before you for the purpose of providing the expenditure which has been or may be caused by events in South Africa. Estimates for the ensuing year may be submitted to you in due course.

"My Lords and Gentlemen.—There are many subjects of domestic interest to which your attention will be invited at a later period when the ordinary session for the labors of a parliamentary session has been reached. For the present I have invited your attendance in order to ask you to deal with an exceptional emergency, and I pray that in performing the duties which claim your attention you may have the guidance and blessing of Almighty God."

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, Liberal leader in the house of commons, said parliament had been summoned to give its approval to the early steps of war. Never had the house met in circumstances more serious or amid conditions engaging to a greater degree the profound interest of the British people.

The demands made by the government of the South African republic were such as to make it impossible for the government of any self-respecting country ever to take them into consideration.

"Actual hostilities have commenced," said Sir Henry, "and an active aggression has been committed which it is the plain duty of our minister for parliament and of the people to resist. The campaign should be vigorously and promptly prosecuted, and nothing necessary for that purpose should be refused by the house of commons.

"Our natural position in South Africa," he declared, "has placed upon us the duty of seeing any impediment to our own supremacy removed. On that we are all agreed. I have no intention of entering upon a minute or detailed criticism of the steps taken by the government. The time for that has not yet come, and it is proper to wait for further explanations.

"But I may say it does appear to me that the government is engaged in a game of bluff which is not a very wise one for a great country like this. The one for a great country is to raise the question of the supremacy of the government, and did more than anything else to remove all chance of success from the negotiations."

Mr. Balfour, who was received with loud cheering, expressed satisfaction at the declaration of Sir Henry, with much of which he was himself in agreement. Mr. Balfour commended the declaration of Sir Henry, but he did not specify these errors. The government would like to have charges brought forward so they could refute them. "Bluff," said the government leader, "means a person acting as though he has what he does not possess, but this country holds the cards and means to play them.

"Sir Henry disapproved of sending troops to South Africa as an irritating menace to the Boers. But where would we be now but for those troops? Not to have sent troops would have been to betray the country."

Mr. Balfour said further that he felt entitled to say: "It was must come it has seldom been entered into by Great Britain upon an issue which was more clearly an issue of righteousness and liberty, and we must have undoubted proof that our self-governing colonies beyond the seas are with us heart and soul."

John Dillon, Nationalist, moved an amendment to the address as follows: "We humbly represent to her majesty that the state of war now existing between Great Britain and the South African republic has been caused by the assertion of claims which interfere with the internal government of the republic, in direct violation of the terms of the convention of 1884, and by massing large bodies of British troops on the frontier of the republic.

"We humbly submit that before more bloodshed takes place a proposal be made in the spirit of the recent conference at The Hague with a view of finding in independent arbitration a settlement of the differences between the two governments, and in order that an ignominious war be thus avoided between the overwhelming forces of her majesty's empire and those of two small nations, numbering altogether less than 200,000 souls."

Mr. Dillon claimed that his amendment would appeal to the overwhelming majority of the civilized world outside of England. He was proud, he said, that Ireland was against this "unjust and cowardly war." It was not a war, he continued, for the freedom of outlanders, but a war against the yoke of Cecil Rhodes being put upon these poor people. Mr. Dillon asserted that the government was breaking the convention because gold had been discovered in the Transvaal.

Henry Labouchere, Liberal, seconded the amendment, declaring that the absolute act of Mr. Chamberlain. "If there had been no Rhodes or if Lord Salisbury had been in the colonial office," said Mr. Labouchere, "there would have been no war. There is too much of the stock exchange about the whole business."

Michael Davitt vigorously supported the amendment, declaring that outside of jingo circles and stock jobbing rings the whole British empire cried shame. The result of a war between a giant and a dwarf would bring neither honor nor prestige to the British name.

After some sharp passages between Colonel Sanderson, Conservative, and the Irish members, a division was taken on Mr. Dillon's amendment. The amendment was rejected by a vote of 322 to 54. The minority consisted mainly of Irish members and a few radicals, including Labouchere, Stanhope, Pickersill and others. The majority included the occupants of the front opposition bench and the bulk of the Liberals.

FAUNCE INAUGURATED.

Assumes His Duties as President of Brown University.

College Cannot Import Any of the Foreign Ideals.

Must Be Catholic in Their Attitude Toward All Realms of Knowledge.

Providence, Oct. 18.—A gathering of men prominent in educational and religious work yesterday attended the inauguration of Rev. William Herbert Perry Faunce, D. D., of New York as president of Brown university, succeeding Dr. E. Benjamin Andrews, although the university has been without a head for some time. Chapel services in Sayles' Memorial hall were followed by a students' meeting, at which Governor Dyer, Mayor Baker, Bishop McVicker of the Episcopal diocese and others made addresses.

REV. DR. WILLIAM H. P. FAUNCE.

The inauguration exercises took place in the afternoon at the First Baptist church. The opening invocation was by Rev. Dr. Alvah Hovey, the senior fellow of the corporation. Chancellor Goddard then made an address appropriate to the occasion, in which he said that never in the history of Brown university had there been such an assemblage of men who brought warm sympathies of lovers of learning.

President Eliot of Harvard was introduced as the president of the oldest of American universities and discussed the subject of the denominational college. He said that it was not a sectarian institution, but was the contribution of the religious denomination to national education.

President Patten of Princeton welcomed Dr. Faunce among the college presidents, and talked of the moral influence of the institution of learning. President Harper's speech was of the future of education, and then followed the inaugural address of Dr. Faunce. He spoke of the duties of men associated in the university life of today. He said:

"The American university should be thoroughly American. While we study all foreign ideals, we cannot import any one of them. Each nation has its own 'psychological climate,' and in that climate its best fruits are ripened. Education should detach us from prejudice and provincialism, but not from our national heritage. The man without a country is not an educated man."

"But the university must be catholic in its attitude toward all realms of knowledge. Never again can it limit its vision to the old narrow rigid curriculum, which was supposed to embody a finality of wisdom. It must now acknowledge all honest intellectual endeavors, both in requirements for admission and for graduation. Not for a moment do we dream of surrendering the classics. But Greek, which less than four centuries ago had to fight its way into modern universities, should be the first to recognize that there are other sciences in the temple of truth, and Latin should perceive that the languages which owe to their richer resources can never disown their mother."

"The classics, when left to stand on their own merits, will vindicate their perpetual prerogatives in university training. But a school of liberal culture must surely believe that all sincere study deserves recognition, and that any real pursuit of truth, whether it be the search of a lost fragment of Sappho or the meaning of a Babylonian cylinder or the path of a flying projectile or the orbit of a distant star, may minister to the education of the truth-seeker and the permanent enrichment of the world."

"This breadth of horizon will lead the university of the future to make ample provision for the instruction of women. A century from now it will seem incredible that the great university libraries and laboratories and museums of the world were once closed to one-half of humanity. But, whatever may be true of the west, New England is not ready for complete coeducation, and perhaps never will be. When the collegiate life of woman is left free to organize itself, free from forced exclusions of the present, it will create its own ideal. In this realm imitation is fatal. Such is the freedom we are seeking for the woman's college in Brown university."

"We need not apologize for our fathers when they founded their colleges deep in religious faith. The college exists, not for the aggrandizement of any church, but to the contribution of that church, with many other churches to the higher life of the world. It is Christian, not as demanding subscription to any formula, not as wearing a placard on official occasions, but as insisting that the Christian view of life is the highest view, and the Christian spirit essential to the perfection of human personality. To make the human will intelligently and unswervingly righteous is the goal of all human education."

The closing benediction was by Dr. Anderson, secretary of the corporation.

FORCES MEET

Fighting Reported at Two Points.A Battle Anticipated In Vicinity of Ladysmith.

British Position Clearly Appreciated by Enemy.

Boers Making Havoc With the Railway and Telegraph Lines.

London, Oct. 19.—The Daily Telegraph's correspondent at Ladysmith says no newspaper representatives are allowed to proceed from there either to Bester's Station or Acton Homes, and adds that General Joubert's forces are advancing against Glencoe and Bester's Station, on the Harrismith-Lynch line.

According to the same authority, some volunteers who had just come into Ladysmith from Bester's Station and Acton Homes before the dispatch was sent, reported that 300 Boers tried ineffectually to cut off small parties of British troops, but the Natal men were too wary to be caught, and retired firing. The enemy, as usual, hid themselves behind hills and rocks and in gullies, but were unable to advance. They used cannon against the British riflemen, who, nevertheless, maintained a stout resistance. The firing was heavy. The country about Acton Homes being more open, the British mounted volunteers there are retiring upon Dewdrop. Two thousand Boers were engaged at Acton Homes, and rather fewer at Bester's station. It is reported that the enemy there is hemmed in and suffering severely.

The Daily Telegraph, commenting upon the foregoing dispatch, says: It is difficult to understand the references to Glencoe and Bester's Station, except upon the theory that Commandant General Joubert is dividing his forces.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Times, under date of Tuesday, says: All is well at Kimberly, though communication is almost entirely cut. There is no means of learning anything that happens north of the Orange river, unless, perhaps, by way of Rhodesia and Beira.

A considerable engagement is anticipated in the vicinity of Ladysmith today. The combined advance of Boer and Free State troops in this direction has been executed with not inconsiderable skill, and shows a clear appreciation of the British position. General White has 12,000 men and 46 guns available, besides a considerable force of volunteers to hold Ladysmith, and no anxiety is felt on his account, for the Natal country where the engagement is expected is fairly open, and, although the work of moving them will be difficult, the guns are likely to do good work.

The country is not favorable for Boer tactics, and it will be very difficult for them to avoid the exposure of flanks to attack by a vigorous and mobile enemy already occupying useful positions, that is, supposing they really mean to fight and not merely to attempt to draw General White further out, with a view of surrounding him.

General White has a large body of excellent cavalry, which will be put to good use. It is stated that the enemy's scouts are almost in touch with the outposts at Glencoe. The Boers are working around both sides with the idea of getting south of Ladysmith and attacking in force, with the co-operation of Commandant General Joubert.

At Glencoe, the British patrol covered a wide area in order to prevent outflanking and were subjected to a hot fire in persistent skirmishing.

No confirmation has been received of the report of serious Boer losses at Mafeking, but stories arriving from various points are so persistent and circumstantial that it appears probable the burghers have met with some measure of reverse. Accounts of the action at Mafeking are now beginning to arrive from Pretoria. Therefore, if the Boers had any success, it is bound soon to be known. As foreshadowed yesterday, they have succeeded in cutting off the water supply near Mafeking, but it is said that there are sufficient wells in the town to supply the inhabitants.

A new and serious element in the military situation is the rising of the warlike tribe of Basutos, under Chief Moheko, against the Orange Free State. The British must keep the Basutos quiet. The paramount chief, Lerothodi, has thus far behaved well. Reports are current, however, that the other chiefs may follow the example of Moheko. Moreover, the unrest among the tribesmen is spreading into Zululand.

Advices from Pretoria, summarizing the reports to the Transvaal government from General Cronje, in command at the chief laager, on the west side, announce that the Marico and Rustenburg commanders, with field telegraph, occupied Burmann's drift, near the outskirts of Mafeking, on Monday, and took possession of a fountain in the neighborhood, thus cutting off the water supply of the town. The Boer artillery then began shelling, but the British did not reply.

The havoc the Boers are making with the railway and telegraph lines will seriously impede the movements of General Buller's army corps. There are conflicting reports as to whether the Boers have or have not occupied Helpmakaar. According to the best accounts the rumor that they have done so is untrue; but if the Boers have succeeded in this maneuver they are completely around the right of General White's position and will be able either to attack him at an advantage or move down into Natal behind him. The Daily News points this out and seems to think that if the Boers loop their way through Zulu territory or Basutoland the natives ought to be permitted to exact respect for their own territory.

The Morning Post criticizes England's apparent weakness for defensive actions with inadequate forces, and says that if Colonel Baden-Powell holds his own it will be because his assailants are beneath contempt.

The Times editorially complains of the lax observance of neutrality on the part of some of the states permitting the systematic recruiting and enlistment of men openly and ostentatiously for service against England in South Africa. Regarding shipments of contraband for the Boers, The Times says, the shippers must not complain if the goods are seized by British cruisers, and notes that these consignments appear to come mostly from Hamburg. It says:

Perhaps though this is doubtful some shipments may have been in American ports. If this is so, American lawyers will be aware that they have only to read Lorenzo Marquez is situated near the Transvaal frontier for "Matamoras is a confederate state" to bring such consignments within the precise terms of some of the best known decisions of their supreme courts. With respect to the real destination of contraband articles this country only asks that the rules and usages of international law should be impartially applied.

A dispatch from Allwal North says: The town is now deserted and the railway has been cut. The Dutch farmers are quitting their farms. Several prominent British residents have been warned to leave, as there is danger in remaining, but this does not alarm the loyalists, who calmly await events. The Boers are now close to the town. A force of police guards the frontier bridge.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Mail says: The authorities at Johannesburg have announced that they will make a house to house search on Monday and will compel every British subject to leave the town. The imperial authorities have inounded 150,000 sovereigns which arrived by steamer today for the Transvaal. The money will be kept here until the war is ended. Conyngham Greene and Lady Greene sailed for England today. An enthusiastic crowd assembled to bid them farewell.

A dispatch from Ladysmith says that a letter was brought to the British pickets by Boer cyclists bearing a white flag, signed by the Newcastle magistrate and sent by permission of Commandant General Joubert, stating that the Britishers who remain in Newcastle are all well.

Stolen Mail Pouch Recovered.

Westerly, R. I., Oct. 19.—A mail pouch, en route from New York to Westerly, and containing between 500 and 600 letters, in many of which were checks and money, was stolen from the railroad station here Tuesday. Joseph Scott yesterday notified Postmaster Clancy that the pouch had been stolen by Alfred H. Wills of this town, and the latter was placed under arrest, while Scott and his sister, Julia Scott, were also held. Wills made a confession and went with an officer into the woods where the bag had been concealed. The bag had been cut open and all the letters torn open and rifled of their valuable contents. Scott was only discharged from state prison two weeks ago, having been there for the theft of a boat, in which his sister and Wills took part, the two latter turning state's evidence.

No Cause for Complaint.

London, Oct. 19.—The London papers illustrate the sportsmanlike view taken by all sections of the English press of Columbia's victory Tuesday.

The St. James Gazette says: Our regret for Shamrock's second defeat must be outweighed by our satisfaction at the fact that the accident was provided against beforehand, and that therefore no opportunity for a misunderstanding could exist on this occasion. Shamrock's gear reached the cracking point first; and the fact that Columbia outlasted her with the same breeze shows that the American boat is the better, which it is just the object of these matches to settle one way or the other.

The Pall Mall Gazette says: This is a competition between constructors as well as sailors; and the American victory was perfectly fair and decisive.

GUESTS RETURN HOME.

Many Forego Pleasure of Witnessing Conclusion of Yachting Contest.

Lipton Impressed by the Fairness of Americans.

Handicapped by Deprivation of File's Personal Direction and Advice.

New York, Oct. 19.—A number of Sir Thomas Lipton's guests sailed yesterday for Europe on the steamship Oceanic. Lord and Lady Charles Beresford were the last to go aboard the Oceanic.

"I am very sorry to sail before the finish of the yacht races," said Lord Beresford. "The accident to Shamrock was a great disappointment to me, and Sir Thomas Lipton has my sympathy. The races, however, are not over, and I hope that when I arrive on the other side I will hear Shamrock has captured the cup after all."

The other guests of Sir Thomas who sailed on the Oceanic were: Hon. Cecil Brownlow, Halford Burdett, Hon. Arnold Morley, E. A. N. Morley, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Muir, Kenneth Murchison, L. Sackville West, W. D. Ross, Joseph Lawrence, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Wilson and Miss Muriel Wilson.

Half an hour before sunset yesterday Shamrock lay inside Sandy Hook gently tugging at her mooring buoy. An eighth of a mile away Columbia lay rocked on the ripple within the Horseshoe. On board Shamrock there was activity. Her crew were completing the adjustment of shrouds and stays to secure the new topmast that had been sent up at noon to replace the one carried away Tuesday.

On board Columbia there was no activity; all were at ease. Conditions aboard the American craft indicated calm anticipation and serene confidence. The stress of preparation aboard the British yacht, which marked the natural anxiety there as to the performance of the untied spar and the entire craft in today's weather.

Early in the day it had been the purpose of the visitors to go outside with the Shamrock and test her new equipment, but, though she came down the harbor from her remountment early in the forenoon, the shortening daylight afforded too little time, after all had been snugged.

Yacht Erin, with Mr. Lipton on board, steamed down to her moorings within the Hook. Standing on the bridge, Sir Thomas observed the last detail of Shamrock's preparations, and his hope for a spin out gave way to a conviction of its impossibility.

"Do you know," Sir Thomas remarked, "there have come to me many evidences of good will. Here, for instance," selecting one from several telegrams, "is some friend, who says: 'Don't be disheartened, Shamrock may lose, but Sir Thomas wins the respect and good will of millions of Americans.' And I can say now, through the Associated Press, to my own people and to the American people, that no man ever met more cordial greetings than I have here. No man ever found more generous hearts, more willing hands, and more generous spirits than I have since I came to America."

"And if Shamrock should lose now, how long before her owner may appear here with another boat, to lay siege to the trophy?" was asked.

"Ah, that brings me back," said Sir Thomas, "to the greatest difficulty I have confronted here. I must be sure of a designer. I cannot design a boat, and I must be certain on that point before I can talk of another attempt, should Shamrock lose now. You see, I am seriously embarrassed because of Mr. Fife's illness. I have not seen my designer in over three weeks. We took in over three tons of ballast today. We suffer because Mr. Fife is unable to be about and direct these matters that none of the others of our party here are skilled in. Is she on her true water line—the line she was designed to sail on? We are not sure. Her designer would know, but he has not seen his boat since she was first measured. He is unable to leave his room. We don't know whether Shamrock has ever, in these waters, sailed on her true water line. She certainly is not now sailing on the same water line as when she sailed in the Solent. The ballast put in Shamrock today was put in on Mr. Fife's advice. Has it been so placed as to serve the exact purpose intended? We do not know to a certainty. He is sick, and we have done the best we know how to do. It is a most serious handicap for us to be deprived of his personal direction and advice."

Chevalier Martino, who is a resident guest on Erin, declared his conviction that Shamrock's powers had not yet been developed. He expressed the view that Shamrock should have been tried out beside some other swift yacht. He even declared that could it have been accomplished, the American yacht, defender, should have been secured, to try out Shamrock. On this point Chevalier Martino agrees with many American yachtsmen, who have felt that Shamrock had scant preliminary work, and that more rigorous tuning up might have developed Shamrock's strength and so corrected her shortcomings as to have insured a better showing, if not her success.

Good Afternoon.

The Quincy & Boston street railway has asked for a double track location through our city, practically from the Boston line to the Braintree line. There are those who at the outset would give the company leave to withdraw, on the plea that Hancock street from City Square to School street, and also School and Franklin streets are too narrow. But would it not be well for the Council to negotiate with the company and see what it is willing to do toward the cost of widening where necessary.

No location for double tracks from City Square to Independence avenue should be granted unless the streets are to be widened, and the company probably anticipate this and that they will be assessed. The streets would be plenty wide enough for all teaming and carriage driving, so that the widenings are almost wholly for the benefit of the street railway. This being the case the city should make it one of the conditions that the company shall pay the greater part of the cost, the land damages at least. The second track will be regarded as an "original location" which by the new law gives the city the right to impose such conditions as it deems necessary. The city is not in a financial condition to expend large sums to widen streets for the benefit of street railways.

Drift of Opinion.

The Boston aldermen are still wrangling over the way in which Ben Franklin's money shall be spent. If "Poor Richard" knows anything about it, he will be sorry he didn't spend it himself.—Bangor Commercial.

It is given out that the Republican committee in this state will do very little in the way of vigorous campaign work this year. They do things differently down in Maine. When they are sure of a big majority, their aim is to make it bigger. In other words, they always keep the umbrella in good repair.—Milford Journal.

Rev. A. B. Simpson of the Christian and Missionary Alliance presided over a meeting held at Carnegie hall, New York, on Sunday, at which $156,000 was raised by subscription, whereupon the audience joined in singing "Isn't it wonderful." It will be more remarkable, however, if the doctor succeeds in collecting all the subscriptions.—Haverhill Gazette.

New York people think they will perpetuate the Dewey arch in marble. It is a pretty conceit, but how much money will they raise? Judging by past experiences they will contribute enough to start the affair and then it will lag, and everybody will be begged for dimes to complete it. New Yorkers are great on starting enterprises but they invariably require help to finish them.—Lynn Item.

A prize has been awarded in England for the ten strongest words in the English language which were decided to be hate, blood, hungry, done, coming, gone, love, dead, alone, forever. And yet there is not one of these words, nor all of them together, which would persuade a mule team to strain a muscle to pull a loaded wagon out of a slough. Ask the mule driver what words are strong enough and he will tell you.—New Bedford Standard.

MORE ASSESSMENTS.

Contracts Awarded for Metropolitan High Level Sewer.

The Metropolitan Sewerage Commission has awarded three of its contracts for building sections of the new high level sewer from the Charles and Neponset River valleys to the sea, to Beckwith & Quackenbush. For building section 65 the firm will receive $38,610; for section 63, $68,843, and for section 60, $86,125. The contract for section 66 which is the tunnel section, has been awarded to E. W. & J. J. Everson, for $215,000.

This system is for the drainage of part of Boston, the cities of Newton and Waltham, and the towns of Watertown and Brookline; the present Neponset valley Metropolitan sewerage district, comprising a part of Boston and the towns of Dedham, Hyde Park and Milton; also Quincy and such portion of Dorchester, Roxbury and West Roxbury as are not included in the present Metropolitan sewerage areas.

Outlets at Squantum, Nut island and Peddocks island are proposed but have not been determined. Section one of the act of 1899 providing that no part of said proposed outlet, or sewerage system, between Hyde Park and the outlet shall be constructed before the year 1900, and until plans of said outlet shall be further considered by said board, and adopted and approved by the State Board of Health.

Another year, however, the cost and maintenance will be apportioned according to Section 16, which reads:—

Section 16. The supreme judicial court sitting in equity shall, on the application of said board after notice to each of the cities and towns herein before named, appoint three commissioners, who shall not be residents of any of the cities or towns mentioned in this act, who shall, after due notice and hearing and in such manner as they shall deem just and equitable, determine the proportion in which each of the cities and towns herein before named shall annually pay money into the treasury of the Commonwealth for the term of five years next after the year of the first issue of said scrip or certificates, to meet the interest and sinking fund requirements for each of said years, as estimated by said treasurer, and to meet the cost of maintenance and operation of said system for each of said years, as estimated and by the said board and certified to said treasurer, and any deficiency in the amount previously paid in, as found by said treasurer, and shall return their award into said court; and when said award shall be accepted by said court the same shall be a final and conclusive adjudication of all matters herein referred to said commissioners, and shall be binding on all parties.

Dorchester Heights Monument.

In accordance with a resolution approved June 14, 1898, that there be allowed and paid out of the treasury of the Commonwealth a sum not exceeding twenty-five thousand dollars, to be expended under the direction of the Governor and Council, for the erection of a monument on Dorchester Heights, in the city of Boston to commemorate the construction on said heights by General George Washington and his little army of a redoubt, which caused the British troops under the command of General Howe to evacuate Boston, bids were received at the Council chamber until Tuesday noon. Five bids were received: W. H. and H. A. Root bid $59,814; W. B. Cass $33,405; Woodbury & Leighton $40,800; T. J. Lyons $57,716; Norcross Brothers $37,121.

Miss Conklin's Exhibit.

The exhibition and sale of hand-painted china of Miss E. D. Conklin, Wednesday afternoon and evening, at the residence of Mrs. W. M. Marden on Spear street, was largely attended, although the inclement weather doubtless kept many away who would like to have attended. The work shown proves Miss Conklin to be an artist of high order. It was most exquisitely executed, the many delicate flowers pictured on the fragile china appeared almost too natural to have been painted. Many of these met with a ready sale and it is safe to assume that now her work has become known, her exhibition another year will be looked forward to with pleasure.

Atherton Lost.

Some splendid golf was brought out in several of the matches in the open tournament of the Boston Golf club Tuesday. The Transcript says, the most interesting match being between G. E. Atherton Jr., and J. Nelson Manning. It was finally won by Manning, 2 up and 1 to play, Atherton had Manning up at the end of the first round, but on the tenth Manning made the match all even. From that hole on they played very evenly, until the sixteenth, where Manning was 1 up. The seventeenth went to Manning, 5 to 4 and the match was his, 2 up, 1 to play.

APPRECIATED.

Wollaston Honors Her Soldier Boys.

The formal reception which the people of Wollaston tendered to the boys who enlisted from that place for the Spanish war was held at Brasee's hall on Wednesday evening. People, who desired to attend and grasp the veterans by the hand, came in large numbers and were consequently packed into the hall like the proverbial sardines. Standing room was at a premium long before the exercises began. The decorations of the hall were wholly patriotic. They were done by the Whatsoever Ten, King's Daughters. In the rear of the platform a huge American flag was draped on the wall. On either side small flags were emblazoned and from the center of the ceiling streamers were stretched to the four corners of the hall. The effect was exceedingly striking.

During the evening the Wollaston band of twenty pieces, under the leadership of Mr. Harry W. Sprague, discoursed some excellent patriotic and popular music.

Mr. A. L. Baker called the company to order, after the recipients of the reception had marched into the hall in full uniform amidst rounds of applause and to the strains of martial music. In the short procession there were Harry R. Osgood of the 18th U. S. Infantry; H. D. Hunt of the 1st Colorado Infantry; Corporal E. A. Wardwell of Co. K, 5th Mass.; and Quartermaster Allie Williams of the U. S. S. Oneida. All sections of the war were here illustrated,—the Philippines, the navy off Cuba, and the hard camp life in the South. Brief biographical sketches followed:

Harry R. Osgood enlisted on May 17, 1898, in Co. E, 18th U. S. Infantry. He sailed from San Francisco on June 27, on the U. S. Army transport "Indiana," landing at Manila on July 31, where he remained on duty until Dec. 25, when he was ordered to Iloilo. At that place his company immediately pushed to the front and from the time of landing until the embarkation home on Aug. 23, 1899, he was engaged in countless fights with the Filipinos. Mr. Osgood was born at Roxbury in 1877 and came to Wollaston to live at an early age. He is a graduate of the Adams Academy.

Private H. D. Hunt, a son of Captain C. N. Hunt, was born at Dorchester in 1863. In April, 1898, he enlisted at Boulder, Colorado, in Co. H, 1st Colorado Infantry. From Boulder he went with his company to Denver, where the regiment was formed, and thence to San Francisco. After staying in camp at "Frisco" some time the regiment was finally ordered to Manila on the U. S. transport "China."

The regiment arrived at its destination in time to participate in the attack and capitulation of the city. On Aug. 13, the 1st Colorado led the attack on the doomed city. When the Spaniards capitulated, Lieut. Col. McCoy of that regiment raised the first American flag. Since the Filipino Insurrection, Private Hunt has been in the thick of those skirmishes.

Corporal E. A. Wardwell, although not seeing any actual warfare, experienced the rigors of camp life in a bleak country which tried the strongest constitutions. He was born at Clinton, Mass., Oct. 11, 1870. As a member of Co. K, 5th Massachusetts Regiment U. S. Volunteers, he went into camp at Framingham, from there the regiment went to Camp Meade and hence to Camp Wetherell. He was mustered out on Nov. 20, 1898.

The story of Allie Williams adventures while adrift off the Cuban coast as a blockader and later on the U. S. S. Sterling on the coast of South America is familiar to all of our readers from the frequent letters which the Daily Ledger published from him while he was at sea. On May 18, 1898, he enlisted in the navy. He was assigned to duty on the "Oneida" and immediately saw service off the Cuban coast. In a comparatively short time he was appointed to the responsible position of quartermaster. Later he was transferred to the "Sterling" and cruised along the South American coast as far as Puenta Arenas, Patagonia.

Mr. Baker introduced the speakers of the evening. Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, in a patriotic address, welcomed the boys home. Addresses were also made by the Rev. Preston Gurney, pastor of the First Baptist church; the Rev. J. E. Waterhouse, pastor of the M. E. church; the Rev. Fred T. Knight, pastor of the Norfolk Downs and Park church; the Rev. Carleton P. Mills rector of St. Chrysostom's church; the Rev. Edward A. Chase, pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church; and Superintendent H. W. Lull of the schools.

At the close of the addresses Mr. David Brown, Jr., was introduced and advancing to the platform called Private Osgood by name. Mr. Osgood arose with a surprised look on his face. Mr. Brown there upon drew forth from his pocket a gold watch, double chain and locket and, with a few appropriate words presented it to Mr. Osgood as a gift from the people of Wollaston.

Mr. Osgood afterwards, when he and his associates, were making brief addresses from the platform, thanked the people for the gift. Then five young ladies advanced and sang, "When Johnnie comes marching home."

The watch was made by the American Watch Co. of Waltham, it is of gold, with an open face and Arabic numerals, cable trimmed, and engine lathe decorated back with the monogram "H. R. O." On the inner cover of the watch was inscribed "Harry R. Osgood, Co., E. 18th Infantry, from Wollaston friends, Oct. 18, 1899."

An informal reception was then held. It was mainly through the efforts of Mr. A. L. Baker and Mrs. David Brown, Jr., that this reception was such a success.

Ramsayer—Bill.

A quiet home wedding was solemnized on Wednesday evening, Oct. 18 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. David Bill of Quincy Point, when their daughter, Rose May, was united in marriage with Mr. John Martin Louis Ramsayer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ramsayer of Jamaica Plain. At half-past seven Rev. Edwin Noah Hardy, pastor of Bethany Congregational church, of which the bride is a member, spoke the words that made the happy couple one. The bride was given in marriage by her father and only the immediate family were present.

Miss Bill looked charming in a traveling suit of mode shade with natty toque of the same shade trimmed with pink velvet. She carried pink and white carnations. She was the recipient of a great many beautiful presents, especially silver. After a brief trip Mr. and Mrs. Ramsayer will reside with the bride's parents where they will be at home to their friends.

Cantfill—Hardwick.

Miss Mattie J. Hardwick, daughter of Mrs. Frederick Hardwick, and Mr. Maurice T. Cantfill were married Wednesday evening by the Rev. Julian E. Johnstone. The bride was gowned in white mousseline de soie. The bridesmaid, Miss Mary McNally wore white muslin. Mr. Frank Pierce was best man. There was a reception at the residence of the bride's mother on Franklin street, after the ceremony.

Would Break Contract.

The Railroad Commissioners gave another hearing, says the Transcript on the difficult South Shore Brockton Street Railway problem Tuesday morning. The latter company has executed a contract with the former, whereby through cars from Nantasket and other points on the South Shore can run into Brockton. After the contract was signed it was discovered that the South Shore people intended to absorb a portion of the local traffic instead of running express to Brockton, as the local railway company had assumed—would be the case. The Brockton Street Railway now desires to have the contract modified or else to break it. The South Shore Company prefers the contract as it stands. It is an old question which was bitterly debated years ago at the time the Middlesex railway was given permission to use the Metropolitan tracks in Boston. In the hope that a mutual understanding might be reached the Board continued the matter a second time till Wednesday of next week.

Punch and Judy Party.

Punch and Judy were in town Wednesday afternoon, and Huntington Reed Hardwick secured them to entertain 40 of his young friends, who assembled at the residence of his parents on Chestnut street to celebrate his seventh birthday. Then the children marched to the dining room and enjoyed refreshments, and games followed. Each boy present was presented with a boat, and each girl with a doll. Master Hardwick also was kindly remembered by his playmates.

Expert Opinion.

The following article was written for the Herald by J. H. White of Billings street. It is a bit that is new about the cup racers:

On Thursday, Sept. 7, I went into the Herald office and put myself on record that there is from four to six minutes' difference between the models of the yachts Columbia and Shamrock over the New York Yacht club course, in favor of the Columbia, all things being equal. I read in the Sunday Herald, Sept. 10, the comparisons of the yachts from personal observation, made by Mr. McVey, which tends to strengthen my position. I want to go a little further in regard to heavy weather. If it is true the Columbia, in a fair sailing breeze, is faster than the Shamrock, it is the result of one of two things—either increased sail area per hull, or in the hull itself. If it is in the latter, which I claim, then the Columbia, in a housed topmast breeze, is the better boat."

Republican Club Banquet.

The annual dinner of the Republican club of Massachusetts will be held in Music hall, Boston, on Tuesday evening, Oct. 31, 1899. The speakers will be Gov. Theodore Roosevelt of New York, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Gov. Wolcott, Hon. W. Murray Crane and Hon. John L. Bates. The great popularity of Gov. Roosevelt and the fact that this will probably be the first speech which Senator Lodge will deliver after his return to this country from abroad are enough to ensure a crowded hall, while every member of the club will be glad to hear His Excellency the Governor and the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor. Members will have the exclusive right to purchase tickets until Tuesday, Oct. 24, after which day the sale will be open to the public.

EXTRA!

3.30 P. M.

COLUMBIA

Rounded Outer Mark
Five Minutes Ahead.

New York, Oct. 19, 9 A. M.—Because of the extra ballast put into the Shamrock, the challenger now measures more than the Columbia, and will therefore allow the defender 16 seconds in the race today.

GOOD RACE TODAY.

Oct. 19, 10 A. M.—The conditions today are favorable for a good race.

WIND 15 MILES.

Oct. 19, 11 A. M.—The wind is now blowing 15 miles an hour and the starting gun has just been fired.

MAY BE DECISIVE.

Oct. 19, 10.30 A. M.—Today's race may be the decisive one for the cup, as the Columbia needs but one more victory. Should the Shamrock win, one, and possibly two more may be needed.

COLUMBIA FIRST.

Oct. 19, 11.05 A. M.—The race is on. The Columbia crossed the line at 11.01-33 and the Shamrock at 11.02.

COLUMBIA LEADING.

Oct. 19, 11.15 A. M.—A signal says that the Columbia is leading the Shamrock by one hundred yards.

SLOW HEADWAY.

Oct. 19, 1 P. M.—The boats are approaching the turning point but have made but little headway since noon.

NEAR THE TURN.

Oct. 19, 1.17 P. M.—The boats are now near the turning point.

BOATS BECALMED.

Oct. 19, 1.20 P. M.—The wind has died down and the boats are practically becalmed. It is doubtful if they finish.

SIGNS OF BREEZE.

Oct. 19, 1.30 P. M.—There are indications of a breeze from off shore.

COLUMBIA TURNED FIRST.

Oct. 19, 2.30 P. M.—The Columbia turned the outer mark at 2.24.00, and the Shamrock at 2.29.00.

DOUBTS OF FINISH.

Oct. 1, 2.50 P. M.—The breeze is light and it is doubtful if the yachts finish within the limit, which expires at 4.30.

Ripe Old Age.

Mrs. Caroline W. Merritt, a sister to Napoleon B. Fernald, one of the smartest old ladies in Quincy, celebrated her ninety-first birthday, Wednesday, by receiving her relatives, neighbors and friends at her home on School street.

Mrs. Merritt is remarkably smart for one of her advanced age and enjoyed the day to the utmost. She received many congratulations from her guests as well as well wishes for continued health. She received many valuable remembrances of the event.

Mrs. Merritt was born in Nottingham, N. H., Oct. 18, 1808, and was the daughter of Lemuel and Mary Fernald. Her father was a farmer, and when she was but nine years old she came to Quincy with her parents.

During her early years she taught private school in Quincy. In 1726 she married Jonathan Merritt, a ship carpenter of Scituate, and resided in that town until his death some thirty years ago. The widow then returned to Quincy, where she has since resided.

She is the mother of fifteen children, six of whom are living—four sons and two daughters: William Merritt, who resides in the West, and has a son Vernon, a hero of Santiago, Charles Merritt, who resides in Everett, Albert Merritt, who resides in New York, Amos Merritt, who resides with his mother, Mrs. Helen F. Thomas, who resides in Malden, and her faithful, loving and attentive daughter, Katie F., who has always lived with and cared for her mother.

—A man advertises in Boston: "Hypnotism taught privately as practically applied to business, medicine, and social affairs." The use of hypnotism in medicine may be justifiable, perhaps, but anybody who tries it in business and social affairs ought to be looked after by the police.—Somerville Journal.

—A plush parlor set and dining room furniture are included in the auction at the Frank F. Crane on Saturday afternoon.

Oil Heaters for chilly evenings $1.50 to $4.75. They heat your room in twinkling. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

BIG REGISTRATION.

Quincy Never Had More Names on Her Voting Lists.

Three hundred and seventy-eight names have been added to the voting lists since the registration began this fall, and the total today is 4228. This is 230 more than at the last State election and 32 more than at the last municipal election. A further indication of the growth and progress of the city of Quincy.

There were at the city election of last year 4196 voters. In the revision of the lists there were 346 names dropped for various reasons, but this was more than made good by the addition of 378.

The following summary gives the number of voters at the last two elections, the number after the revision in August, and the number that will be on the list at the coming state election. It gives the number added by wards since August.

	Aug.	Add.	Oct.	Dec.	Oct.
Ward One,	712	85	797	777	738
Ward Two,	550	36	586	596	538
Ward Three, Pre 1,	425	26	451	469	454
Ward Three, Pre 2,	361	40	401	410	393
Ward Four, Pre 1,	282	26	308	308	401
Ward Four, Pre 2,	401	53	454	441	430
Ward Five,	559	70	629	613	579
Ward Six,	460	42	502	482	445

Wards One and Six made the largest net gain in the year, 20 each, Ward Five gained 16 and Ward Four 13, while Ward Two has lost 10 and Ward Three 27.

Political.

John F. Merrill is the Tenth district member of the nominating committee of the Republican Club of Massachusetts, to select officers of the club.

Cambridge has 632 less voters than at the last city election.

The net gain of voters at Medford was 51, a total of 3174.

Everett has 3875 voters, 107 less than last December.

Worcester has 497 more names on the lists than at the last State election.

Lawrence has 9,872 voters against 10,016 last year.

There are 4,204 voters in Waltham, an increase of 170.

Haverhill now has 7,554 voters, which was never exceeded but once.

Lynn has 86 more voters than in 1898. Registration in Chelsea was light, and the total is 5,700.

Adams Won.

The Adams Academy and Abington high school foot ball eleven lined up at Merrymount Park Wednesday afternoon. Adams won the game by a score of 25 to 5. Flaherty, Boyd and Donaher did good work for Adams. Abington boys put up a good game but could not stop Adams from breaking through their line.

Score, Adams 25, Abington, 5. Touchdowns, Mueller 2, Nelson, Flaherty, Hardwick, Gormley, Thompson, Bennett 2, Doble, Gormley, Umpire, Mr. McDonald. Referee, Mr. H. W. Porter. Time, 15m. halves.

Parlor Stoves and bedroom heaters $2.98 to $25. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

TODAY'S COURT.

Frank E. Short and Charles A. Reid were fined $5 each for trespass at Milton.

The continued cases of Joseph Orlando for assault and also for discharging a firearm upon the public streets at Quincy were called. He was fined $10 upon the former and $5 upon the latter complaint.

Joseph F. Furlong was arraigned for drunkenness at Weymouth. He was sent to the State farm at Bridgewater. Appealed.

NEW LIBRARY RULES

Students May Now Secure Two Books at a Time.

At a recent meeting of the Trustees of Thomas Crane Public Library it was voted that each holder of an ordinary card be entitled to a second or special card. This is of salmon color and has printed upon it, "Special card. Not for fiction."

Students and others pursuing courses of reading may thus take at the same time two books relating to their work. The ordinary card may be used as at present for any book, fiction or otherwise. But no book classed as fiction will be allowed on the special card. Readers are asked to be careful to return each book on the card on which it is taken.

By a new regulation also, all new novels may be kept out but seven days instead of fourteen, thus allowing more people an opportunity of reading them before they become old.

The list of borrowers from a public library after years must need revising and correcting, as people die, leave the city, change residence, etc. All cardholders who have not already re-registered this month are therefore requested to come to the library to do so. These changes must interfere with the usual quickness of work at the desk, and while people will be waited upon as speedily as possible, all are asked to have patience during delays of getting into smooth running order.

A Runaway.

A team containing a load of furniture stopped in front of City Hall this noon to enable the driver to feed his horse. The driver removed the bridle from his horse to put on a feed bag but before he could do so the horse became frightened and ran. He ran through Temple street onto Washington street and turned into the yard of Michael J. Burns where he was stopped. Both wheels on one side of the wagon were smashed but fortunately the furniture was but little damaged.

—The monument to Reubena Hyde Walworth, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Hardin Walworth and grand-daughter of the late Chancellor Reuben Hyde Walworth, was unveiled with impressive ceremony at Saratoga, Wednesday. Worth Reading.
To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household. I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

Columbia Was Far Ahead When Race Was Declared Off.

Shamrock Kept In the Rear
From the Very Start.

Challenger Appears to Have Been Badly Handled by Her Men.

Possibility That Two More Races Will Be Sailed Even If Columbia Wins.

New York, Oct. 20.—Clear weather and a fine breeze from the northwest greeted the skippers and crews of Columbia and Shamrock at sunrise Thursday, and the occasional puffs that made little whitecaps on Sandy Hook bay gave promise of plenty of wind for the third, and what many thought would be the final race, of the international series. The maneuvering before the start was remarkably interesting. Excursion boats and yachts gave the racing craft plenty of room, and Barr and Hogarth had their little game all to themselves.

Had the wind held the series for the America's cup would have ended in three straight heats for the defender and the Irish mug-hunter would have sailed home without the trophy, beaten as decisively as any past candidate for cup honors. Only the failure of the wind saved her from experiencing a defeat more stinging than she suffered on Monday, when, over a windward and leeward course, 30 miles, she lost the race by 10 minutes and 51 seconds.

Yesterday she was beaten on the run to the outer mark 5 minutes and 51 seconds, elapsed time, and on the leg home, which should have been a beat, but which, owing to a shift of the wind, was a broad reach, the white flyer easily sailed away from her. When the race was declared off, about 10 minutes before the expiration of the time limit, Columbia was leading by about three miles. She was then four miles from the finish. Had the race ended the challenger would have been beaten by at least 20 minutes.

Sir Thomas' boat was very badly handled in spite of the aggregation of talent aboard of it. The two English captains and the captain of Emperor William's yacht Meteor failed to get her over the line before the handicap gun was fired, and she went in the race penalized by two seconds on that account. The additional ballast which was put into her also seems to have been a blunder on the part of her managers, as it increased the size of the body to be forced through the water, and in the light air that prevailed retarded instead of increased her speed.

What Shamrock might be able to do in rough weather and a reding wind is still problematical, but after the drubbing she has received the experts are almost unanimous in the belief that Columbia can take her measure in light airs or a gale of wind. The crew of Shamrock are now convinced that they have the better boat. Before the race on Monday they had the most supreme confidence in their ability to win with Shamrock.

The yachts will race again today, and even if Columbia wins there is a possibility that two more races will be sailed. A suggestion to this effect has been made and Sir Thomas appears anxious that it should be carried out. He has been greatly disappointed in the showing his boat has made, but believes she might do better over a triangular course in a heavier wind, and has said that he would be pleased to sail two more races.

Yesterday was a radiant day for those who were watching the race. A light breeze hung over the horizon, not a cloud flecked the sky. A 10-knot land breeze blew out of the northwest. A big holiday crowd went out to witness what all supposed would be the last race of the cup series. The bay was alive with sails. Fifty or more sailing ships of every style of rig, which had been weather-bound for two weeks, were speeding seaward.

The course was laid 15 miles before the wind, southeast by south, straight out to sea. After some pretty maneuvering behind the line, Captain Barr bested the talent aboard the challenger, sending Columbia flying across the line 27 seconds ahead of his adversary.

The handicap gun boomed two seconds before Shamrock crossed, and she sailed away with that penalty in addition to the 16 seconds she now allows Columbia. The race to the outer mark was not exciting. Both yachts crossed with bulging balloons, mainsails and their largest topsails drawing. But as the wind had pulled a little to southward after the course had been set, instead of keeping away for the mark, they made almost a triangular race of it. Without setting their spinnakers they luffed sharply to starboard, each striving for the weather gauge.

Columbia showed her rival a fleet pair of heels, gaining gradually from the start. For almost an hour the luffing match continued, carrying the big single-stickers four miles off their course. Shamrock having been badly beaten in her attempt to get to windward, both squared away for the mark, breaking out their big spinnakers to the following wind. After watching the yachts run before the wind for an hour, during which the breeze gradually died down to about five knots or less, the excursion fleet went ahead and gathered about the point to witness the match. The challenger was directly astern of Columbia, trying to blanket the Yankee. But Columbia somehow managed to get wind enough to keep her slipping through the water, and in vain the Britisher strained to overtake her.

The yachts were half an hour covering the last half mile. Slowly Columbia wore around the mark and filled away. Passing Shamrock, still outward bound, close aboard on her weather, she robbed her of the light breeze and left her utterly becalmed for a full minute. A brass-throated chorus had greeted Columbia as she turned and it was repeated with added vigor when Shamrock went around six minutes and 18 seconds later. Columbia had gained five minutes and 51 seconds in the 15 miles to leeward. About 3 1/2 hours had been consumed and there appeared no chance for either yacht to get home, but as the breeze continued to haul to the southward it made a fair wind for the return journey, and as it freshened to 10 knots soon afterward a faint hope of finishing within the time limit arose.

The Yankee sailed away from her rival like a ghost ship, leaving her far astern, increasing the distance between them so rapidly that when the race was declared off at 4:19 she was leading by three miles.

Sir Thomas has centered all his energies on winning the cup, and he has not looked beyond that. When he first came over here he expected that the races would be finished during the week beginning Oct. 2. It was then his plan to go to Chicago with a large party of guests.

The many flukes of course have changed his plans, and Sir Thomas has made no more plans. Directly the race is over he will go to Chicago. His business interests in this country are in that city, and it is necessary that he should go there.

He will finish his business in Chicago as soon as possible, and then return to London. He has absolutely ended his business for the first time in his life for a period of two months, and his energies will be devoted to matters requiring his immediate attention.

It is the present plan to prepare the Shamrock for her journey across the ocean directly the races are over. It has not been decided whether or not she shall be towed by the Erin. When they reach England, both yachts will go out of commission until February, when they will go to the Mediterranean for the races there.

Lever Will Try It.
London, Oct. 20.—A provincial paper states that if Shamrock fails to win the America's cup that Mr. Lever, a millionaire soap manufacturer intends to issue a challenge for a series of races in 1900.

Bryan Talks to Buckeye Citizens.

Cincinnati, Oct. 20.—W. J. Bryan has begun his three days' tour of Ohio. In his speeches yesterday he declared that the Chicago platform is still the platform of the Democratic party, and the platform of the Ohio Democracy again endorses the platform. He said he believed the planks of that platform are stronger today than when they were written. Mr. Bryan entered into an elaborate defense of the income tax, and predicted a popular endorsement of the proposition. He cited the efforts of the government to raise a revenue to continue the Spanish war, because of the decision of the supreme court against the income tax law. He said the money question was still unsettled, and the fight would be continued. He treated the matter of trusts in practically the same manner as characterized his Kentucky utterances. He declared that the Republican party said some trusts were bad and others good.

Double Tragedy at Portland.

Portland, Me., Oct. 20.—Crazed by jealousy and drink, William Grever, a former and formerly a prosperous restaurant keeper in this city, shot Mrs. Jennie Legrow, a woman to whom he had been paying attention, through the right temple, and then put a bullet through his own head. The double crime was committed in a woman's apartment Thursday afternoon. Grever's aim was true in both cases, and he and his victim probably died instantly. No one saw the crime committed, and the remains of the man and woman lay weltering on the floor in blood when they were discovered, a few minutes after the shootings.

Brig Turned to Slaughter Pen.

Santa Cruz, Oct. 20.—The brig Julian A. Schlosser arrived here on her way to Brazil, and reported that during the voyage the helmsman had murdered the captain's wife and the mate. The Brazilian consul asked assistance of the authorities, and the Spanish cruiser Infanta Isabel sent several boats' crews to the brig. They were fired upon by the brig's crew, and the marines replied, finally boarding the ship. Eleven seamen were jumped overboard, but were rescued by the cruiser's boats, and are now imprisoned. The helmsman committed suicide. Another murdered man was found on board.

Adultery Constitutes Alienation.

Boston, Oct. 20.—A decision of the full bench of the supreme court was rendered yesterday in the case of Mrs. Ella M. Houghton of Hudson vs. Ella M. Rice of the same place, holding that a wife has no right of action against another woman for the alienation of her husband's affections where no adultery is alleged. The court sustains a demurrer against the defendant filed to the plaintiff's declaration, thereby setting aside a verdict of $10,041, which a Middlesex jury awarded the plaintiff.

BORDER STATE POLICY

Adopted by President Lincoln Should Be Applied to the Philippines.

Large Majority of Natives Are Not Fighting Us.

Commissioner Schurman Talks on Present Conditions and Suggests Remedies.

New York, Oct. 20.—At the dinner last night of the Aldine Press association President McKinley's commissioners, President McKinley's commissioners, made a speech, in which he tersely summed up the troubles in the Philippines. While not directly speaking in defense of the administration's policy, what he said was in appreciation of the president's treatment of the question. He spoke in part as follows:

PROFESSOR SCHURMAN.

"The more one hears of the Philippines the more the less disposed one will be to think any solution proposed free from objections. But some points of cardinal importance are beyond dispute. 'Under the law of nations, the United States has unpeachable sovereignty over the Philippine islands. This involves responsibility for their government. Our tutelage at least for some time is the one thing that can save the Philippines from devolution and anarchy and their islands from division among the European powers, thus destroying forever the hope of free and self-governing Filipino nationality which American protection and guardianship would inevitably tend to develop.

"But one must not fail to make use of every means available for the attainment of the end in view, and when we bear in mind that the Filipinos, since the signing of the treaty of Paris, have been without political status or civil rights, it would seem both just and politic for congress (to whom the treaty delegates the function) to declare authoritatively what rights and privileges the Filipinos are to enjoy under American sovereignty.

"I do not ask for a reduction of our forces. On the contrary, I think congress should vote the president—unanimously, too—all the men and money that in any contingency can be needed for the prompt suppression of Aguinaldo's insurrection. But that is not enough. There are 6,000,000 or 7,000,000 of Filipinos who are not fighting us. The Tagalogs who are fighting us number—men, women and children—not more than a million and a half.

"I plead alike on the ground of justice and expediency for an authoritative announcement to these peaceful Filipinos—the great majority of all the inhabitants of this archipelago, of the political and civil rights, privileges and immunities which the president and congress of the United States undoubtedly have ready to bestow upon them.

"My advice is this: Increase your military forces, but at the same time tell the peaceful Filipinos what you are going to do with them, and while your grant will undoubtedly satisfy the non-belligerents it will also weaken among the belligerent Tagalogs the power now exercised by Aguinaldo. This is Lincoln's border state policy applied to the Philippines, where—beg you will note the dubious neutrals far outnumber the belligerents."

Anti-Imperialists Elect Officers.

Chicago, Oct. 20.—The committee on permanent organization appointed by the anti-imperialist conference yesterday formed a national organization, to be known as the American Anti-Imperialist league. The following were elected as officers of the league: President, George S. Boutwell, Massachusetts; vice presidents, George F. Edmunds, Vermont; J. S. Morton, Nebraska; Carl Schurz, New York; Richard T. Crane, Illinois; Donelson Caffery, Louisiana; Rufus B. Smith, Ohio, and John J. Valentine, California; treasurer, Frederick W. Goekin, Illinois; secretary, William J. M. Mize, Illinois. Chicago was selected as the headquarters of the league, with an eastern office in Boston. Other offices will be established as required.

Hanna Thinks Combinations Lawful.

Cleveland, Oct. 20.—In a political speech here last night Senator Hanna declared that the question of combinations of capital was a business one and should not have been dragged into politics. He said that American manufacturers could not compete in the markets of the world unless they had combined capital. The formation of combines was simply an evolution in business methods. "If the trusts are a menace to the country," he asked, "what party better than the Republican party can give you relief?"

Good Afternoon.

The increased registration should mean a larger vote in Quincy at the State election, although it is an off year. At the State election last year 3,187 votes were cast out of 3,908, nearly 80 per cent. A like per cent of this year would result in a vote of 3,380, or 200 more than last year.

The new departure at the Thomas Crane Public Library seems a good one,
and at one time seems to overcome
many complaints. Many have found it impossible to get new books where some visit the library only fortnightly.
Where slow readers get the books
consequently, the books would have but 20 to 25 readers a year, whereas by the new arrangement 40 to 50 may have the pleasure of reading the volumes. Many will also appreciate the privilege of taking out two books at a time, either for light and solid reading, or one book for a child who enjoys reading but is too young to have a card.

All that Mayor Keith sets forth in his resolution to the Railroad Commissioners relative to the poor service
given Quincy by the N. Y., N. H. &
H. R. R. is true, and pity 'tis true.
The city has waited patiently for the extra tracks that were talked, for the completing of the new South station in Boston, and the equipment of the main line with electricity, but cannot afford to wait longer. Quincy is an up-to-date, thriving city, with brick blocks, brick schoolhouses, large churches, and palatial residences; and the railroad, to keep up with the progression, should have a brick and granite station with large waiting rooms properly ventilated, heated and lighted; toilet rooms with approved plumbing, a men's smoking room, and a suitable baggage room. The new station should not be crowded upon the tracks, so that passengers will be terrified by passing trains, as is now
the case with ladies and children, and the days of plank platforms have passed. Merchants have long suffered for the want of a freight yard. The poor facilities for unloading cars have been a bother and extra expense, and have handicapped them in competition with Boston. The railroad, too, has lost considerable in freight, because goods have been teamed from Boston.
The New Haven road should not wait for a united howl, for Quincy people find it difficult to get together, either to entreat or to find fault. It must be evident that the accommodations given Quincy are poor, inadequate and not in keeping with the support given by the people.

Drift of Opinion.

Congressman Weymouth will be very glad to see Col. Clarke made postmaster of Boston. Mr. Weymouth, it is understood, would like a third congressional nomination, and it is well understood that Col. Clarke's ambition—an entirely laudable one—is to occupy a seat in Congress; and Congressman Weymouth and Col. Clarke have their abode in the same district.
While we are about it, we might as well say that Col. Clarke has all the qualifications for an ideal congressman,
and we don't believe anybody doubts
it either.—Milford Journal.

NEW Y. R. A. M. RULES

Prolonged Discussion Over Treatment of Cabin Yachts.

A meeting of the Yacht Racing Association of Massachusetts was held at the Parker House Thursday evening at which President A. H. Higginson presided. The following members were present. Columbia Yacht club, Edward Dillehant; Lynn Yacht club, Lincoln
S. Coffin; Manchester Yacht club, A.
H. Higginson; Mosquito Fleet Yacht club, S. C. Higginson; Old Colony Yacht club, W. F. Scott; Quincy Yacht club, H. M. Faxon; Savin Hill Yacht club, J. E. Robinson; South Boston
Yacht club, J. T. Hurley; Squantum
Yacht club, A. T. Hill; Winthrop
Yacht club, A. T. Bliss.

Three racing rules were amended as follows, after considerable discussion:
Rule II, in regard to entries was amended by the insertion in the fifth line of Section 1, "and must be accompanied by certificate of official measurement."

Section 5 in regard to re-registration of yachts entered under special conditions was struck out of the constitution.

Rule XI, in regard to sails was amended to read: "In the 21-foot cabin class only working sails shall be allowed." The amendment was defeated.

Rule XV, in regard to prizes was amended to read: "Association pennants and places shall be awarded to boats regularly entered and not defeating competitors."

A new section was added to the constitution which reads: "No appeal from the decision of the judges shall be made later than 15 days hereafter."

The discussion over the treatment of the cabin yacht was prolonged and earnest. The yacht club limitations were amended by adding: "If the required headroom is obtainable
under this rule additional height of cabin trunk shall be allowed." The rule regulating the sails area was amended by inserting "the sailmakers'
certificate" of area of sails aft of the forward mast shall be required, subject to remeasurement by the official measurer under protest, and the actual number of square feet shall be marked on such sails over the maker's name."

The following amendments were brought up and defeated: To strike out: "In no case shall the area of the mainsail and maintop sail exceed 80 per cent. of the entire area allowed;" To add to exceptions, "21-foot knock-abouts, conforming to the limitations of the Knockabout Association, may race in the 21-foot cabin class."

Good Lady Gone.

Mrs. Augusta B. French of Washington street, widow of Joseph T. French, died quite suddenly this morning at her home on Washington street, her death
being due to a general breaking up.
Mrs. French has not been in good health for some time and has been gradually failing. Some few weeks ago she went to the residence of her daughter in Boston to pass the winter,
but did not remain long.

Mrs. French has always taken an interest in local affairs and was particularly active in charitable work. She had long been identified with the First Universalist church of Quincy and was for years one of its working members. She leaves three daughters.

Greenleaf Park Sale.

Probably the largest attendance ever gathered at an auction sale in Quincy,
was at Greenleaf park, Thursday.
Several lots were sold at prices ranging from 8 to 13 cents. As per agreement, the company gave away valuable presents of silverware, watches, jewelry etc. Other presents will be given to those in attendance today and tomorrow.

Baby's Comfort

Is mother's rest. A. B. Chapin, M.
D., of Aurora, N. Y., used Comfort Powder with success on a three months' old child badly chafed. "Cured it at once." It cures prickly heat, chafing and scalding. Keeps the skin firm and sweet.

MILTON.

The Mission of Our Saviour church

will observe its second anniversary Sunday evening, Oct. 29. A special musical programme will be rendered and several visiting clergymen are expected to give addresses.

The Milton, Jr., A. A. foot ball eleven will play the Milton Academy
Saturday.

A pleasing entertainment and social
was held at the Baptist church Thursday evening. The entertainment consisted of vocal and instrumental music and readings. Ice cream and cake were served at its conclusion.

George Barry, a well known East Milton young man, died last Saturday of consumption. He was about 18 years of age.

The Thursday Evening club met this week. A pleasing entertainment was provided.

Two stone crosswalks are being put in on Adams street near the East Milton depot.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walsh are receiving congratulations on the birth on Monday, of a son.

John J. Merrill, a well known resident of East Milton, died Wednesday noon, after an illness of but a few days. He was about 78 years of age, and leaves a widow. Mr. Merrill has been engaged in the real estate business for some years.

Miss Burns opens a dancing school
in Ellsworth hall next week.

John Curtis is out with a new grocery delivery team.

The Social Five held a dance at Ellsworth hall Wednesday evening.

Killed in Quarries.

Carl Paavas, a quarryman employed at Erickson & Co.'s quarry was blown up Thursday and received injuries from which he died an hour later at the City Hospital. From what can be learned, it would appear that one blast
had been fired and Paavas was preparing another. The second was to be a seam blast, and he was walking along the seam with a can of powder in one hand, and a dipper, from which he was pouring powder into the seam, in the other. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion and the unfortunate man was thrown violently. The ambulance was called and he was removed to the City Hospital where it was found that his arms and legs were broken, his ribs fractured, and that he was besides badly bruised and injured internally.
His body was also peppered with pieces of tin from the powder can and dipper. He died about an hour after arriving at the City Hospital.

The unfortunate man was about 40 years of age and boarded at 38 Copeland street. It is said that he leaves a widow and children who are in the old country.

Spending Too Much.

It is some satisfaction to the editor
to hear comments on editorials which may appear, especially when congratulatory. An ex-official, who is modest and forbids the use of his name, writes:

I wish to thank you for your editorial on widening streets for railroads,
etc. The city of Quincy is expending too much money, and a city cannot prosper long with a high valuation and a $10, tax rate. Quincy is expending more than her share for State roads,
county widenings in Weymouth, Dedham and Braintree and receiving no benefits. The higher the valuation, the more it costs. How long would a private individual stand it, to ride a mile and a quarter and pay 8 cents,
when the railway carry one 6 miles to East Weymouth for 5 cents.

Evening School Teachers.

The sub-committee of the School
Committee on Evening Schools met Thursday afternoon, and selected the following teachers for the schools
which open next Monday:

Drawing—Charles C. Bryant.
Adams school—James M. Nowland,
George F. Adams, Minnie E. Donovan,
Margaret E. Haley.
Willard school—Austin W. Greene,
George F. Field, Frances C. Sullivan,
Nellie C. Gragg.

The following names have been placed on the list of extra teachers in case of the illness of the regular teachers, or of increased attendance:
Annie E. Burns, Lauretta C. Shea,
Charles J. Anderson, Harry A. Wason.

Heroic Act.

The conductor of the electric car which leaves Quincy at 3.40 P. M. is worthy of commendation for his heroic action Wednesday afternoon in saving
a child from being killed by his car.
The little one stumbled onto the track and the motorman did not see him in time to stop the car. Bystanders cried aloud, and with note-worthy presence of mind, the conductor sprang from the car at the risk of his own life and snatched the child from the track. In the effort, his clothes were badly torn and he received several bruises.

the Atlantic ward, will soon appear in Leder.

Miss Mattie Clean of Newbury avenue is recovering from a recent illness.

A list of new books recently added to the public library will appear in the Ledger tomorrow.

Invitations are out for a private dancing party to be held in Music hall,
Atlantic, the coming week.

The Ladies' Whist club held its first meeting of the season Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Richard Newcomb.

Quite a number of young people went to Dorchester, Wednesday evening, to a social dance held in Bloomfield hall.

H., who has been the guest of his son,
Dr. H. F. Hayford, returned home
Thursday.

The Pirates of Quincy Point and the South Quincy Social club will meet on the gridiron at Merrymount park on Saturday at 3 P. M.

J. W. Pratt has sold another of his fine houses on Independence avenue.
Duncan Rusk is the purchaser, who will occupy at once.

Judge James H. Flint, Grand Protector of the New England Order of Protection, with suite, will make Quincy lodge an official visit tonight.

R. E. Foy & Co. have issued an attractive announcement today and the prices quoted are equally as satisfactory. "Remember the corner."

Arthur Brasee, who has been up in Berkshire, Vt., is at home on a visit, improved in health. He intends to locate later in Richmond, Vt., as the climate agrees with him there.

Somebody must be putting in their winter's coal, for there was a string of coal teams on Washington street
this morning. Sixteen were counted
all in a row, about 8 o'clock.

Owing to the widening of Coddington
street, which necessitates the tearing up of the street railway tracks, cars on the Houghs Neck line of the street railway will be discontinued Monday.

The members of the Wollaston Congregational society tendered an informal reception to their new installed pastor,
—the Rev. Edward A. Chase and Mrs.
Chase in the church vestry on Thursday evening. The vestry was tastefully decorated for the occasion.

St. Mary's C. T. A. held a dance in St. Mary's hall, Wednesday evening. P.
Milford was floor director, Phil Eagan
assistant floor director, and Joseph Keating, Michael Mahoney, Thomas
Keating and Joseph Stahl aids. There were seventy-five couples present.

The pastor of the First Presbyterian church, Rev. Robert Westly Peach, who has been away for several weeks,
in attendance upon the Pan-Presbyterian Council in Washington and the Synod of New York at Troy, will occupy his pulpit again on Sunday.

On Wednesday evening, at the parsonage by the Rev. E. N. Hardy, Mr. John D. Evans, the popular shipper at Guy's Coliseum, and Miss Lucy Kain were united in marriage.
After a short wedding trip they will be at home to their friends at 25 Quincy street.

Col. Edward Anderson will preside at the ninth annual banquet of the Quincy Young Men's Christian Association Wednesday evening, Oct. 25.
Anthony Comstock, Esq., of New York, and Mr. Walter C. Douglas,
General Secretary of the Philadelphia,
Y. M. C. A., will be the principal speakers.

Pasquali Truglia, the Italian who it is alleged is the proprietor of the shanty on Centre street raided by the police last Sunday, was arrested in Boston, Thursday, by Inspector Mc-Kay, and brought to Quincy. With the aid of a Boston officer, Pasquali was located in an alley way at the North End and after some opposition
he was placed under arrest.

TODAY'S COURT.

Michael Trimble was fined $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John F. McKay was arraigned for drunkenness at Milton. Case continued for two weeks.
Pasquali Truglia was arraigned for keeping a litter nuisance at Quincy. Case continued until Saturday.

The continued case of Thomas Cuniff for drunkenness was called and he paid a fine of $5.

—Oak chamber sets and a chiffonier bed will be sold Saturday afternoon at the auction sale of furniture at the store of Frank P. Crane.

BOSTON ELECTRIC SWITCH CO.

R. T. JOHNSON, President.

A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.

Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose
of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric
Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting
table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

CUP SAFE.

Columbia Wins for Third Time.

New York, Oct. 20.—Another race will be sailed today. Whether it is the decisive race for the cup or not, it is probable that two more may be sailed over the triangular course to give the Shamrock a chance to show what she can do in a heavier wind.

GOOD WIND TODAY.

Oct. 20, 10.50 A. M.—The wind is about 15 knots an hour, and the indications are favorable for a good race.

SHAMROCK ACROSS FIRST.

Oct. 20, 11.03 A. M.—The race is on.
The Shamrock crossed the line at 11.00.31, and the Columbia at 11.01.35.

COLUMBIA IN TROUBLE.

Oct. 20, 11.05 A. M.—The Columbia appears to have some trouble setting
her spinnaker.

HOT AFTER SHAMROCK.

Oct. 20, 11.08 A. M.—The Columbia
has succeeded in setting her spinnaker and appears to be gaining on the Shamrock.

QUICK RUN.

Oct. 20, 12.40 P. M.—The yachts have turned the stake boat, the Columbia in the lead.

COLUMBIA LEADING.

Oct. 20, 1 P. M.—The weather is very thick, almost obstructing a view of the boats. The Columbia is now a quarter of a mile ahead.

MEAGRE REPORTS.

Oct. 20, 1.35 P. M.—Because of the mist about the boats reports are very meagre. The Columbia appears to be three-fourths of a mile ahead.

COLUMBIA LEADING.

Oct. 19, 1.40 P. M.—The Columbia is still leading and is within 6 or 7 miles of the starting point which is also the finish.

CUP SAFE.

Oct. 20, 2.50 P. M.—The Columbia crossed at 2.40.30 and the Shamrock at 2.45.25, and the cup is safe for a year.

A Queer Pumpkin.

Carrie E. Ruggles Rebekah lodge of Wollaston, held a harvest supper at their regular meeting Monday night.
The hall was very prettily decorated with bunting, flowers and autumn leaves. The special guest of the evening was Miss Grace W. Mitchell, D. D.
G. M., who paid the lodge an official visit. After the meeting, the members adjourned to the banquet hall, where the supper was served as only the sisters of Carrie E. Ruggles know how to serve.

A pleasant feature of the evening was when Brother Wardwell, in behalf of the brothers of the lodge, presented Miss Mitchell with a mammoth pumpkin. Although taken by surprise, Miss Mitchell responded in her usual manner. Upon investigation the pumpkin was found to be filled with English violets.
After supper a various entertainment was enjoyed. A bagpipe solo, and sword dance by two of the brothers
left no doubt in the minds of the others
as to the nationality of the performers.
At a late hour the brothers and sisters departed, satisfied that they had been entertained in a manner that was a credit to the committee which had it
in charge.

The Registrars have filed nominations in all districts of the State, viz:
councillor, senatorial, county and representative. Thursday was the last day to file certificates of nominations.

The ballots for the State election will have complete State tickets for the Democrats, Republicans, Prohibitionists, Socialists, Labor and Social Democrats
—five in all.

Registration of voters will not close in the towns until Saturday, Oct. 28,
at 10 P. M.

The Journal says, the Social Democrat Party made many nominations, especially in Essex County and in Brockton, and other parts of Plymouth County. The Social Labor Party also made many nominations in the cities
for the Legislature.

The Democrats made no nominations
to the House in the Dukes County District, the First Essex, Eighth Essex, Second Hampshire, Thirteenth and Fourteenth Middlesex, but one in the Sixteenth Middlesex, where two are to be elected, none in the Twenty-fourth Middlesex, while in the 31st Middlesex
A. M. Williams refused to run and withdrew; there were no Democratic nominees for the House in Nantucket,
but one in the Sixth Norfolk, (Brain-tree and Weymouth), none in Ninth Norfolk, (Dover, Medfield, Millis, Nedham and Wellesley), Tenth Suffolk, Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth Suffolk. None in First Worcester, Fourth Worcester, Twelfth Worcester, Second Bristol, Sixth Bristol.

Ward One has nearly overtaken Wards Three and Four in number of voters and it will soon be necessary to divide it into precincts. Ward One has 797 voters and Wards Three and Four but 852 and 882 respectively.
The two latter wards were divided when they had 800 voters, the law at that time requiring that they should be
when they reached that number.
When the election laws were codified and revised in 1898 Section 150 provided: "If a ward contains according to such registration more than 500
voters, the aldermen MAY, and if it contains more than 1,000 voters SHALL, on or before the first Monday of July divide it into two or more voting precincts."

A plush parlor set and dining room furniture are included in the auction at the store of Frank F. Crane on Saturday afternoon.

SKELETON FOUND.

Unearthed on Field Street by the Water Department.

Workmen in the Water Department,
while opening a trench on Field street
this morning, unearthed the bones of a human being. The spot where the bones were found was nearly opposite the residence of Francis Fitzgerald and they were found at a depth of about four feet. The bones were altogether and consisted of two leg bones, part of the skull which had become honeycombed by age, and a lot of teeth.

From the size of the teeth it would appear that they were of a grown person, and the smallness of the leg bones would lead to the belief that the skeleton was that of a woman. Another thing found with the bones in the trench, was a well preserved heel
of a woman's shoe.

At the time the relics were unearthed it was raining quite hard, and work was stopped.

The bones were dumped in a box and brought to the supply shop. It is therefore possible that when work is resumed that more bones may be found, or some other articles that will give some light as to whether they are the bones of an Indian or not.
When found the feet were toward the west.

It is not unusual for the employees of the Water Department to unearth skeletons. Last year the bones of nine being found at Houghs Neck.

Political.

The Republicans have filed nominations in all districts of the State, viz:
councillor, senatorial, county and

Silver Wedding.

Sounds of merriment issued from the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh R.
Jones at Newcomb square, Monday evening. It was the 25th anniversary of their marriage. The forty or more people who responded to Mrs. Jones' invitation had a delightful time. A handsome present of a silver tea set and other gifts were bestowed on the couple. Friends from Quincy and Boston were present and enjoyed a table full of good things and departed wishing them many happy days.

—George Herbert.

The invitations have all been issued to the Business Men's Banquet at the Y. M. C. A. next Wednesday evening at six o'clock. The reception will be held in the Association parlor at 5.30 p. m. A reception committee consisting of Mr. D. E. Wadsworth, chairman, Mr. Frank F. Prescott, Dr. H. S. Hayford and Mr. A. W. Stetson, have charge of arrangements. The Ledger is requested to state that if any of our business men have failed to receive invitations, it was due to oversight and if they will immediately notify Secretary Hoehn they will be cheerfully welcomed.

The marriage of Miss Mabel Dushame, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Dushame of Randolph and Mr. Horace Drake, son of Mr. Horace Drake of Randolph will take place next Wednesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Belcher of Randolph have been in Washington, D.C., this week attending the National Unitarian convention.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Winsor Pratt of Randolph appeared on this week with a handsome pair of horses. The new pair are perfectly matched.

Mrs. Graham and Miss Edith Graham accompanied Mr. John R. Graham on his trip to Chicago.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. De Witt C. Pierce of Randolph on Wednesday took place the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jessie May Sloan and Mr. Edgar Norman Grass, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Mr. and Mrs. Grass will make their home at Brooklyn for the present.

M. and Mrs. Jeremiah Nightingale observed their sixty-first wedding anniversary on Thursday, entertaining their friends informally.

Miss Almira Simmons ushers this afternoon at a reception given Admiral Sampson by the Daughters of 1812, at the Vendome, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. James Murray of Spear street have been entertaining Miss Spicer of Lunenburg, Nova Scotia. She returned home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Henry Emery have returned from Washington, D. C., where they have been for a brief stay.

The engagement is announced of Miss Elsie Adams, daughter of Hon. and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, formerly of Quincy and Mr. Thomas Nelson Perkins of Milton, captain of the victorious Harvard '91 crew, which won from Yale after a long series of defeats.

Mr. Edwin Bartlett Pratt entertained before and after the Dewey parade last Saturday at his apartments at the Brimmer chambers. Mrs. Robert Mcville Baker, his sister chaperoned the party and among the guests were Miss Ruth Randall and Miss Fay Hitchcock of Quincy.

Rev. and Mrs. E. C. Butler have been in Washington this week attending the Unitarian convention. They went as delegates from First church.

The engagement is announced of Miss Stone of Chicago and Mr. James Perkins of Milton a well known Harvard man.

The correct way to send wedding cards is to address one to the heads of a family, one to each of the sons and one to the daughters addressing the last as Misses Smith. All the envelopes containing these separate cards may be enclosed in one large envelope which should be addressed to the heads of the family. It is not good form or correct to send only one wedding invitation to an entire family.

Miss Bena Cummings of Orient Heights, East Boston, is a guest of her sister Mrs. Edward Brennan, at Braintree.

Mrs. Charles J. Hendrie of Henry street has gone to New York to visit friends.

Whitney hall at Brookline will be opened by Miss E. J. Corlew on Tuesday evening next. Several from Quincy have been invited. The new hall is at the corner of Beacon and Harvard streets and the reception will be from eight to eleven.

James A. Stevens of Braintree returned Wednesday from a very pleasant three months' visit with friends in Maine.

President McKinley has finished his tour of the West and Northwest, rounding off his speaking by holding forth in some of the northern cities of his own state—Ohio. The country has carefully noted and fairly weighed his public utterances since he left the White House, and is now likely to forget that he has therein shown a breadth of patriotism, clearness of understanding and determination of purpose, that renders it certain that the interests of the nation are safe in his hands, so far as these have been entrusted to his charge. The "Anti-imperialists," and other copperhead factions in the country, have in the meanwhile, been made more demoralized than ever by the canvassing that has resulted from his travels and speeches; and they have fairly gnashed upon him with their teeth, as in the ancient Jewish days, so embittered have they become through their ineffective contentions. The voters will take care of this situation in due time.—Old Colong Memorial.

An invalid in the family of Rev. John P. Campbell of Baltimore sneezed in the night and scared a burglar away who had forced an entrance to the house through a rear window.

THE COCHATO CLUB.

A Model Ladies' and Gentlemen's Social Club—
The New Clubhouse.

The newly organized Cochato Club of Braintree, and the commodious clubhouse which is being built, are watched with interest by many, not only in Braintree but neighboring towns. It will be a model club, with an up-to-date clubhouse, and promises to be of great benefit to the town.

FOUNDING OF THE CLUB.

In October 1898, Mr. Willie H. Shaw sent out cards inviting some of the citizens of the town to meet with him at Pythian hall to discuss the advisability of forming a social and business club. At this meeting a committee was appointed to look into the whole matter carefully and report at a future meeting. This committee consulted with their friends and visited a number of social clubs, and a month later reported unanimously that it was

and disbursements must be nearly as follows:

RECEIPTS.
Annual Dues,	$2,520
Receipts from tables, alleys, etc.,	600
Rent of assembly hall,	250
$3,350
DISBURSEMENTS.
Steward or janitor,	$600

Incidentals, including taxes, lights, insurance, printing, etc.,	800
Entertainments,	300
$2,280
Balance with which to retire bonds,	$1,070

THE CLUB HOUSE.

Bailey & Spofford of Boston are the architects. They were the architects of the Old Belfry Club House at Lexington, after which this club house was modeled; hence in making plans and specifications for this house they could advisable to form a club, but in order to make the enterprise successful and a real benefit to the town that it must be established on a high plane.

At the second meeting the committee was enlarged and given power to solicit pledges of membership and to proceed to organize such a club as was suggested in the report. They secured a pledge of one hundred names, framed by-laws, formed a temporary organization and obtained a charter of incorporation. The subscribers were made incorporated members and on July 1, 1899, a special meeting of the Corporation of the Cochato club was held, when a building committee was appointed, and a lot chosen, and $3,000 was appropriated for the lot and $10,000 for the erection of a club house.

THE FINANCES.

From the beginning much thought has been given to the money element of the club problem. The finances of many clubs were thoroughly investigated and much advice was sought. This all seemed to mean that it was most advisable to obtain a loan of reasonable amount to be secured by a first mortgage, and to get the balance of the money needed by selling bonds of a small denomination among the members and friends of the club, these bonds to be secured by a second mortgage on the property of the club.

Here again the disinterested generosity and loyalty of Mr. Wales became a vital support of the undertaking. He loaned the club $7,000 at four per cent, secured by a first mortgage. To obtain the $6,000 the balance needed the directors made arrangements to sell 300 bonds of $20 each, bearing interest at five per cent., to the members and friends of the club, these bonds to be secured by a second mortgage. The bonds have been generously subscribed for as far as the members have been seen and a large part of them have already been taken.

It must not be supposed that this enterprise has been entered upon without a careful consideration of the current incomes and expenses of the club. Every thing has been carefully estimated in detail, on the basis of the receipts and disbursements of other clubs similarly situated, and these estimates give the most undoubted assurance that the treasury of the club will be abundantly able to call in and pay for at least $700 of the second mortgage bonds each year until all of said bonds are cancelled.

Basing these estimates upon an average of one hundred and forty full memberships (a conservative estimate) paying $18 each per year, the receipts afford to make a considerable discount from the regular commission.

Mr. George H. Holbrook of Braintree is the builder. Mr. O. M. Rogers of Braintree is the contractor for the heating and plumbing, and Mr. Frank Lorie of Brockton is the contractor for the cellar and foundation.

The following are the separate items of expense:

Lot of land,	31,480 feet	$3,000.00
Building,		7,548.98
Heating,		1,094.00
Plumbing,		546.47
Cellar and foundation,		600.00
Bowling alleys,		500.00
Architects,		300.00
Total		$13,589.45

At a meeting of the corporation on July 1, 1899, it was voted to authorize the expenditure of $13,000 for the lot and house finished ready for use. The building committee were working under this instruction and they would not have exceeded the authorized sum if a reduction had been possible without taking something from the house that such a club would have great need of. However, the committee were permitted to proceed through a very generous act of Mr. Wales, its chairman and president of the club, who personally obligated himself to pay the overrun of $589.45.

As will be seen from the diagrams the house contains a basement and first and second floors. In the basement are located a boiler and coal room, toilet and bath, a spacious kitchen and pantry, three bowling alleys, gymnasium, place for bicycles, private lockers, and a store room.

On the first floor are a large and attractive reception hall with a large fireplace, library ladies' private parlor with toilet and wardrobe, card room, gentlemen's wardrobe and toilet, office, and billiard room with four tables.

On the second floor are an assembly hall well ventilated and with a seating capacity of 350 persons, a commodious stage adapted to lecture, concert or theatrical use, two ante-rooms for the stage, and two spacious ante-rooms with toilets connected with each at the rear of the hall. A dumb waiter connects the kitchen with the corridor, entering the assembly hall so that dinners may be served conveniently in the hall.

The house has a piazza running nearly the entire length of the north or front side and a large piazza at the east end of the building from which a fine view is had of the adjacent pond and its beautiful wooded environment. There are six entrances; to the basement two at the back and one (especially for bicycles, at the east; to Continued on page 5.

HEAVY LOSS.

Britishers Capture a Boer Stronghold.

Over a Thousand Men Fell During the Onslaught.

Of This Number the Boers Lost Eight Hundred.

Battle Like That of Majuba Hill, but With Results Reversed.

British Consider It 'Impossible to Over-Estimate Result of Initial Victory.

London, Oct. 21.—The dispatches received from South Africa leave no doubt that the Boers failed in their endeavor to execute a combined attack and that the British have achieved a brilliant victory, but at the cost of a heavy list of killed and wounded.

The Boer plan, it is evident, was to hold the force at Ladysmith by demonstrations of the Free State troops on the western side, so as to prevent reinforcements being sent to Glencoe. The latter place was to be isolated by cutting the railway between it and Ladysmith. Finally, a large force was to make a converging attack on Glencoe.

The first two items of the program were successfully carried out, but the combined operation against Glencoe failed, owing, probably, to the fact that the Boer military organization is too rough and amateurish to bring large forces into simultaneous action. It is believed that only 4000 Boers were in actual action. A report says that 9000 more were advancing from Hattingspruit, and a battalion of the Leicester regiment was sent to hold them in check, but this force is now in retreat.

It is almost impossible to overestimate the importance of this initial victory, the result of an engagement in which, on a fairly fought field, discipline and tactical skill have told heavily.

After more than 18 years the Boers and the British have again met, not from Laing's Nek and Majuba Hill, with an entirely different result: even if the defeat does not lead to wholesale desertions from the Boer forces in disgust at the ineptness of their leaders, it has had important results. Besides restoring British prestige, it has proved that the Boer artillery, whether directed by Germans or not, is practically useless.

It is quite possible that the so-called plugged shells were defective melinite shells. On the other hand, it has proved to the Boers that the British artillery is equally efficient. The report that the British captured 17 guns appears to be incorrect.

While expressing sympathy with General Symons and regret that his services are lost to the forces, the editorials in this morning's papers are ringing with songs of victory and ridicule of the Boer threat to drive the British into the sea. The general belief is that the Boers will now confine themselves to guerrilla tactics.

Cape Town is delirious over the victory at Glencoe. The streets are filled with a cheering, half-wild crowd, singing patriotic airs, and "Now We Shall Be Long." The newspaper offices are besieged.

The battle at Glencoe yesterday was a brilliant success. The Boers got a reverse which may possibly, for a time, at any rate, check all aggressive action.

The British artillery practice in the early part of the day decided the battle. The seizure of Dundee hill by the Boers was a surprise, for, although the pickets had been exchanging shots all night, it was not until a shell boomed over the town into the camp that their presence was discovered. Then the shells came fast. The hill was positively alive with swarming Boers. Still the British artillery got to work with magnificent energy and precision. The batteries from the camp took up positions to the south of the town, and after a quarter of an hour's magnificent firing, silenced the guns on the hills.

The correspondent could see shells dropping among the Boer pieces with remarkable accuracy, and doing tremendous execution for the enemy were present in very large numbers and in places considerably exposed.

By this time the enemy held the whole of the hill behind Smith's Farm and the Dundee Koppe, right away to the south, in which direction the British infantry and cavalry moved at once. The firing raged particularly hot at the valley outside the town.

Directly the Boer guns ceased firing, General Symons ordered the infantry to move on the position. The infantry charge was magnificent. The way the King's Royal rifles and the Dublin Fusiliers stormed the position was one of the most splendid sights ever seen.

The firing of the Boers was not so deadly as might have been expected from the troops occupying such an excellent position, but the infantry lost heavily going up the hill, and only the consummately brilliant way in which they were trained to fighting saved them from being swept away.

Indeed, the hill was almost inaccessible to the storming party, and any hesitation would have lost the day. The enemy's guns, so far as the correspondent could see, were all abandoned. For the Boers had no time to remove them. A stream of fugitives poured down the hillside into the valley, where the battle went on with no abatement.

General Symons was wounded early in the action, and the command then devolved upon Major Yule.

The enemy, as they fled, were followed by the cavalry, mounted infantry and artillery. The direction taken was to the eastward. At the latest reports the cavalry had not returned.

Some say that four, and some say five, guns have been captured.

The Boer artillery firing was weak. A lot of plugged shells were used.

Although the enemy's position was carried soon after 1 o'clock, scattered firing went on almost all the afternoon.

The British losses are very severe, but those of the Boers are much heavier. The final rush was made with a triumphant yell, and as the British troops charged to close quarters, the enemy turned and fled, leaving all their impediments and guns behind them in their precipitate flight.

While this was going on, one battery of artillery, the Eighteenth Hussars, and the mounted infantry, with a part of the Leicester regiment, got on the enemy's flank, and as the Boers streamed wildly down the hill, making for the main road, they found their retreat had been cut off, but they rallied for a while and there was severe firing, with considerable loss on both sides. Many of the enemy surrendered.

A rough estimate places the British loss at 250 killed or wounded, and that of the Boers at 800.

A newspaper correspondent states that through his glasses, during the fighting, he noticed how much the Boers seemed to be nonplussed by the tactics of the imperial troops, especially of the well drilled, swift-moving horsemen. The enemy were still as old, a mob. They are without horses or forage, and many of them rely for food upon what they can obtain by looting. Their animals are mostly in a wretched condition.

It is understood that before yesterday's battle several Boers had left their commandos and gone home to their farms, and many others are now likely to follow.

The movement of the commandos in the Utrecht district are somewhat mysterious. It is supposed that they have some idea of getting around between this place and Ladysmith. Many Boers are reported to be falling back on their old position. They have been raising a series of fortifications between Sandspuit and Dannahausen, their object being to contest the grand advance of the imperial troops. Near Sandspuit camp they have a laager with several pieces of artillery and another behind Volksrust. There are guns on Mount Pogwani, overlooking Laing's Nek. Laing's Nek and Ingosong heights are fortified and earthworks have been thrown up and guns left at various places on the way south.

A Glencoe camp correspondent, telegraphing Friday, says: A force of 6000 Boers led by Commandant General Joubert has been defeated severely by a force under General Symons, and the enemy at this moment are in full retreat. Nobody in the camp save General Symons and his staff were aware that the Boers intended to attack this morning, and that he would get within three miles of this position before making his presence known to all concerned. It was known, however, that the enemy were advancing still further south, and it was seen that unusual precautions had been taken to guard against a surprise during the night.

Just after dawn the Boer artillery opened fire from Glencoe hill. The range was ill-judged and the quality of the ammunition bad. During two hours and a half scarcely a half dozen shells burst within our lines. Our guns, on the contrary, made excellent practice, which soon began to tell upon the enemy.

At 7:30 General Symons ordered a general advance of the infantry brigade, which he himself accompanied.

The Dublin fusiliers were well in front, with the King's Royal rifles on the right and the Leicestershire regiment on the left. The men advanced smartly, taking advantage of every bit of cover, tactics in which they had been exercised for weeks past.

The advance was covered by a terrific fire from our three batteries, and several Boer guns were silenced before the fusiliers began to climb the hill. By the time the fusiliers and Royal rifles got within 1000 yards of the crest the Boer batteries had been completely silenced, our own guns having pounded them at 2500 yards range with crushing effect.

The Boers, meantime, were keeping up a heavy rifle fire, which thinned our ranks considerably. By 9 o'clock the fusiliers and Royal rifles had swarmed over the hill and the Boers were on the run.

Meantime, the Eighteenth Hussars and all the colonial mounted infantry and the Leicestershire regiment had been moved north and east, thus practically cutting off the Boer main line of retreat; and the enemy, caught between two fires, lost heavily.

At this moment fighting is going on still, but the defeat of the enemy is already complete and crushing, and it looks as though few would escape.

Our losses are probably 300 killed or wounded, and that of the Boers three times as many.

Messages from Kimberley, dated Oct. 17, say that the Boers still occupy their position at Spytfontein. They are lifting cattle and devastating everything. An Englishman, with a Free State permit, who was temporarily detained near Kimberley, reports that the Boers have large flocks and herds.

Lorenzo Marques is overcrowded with refugees, almost all of whom are without money. They are compelled to sleep in the open. Many of them are English. The inhabitants are quite unable to cope with the distress.

Having gone into committee of supply, the parliamentary under secretary of state for war, Mr. Wyndham, introduced in the house of commons yesterday the supplementary army estimates, and explained the need of them. The Irish members and Henry Labouchere alone opposed the estimates.

On the announcement to the house by Mr. Balfour that General Symonds was wounded all the members uncovered, the debate was stopped and a vote of £10,000,000 was carried, the result being announced as 271 for and 32 against the credit.

The house then adjourned.

A ROLL OF RED TAPE.

THE CIRCUMLOCUTION OF THE ENGLISH POSTOFFICE.

Travelings and Troubles of a Citizen of the Great Metropolis in His Attempt to Mail a Little Package For Delivery in New York.

In this greatest of all cities, London, there is a place called St. Martin's le Grand, and in St. Martin's le Grand there is an institution which fills both sides of the street and in which every man, woman and child of these blessed islands has more or less of a peculiar interest. It is called the general post-office and is presided over by the latest of a long line of illustrious dukes and is really a very great concern indeed.

Well, I went there the other day. I did not go on some extraordinary errand, or to disconcert the officials with questions as to the rules and regulations. As a matter of fact, I went to post a packet of photographs.

Now, it is a remarkable fact that although I have lived in London for a good many years I had never previously posted anything at the general post-office. I should not have done so on this occasion but for the fact that the clerk at my local office had got a more than usually acute attack of asininity and could not tell me for the life of him what to do to get my modest packet of photographs off by that evening's mail to New York.

It wanted just five minutes to the closing time for the American mail when I arrived, hot and breathless with my rapid walk, in St. Martin's le Grand. I wanted three things, my parcel weighed, the necessary stamps and information as to where to post it. Now, at most postoffices when you require stamps you make your way to a door in the immediate vicinity of the posting slots, where you find the room devoted to their sale.

Not so at the London general post-office. I approached the nearest door. A red braided official sitting on a sack asked what I wanted.

"Stamps," I said.

"You'll get them in the building across the street," he answered.

Dodging across the street, therefore, at the usual risk of life which attends such a performance in this greatest of all cities, I ran into a room and up to a long counter, and, seeing close at hand a notice bearing the legend, "Late fee, foreign parcels," I made for it and asked the clerk to kindly "tell me how much that would take."

He told me to apply half way down the counter. I did so, and, after weighing my packet, another clerk told me it would take a two penny halfpenny stamp.

"And the late fee?" I queried.

"Oh, do you want it to go by this mail? Oh, all right. Another halfpenny."

"Where must I post it?" I asked.

"Outside, across the street," he replied.

Glancing at the clock, I rushed out and, diving across the thoroughfare, began a careful study of the various posting slots to discover which particular one was for the reception of late fee packets for the foreign mail. I studied in vain, and, catching sight of another red braided official in a corner, I asked him to direct me. After a look at my packet he said:

"Hand it over the counter across the street."

With a remark not loud, but deep, I once more dodged the traffic, charged up the steps, upsetting two men and a boy on the way, and thrust my parcel over that brass railing which the authorities with much prudence and foresight have instituted in these establishments obviously to protect the so-called officials from the righteous fury of an outraged public.

"What is it?" asked the clerk.

"I assure you," I replied, "that this is a packet of photographs, tied round with string and directed to New York."

"Well, you must post it across the street," he said.

Steeling myself to a frightful calmness, I explained to him that I had already been three times across the street over that same packet, but that nevertheless I would cheerfully cross it a dozen times if the regulations of her majesty's service so directed. He seemed hurt a little at my remarks, but finally asked to have a closer look at the packet. At last:

"Take it to the other end of the counter," he directed, "and ask the man there."

I did so, and, after answering one or two further assinine queries as well as my trembling sanity would allow, it was accepted, and so at last I succeeded in posting a packet of photographs to New York.

And this is a true story from "the greatest city in the world."—London Cor. New York Mail and Express.

Frenchwoman's Way of Lacing.

In the first place, silk corset strings are invariably used. They are not much more expensive than the cotton ones and give far more satisfactory results. Three separate laces are required. The top one is laced loosely to give ease and fullness to the bust. The second one, which is shorter, is pulled very tight to compress the waist line only, and the third, that shapes the hips, is looser than the second, but tighter than the first. One long string may be used instead of three by leaving it loose at the top and knotting it where it tightens above and below the waist line, then tying more loosely at the bottom. Most of the apparent flexibility of Yvette Guilbert's figure depended upon the secret of this peculiar lacing.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The debris left from coral made into articles of jewelry, etc., is crushed, scented and sold as a tooth powder at a high price by Italian performers.

A RANCH GIRL'S SUCCESS.

At the Head of a Department in a Big New York Concern.

Miss Elizabeth Willmarth is a clever Chicago girl, a graduate of the Art institute, who has recently had artistic honors thrust upon her.

Several weeks ago this young woman went to New York to do some specimen designing for Tiffany, wishing for a position at some future time. The splendid result of three weeks' work is did result of a new and important department of designing. This is all the more interesting when it is known Miss Willmarth is a charming "young person" who is not yet of age.

The special department over which Miss Willmarth has charge pays particular attention to iridescent enameling, suddenly popular with people of long purses. The department also includes metal work in silver, bronze and

MISS ELIZABETH WILLMARTH.

As is customary, she makes a tiny model, which is subjected to the criticism of Mr. Tiffany, after which it is executed full size.

"It is most fascinating work," Miss Willmarth writes enthusiastically to a Chicago woman, "under the most favorable and artistic surroundings. Nothing takes too long, costs too much or is too much trouble to produce."

Miss Willmarth's position is particularly pleasing to the Art institute people, among whom she was considered an unusually bright student. Three years ago she graduated, since which time she has been doing designing with Chicago firms. She was born on a western ranch and lived in Denver until she came to Chicago, at the time of the World's fair.

Miss Willmarth will come to Chicago for a short time in December, after which she will return permanently to New York.—Chicago Times-Herald

The Book Tea.

The latest craze is the book tea. A number of guests—the sexes equally represented—are asked to afternoon tea, and each is to wear a badge denoting a book. The book is not necessarily a novel, though the run is on novels, nor is it necessarily a modern book, though these are more generally selected. The badge, which is a little toy, must express the title of the book. The guests arrive decorated, supplying and wearing their own decorations, and each has to guess the titles of all the others. Some people are very stupid at it, some very quick. And there is skill, too, not only in guessing the titles, but in making the orders. There are two prizes—one for the guest who guesses most and one for the guest whose badge has been most difficult to interpret. Much tea and some time are consumed, and men and women show themselves to be children of a larger growth.

Women Dentists.

Miss Louisa Aldrich Blake of the New Hospital For Women is the first woman master of surgery of London university, and it is worth recording that the Royal College of Surgeons of Ireland four years ago conferred a fellowship on a woman, Miss Emily W. Dickson, daughter of a former M. P. The first lady dentist in London was Miss R. G. Halliday, a fully qualified dental surgeon. Miss Halliday, who assists her father in a large practice, has very few lady colleagues in England, but America, according to the last census, has considerably over 300 lady dentists. Chicago alone boasting 15. There are many ladies in England, however, who carry on successful businesses as chemists, and several London hospitals employ female dispensers.

A Remarkable Woman.

The Baroness Burdett-Connors some time ago passed her eighty-fourth birthday. As the baroness is the only woman on whom the queen has conferred a peerage, she is "the second lady in the land," or, to use the words of the Prince of Wales, "after my mother the Baroness Burdett-Connors is the most remarkable woman in England." Her fortune, 13 tons of English sovereigns (£1,800,000), came to her quite unexpectedly when 23 years of age from her grandfather, Countess, the banker, who married an accomplished actress. For the last 60 years the baroness has been dispensing her wealth unostentatiously, but with the lavishness of an Indian nabob.

Travel in Simple Clothes.

The same rule of avoiding conspicuous effects applies to traveling as well as walking in the street. When a woman travels alone, she should try never to attract attention in any way. The best sort of costume to wear when going on a journey is a dark blue or black serge skirt and jacket with cotton or silk shirt waist and dark hat or bonnet. For summer a delightfully cool traveling costume is made of brown linen and worn with a dark blue muslin shirt waist or any cotton or wash silk waist.

CUP REMAINS

Testimonial of Yankee Ingenuity and Skill.

Columbia Was Superior In the Run and Windward Beats.

Challenger Satisfied That He Was Fairly Beaten.

Glorious Victory For the American Yacht and a Yankee Crew.

Last Race of Series Sailed In a Gale, and Ends With Best of Good Feeling.

New York, Oct. 21.—Columbia won again on Friday, defeating Shamrock by a wide margin, and the America's cup stays in this country. Friday's race started more auspiciously than any other since the beginning of the series. The wind was strong, blowing over the course at the rate of 20 miles or more an hour. At Sandy Hook at one time the wind was reported to be blowing at the rate of 30 miles an hour. Shamrock was vanquished by 6 minutes and 18 seconds actual time and 6 minutes and 34 seconds corrected time, thus completing the series for the America's cup with a magnificent rough weather duel and a glorious Yankee victory.

THE AMERICA'S CUP.

For the eleventh time the attempt of a foreigner to wrest from America the yachting supremacy of the world has failed. The trophy won by old schooner America 48 years ago is still ours, a monument to the superiority of American seamanship and American naval architecture and a perpetual challenge to the yachtsmen of all nations.

To Sir Thomas Lipton, whose name is now added to the list of defeated aspirants for the honor of carrying the cup back across the Atlantic, failure was a severe blow. But, as he is a true sportsman, the sting of defeat has left no bitterness, and he intimates that he may be back next year with a better boat to try again. During his stay here Sir Thomas has made himself more popular than any previous challenger, and the yachtsmen of this country will be glad to welcome him back.

Except for the repeated flukes and the accident to the challenger on Tuesday, the series of races has been unmarred by a single untoward incident. The boats have had two fair and square races, one in light airs and the other in a heavy blow, and Sir Thomas is satisfied that he was beaten by the better boat.

Friday's race was a fine test of the rough weather qualities of the two big sloops. There was too much frostiness in the air for comfort, and it was far too rough for landlubbers. The sky was overcast with gray clouds and a chilling wind was blowing out of the northeast. The ocean was a riot of white caps. Some of the holiday fleet declined to go outside, and those that did rolled and plunged in the tumbling billows, ending all but the old salts below.

The prayer of Sir Thomas for wind was answered. It was blowing 25 miles an hour at the lights, enough wind and enough sea to make any racing machine stagger. Even the pilot boats were under shortened sail.

The course, 15 miles before the wind, south by west, carried the yachts straight down the Jersey coast to a point off Long Branch, so that the race was sailed in plain view of the thousands perched upon the heights of Navesink and along the shore from Seabright to Asbury Park. The crew of Columbia were looking on with interest, and the crew of Shamrock were white canvas. It was blowing too hard for clubtop-sails, and both skippers contented themselves with hoisting small working topsails.

Both yachts sped across the starting line before the 25-knot breeze wing and wing, with their spinnakers breaking out. Shamrock was over a minute and one second before the defender. But this was not due to superior seamanship, Captain Barr held off for that length of time after Shamrock crossed in order that he might get the position astern, where he could have an opportunity to blanket his rival.

Columbia carried her spinnaker boom at an angle of almost 45 degrees. This allowed the big sail to belly far out forward and draw like a locomotive. But it was rather dangerous, and twice an extra puff of wind carried the sail forward and up until it tumbled over the stay. But the Deer Isle sailors each time had it back in place in a jiffy. Shamrock had no such mishap, as Hogarth carried his boom much lower. The Yankee trick, however, did its work, lifting the head of Columbia out of the water until she seemed to be skimming over the surface. The excursion fleet were chasing after the yachts as fast as their steam would carry them. But the big sloops set so hot a pace that they left half the tugboats and small steam yachts astern. They were going at a 1-knot clip, the Yankee slowly but surely, inch by inch, overhauling her rival. Closer and closer she drew, dead astern of the challenger, hopping with her canvas to shut off her rival's wind.

When Columbia had crept up to within striking distance, Shamrock crowded on a little more canvas, setting a baby jib-top-sail, and for 10 minutes she seemed to hold the American even. Both were going very swiftly. As the yachts approached the outer mark it was seen that Columbia was again picking up on Shamrock.

At 12:10, half a mile from the mark, the Bristol boat got alongside the challenger, and neck and neck they bowed down for the float. Three minutes later, when they took in their spinnakers preparatory to gybing, Columbia was a length in the lead and footing like mad.

The yachts swept around the mark, Columbia 17 seconds ahead, but so close that one cheer from the fleet answered for both. Columbia had gained a minute and 18 seconds in the 15-mile run.

As they leaned away on the starboard tack for the beat home, Columbia was to windward, and about a length ahead. With their sheets trimmed aft, they surged into the head seas, sending the brine smoking high as the spreaders. They careened until their lee rails were awash in the waves. Oceans of spray came over, and occasionally both shipped solid crests of water forward. Everything aboard was wet and dripping.

Seldom has there been such a smashing sea under the bows of cup contestants. Shamrock labored more than Columbia. Once or twice she buried her bows in the seas, wetting her headsails. Ten minutes of this satisfied the patriots that the defender was much superior to Shamrock in rough weather windward work as she was in the lighter airs. She pointed almost a point higher than her rival, and footed just as fast.

Columbia had housed her working topsail before they turned the mark, but Shamrock held on until, in the freshening winds, it was deemed dangerous to carry it longer, and a sailor was sent aloft to lower it. It was a delicate job, with the big 90-footer bucking into the jumping sea like a broncho, but after five minutes of hard work it was accomplished.

On every tack of the thrash to windward, the Yankee increased her lead, sailing so close that the old salts said she could "wipe the eye of the wind." At 1:45 Columbia was leading by a quarter of a mile. The situation for Shamrock was desperate, and the British skipper decided to crowd on more canvas. After some trouble he succeeded in setting a small clubtop-sail.

Columbia kept on under mainsail, stay and jib. The challenger leaned over under the press of canvas until her decks were at an angle of 30 degrees. Her speed was undoubtedly increased, but her inability to point lost her almost as much as she gained in footing. Then she resorted to spitting tactics, once running close in shore under the Navesink highlands. A slight cant in the wind favored her at this time, and she managed to close up the gap, until little more than half a mile separated her from Columbia. Soon after the wind slackened a little, and thereafter Shamrock lost rather than gained ground. All the excursion boats at this time were bucking into the head seas for home. But the pace was too hot, and not half the fleet was in it at the finish.

The rush of the racers on the final tack was magnificent. Geysers spouted from the bows, and drenched the sailors lying piled up against the weather rail. As the Yankee shot across the finish between the lightship and the committee boat, the whistles of the fleet screamed loud applause.

The challenger raced across five minutes and seven seconds later. Shamrock got a noisier reception than the champion as she finished, perhaps because some of the belated vessels had got up.

A grand spectacle followed. The victor, after lowering her sails, set the Stars and Stripes at her topmast truck, at both ends of her spreader, and at the taffrail. Soon the whole fleet blossomed out in American flags. They flew from every staff and gaff and mast.

The Corsair, the flagship of the New York Yacht club, had six slapping in the stiff breeze, as she went alongside Columbia and gave her three shrieking blasts. The crew cheered, and the Deer Isle men aboard Columbia responded with bared heads. Every ship in the excursion fleet followed, turning loose whistles and sirens in a maddening chorus. Some of the excursion boats kept their whistles going half way to New York. Later Erin steamed up to Columbia, the Stars and Stripes fluttering from main and mizzen. The Corsair greeted her with cannon, which Sir Thomas acknowledged by dipping the English jack at the taffrail. Then the crew of Erin lined the rail and gave three cheers for the victors. The cheers were returned with interest by the crew of Columbia.

The American yacht was first to reach her mooring buoy inside the Hook, and when her late rival came up, the two, the sailors of both cheered each other lustily. Later Sir Thomas went aboard the Corsair, and there, soon afterwards, Mr. Jellin joined him. There were toasts to victor and vanquished, to America and to all sorts of things, and so, with felicitations all around, the cup series for 1899 ended, with the best of good feeling.

Sir Thomas Lipton bore his defeat like the gentleman and sportsman that he is. "The better boat won," he said, "and that is as it should be, and has always been in the races for America's cup."

Former Mayor Strong and a number of prominent business men and Wall street men have sent out a call for subscriptions for the purpose of presenting Sir Thomas Lipton a magnificent loving cup, as a token of the esteem in which he is held by the American people. It is proposed to have the presentation held at Madison Square garden, and to have Senator Dewey make the public presentation speech. A committee for the purpose has been selected, of which Mayor Strong is temporary chairman.

HE STILL USES TOBACCO.

Yet His Wife Made a Faithful Effort to Reform Him.

"It will only be necessary for you to drop about half a teaspoonful of the mixture into his cup of coffee each morning," the circular said, "and the taste for tobacco will gradually depart from him. He may not cease the use of tobacco immediately, but within a week he will begin to abhor tobacco if the mixture is given to him faithfully every morning."

And so the young wife sent her little $2 on and got a flagon of the tobacco cure.

"Pretty bum coffee this morning," he remarked dryly the first time she dropped the half teaspoonful of the mixture into his cup.

"It's the same as we've been using right along," she replied craftily.

Now, lo and behold, he was a pretty smooth proposition himself, and he had, unbeknownst to her, seen the package holding the flagon of agn tobacco mixture when it was delivered.

So after dinner that evening he produced a large, bulky package of fine cut from his pocket and took therefrom a plenteous chew of tobacco. It was the first chew he had ever taken in her presence, and she marvelled greatly thereat, but she determined to persist with the "treatment."

"Dead rank chicory again this morning, isn't it?" he inquired at breakfast the next morning.

"I'm sure it tastes the same to me," she replied.

That evening after dinner he produced a short, black clay pipe and a package of a new kind of tobacco that was as black as the groundwork of a Jolly Roger.

"Thought I'd bring this old dunder up from the office," he explained cheerily. "It's as sweet as a nut."

Whereupon he filled the house with the aroma of punk that was strong enough to break rock.

"This grocery person who gets all of my wages is certainly doing us on the coffee game," he remarked when he tasted his cup the next morning.

"Really," she said, gazing innocently at the 10 cent bunch of asters in the middle of the table, "I can't detect any difference."

"And yet there are low foreheaders who don't believe that all women aren't actresses," said he to himself on the way to his office that morning.

That evening he brought home a box of auction stogies, and after he had smoked one of them after dinner all of the people in the neighboring flats stuffed cotton in the hall door keyholes and closed the hall transoms.

"I must persist, though," thought his baffled little wife gloomily.

"Coffee tastes like stewed gunny sacks again this morning," he remarked at the next breakfast. She felt a bit sorry for him, but she was determined to use up that flagon of agn tobacco if she had to chloroform him and pour it down his throat.

That evening, however, her resolution deserted her.

After dinner, for the first time to her knowledge, he pulled out a package of cigarettes, lit one and began to smoke it.

She went up stairs, poured out the remaining portion of her $2 worth of agn tobacco and carefully hid the bottle.

"Coffee's all right this morning," said he at breakfast the next day.

"Yes," she inquired absently. When he noticed his dinner that evening, he lighted one of his usual brand of good cigars.

"Men are mysterious to me," she thought, regarding him out of the tail of her eye.

"Women only think they're foxes," he thought, blowing heavy smoke rings into the swiss curtains.—Washington Post.

The Ideal Physician.

The attitude of the true physician has been most admirably delineated by the master hand of that fine exemplar of his profession, Dr. Osler, in an address delivered to the students of Albany Medical college. "Be careful," he said, "when you get into practice to cultivate equally well your hearts and your heads. There is a strong feeling abroad that we doctors are given nowadays to science, that we care much more for the disease and the scientific aspects of it than for the individual. I don't believe it, but at any rate, whether there is that tendency or not, I would urge upon you in your practice in the future to care more particularly for the individual patient than for the special features of the disease."

"I am sure all of you must feel, even those of you who have only been a single term in the professional work, that you have entered upon a profession that appeals both to the heart and to the head. Dealing as we do with poor, suffering humanity, we see the man unmasked, exposed to all the frailties and weaknesses, and you have got to keep your heart pretty soft and pretty tender not to get too great a contempt for your fellow creatures. The best way to do that is to keep a looking glass in your hearts, and the more carefully you scan your own frailties the more tender you are for the frailties of your fellow creatures."—Philadelphia Medical Journal.

Adding Insult to Injury.

The day had been appointed for the ceremony which was to make one of two, but some freak of frivolous fortune had caused her to relinquish the glittering solitaire.

"Oh, well," he said, "I don't suppose a man could ever be happy with a wife who dyes her hair anyhow."

"That's false," she exclaimed indignantly. "Yes, I guess it is, now that I look at it closely," he replied, "but at first I thought it was dyed."—Chicago News.

Mrs. H. D. Money

Wife of U. S. Senator Money, of Mississippi, says:

"Fairy Soap is an elegant hand soap, lathering freely, and is sweet and fresh in its effect upon the person. Some soaps do not leave a clean, pleasant odor, while fragrant enough in using. Fairy Soap is especially nice for delicate organdies, effectively removing perspiration stains which is difficult to do except with strong soaps, which usually fade the colors. I like Fairy Soap very much, indeed."

SUPERIMPOSED TURRETS.

Idea Was Conceived by Lieutenant Strauss of the Navy.

Rear Admiral Sampson has been given the credit of the invention known as the superimposed turret with which the battleships Kearsarge and Kentucky are fitted. When the superimposed turret was approved, Admiral Sampson was at the head of the ordnance bureau, and its trial was ordered in an experimental way. But the person who conceived the idea and worked it out was Lieutenant Joseph Strauss, a young Virginian, who has a remarkable knowledge of ordnance matters, says a Washington dispatch to the Philadelphia Ledger.

The introduction of such turrets was so wide a departure from the ordinary system that it was claimed by its opponents the plan would prove a failure and the ships be far less formidable than the Iowa or Indiana class. Since these vessels were built, ordnance experts have been favorably disposed toward the new turret, and it is predicted the most satisfactory results will be obtained from them.

Lieutenant Strauss, the real inventor of the turret, was an ensign when the Kearsarge and Kentucky were being considered and on duty in the ordnance bureau here. He developed while at Annapolis a decided turn for ordnance and his inventions are now among the most valuable in use in the navy. Lieutenant Strauss, without suggestion from any one, drew up designs for the turrets and presented them to Rear Admiral Sampson, who was not inclined to treat them at first with much consideration. As the value of the system was presented by Strauss the admiral saw that a design for mounting heavy guns on shipboard had been suggested entirely different from that adopted by any power and at once placed it before the bureau chiefs, who were then considering plans for the ships. A prolonged controversy ensued, there being strong differences of opinion regarding the merits of the proposed system. Finally it was adopted and applied to the Kearsarge and Kentucky.

GIRL LOST HER VOICE.

Result of a Playful Birthday Beating by Friends.

Miss Gertrude Orum of New Albany, Ind., has lost her voice from a remarkable cause. She is employed at a local factory and, on going to work recently, told several friends it was her birthday, says the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune. They playfully began beating her, according to custom.

They were so numerous that the fun was probably carried too far. When they ceased, they were horrified to find that Miss Orum could not speak. She is still unable to utter a sound, and physicians say her spinal cord is affected.

While all kick at the size of the sewer assessments, there are some who have good reason, because extensions were made where they were not wanted and not needed. Perhaps one of the best illustrations is the exten-

as if the extensions should be made largely upon petition.

recognized in that territory as fully as it is recognized in every other territory, belonging to the American government."

to begin life anew it is doing a most meritorious work. This must have been the opinion of all who attended the reception there yesterday afternoon.—
Brookton Times.

The appeal of Gov. Wolcott to make Saturday of last week a public holiday in Boston was not unheeded.
Business houses were generally closed and patriotic impulse was given in full sway. Admiral Dewey was the centre of attraction, and was the great object lesson of the hour. It is well. Nations exist and are perpetuated not altogether through selfish consideration
but by the cultivation of unity of purpose and feeling.—Barnstable Patriot

In reading and reflecting upon news of the war in South Africa, it must be remembered before coming to a decision that every word of news comes from British sources, and tinged with British opinions, and British hopes; surrounded by foreign powers,
it is impossible for the South African republic to let the world know how it is progressing in its battle against imperial encroachment and the world must take as news of the war what the British authorities choose to make public.—Worcester Telegram.

Let us not overlook the fact that these men of wealth on both sides of the ocean who make the international yacht races possible are distinct public benefactors—greater benefactors, perhaps, than if they gave the money they are spending to educational, charitable or religious institutions. To say nothing of the value of the experiments in yacht construction to the builders of merchant vessels and passenger boats, the races themselves turn the thoughts of millions of people into wholesome directions and give them an active interest in a healthful sport that is good for the mind and soul of man. In perhaps no other way could the expenditure of equal sums of money

bring beneficial pleasure directly to so many people.—Providence Journal.

Today we enjoy practically a complete victory of liberal theology,
thanks to such men as Hosea Ballou and their life work. It is certainly a pleasing duty to chronicle a change of public sentiment in favor of liberal theology without in any way having to refer to a falling off of Christian boldness or absolute loyalty to Jesus Christ. Boston may well welcome the members of a Christian convention which represents a denomination which has fought the battle of liberalism by prudent methods and without extreme zeal which, while removing one evil, planted another.—Haverhill
Gazette.

The woman who belongs to the Audobon society finds much comfort in the published statement of a large dealer in feathers; that the wings
of birds and ornaments used in hats
are almost entirely made from dyed chicken feathers, which are carefully glued into shape. Investigation has in several individual cases shown that this was true. The bird bills were of paper mache, and the feathers were arranged in overlapping rows. Undoubtedly the public sentiment against the wholesale slaughter of the "little brothers of the air" has had an effect.—Bangor Commercial.

There are defeats and defeats.
A man may be a candidate for a position and fail to secure it, but his candidacy may bring out so many compliments, and so many warm endorsements that, though defeated, he has made a substantial gain. Such a defeat was that of Gen Curtis Guild for lieutenant-governor, who, though not selected for that high office, has so conducted himself as to have won a great victory.—New England Farmer.

New Trains.

By the new timetable of the N. Y., N. H. & H. R. R., which goes into effect on Sunday, Quincy gets a new inward and a new outward train on week days. Both are good trains, stopping only at Wollaston and Neponset. While Quincy people would have been pleased with still more trains
they are thankful for the small favor received.

The new inward train leaves Quincy
at 7.56 A. M., Wollaston at 8 o'clock, and arrives in Boston at 8.15.

The new outward train leaves Boston
at 5.45 P. M., and arrives at Wollaston at 6.01 and Quincy at 6.06.

The new timetable will appear in Monday's Ledger.

Several changes will be made in the Plymouth Division service, in connection with trains to points on the South Shore and Plymouth Branches. One additional morning train and two evening trains will be run to stations on the Shawmut Branch, with two additional morning and one evening trains from those points to Boston.

Trains will leave Boston for points on Cape Cod Division at 7.38 A. M., 1.08, 4.08 and 5.08 P. M. Returning, will arrive in Boston at 8.52 and 10.22 A.
M., 12.52 and 6.52 P. M. Connections for Cottage City will be made from 7.38 A. M. and 1.08 P. M. trains, and for Nantucket from the 7.38 A. M. train.

Other changes will be made, for which passengers are referred to posters, and leaflets which may now be obtained at the station.

WAS IT MURDER?

Skeleton Found Connected With One.

Were the remains of a human being,
found on Field street yesterday by employees of the water department, those of some person murdered years ago and buried when that street was a field, or were they the remains of one of the tribe of Indians who in the early days roamed through Quincy? These two questions are being discussed by many this morning. By some, the finding of the skeleton recalls the murder of a sailor at Brackett's wharf years ago but as yet nothing additional has been found to form any link that would connect the two.

As stated in Friday's Ledger the two leg bones found were small and are of the size that anatomists would say belonged to a woman. On the other hand the teeth found were very large and it seems hardly probable that they could have belonged to a woman of modern times, yet they may have been such as an Indian woman might have had.

The one modern thing found with the skeleton was a heel of a woman's shoe. This was not a large heel but of the size usually worn by women today.
The leather was hard and the elements apparently had not acted upon it in any way. It had not been worn a great deal for the top lift was level, while usually one expects to find the heel of a shoe worn on one side.

It is of course possible that this heel got mixed with the bones in some manner, after the body had been buried. It is possible that an old shoe might have been thrown into the original field or street and that in digging up and filling the street it was buried and that when the street was opened Friday it might in some manner have fallen unnoticed from near the surface of the earth to where it was found.

Workmen are at work again upon
the street today and before they complete their work something may be unearthed that will furnish a connecting link with the bones found Friday. In the meantime the bones repose peacefully in an old box at the Water department work shop.

A Cold Day.

The temperature at noon today was 43 degrees, which is thirteen degrees cooler than a year ago. It is also noteworthy that the coldest day at noon in October last year was Oct. 29,
when the temperature was 45 degrees at noon. This was two degrees warmer today. It is also worthy of note, that the coldest day in October in 1897
was 44 degrees, which was on the 30th, and in 1896 the coldest day was 48, on the 19th.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Heavy frost this morning.
Afternoon tides next week.
Nov. 1 will be All Saint's day.
Oct. 31 will be All-Hallows eve.
Not many weeks to Thanksgiving.
A beautiful sunrise this morning.
The sun now rises after six o'clock.
State election two weeks from next Tuesday.

Screen doors are called in. Likewise
winow screens and awnings.

The sudden change in the weather
today makes overcoats a necessity.

The Old Farmer's Almanac predicts a cold rain the middle of next week.

The Social Six of Atlantic held a

evening a series of addresses on Congre-gationalism, his subject being: "When Congregationalism was a crime."

Rt. Wor Charles B. Lawrence, D. D.
G. M., of the 24th Masonic district will make an official visit to Rural lodge at a special communication, Oct. 26.

There will be quartette singing at the Wollaston Unitarian church Sunday morning, and the sermon will be by Rev. F. K. Gifford of Somerville.

H. H. Moody of Norfolk square, East Braintree, has a five years' lease of the old ship yard, at the end of River street, Quincy. Ambros Lelois was the builder at this yard for many years.

The stormy weather Friday prevented a large attendance at the auction sale of lots at Greenleaf park.
There, however, was a fairly good crowd and several lots were sold.

The names of Philip J. Halvosa and

BOSTON ELECTRIC SWITCH CO.

R. T. JOHNSON, President. A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.
Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

LOVE AND DEATH.

Two, from the Heights of Quiet,
Come one day to me;
Two, Love and Death, come hither,
Come once and not again.

I turned, looked every whither,
Nothing could I see;
But, as the high God liveth,
One came from him to me.

She came with touch and odor
Of a summer breath—
Came, as shall come the other,
The second angel, Death.

Swiftly my soul unfolded,
Flashed and reached aside;
It drank the pouring glory
Of heaven's summertime.

I reckon not the seasons,
The years that fall and flow;
Life filled her cup and spilled it
That hour long, long ago.

Since none has met me seeking
Up and down the ways;
Love comes no more forever
In all the coming days.

And surely I shall find me,
Whether I rest or roam,
The other kindly angel—
Come to take me home!

THE MONUMENT.

A Lazy, Handsome, Obstinate Man Marries a Confiding Girl of Seventeen. Query: What Becomes of the Girl?

I think I may fairly claim to know more of Monty's peculiarities than most people, for I have known him all my life.

Therefore, when he told me one afternoon that he was going to be married,
I felt in a position to pity the girl from the bottom of my heart. "Monty," by the way, is a contraction of "Monument," a name I specially invented, as summing up nearly both his physical and mental aspect.

He is tall and extremely handsome,
after the style of the later and more degenerate Greek gods, bearing on every feature and in every movement
the stamp of languor and of laziness.

He is indolence personified, and, indeed, if you take that away, there remains little or nothing but obstinacy (with a big O). This combination, blended together by a thick solution of self complacency, produces, metaphorically speaking, a stone wall.

You cannot argue with him; he will neither be convinced himself nor at the trouble of convincing you. You cannot interest him against his will,
and he seldom wishes to be interested.
Finally you cannot even have the satisfaction of quarrelling with him, for he will not be roused, and looks on your supreme efforts to anger him with the easy tolerance of a victorious Perseus watching Medusa's snaky locks in-twine themselves around his fingers and strive to make him relax his hold.

At one moment of our lives he would have had me believe in his lordly way that he was not unwilling to link my destiny with his. But, strange to relate, I remained unmoved by the golden prospect of his companionship, protracted indefinitely—perhaps eternally
—and his tentative hints lapsed easily into oblivion. To return to the afternoon in question. Being aware of his artistic temperament, I naturally jumped to the conclusion that his choice
had fallen on "a daughter of the gods."
"Oh, no," he said in his slow way,
"a beautiful woman is delightful to look at, but not to marry. She would be impossible to manage."

"Then is she young?" I asked, though
my curiosity was somewhat damped.
"Just 17," he observed thoughtfully
and was surprised at my exclamation.
"But, my dear Monty, you are old enough to be!"

"Excuse me, Mimmie, I would rather
she were still younger. Marry a child, and you may hope to educate her into the wife you would cherish in your old age."

"Oh!" I gasped. "Then what is she like?"

"Inclined to be frivolous, but I shall soon remedy that. The poor girl is only too glad to find a man who is not hunting her for her paltry five or six hundred a year."

That I could readily believe, and, in justice to Monty, I must say that money, as mere money, does not in the least appeal to him. Perhaps that is because he has always had enough to be comfortable.

But he was not a good lover. He was even then far more interested in the academy than in his fiancée's charms.
There were three or four portraits of lovely women that he spoke of in a way that made me glad the originals
did not come within his sphere of acquaintance—for the girl's sake.

He did not carry her photo in his pocket. It took him several moments of hard thought to remember her address, and—"When you are intimate enough to call her by her Christian name," he remarked, "please call her Euphemia and not Effie."

"Why?" I asked, determined on no account to do so.
"Because," he answered impressively,
"Effie is too insignificant for a married woman, and I have a strong objection to pet names."

"When," I inquired sternly, "when did you ever in the whole course of our lives call me by my baptismal name?"
Monty smiled indulgently.

"That is different. You are not going to be my wife."

I confess I reveled in this consoling thought, for nothing in the world could ever reconcile me to the peculiar atrocity of my name, and if its full hideousness were to be the hourly accompaniment of my married life I should be afraid of the consequences. It is Jemima. Now, you may say, and with perfect truth, that "Mimmie" is not particularly melodious, but at least you will admit that nothing could be worse than Jemima and anything might be better.

"By the way," said Monty after a pause, "I believe there was a time
when I had a fancy for you, Mimmie, and thought you might not make me a bad wife."

"There may have been," I answered calmly, "for I can distinctly remember a time when I decided that certainly you would make me a bad husband."

And Monty bestowed upon me one of those all forgiving, albeit sad, glances that are so abominably irritating when one is trying one's best to snub him.

After Monty's casual remarks I was surprised to find Effie a nice looking girl, though with, of course, no pretensions to the Junoesque that Monty demands of his ideal woman. She was young, indeed, but had an old fashioned way with her that was infinitely attractive. I had guessed intuitively that she had neither father nor mother, although many people might say that this was judging my cousin too hardly. Her guardians were an elderly uncle and aunt, who didn't mind
what she did so long as she didn't worry them, so I was glad to help her with her trousseau and see as much of her as possible.

I soon discovered that Monty objected
to her having so many friends.
"Lancelot," as she was made to call him, thought "gadding about" showed "empty headedness."

"But, my dear child," I exclaimed,
"he surely doesn't expect you to drop your friends just because you are going to marry him? Why, you will want them more than ever. What do you suppose you'll do when he's at work all day?"

"Then he hasn't told you he's going to resign the partnership?" said Effie timidly.

My heart froze, and the fact must have been clearly evident to her, for she hastened to add, "You don't think he spoils me too much, do you, in giving it up for my sake?"

And the recording angel should put it to my credit that I only answered:
"Effie, if he ever spoils you let me know."

Yesterday I tackled him.

"What do you mean," I asked, "by retiring from business at your age?"

"And why not?" he said. "Isn't a husband's place at his wife's side?"

"Most emphatically no," I rejoined with deadly earnestness. "A husband's duty is to make money for his wife to enjoy herself with."

"My dear Mimmie," he begged pathetically, "don't put those sorts of ideas into Euphemia's head. You are too frivolously minded to understand that a woman should be a man's hand-maid mentally as well as physically and not his plaything. I don't want a wife who requires amusing or who wishes to amuse me. If I want relaxation, I can come and see you. I want her to be useful and domesticated,
and—"

"And," I interrupted, "what do you think she will want to be?"
Monty actually gasped. Then he recovered himself sufficiently to answer
characteristically:

"She will want to be what I make her."

Poor Effie! And the wedding is tomorrow!—Westminster Budget.

A NOLLY BOX.

Like children, savages in all parts of the world are possessed of eternal curiosity. Mr. H. Cayley-Webster, a well known English traveler, gives an amusing instance of this trait among the natives of New Guinea.

One day a piano arrived for his excellency the governor, and some natives were told to carry the strange looking case from the beach to the house. After going a few yards one stumbled, causing one end of the crate to strike the ground, and, ever on the alert for strange noises, their ears were immediately pressed against it, and they listened until the "ting" of the wires had died away.

Again, after a yard or two, a similar mishap occurred. Again many ears were listening to the sound so foreign to them, until a native, rather more knowing than the rest, with a heave raised the whole case a few inches
from the ground and let it go.

The noise which issued from the inside had by this time worked them up to such a frenzy that they one and all seized upon the case, rolled it over and over, and danced with joy at the strange sounds which came forth. And it was not until this odd performance had been repeated many times that the eye of an official was attracted by the shouts and yells of the natives; not,
however, before much damage had been done and many strings broken.

Only Once a Year.

A certain professor is well known as a man whose scientific studies have tended to exaggerate a natural disposition to mental abstraction. The professor's friends, who are also his strong admirers, understand his peculiarity and overlook in him what might not be excused in a commonplace person. A lady is very fond of telling this incident. She was at a reception given at the professor's house. The occasion had been made delightful by the professor and his accomplished wife and daughters. Toward the close of the evening the lady, who had greatly enjoyed the affair, approached the host and asked him, with much enthusiasm:
"How often do you have these delicious reunions, professor?"

No polite prevarication delayed the reply:

"Thank goodness, madam, but once a year!"

NOVEL MINIATURE OCEAN

Interesting Feature of the Paris Exposition.

UNIQUE IDEA OF A FRENCHMAN.

Large Sheet of Water to Be Inclosed
In an Immense Building Capable of Seating Six Thousand Spectators.
Other Attractions to Be Offered to the Public.

Among the many astonishing sights
which the visitor to the Paris exposition of 1900 will enjoy not the least surprising will undoubtedly be those of the Sea Palace and the Mareorama.

The Palace of the Sea—a title, perhaps, a little too suggestive of Margate and the Hall by the Sea—was imagined by M. I. Francon and will be executed from the plans of the architect, Charles Finot, made from the sketches and designs of that well known painter, Paul Simons. This immense building, capable of holding 6,000 persons, will contain a sheet of water nearly 400 feet long by about 200, upon which will maneuver a fleet of French men-of-war of the cruiser
class of the latest design, says Chambers' Journal. This squadron will go through various evolutions—bombarding the coasts, attacking and defeating imaginary enemies, escaping from destruction and representing, in short,
all the details of a naval combat. It will easily be understood that it is at present impossible to give complete particulars, or, indeed, to explain by what mechanical means these men-of-war, 16 feet long, will go through their evolutions automatically, pointing their electric projectiles and firing their guns. We must be content, for the time being, to know that the inventor intends to make good use of torpedoes and submarine mines and that ships will be burned and sunk in such a way as to give a complete illusion of reality. Thanks to a cleverly managed optical deception, this tank of only a few thousand square yards will present to the onlooker the semblance of a limitless ocean, the eye being so tricked
that it will fail to see the opposite crowd of spectators.

But this sheet of water, with its burden of floating war engines for defense and destruction, will not be the only attraction to be offered to the public.
It is, indeed, only the ceiling, so to speak, of a second floor where great marvels will be prepared to surprise and astound the sightseer. By means of an ingenious arrangement of the diving bell, the visitor will descend underground to a distance of 20 feet, when he will find himself in an enormous glass receptacle with transparent sides, covered and filled with water. Here
he will probably be conscious of the mixed sensations of astonishment, fear and delight, for he will find himself apparently at the bottom of the sea. All around him will spring, in its fair-like fantastic form, that luxuriant and unknown vegetation which the ocean conceals in its bosom. He will be able to feast his eyes on forests of beautiful seaweeds; to examine, with a curious mind, madrepores and corals, and to watch and inspect an infinite variety of fish and different forms of marine life. Into the depths of this admirably simulated representation of the real ocean, will descend from time to time to show their methods of working, and pearl fishers, specially recruited from the east, will take their graceful plunges as though really at their hazardous task of exploring the sea's pro-fundities for the jewels for beauty's adornment. These subterranean glass galleries will be lighted by electricity, and the spectacle should be both instructive and interesting.

The Mareorama is an extremely ingenious and clever application of the panoramic principle, only in this case
the idea is greatly developed and given a certain amount of life. The inventor,
M. Hugo D'Alesi, does not content himself with simply showing the sea to the public. He takes illusion of a sea voyage, the route taken being via Marseilles, Sfax, Naples, Venice and Constantinople. The visitors—or, rather, the travelers—are to be placed on an extremely well represented steamer, fitted with masts, rigging and smoking funnel and furnished with a crew, who will carry out the imaginary necessary maneuvers. After the supposed bustle of departure the panoramic pictures will unroll themselves before the supposititious tourists, giving all the impression of passing scenery. These pictures are 46 feet high and over 3,000 feet long. Every one knows the phenomenon that the movement of an object which completely fills the vision gives the motionless spectator the impression of personal movement, and it is thus that the Mareorama gives a perfect illusion of a real sea voyage.
Various incidents have been arranged to occur on the imaginary journey to give a still further air of realism. Thus the steamer will meet and pass through a naval squadron, and there will be many occurrences to impart local color. At Sfax there is to be an embarkment of the harem of a rich eastern potentate, with an accompaniment of slaves of various countries,
and at Naples the traditional boatmen
will come on board to sing and dance
the tarantella. To make the expedition complete there is even to be a storm at sea. It only remains for those possessed of more imagination than their fellows to suffer the usual ill consequences of a sea voyage to render the enterprise exact in all its details.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct.

22—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.
Topic.—An old time missionary.—Jonah iii,
1-10. (A missionary meeting.)

Jonah was the son of Amittai and a native of Gath-hepher. He prophesied in the reign of Jeroboam II. God sent him on a special mission to Nineveh.
Jonah disliked the mission and tried to escape to Tarshish, but God, by His providence, brought him to a realization of his mistake. He commanded him a second time to go on the mission to Nineveh, and that time he obeyed.
The story of his going is found in the topical reference.

Jonah preaching in Nineveh was a typical foreign missionary.

1. Jonah was sent from God. The Lord said unto him, "Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it."
Missionaries must be sent of God.
When Paul says in Rom. x, 15, "How shall they preach except they be sent?"
he refers not to man sending forth missionaries, but to God's sending forth missionaries. One who aspires to mission work should feel called of God to the work, and all who are interested in missions should earnestly pray to God to send forth laborers into His vineyards.

2. Jonah had a message from God and proclaimed it to the people. The Lord said, "Preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee." And Jonah delivered the message of God. Fearlessly, earnestly, he announced to the people
the threatened destruction of the city, crying upon the streets, "Yet 40 days and Nineveh shall be overthrown." The missionary, whether at home or abroad, must get his message from God, and boldly must he proclaim the truth, and the whole truth, not only holding out overtures of mercy to all who will believe and repent, but warning men of their sure destruction if they refuse to repent and to accept the mercy of God.

3. God blessed his messenger and his message faithfully delivered, and success crowned his efforts. The people of Nineveh believed God, repented of their sins, and God staid off the threatened destruction of the city. But Jonah, for political reasons, was displeased at his own success, an anomaly in this respect.
God will still bless the faithful efforts of His servants to win the world for Him. The task seems tremendously difficult, the work impossible of completion, and yet nothing is impossible with God. With one missionary God could bring the great, wicked Nineveh
to its knees, and God is just as powerful and just as willing to bless His word
today as in the days of Jonah.

Jonah's fidelity and success should encourage all who are interested in mission work. It shows that it is not impossible to win the world for God in Jesus Christ.

The Children in Church.

"Here am I and the children thou hast given me." That is well. That is as it should be—the children at church and in the family pew. They understand more than you suppose, and they are solemnly impressed by the occasion,
even if they cannot understand the sermon. "But they will get so tired going to school and then to Sunday school."
Not so very tired as you suppose. They rise up and change posture during singing. The service is only about an hour and a quarter long. Then comes a recess to go into Sunday school, then only about an hour there, and no such hard study as in school. Really, do you see? Any half day at school is more severe than a whole service at church, including the Sunday school. Besides,
if they cannot attend both, the Sunday school can be omitted. Our very best Sunday school workers will tell you that the church is worth more to the children than the school. If he can have but the one, give him the church. But do not be whimsical. He can have both.
It will not hurt him. Bring the children.—Central Church.

Fearless Speech.

It is pleasant to say smooth things in this easy going, time serving age, but it may not be the wisest. A tendency to point out the good things in the characters and lives of wicked men and worldly Christians and pass over their sins and defects is one cause of the failure of the church to keep its hold on the masses. The Bible hides no sin or fault of the servants of God. It is admitted because of its candor and fidelity to the truth. Those ministers of the gospel and religious teachers who talk out straight to their people, hewing to the line, speaking the truth in love,
have the largest hearing and the most vigorous membership. God pity a ministry that cries "Peace, peace!" when there is no peace. A loving, fearless, direct appeal to sinful men, laying open their sins and showing them a better way, is the kind of preaching and teaching the times demand.—Religious Telescope.

Over Present Work.

Enthusiasm over present work, not over future accomplishments, means the largest practical results day by day in the Lord's service. Earnestness is not a quality for special performances, but for daily use. It covers life as it is and as it comes according to divine appointment.—Presbyterian.

A Light Attracting Others.

If I in my own person and daily walk quietly resist heaviness of custom, coldness of hope, timidity of faith, then without wishing, contriving or even knowing I am a light silently drawing as many as have vision and are fit to walk in the same path.—John Morley in "Essay on Emerson."

The Day of Settlement.

You can, of course, do as you please,
but you will have to settle the matter
with your God some day.—Lutheran.

FOUR SAILORS LOST.

Gloucester Fisherman Cut In Two by a Steamer In Boston Harbor.

Accident Occurred In Main Ship Channel.

Steamer Proceeded Without Investigating Extent of Damage Done.

Boston, Oct. 21.—Four lives were lost in the waters of Boston harbor last night when the British tramp steamer Ardandhu, outward bound for Halifax, cut in two the Gloucester fisherman, Two Forty. The drowned were: Captain John Fewers, Fred Irving, Fred Armstrong and Neil Brooks, all of Gloucester. Seven men were rescued.

The disaster occurred in the moonlight off Castle island and was so quickly over that the Ardandhu did not stop to pick up the survivors of the little craft, which had been crushed by contact with her bow. The fisherman was inward bound from the banks, deep laden with fresh fish. She met the Ardandhu in the main ship channel abreast of Castle island, having been beating all the way in against a light off-shore breeze. The accident occurred when the fisherman tacked directly across the steamer's bow.

The steamer had left her wharf, going out under fair headway. The only alternative to her pilot when the schooner was met was to have gone into shallow water. The whistle was blown, and the steamer went astern, but the momentum was too great and her iron prow crashed into the Two Forty about amidships. The schooner went to the bottom almost immediately.

The Ardandhu checked her speed, but then proceeded without making any attempt to ascertain the damage which had been done.

The disaster was witnessed by the South Boston life saving crew, whose station is not far distant, and a boat was sent out to the rescue. This boat picked up five men and secured the bodies of three others.

The Two Forty has sunk so as to obstruct the main channel, and it will be necessary to dynamite the hull.

The Ardandhu came into port from Progresso, Mex., Saturday with sisal grass, and after unloading left in ballast for Halifax to load for Havana.

The Two Forty was of 41 tons gross register, built in Essex in 1891.

After being landed two of the survivors said that when the steamer checked its headway after going through the Two Forty she lowered away a dingy and picked them up, landing them on a mud scow a short way off the channel. The dingy then returned to the steamer, which proceeded. The delay was so brief that the steamer did not appear to have stayed near the wreck but a few minutes.

Another member of the Two Forty's crew explains the disaster to the effect that a steam lighter was in the middle of the channel headed in. The steamer passed her to starboard just as the Two Forty, on the starboard tack, went under the lighter's scow's stern. This brought the schooner directly ahead of the steamer and the collision could not be avoided.

Turned at the Stake.

Canton, Mass., Oct. 21.—The little town of St. Anne, 20 miles east of Canton, was the scene of a horrible tragedy, a sequel to the burning of the Gambrel family on Thursday night. Joe Lefore, a negro, who was captured by a posse, confessed that he, in company with other negroes, had tied Mrs. Gambrel and her four children to the floor of the house, saturated the surroundings with kerosene and burned the unfortunate people alive. The negro, after the confession of the crime, was promptly roped to a stake and burned to a crisp, while the citizens looked on in grim silence.

Double Drowning Accident.

Marlboro, Mass., Oct. 21.—William Bennett, aged 28, and Rolla Darling, aged 18, were drowned in the Assabet river yesterday by the capsizing of their boat. Darling and Bennett attempted to exchange seats and in so doing capsized the boat. Walter Dorr, who was with them, alone could swim, and he rendered all assistance possible to his companions, gaining for each a hold on the boat. The men were in the water nearly half an hour, and on account of the rolling over of the boat Bennett and Darling released their hold and were drowned.

Victim of Highwayman.

Lynn, Mass., Oct. 21.—Thomas Smith, residing on Summer street, was knocked down and robbed of his watch and chain yesterday, and Michael Higgins, an ex-prize fighter, is under arrest, charged with committing the act. Smith was passing through Summer street when he was waylaid, and the man made his escape by running through an alley. A general alarm was sent out and Higgins was soon placed under arrest and was identified by Smith as the man who robbed him.

Insurgents Scattered.

Manila, Oct. 21.—Captain MacRae, with a battalion of the Third infantry, and Captain Cheneweth, with a battalion of the Seventeenth infantry, marched to the town of Jose Malinas for the purpose of dispersing a band of 300 insurgents, who had recently been annoying our outposts and travelers along the road from Santa Ana to Arayat. The insurgents fled in the direction of Magalang. The country between Angeles and Arayat is now reported clear.

Epping's Big Fire.

Epping, N. H., Oct. 21.—Two shoe factories, a wine factory and a grist and saw mill were burned here yesterday, entailing a loss of $32,000. The fire was the most destructive of any in this town for several years, and 150 hands are thrown out of employment. The fire, the cause of which is unknown, was discovered in Atwood & Quimby's shoe factory. The buildings destroyed were all of wood.

PRICES CONTINUE STRONG.

Staple Articles Main in Old Firmness—Iron and Steel Hold Their Strength.

New York, Oct. 21.—Bradstreet's says: More nearly, perhaps, than ever before, does the volume of general trade and industry tax existing transportation facilities handling the same. From nearly all parts of the country, but particularly from the west and south, come reports of car scarcity. Some of this congestion seems to be the result of a diversion of traffic ordinarily carried on by water routes to already crowded railroads. From both coasts of this country also come reports of insufficient tonnage offering to handle goods seeking a foreign outlet, and freight rates are considerably higher than they were a year or more ago.

With few notable exceptions prices continue strong. A number of lines have advanced quotations, while the great body of staple articles manifest all their old firmness. Some weakness in wheat prices is directly traceable to higher freight rates. Corn is not as depressed as wheat, mainly because of higher receipts, but current receipts of wheat are also smaller than they were a year ago.

The weakness in prices of copper and of copper mine stocks is attributed to production gradually overtaking demand and tin is also considerably lower. A renewal of strength is noted in cotton, though foreign buying is reported still indifferent, domestic speculative confidence and general conditions in the manufactured goods branch furnishing an impetus to this week.

In iron and steel maintained strength is still a feature at all markets with steel products, particularly rails, wire rods and billets, all higher on the week, and structural material showing sympathy. Raw wool is firmer and even higher, on better demand at the east, some heavy speculative transactions being reported.

The strength of lumber is apparently undiminished. Advances from the potato crop indicate that the crop is the largest reported since 1896.

Some diminution in the jobbing business is reported at western centers, although the volume of sales is still ahead of last year.

More is doing in wool at Philadelphia and Boston and more large speculative buying is reported at the latter city, with territory wools in chief demand. A liberal business in cotton and woolen goods is being done at New York and some mills report the withdrawal of samples of the latter.

Bank clearings this week aggregate $1,557,763,000, an increase of 6.7 percent over last week and a gain of 43 percent over this week a year ago.

Business failures for the week number 221, as compared with 213 in this week a year ago.

Incham and Hewitt Found Guilty.

Philadelphia, Oct. 21.—Ellery P. Incham, ex-United States district attorney, and Harvey K. Hewitt, his law partner and former assistant district attorney, were yesterday found guilty of conspiracy and bribery in connection with the revenue stamp counterfeiting plot, headed by William M. Jacobs and William L. Kendig, the Lancaster cigar manufacturers. The verdict was coupled with a recommendation to mercy. The trial, owing to the prominence of the defendants, attracted widespread attention. Incham is at present special counsel for the government and represented the United States in the famous hat trimmings cases tried here. The bail of the defendants was increased from $20,000 to $40,000, and was furnished by business men. Counsel for the defendants made an appeal for a new trial. No time was set for the argument.

A Mysterious Disaster.

Nyaack, N. Y., Oct. 21.—An explosion of dynamite in a shanty at the quarry of Foss & Conklin's stone crushing works at Rockland Lake caused the death of four men and seriously injured four more. The shanty was used to afford protection to the men while blasting was going on, and in a mysterious manner the shanty was blown up while the men were in it. There was no known to be any dynamite in the building.

Dewey Again In Service.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Secretary Long has issued an order assigning Admiral Dewey to special duty at the navy department. This was done because, since his arrival in Washington, the admiral has been on waiting orders only, but now, with the prospect of the reconvening of the Philippine commission requiring his attendance, it is proper to put him in active service, with all of the emoluments pertaining thereto.

Among the "Has t ens."

Baltimore, Oct. 21.—Jake Kilrain, the former clever heavyweight boxer, and for a time the world's champion in his class, was practically put to sleep last night in five rounds by Steve O'Donnell of Australia. In the opening rounds of the contest, which was to have gone 15 rounds, Jake showed a good deal of his old-time cleverness.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Captain William M. Folger, U. S. N., who commanded the cruiser New Orleans last year, and will command the battleship Kearsarge, was married at Boston to Miss Gilmore.

Harry Armstrong, aged 30, belonging in Biddeford, Me., and employed as a weaver in the cotton mills of that city, was found dead beside the Maine Central railroad tracks near Saco. It is supposed that he attempted to board a freight and fell off the car.

Henri Bourassi, member of the Canadian parliament, has resigned his seat in the commons as a protest against the sending of a Canadian contingent to the Transvaal.

Workmen engaged in breaking ground for a water main on Field street, Quincy, Mass., unearthed portions of a human skeleton. The street runs through what was once the Brackett farm, and it is thought that the body was that of some person buried on the farm.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:05; sets, 4:52. Moon rises—7:30 p. m. High water—1:15 a. m.; 1:30 p. m. Rain was followed by fair and cooler weather in New England. The weather will be fair in New England and along the New England coast the winds will be fresh northerly.

LATEST FANCY WORK.

TWO STYLES THAT ARE EFFECTIVE AND EASILY EXECUTED.

Applique on Linen Charming—Carried Out in Contrasting Colors—Revival of an Improved Form of Old Fashioned Wool Work on Canvas.

Interest in the gentle art of the needle has of late reawakened with surprising vigor, and the innate feminine desire for the expression of artistic feeling in decorative stitchery asserts itself in a marked degree. Fancy work to fulfill the demands of the average worker of today must be good in coloring and design; but, in addition to this, it is desirable that it should be susceptible to quick and easy execution, while affording scope for originality and the exercise of individual taste.

CUSHION IN APPLIQUE.

Very satisfactory in popular work of this kind is a charming linen applique. The method of execution is perfectly simple. Two pieces of linen of contrasting colors are laid one above another and securely tacked together, the design being traced on the uppermost piece, upon which it is worked out. The stitches are of course carried through both. The working may be slight or elaborate, according to the taste or inclination of the worker. The outline is carried out in firm, close buttonhole stitch, the filling as fancy dictates.

When completed, the uppermost layer of linen is cut away all round the design, leaving the lower layer as a background. In this part of the work great care is of course necessary, as it is easy to cut the under fabric by inadvertence. Only the sharpest pointed scissors should be used, as the outline must be clearly and cleanly cut. Otherwise there is little or no difficulty in the execution of this exceedingly artistic and pleasing work.

An excellent suggestion well suited for adaptation to linen applique is a cushion of leaf green applique upon ivory. The cushion is backed and frilled with green and forms a charming scheme of color.

Sometimes applique is arranged as an all over design, as in a tea cloth covered with trailing convolvulus. At others it forms a border. This is the case in some charming table centers in pale blue, pink or green linen, with a conventional applique border. In spareroom sets, consisting of toilet cover and mats worked with a design of white on a background harmonizing with the coloring of the room, the work appears in a novel and delightful guise. Handkerchief, glove and nightdress sachets are suitable subjects for this style of work, among the designs specially worthy of mention being one of daffodils applied to a ground of sky blue and another, quaintly conventional, with a scroll pattern in gold linen outlined in black on a cream background.

Many workers have once more given in their allegiance to wool and canvas of a much subdued and mellowed order as compared with the wool work of days gone by and capable of exceedingly harmonious and pleasing effects. A novel development of this revival is a variety of canvas work which hails from Paris and is but mildly reminiscent of the artistic reign of glaringly dyed Berlin wool which has caused the name of wool work to be regarded with disfavor.

The example given is, worked in squares, having in the center of each a kind of fleur-de-lis carried out in shades of greens and browns on a cream colored ground. The squares are separated by a fancy border outlined in dark brown, with touches of red and blue.

Grape Juice or Unfermented Wine.

To prepare grape juice pick the grapes from the stems, put them in a covered stone jar and set the jar in a pot of boiling water. Let the water boil around the jar for half an hour or until the grapes are well cooked. Strain the juice from the grapes and let it stand in a cold cellar or some other cold place overnight. In the morning bring the juice to the boiling point and let it boil 20 minutes. Sterilize as many glass cans as are necessary by setting them, with their covers, in boiling water for half an hour. Fill them to their brims with the boiling juice, put on new rubbers and screw on the covers as tightly as possible. Let them stand until they are cold, then tighten them again. This grape juice will keep without sugar.

A Bachelor of Laws.

Miss Kate Stoneman of Albany has received the degree of bachelor of laws from Union university. This degree is given by the university to those who have been admitted to the bar and have afterward taken the prescribed course of study in the Albany Law school, a department of the university. Miss Stoneman was the first woman in New York state to pass an examination for admission to the bar May 6, 1886. When she afterward applied to the supreme court for admission, she was refused on the ground of "no precedent." The New York legislature was in session at the time, and before the close of the term of the court a bill to admit women to the practice of law had been passed in both branches and had been signed by the governor and secretary of state. On the last day of the sitting of the court, May 20, Miss Stoneman again presented her request, this time re-enforced by the new law, was admitted and "established a precedent." The constitution of 1894 incorporated the law, thus removing the danger of repeal. Miss Stoneman was the first woman student of the Albany Law school and also the first woman to receive the degree LL. B. from Union university.—Woman's Tribune.

A Royal Actress.

The wife of Grand Duke Sergius Alexandrovitch of Russia, the sister of the present czarina, is known to possess great histrionic talent. Her private life is most unhappy, and she devotes herself to amateur theatricals as a recreation. At her home members of the profession of all nations are welcomed. A story is told of the way in which the duchess appeared as a professional actress. The leading lady of a theater in Moscow, a friend of the duchess, was taken ill one night just before the curtain was to rise. The duchess visited her in the greenroom and proposed, in order to prevent the theater from being closed, to play the leading part in a drama she was familiar with if her identity should remain unknown. The manager was able hastily to arrange the cast, and the play went on, the audience showing great enthusiasm over the loveliness of the scenes, which were enacted with great fervor by the leading man and the new actress. That the duchess was taking the role became known to some one in the audience, and the duke was informed, the consequence being that his royal highness appeared on the scene, frightening the duchess into a faint, and the curtain was rung down.

Marrying Off Hesse Bachelors.

To crusty old bachelors or the woman who is out of the running the marriage question is assuming some rather amusing phases in foreign countries. The diet of Hesse has introduced a tax on unmarried men, they being compelled to pay 25 per cent more taxes than their married brethren, and it is said that the effect of this resolution by the government is being watched with great interest by the maidens of Hesse, who are anticipating an epidemic of proposals.

While in India that ever recurring question of the remarriage of widows has again popped up, the eastern fathers suddenly realizing that by giving the widows a second chance the opportunities of getting rid of their unmarried daughters is being considerably narrowed. English statistics show that one out of every five widows seizes the opportunity to a second time stand before the altar of Hymen. It is said that in the United States the female population is very little larger than the male, for the surplus women of New England are balanced by the men of the mining communities of the far west.—Harper's Bazar.

How to Stick in Your Hatpins.

With the hair dressed low an elastic can be substituted, but in the case of a coil worn high up two pins must be used. Let them be of moderate length and take the trouble to run them in among the trimming of feathers, so that a bare bit of straw is not damaged and left exposed to view another time. The point should pass through the hair on the top of the head and just penetrate the opposite side of the hat, so that it is fixed firmly, though the pins remain invisible. When the hat or bonnet is lavishly trimmed, this course is easier, naturally, but a sailor hat with its plain band can be treated in the same way, the pin going across just above the ribbon.—Woman's Life.

Absence of Hats.

The fashion of hats off in the theaters is very pleasant in some southern cities. In many of these there is a practice among the women, as soon as the weather becomes warm, of riding in the cars and promenading through the streets without hats. So, to go a little further and go to the theater with no head covering is only a continuance of a pleasant custom. In Philadelphia women have been going to the theater hatless recently and enjoying it.

A Gift For a Queen.

Queen Wilhelmina has received a unique present from the Society of Dutch Journalists, consisting of the articles which appeared in various European countries on her majesty's coronation. The articles, which are bound in five volumes, are printed on ivory paper. The first volume contains the French articles, the second devoted to Belgium, Switzerland, Italy and Luxembourg and the fifth to Russia and Portugal.

Teaching Housekeeping.

Mrs. A. P. Norton of Boston is conducting a school of housekeeping for women at the New York Chautauqua, which is exciting considerable interest. Situations, plans, finishing, furnishing, plumbing, draining, cleaning and the general care of the house are receiving attention. The last three weeks of the course will be given to the study of foods, food principles and problems of housekeeping.

Thayer, 30; Roxbury Latin 0.

Thayer Academy easily defeated Roxbury Latin School on French's Common yesterday afternoon by a score of 39 to 0. The Thayer boys' quick, snappy playing dwarfed their slightly heavier opponents and they could do nothing.

The ball was kicked off in the first half to Thayer, and the Latin boys did not see it again until time was called. In the meantime Thayer secured 6 touchdowns.

Roxbury gained her distance but once in the second half which lasted ten minutes while Thayer added one more touchdown to her string.

The features of the game were the long runs for touchdowns by Uniac and Estabrook, the line bucking of Harrison and McMahon and the running back of the ball from kick-off by Gallagher.

BRAINTREE.

A large number of people went up to the Indian camp on Plain street this week.

Stafford Bridgman of South Braintree has moved into his new house near Little pond.

Frank Walker has been entertaining his brother, Ward C., of Kennebunkport, Maine, this week.

Nettie Parlee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Parlee of Bellevue road, East Braintree, is sick with scarlet fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Foss of Plain street were made happy Sunday, by the birth of a son.

Mr. Barnard and family, of Brookline, have moved into the house corner of West and Oak streets.

Division No. 12, A. O. H., will give a grand dancing party in the Town Hall, Friday evening, Nov. 3.

The many friends of Dr. Burleigh are glad to learn that he is rapidly recovering from his recent illness.

Miss Avis A. Thayer is to commence at once upon the erection of a new family residence on Pond street.

The committee on the coming firemen's ball, met in the North engine house Monday to make arrangements.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fisher of Pearl street, are more than happy; it is their first, a girl, eight and one-half pounds.

Arthur Drollett of West street had the misfortune to break his arm in two places and fracture his elbow by being thrown from his bicycle Monday. The accident was caused by running over a dog.

Rev. Charles H. Williams, formerly of South Braintree was installed, Thursday evening, as pastor of the Wood Memorial Congregational church, Cambridge. Dr. Gallagher of Thayer academy and others attended the ceremony.

A new timetable goes into effect Sunday, Oct. 22, on the N. Y. N. H. & Hartford Railroad. In the morning, week days, there is a train to Boston from South Braintree at 7.45, and Braintree at 7.49 afterwards out, week days, for Braintree and South Braintree at 5.45. Braintree now has 60 trains to Boston week days and South Braintree 41.

The Union Choral society will meet in Pythian hall next Tuesday evening at 7.40 prompt, instead of Wednesday as usual.

R. H. Laverie and family formerly of Liberty street, East Braintree, have moved to Elizabeth, N. J., where Mr. Laverie is now employed at the Crescent ship yard.

Rev. Augustus J. Chapin, D. D., of Mount Vernon, N. Y., the first and only laity holding that title, preaches at the Universalist church, Pythian hall, Sunday morning at 10.30.

R. H. Allen of Buffalo, N. Y., has moved into the new house on Elm street, near the Braintree depot, built for Mr. Kelley. Mr. Allen is employed at the Fore River Engine works.

The seventy-third fall meeting of the Norfolk Conference of Congregational churches will be held at the Union Congregational church of Braintree and Weymouth, Wednesday, Oct. 25. Each church is entitled to four delegates, besides the pastor. All members of the congregations are invited.

Walter T. Connell of Dyer hill, while in Boston with his son, last Saturday, to see the parade was the victim of a pick-pocket.

A crescent, fifteen feet wide will be taken off the land of the Jonas Perkins school, at the junction of Liberty and Union streets.

The Ladies' Aid of the Universalist society met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. F. A. Smith and completed arrangements for the harvest supper to be held in G. A. R. hall, October 25.

John H. Simmons, Jr., is expected home this afternoon from Maine, where he has been on a gunning trip for the past two weeks. Johnny writes his friends that he will bring home one or two deer.

The Cochato club have formed a very strong foot ball team that will give a good account of themselves this season. The players are ex-Thayer and ex-Tufts graduates and all are well known to the foot ball loving public of this town. The players are N. Hayden, John Arnold, Prof. Townsend, T. A. Allen, Clinton, George Sampson, Harlow Waite, G. A. Arnold, L. Hayden, W. Harrison, L. Arnold. They were out for practice for the first time last night.

The Town hall was well filled Wednesday evening with friends of Mrs. Mary A. Packard and family, who came to attend the testimonial concert and dance for their benefit. An excellent concert programme was rendered from 8 to 9 and was as follows:

At the Fore River Engine works twelve draftsmen are working all day and until twelve o'clock at night, getting out drawings for the new government cruisers. They have been at this work about two weeks and it will take another week. Plans, specifications and figures must be rendered Nov. 1, when bids will be opened.

The Universalist society is fortunate in securing the services of Mrs. Charles Kohler as choir leader.

The lovers of roller polo in this town will be glad to learn that a league has been formed, and games can be witnessed at East Weymouth as it has been for the past two seasons. As for a local team it is still doubtful for at present two of the best players in town, Harry Thayer and Harlow Waite are interested in their polo ponies. With those two players and Capt. Churchill and Harry Chase back in harness, there is no doubt that Braintree would have a winning team.

The Jonas Perkins School association held a regular meeting at Miss Macgregor's last Tuesday evening. Two remarkably interesting papers were presented. One by Miss Ella Macgregor entitled "The Vestibule Limited" being an account of trip to the White Mountains. The other by Miss Bessie Macgregor entitled "The Vestibule Unlimited" giving an account of a journey from East Braintree to San Francisco. Their next meeting will be held Nov. 7th at Mrs. Loring's.

The installation of Mr. Penoyer takes place at 7.30 P. M. at Pythian hall October 26, when the following clergymen will take part: Rev. W. D. Potter of Shelburne Falls, Mass., Rev. F. O. Hall, Cambridge, Rev. Prof. G. T. Knight, D. D., of Tufts college, Rev. J. H. Wilson of Alstead, N. H., Rev. Florence C. Crooker of Ann Arbor, Mich., Rev. Charles G. Ames, D. D., of Boston, and Rev. Marion D. Shutter, D. D., of Minneapolis, Minn. Addresses of welcome will be given by Rev. C. F. Hill Crathern, Rev. Howard B. Cooper, Rev. A. A. Ellsworth and Rev. Frank K. Baker.

Christmas Boxes.

The secretary of war has instructed the quartermaster general to forward from New York any Christmas boxes for officers and soldiers in the Philippines which may be delivered there before Nov. 1, such boxes to be consigned to Major P. B. Jones, general superintendent, army transport service, pier 22, Columbia stores, Brooklyn, N. Y. All boxes should be plainly marked with the name of the officer or soldier for whom they are intended, giving the company and regiment or other organization to which he belongs, and should be further marked "Christmas box." All freight or express charges on these boxes to New York must be prepaid by the senders. The maximum weight of boxes is to be about twenty pounds. There should be no perishable matter.

Educational Ideals.

Two years ago the educational department of the Twentieth Century club offered as its first University lectures a course by Prof. Josiah Royce on "The Social Factors in the Development of the Individual Mind." This was followed the succeeding year by two courses, the first by Prof. John M. Tyler, the second by Dr. Charles Sedgwick Minot, Dr. G. Stanley Hall, Prof. Nathaniel S. Shaler, Dr. Albert Shaw and Dr. George Harris upon the general subject "The Education of Mankind and of the Child in the Light of the Doctrine of Evolution."

The marked success of these lectures has demonstrated the wisdom of their establishment. The theme for the present season, The Development of Educational Ideals and Institutions, comes in natural sequence, and the committee believe that the names which follow are ample assurance that its treatment will be stimulating and helpful to all educational workers: Earl Barnes, late Professor of the History and Art of Education at Leland Stanford University; Dr. William J. Tucker, President of Dartmouth College; Professor Patrick Geddes of Edinburgh; John M. Tyler, Professor of Biology at Amherst College; Z. R. Brockway, General Superintendent of the New York State Reformatory at Elmira; Caroline Hazard, President of Wellesley College; Paul H. Hanns, Professor of the History and Art of Education at Harvard University; Josiah Royce, Professor of the History of Philosophy at Harvard University.

The lectures will be given in Lorimer Hall, Tremont Temple, on Saturday mornings at eleven o'clock, excepting the last lecture, which will be given at 3 P. M. Season tickets, $3.00 each, will be on sale at the ticket office, Tremont Temple, on and after Saturday, October twenty-first, or may be obtained by mail by addressing the Secretary of the Education Department, Twentieth Century Club, 14 Ashburton Place, Boston.

A tower is to be erected in Chicago which will be the most wonderful structure in the world. It will be 1150 feet high. At its base it will be 365 feet square. It will have electrical apparatus for lighting and 38 elevators. A telescope will be placed near the top. The structure will be used by sightseers and by the government.

"Has my boy been a Little Defender and been kind to dumb animals today?"

Castle Square Theatre.

For the week beginning Monday, Oct. 23, the Castle Square theatre attraction will be William Gillette's laughable comedy "Too Much Johnson" which proved so popular at this theatre last season. The changes made in this theatre promise an added interest to this revival which will be made upon the same elaborate scale as that which characterized the earlier performances of the comedy at this theatre. Mr. Gillette's laughable scenes and situations his clever dialogue writing and the constant succession of amusing incidents make "Too Much Johnson" one of the brightest of its class of productions and the favor it gained at this theatre ensures the success of this revival. The cast will be: Mr. Augustus Billings, John Craig; Mrs. Augustus Billings, Lillian Lawrence; Mrs. S. Upton Batterson, Leonora Bradley; Mr. Francis Faddish, Lindsay Morison; Leonora Faddish, Mary Sanders; Henry McIntosh, Tony Cummings; Joseph Johnson, J. L. Seely; Mons. Leon Dathis, Charles Mackay; Frederick, Stanley Kent. Following "Too Much Johnson" comes a grand production of "The Heart of Maryland" which has long been in preparation. At the matinee on Monday next the souvenir will consist of a facsimile autograph letter from Admiral Dewey, while at Manila, acknowledging the receipt of a Dewey souvenir spoon given out by the Castle Square theatre.

Keith's Theatre.

The programme at Keith's Boston theatre for the week of Oct. 23, will include Solaret, a young and clever dancer, who will contribute some novel terpsichorean feats, set off by some beautiful light and color effects; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Milton Royle, supported by Seth Smith and Beatrice Foster, in their most laughable comedy sketch, "Capt. Impudence;" Whitney brothers, novelty musicians; the Ahearns, acrobats and acrobats; Watson, Hutchings and Edwards, German dialect comedy sketch; Joe Goetz, the dexterous Mexican juggler; the Gypsy Quartette, in selections from operas; Raymond and Clark; comedy sketch; Prof. Burton's trained dogs, and Walter Deaves' marionettes. There will be several new pictures shown in the biograph, including some exciting views of the international boat races. The week of Oct. 30, brings Harry Lucy and company in his latest comedy sketch, "Sam Todd of Yale."

To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

WORTHY FOES

Britishers Have Stiff Work Before Them.

Boers Again Repulsed and Elandslaagte Is Captured.

Transvaal Commander Dies From Wounds Received.

Battle at Glencoe Was Fought With the Greatest Fierceness.

Queen Victoria Says Her Heart Bleeds For the Terrible Losses.

London, Oct. 23.—The second British victory, that at Elandslaagte, in which the British losses, though heavy, were not out of proportion to its importance, may be regarded as having completely demoralized the well-laid, but ineffectively executed plans of the Boers. In the opinion of military critics it will tend to bring the war to a speedy conclusion.

General White, it is hoped, may have been able by this time to relieve Major Yule at Glencoe, thus enabling him to deal with Commandant General Joubert's column, as General Symons and General French have already done with the others.

There is still to be guarded against a possible raid from the Drakensberg range by Free State troops from Vryheid, through Zululand. The British plan will, therefore, to a great extent be still to remain on the defensive, as General White has an extended front, threatened at many points, to protect.

There is no longer, however, any apprehension of even the expected initial success of the Boers. The two victories already gained by the British must have completely disillusioned them of the idea they had gained through the Majuba affair, and, looking to the statements already circulated that President Kruger himself was opposed to sending the ultimatum, there is speculation in some quarters that the Boers may now sue for peace.

At least it is considered that all fears of a Dutch rising in the British colonies may be set aside.

The Times says: They are honorable foes and well worthy of our mettle. The sterling qualities ought to do much to facilitate the ultimate pacification of South Africa. That is the real end of the war. We have to settle once for all the question of British supremacy and to banish forever the phantom of an Afrikaner nation.

The Daily News says: It is not at all likely that the two victories portend a speedy end of the war. The Boers still fight on and our army of occupation must be hurried forward. The appalling loss of officers and men we have sustained shows clearly that we have stiff work before us. The army corps will have ample work to do.

It is rumored this morning that Barkly West, northwest of Kimberley, has been surrendered to the Boers without firing a shot.

Cape volunteers, it is reported, will be sent to relieve Kimberley.

The latest dispatches do not indicate any general incursion of the Boers into Bechuanaland. Along the Orange river everything seems to be quiet. From Colesburg, Cape Colony, it is reported that all the available burghers of the Orange Free State have been sent north and west.

On the other hand, a messenger from Alwal North reports that a large body of Boers is advancing toward the Orange river. Refugees are leaving that town in greater numbers daily. The Boers have mounted a Krupp gun on a bridge commanding the most thickly populated part.

Advices from Cape Town say that a wholesale fear of a rising in Basutoland prevents the Boers invading Cape Colony, and that, on the other hand, there is considerable excitement at Maseru and other Basuto stations, arising from native apprehensions of Boer attacks.

It appears that colonial news is in some mysterious way supplied to the Boers, and that their movements depend largely on intelligence communicated through natives. Disquieting information comes from Herschel and other points in Cape Colony, where the natives are much excited.

A message received from Colonel Baden-Powell, in command at Mafeking, dated Oct. 15, says that 53 Boers were killed and a large number wounded in the encounter with his soldiers.

The war office publishes the following dispatch to the secretary of state for war, the Marquis of Lansdowne, from

General White, regarding the engagement at Elandslaagte, between Glencoe and Ladysmith, when the British, under General French, routed the Transvaal forces, under General Kock, second in command in the Transvaal army, who was himself wounded and captured, and has since died:

"In the action at Elandslaagte the troops engaged were the following: On the British side, a squadron of the Fifth Dragoon guards, the Imperial light horse and two squadrons of Natal carabineers. Artillery, Twenty-first field battery, Forty-second field battery and the Natal field battery. Infantry, the Devonshire regiment, half a battalion of the Gordon Highlanders and the Manchester regiment. The whole force was under General French, with Colonel Hamilton commanding the infantry.

"I was present in person from 3:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., but did not assume direction of the fight, which was left in the hands of General French. Although desultory fighting took place earlier in the day, while reinforcements, sent out later on ascertaining the enemy's strength, were arriving from Ladysmith, the real action did not begin until 3:30 p. m. At that hour the Boers held a position of very exceptional strength, consisting of a rock hill, about a mile and a half southeast of Elandslaagte station.

"At 3:20 p. m. our guns took a position on a ridge, 400 yards from the Boers, whose guns at once opened fire. This fire was generally well directed, but somewhat high. Contrary to previous experiences, their shells burst well.

"The Imperial light horse guards moved towards the left of the enemy's position, and two squadrons of the Fifth lancers, toward his right. During the artillery duel, mounted Boers pushed out from their left and engaged the Imperial light horse guard. In a few minutes the enemy's guns ceased firing, and our artillery was turned on the mounted Boers, who opposed the Imperial light horse, toward his right. After the artillery preparations, our infantry advanced to the attack, supported by our guns in the second position. The Devonshires held the enemy in front, while the Manchester regiment and the Gordon Highlanders turned their left flank.

"The Boer's guns, although often temporarily silenced, invariably opened fire again on the slightest opportunity, and were served with great courage.

"After severe firing, our infantry carried the position. At 6:30 p. m. this was accomplished, the enemy standing ground to the last with courage and tenacity. The Fifth lancers and a squadron of the Fifth Dragoon guards charged thrice through the retreating Boers, in the dark, doing considerable execution.

"We captured the Boer camp, with tents, wagons, horses and also two guns. The Boer losses were very considerable, including a number of wounded and unwounded prisoners. Among the former are General Jan. Kock and Piet Joubert, nephew of Commandant General Joubert.

"One goods train, with supplies for the Glencoe camp and nine English prisoners were recovered. Our loss, I regret to say, was heavy. It is roughly computed at 150 killed and wounded.

"The collection of the wounded over a large area in the dark, and the arrangements for sending them in have thus far occupied our time and attention. A full list will go to you later.

"Our wounded and those of the enemy are now arriving by train. Besides Boers, we have many Hollanders, Germans and prisoners of mixed nationalities. The behavior of our troops and of the colonial forces was admirable."

The stream of callers at the war office yesterday showed little diminution as the evening advanced. Everybody was disappointed at the absence of news from Glencoe, many arguing that communication must be cut off, as otherwise there would be at least some further intelligence as to the condition of General Symons, who, according to an unconfirmed report, succumbed to his wounds.

The British transports Pavonia and Malta sailed yesterday afternoon from Southampton with troops of General Buller's army corps. There was a renewal of the scene of enthusiasm that marked the departure of the guards Saturday. Enormous crowds gathered at the quay to witness the embarkation of the troops that were due to sail Saturday evening and Sunday evening from Woolwich and Tilbury, but were detained because of the heavy fog that has enveloped the London district for 48 hours, seriously impeding the embarkation of troops. It is expected that they will leave today.

The Marquis of Lansdowne has received the following message from the queen: "My heart bleeds for these dreadful losses again today. It is a great success, but I fear very dearly bought. Would you convey my warmest and heartfelt sympathy with the near relations of the fallen and wounded and my admiration of the conduct of those they have lost."

A special dispatch from Cape Town states that a message has been received there from Kimberley saying that Cecil Rhodes has been urged to leave the town, but he refuses, saying he is determined to see the thing through.

A correspondent in Glencoe camp, describing the fighting that followed the first engagement in the Boer attack upon the British position, on Friday, says: It was after the battle was renewed, following the full that ensued upon the sharp command of the Boers on Smith's hill, that our casualties began. The Indian hospital corps of coolies ran out, keeping in the rear of the advancing infantry and artillery that had galloped from the second position through the town, amid the cheer that the Boer fire at the point the Boers became erratic. Our artillery was on the hill, where the Boers were stationed in great numbers, but the return fire did little damage. The enemy kept up an incessant shooting, but our shrapnel began to tell its tale, with the result that the Boer fire visibly slackened. From a ceaseless stream of the rifle fire was dwindled to straggling shots.

CHEERS FOR OOM PAUL

At a Meeting of Friends and Admirers of the Late C. S. Parnell.

Most Generous Response to an Appeal For Funds

For Preservation of Historic Avondale and Building of a Monument.

New York, Oct. 23.—The lord mayor of Dublin and John E. Redmond, M. P., have come from Ireland to interest Americans in the Parnell monument movement, and it was given an impetus last night at a largely attended meeting in the Academy of Music. Judge Morgan J. O'Brien presided over the meeting. Over the proscenium were the colors of the South African republic, the Orange Free State, allies now engaging Great Britain in war; the green flag of Ireland and the colors of the city of Limerick. The boxes were draped with American and Irish flags.

The lord mayor and Mr. Redmond were escorted from their headquarters in the Hoffman House to the Academy by the New York fund committee, and by the officers of the First and Second regiments of Irish volunteers of New York.

In opening the meeting, Judge O'Brien said: "We have assembled to give welcome to men who come among us to raise funds for the erection of a monument which shall perpetuate the name and fame of Charles Stewart Parnell. Parnell worked and fought for the whole Irish people. There was no distinction as to creed. Therefore, without reference to religion, here all can unite in doing honor to his heroic life."

The audience received the names of the distinguished visitors by standing up and cheering for some moments. As the cheering began to subside, some one called out: "Hurrah for Oom Paul."

The sentiment was a popular one among the audience, and the old Boer's name was cheered again and again.

Lord Mayor Tallon, in responding, said: "As regards my mission among you, I have to appeal to your generosity for a two-fold object. The ancestral home of the Parnells will be sold in the judges' court at Dublin on Nov. 3. It was the home of Sir John Parnell, who was the incorruptible chancellor of the exchequer of the Irish parliament, the home of Mrs. Parnell, the mother of the great Irish leader, and the daughter of Commander Stewart, of the American navy. It was the home of a family which has for generations furnished patriots to the Irish race. The estate is to be sold, owing to the way in which Parnell sacrificed his estate in the national struggle. We ask you to assist us, that historic Avondale should be preserved for the Parnells. No people have ever been ungrateful of the services of their great men, or have allowed them to go unrecorded. In his lifetime Parnell owed many of his victories to the moral and material support he received from the American people, and I trust and hope that the American people will be as generous now as they were in the past."

"Our second object is to erect a statue in Dublin. It is only right that a monument should be erected in the capital of the nation that Parnell served so long, and loved so well, to perpetuate the fame of his success and achievements, and to inspire future generations of Irishmen, and to enkindle their patriotism."

John Redmond then told of Parnell's life, and spoke of the political history of Ireland. Mr. Redmond said that the Dublin monument committee was composed of every section of the National party. "The memorial in which we ask your aid," he said, "we propose to erect in the streets of Dublin. Parnell's grave stands today without a headstone, covered only by the green sod of Ireland. In this land of generous impulses I feel that this appeal will not be in vain. America will add one additional proof to all nations that she is the friend of human liberty and human progress."

Baskets were then circulated, and it is estimated that over $10,000 was collected. Twenty thousand dollars will, it is said, buy the Parnell homestead. Richard Croker gave $500, Bourke Cockran, $500 and Mayor Van Wyck $100. Former Assistant Secretary of the Navy William McAdoo of New Jersey was introduced as the last speaker of the meeting. He said that the "eloquent baskets" were the best response to the eloquence of those who had preceded him. "Sad would be the condition of Ireland," he continued, after a tribute to the genius of Parnell, "if this God-given man had not been recognized and remembered deep down in the hearts of the people as a hero for whom we cannot do too much to perpetuate his memory and principles."

Killed in the Philippines.
Burlington, Vt., Oct. 23.—Major General O. O. Howard has received a message announcing that his oldest son, Colonel Guy Howard, had been killed in action in the Philippines, Saturday afternoon. Colonel Howard had been in the army for 23 years. For five years he resided in this city, being the construction quartermaster at Fort Ethan Allen. During the war with Spain he held several important positions in the quartermaster's department, and was on General Young's staff when killed. He leaves a widow and two children.

Good Afternoon.

The proposed Boston & Albany
station at Dartmouth street, Boston,
would admirably fill the bill at Quincy.
The dimensions of the new station will be 100 feet long and 30 feet wide, and the material for the walls will be granite with freestone trimmings. A shed will extend from either end. The interior fittings will be of polished natural woods, and closely follow the standard style of decorations to be seen in all the lately constructed stations on the line of the road. It is some of this standard style that Quincy wants and should have.

The importance of Quincy as a post office district was shown by the receipts for the year published Saturday, which amounted to $23,697. This did not include Wollaston which would increase them $11,342, and Atlantic which would add several thousands.
Outside of Boston, the Quincy office ranks 24. If Wollaston was included it would be No. 10. Many of the post offices in the list include the whole of a city, like Fitchburg, Holyoke, Lawrence, Lynn, Newburyport, North
Adams, Salem, Waltham and others.
The large receipts of the Quincy office
remind us of the promise of Congressman Napheon, who publicly promised before election to do his utmost to secure a government building for the city. He has some good figures to back up his appeal.

In admitting ladies as well as gentlemen to full membership, the new Cochato club of Braintree takes an advanced stand, and with its plans
for auxiliary branches for music, literature, etc. it will undoubtedly prosper. For a man to frequent a club alone, and leave his wife at home, seems selfish to many women, who have more of a claim on him than the club,
and it is not surprising that men's clubs are unpopular with them. Ladies enjoy clubs as well as men, and Brain-tree does well in recognizing them.
They will be found quite a help too
in the social and financial success of the club. If the gentlemen at the club desire to withdraw for a smoke or a game of billiards or pool, the ladies will not object, for there will be other diversions for them. The plans show there will be a gymnasium and bowling alley, and on the second floor,
a hall 40 by 40 with a large stage, good ante rooms and lavatories.

Drift of Opinion.

People who are just getting used to pronouncing the names of the towns in the Philippines must twist their tongues a different way when they tackle the Boer villages. For instance there are Bloemfontein, Basuto land, Pietermaritzburg, Shawbini, Sterkstroom, Stellenbosch and others.—Bridgeport Post.

There have been years in the past when citizens' movements in municipal politics have been received warmly by the voters, and especially by the Republicans, who had the least need of them from a party standpoint, but after the dominant party had suffered because of such movements once or twice, they lost their popularity. Perhaps they can have life breathed into them again, but not by the same men that used to be connected with them.—Brockton Enterprise.

It wouldn't be exactly according to prevailing custom in yachting nomenclature to name the next boat that comes over after the cup John Bull, but she might be called the Johanna Cow.—Lynn Item.

That a former President of the United States should be in Europe as a practicing lawyer, though that practice
may be confined to a great international tribunal, is something so different from the European way of doing things that it passes the ken of the princes, kaisers
and other great people.—Milford
Journal.

It is calculated that the average suburbanite might purchase $5,000 worth of life insurance for the sum he spends on car fare yearly. He might also take his wife to the Paris exhibition and England with the money spent on car tickets during ten years.
Many other wonderful works could he do, would he only learn to give up cigars, sundry odd drinks and extravagances. Like the horse that was being educated to live on one straw a day, when these little economies had at last been mastered the pupil would probably die. Yet it is astonishing what comfort can be derived from statistics.—Chicago News.

Why is it that the last few moments of a play are so much more precious than half an hour a little earlier or later? A person will reach for outer wrappings, hat, etc., a few minutes before the play closes, thus preventing those in the vicinity from enjoying what may be the best part of the evening to them, and squeak down
the aisle to the discomfort of everybody in the house, and then stand outside the door till the last person has left the building, "just to see who is there." And even if they are really anxious to get home there is but a few minutes gained at best.—Marlboro Enterprise.

That promoting trusts is a fat-
thing for the promoter there is no longer doubt, since it was made public that Judge Moore received $10,000,000 worth of the common stock for organizing the American Tin Plate Company. That was probably one of the most thrifty undertakings of the kind however, for J. P. Morgan & Co., received but about $200,000 for engineering the consolidation known as the Federal Steel Company. Selling watered stock does not constitute all of the fascination attaching to the motted combines, by any manner of means, although it has been one of the chief incentives of that sort of financial operations.—Lynn Item.

Harvest Concert.

The M. E. Sunday School of Wollas-ton held its annual harvest concert in the church at six o'clock on Sunday evening. The edifice was literally crowded to the sidewalk, standing room
in the auditorium was not to be had.
The decorations consisted mainly of products of the fields, which after the exercises were donated to the City Hospital.

At the rear of the pulpit there was a decorative arch with the legend, "Give Thanks," inscribed upon it.

The pastor, the Rev. J. E. Waterhouse, delivered a thoughtful address.
The programme was under the direction of the superintendent of the school, Mr. W. C. Sanders; the infant class was in charge of Miss Rena Chamberlain; the music by Dr. A. J.
Colgan; and the organist was Miss Emily Bjorkman.

The programme was as follows:
Opening chorus, school.
Responsive reading.
Prayer, Mr. W. C. Sanders.
Song, school.
Opening address, Miss Fannie Saunders.

"Give Thanks," Ethel Bland.
"Harvest," Harold Sanders and George Nesbit.
Song, school.
Infant Department.
Song "Coronation," by audience.
Recitation, six girls.
Recitation, Miss West.
Song, "What Birdie Sings."
"Farmer Gray," three little boys.
Recitation, Gertrude Barlow.
Singing by school.
"Fruits of the Spirit," teacher and class.
Solo, Miss Brown.
Address by the pastor.
Doxology.

Full-size brass trimmed White Enamel
bedsteads, $2.98. Thirty other patterns from $3.50 to $20.00. Henry L. Kincaide & Co.

A little Backstop, Me., miss was sent to a neighbor's to borrow a town report and came back with a pound of pork.

A New York lawyer charged a counsel fee of $250 and a bondsman fee of $50 to defend a boy who was held for the larceny of 90 cents' worth of groceries.

NOT REGISTERED.

Over 2000 Poll Taxpayers Who Cannot Vote.

A recent statement in the City Council in support of a session by the Registrars of Voters at Wollaston, that there were 400 to 500 men assessed in that ward who were not on the list, seems to be verified by facts, but the proportion in other wards is about the same. Several Ward Five men went to City Hall and were registered before registration closed last week, but there are still 366 assessed in the ward who cannot vote this year. The following summary will be of interest:

	Polls	Voters	Not

Iowa will have as many State tickets in the field at its coming election as Massachusetts. It will have Republican, Democratic and Prohibition as we have, but the Middle-of-the-Road Populists and United Christian are as unpopular here as Social Democrats are there. In Maryland and Ohio there are Union 'Reform tickets, and in Pennsylvania a People's ticket.
Kentucky has two kinds of Democrats,
the regulars and the Honest Election Democratic Party.

The new Republican State committee for the Presidential campaign has now been completed and a glance at the list of members shows that 28 of the 40 have been chosen again. This is said to be an unusually large proportion of re-elections. Col. Goetting was chosen unanimously in his senatorial district and there are no signs that he will have any opposition for the chairmanship again. The re-elected members are:
Chester Snow, Harwich; A. E.
Williams, Taunton; C. O. Brightman,
New Bedford; L. T. Cushing, Cohasset;
G. H. Garfield, Brockton; F. F.
Prescott, Quincy; L. W. Staudish,
Stoughton; G. H. Dunham, Chelsea;
C. C. Taft, Boston; G. F. Lord, Jr.,
Lynn; J. N. Peterson, Salem; J. O.
Wardwell, Haverhill; F. N. Abbott,
Lawrence; Thorndike Spaulding, Cambridge; J. N. Cullis, Belmont; A. E.
Cox, Malden; C. K. Sullivan, Medford;
G. W. Poore, Lowell; G. W. B. Sisson,
Worcester; A. S. Pinkerton, Worcester;
J. A. Dickerman, Ashburnham; L. E.
Fales, Milford; James Renfrew, Adams;
C. W. Smith, Easthampton; Dana
Malone, Greenfield; A. H. Goetting, Springfield; C. F. Ensworth, Westfield. The new members of the committee will be E. W. Brown, Fall River; W. W. Stover, Boston; G. W.
Carpenter, Boston; J. E. Gill, Boston;
M. J. Murray, Boston; F. H. Briggs,
Boston; H. C. Foster, Gloucester; S.
L. Powers, Newton; F. P. Glazier,
Hudson; W. S. Keene, Stoneham.

Funeral of Mrs. French.
The funeral of Mrs. Augusta B. French, who died Friday, Oct. 20, was held Sunday from her late residence on Washington street. The services were very largely attended, many of her former associates and members of the First Universalist church being among those assembled to take a last look at her who in life they had known so well. The services were conducted by Rev. Edgar W. Preble, a former pastor of the Universalist church and Rev.
Mr. Ward. Musical selections were given by the Weber male quartette of Boston. At the conclusion of the services at the house, the remains were taken to Mt. Wollaston for burial in the family lot. There were many beautiful flowers.

Unvaccinated persons are not permitted to vote in Norway.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

No meeting of the City Council
this week.

Sunday was a fine day and many enjoyed it out doors.

Four drunks fell into the hands of the police Saturday night.

General Manager John R. Graham of the street railway arrived home from Chicago Sunday night.

Thomas McGrath, formerly of the Patriot office, has accepted a position with a Boston printing office.

Auctioneer Crane will have a furniture sale on Friday at the residence of Mrs. I. O. Severance on Pearl street.

It is rumored that the committee on Streets are opposed to appropriating any more money for streets this year.
It is time for a halt.

The demand is great for tickets to the annual dinner of the Republican club in Music hall, Boston, Tuesday, evening, Oct. 31.

The Fifth regiment has lost by resignation two more officers, 1st Lieut. Markell of Co. E of Medford, and 2d Lieut. H. T. Gilson of Co. H.

Mr. Dexter Bosworth of Quincy Neck, an old resident, died this morning about two o'clock, very suddenly.
Mr. Bosworth was a shoe maker by trade. Report says a blood vessel burst in his head. He was much respected.

Walter E. Loud the violinist, gives his third annual concert in Colonial hall, next Wednesday evening. The assisting artists are Miss Ella Hall
Shields, soprano; Miss Annie E.
Fisher, pianist; and Mr. John Little,
cellist.

The Chinese laundry man at the corner of Washington and Arnold street must look more to his business than to small boys. It is said he keeps a rendezvous for boys where they loaf and smoke cigarettes. He has been warned to keep boys out of his laundry.

Two young men of Quincy Point went smelting not long since, and caught six dozen smelts. Each took three dozen, and one of the young men
put his in the cellar to keep them cool.
Next morning he went down to bring them up for breakfast, and now he is looking for the cats who stole all but nine of his fish.

At Bethany church Sunday morning
Rev. E. N. Hardy the pastor prefaced his sermon with a five minute talk to the children. He told of the "lion sermon" preached annually in London on Oct. 16 of the deliverance of the traveller from the beast by prayer. The pastor said there were lions in children's ways always: including intemperance, bad temper, dishonesty,
laziness, and ridicule.

A complimentary demonstration of the Fletcher Music Method was given by Miss Evelyn Ashton Fletcher at Steinert hall, Boston, on Saturday afternoon October 21. Among the teachers interested in this method is Miss Clara Louise Ellis of 20 Allston street, Dorchester. Miss Ellis is teaching a class in Atlantic at the home of Mrs. George Hinkley Billings street. The system of music is entirely new, and does away with the drudgery of piano practicing which a novice is obliged to undergo.

IMPROVEMENTS.

Changes at Houghs Neck—Plans for Next Season.Houghs Neck is still on the map and the electric cars are still running, although it was announced that they would be discontinued after Sunday.There are petitions in circulation here which may have had something to do with the revocation of the order.
One will ask the City Council to revoke the location granted the Quincy & Boston street railway on Coddington
and Sea streets, and the other will ask the railroad commissioners to compel the company to operate the road throughout the year. It is said also that the Meyers syndicate will ask for a location from Houghs Neck to Quincy and possibly to Neponset, and guarantee five cent fares, and also to operate the line in winter as well as summer.Sunday was a beautiful pleasant day
at the shore, and several came down, including many fishermen. There was scarcely a ripple on the water.The new owners of Poco cottage on Manet avenue have enlarged it to nearly twice its former size and have built a square tower in front from the ground up.The greatest changes, however, are in the vicinity of Hotel Fensmere.
The hotel itself has been raised four or five feet preparatory to its removal to a new site near Crystal Springs pond, where the foundation has already been put in. This will be a much pleasant location. The bath house will also be removed to the breakwater, so that bathers can enter either the pond or the bay. The block of stores in front of the Fensmere have been raised, and will be more desirable. The grounds will all be regraded and loamed and other improvements made.One of the improvements and a big thing for Houghs Neck generally, will be a steamboat line to Boston. The petition of Mr. Myers to the Harbor and Land Commissioners asked permission to construct a wharf on the bay side. It is proposed to build a wharf 800 feet long and dredge a channel 1,000 feet long that will have six feet of water at low tide. At the hearing Mr. W. I.
Tuckerman and Mr. W. H. Mears appeared as remonstrants, claiming it would damage their property. The business men, however, give it encouragement.

Midnight Assault.

Daniel Mahoney of Copeland street,
was roughly handled by two Italians about 11 o'clock Sunday night, who made a savage attack upon him with a knife. Mahoney came out from Boston to Quincy Adams on the late train and started to walk home. He had reached a point near the Willard school when he passed two Italians. After he had passed they turned and followed him
and as he was about to enter his own door yard they pounced upon him.
One of the Italians drew a large knife,
such as are used in pruning, and made several strikes at him.Fortunately they did not get near enough to cut him with the knife, although his clothing was cut in several places. Mr. Mahoney's brother hearing the scuffle came out of the house
and received a slight cut on the hand.
One of the Italians was drunk and a blow from Mahoney laid him out flat.
Officer Ferguson, who was near, now arrived and put in the finishing touches. The fellow who had the knife was jumping about and flourishing it in a wild manner when Officer
Ferguson arrived, but the sight of brass buttons cooled him off and he threw the knife in the gutter where it was found later. Officer Ferguson secured a team and brought the two Italians to the police station. They were arraigned in court this morning.

No Money.

When some horse falls through that hole in the bridge, over Butler's pond on Merrymount road, and breaks his leg, and the city has a suit for damages
on its hands, the Commissioner of Public Works will probably get around and fix it. The hole in the bridge was caused some two weeks ago by a plank breaking through. Some of the neighbors filled up part of the hole with large rocks, but even this left a hole eight inches wide and a foot or more long for a horse to put his foot into.
Neighbors also sent word to the Commissioner, but becoming tired of waiting, and fearing an accident, came to the police station Saturday night and reported it. The police acted promptly and placed a lantern on the spot. Is the Commissioner waiting for an additional appropriation?

His Idea of It.

The moon shone faintly through the mist, and it seemed to trouble the boy who was looking at it from a window.
"Papa," he said at last, "if they can't make it look any brighter than that, I should think the officers would get after the moonshiners." For a long time the father was undecided
whether the boy had got off a good thing unwittingly, or whether the germ
of the professional humorist had taken root in the boy and needed to be whaled out of him.—Chicago Post.

The New Switch.

A new working model of the Boston
Electric Switch Co.'s electric and automatic switch was received Saturday night, and was on exhibition at the office of the company in the Savings Bank Building until this noon when it was taken to Providence. The new model is a handsome affair and needs
no explanation to understand its working.The car used in the model is the exact counterpart of an electric car.
It runs on a track some six feet in length. On each end of the car are the two foot levers by which the motor-man regulates and throws the switch in either direction. One end of the platform, upon which the track is laid, is fitted with the Steadman Automatic Switch, and the other end with the Boston Electric Switch.It is the intention of the company to manufacture its own switches, and in order to build a plant for their manufacture the company will dispose of some of its stock at less than par for a limited period. Harry S. Crane has been appointed local agent for the company, and he reports that there has been an increased demand for the stock
during the past ten days, and thinks that it will be but a few weeks before the company will sell all of the stock desired, and that the price will then be advanced. He further says, that the switch has the unqualified endorsement of well known railroad men and orders for several of the switches have already been received."Wait Awhile," a railroad station in New South Wales, has just won a fight to retain its name, which the railroad company wished to change.Stirrups were unknown to the

DOOR DECORATION.

Wrought Iron Work Becoming Very Popular For This Purpose.Special interest usually attaches to the entrance of a house, and the popular demand for all kinds of decorative wrought iron shows to what an extent
this interest has grown in America, according to a writer in The Ladies' World, who discourses on artistic door
trimming of this description as follows:
Beautiful examples of wrought iron
may be found on our public buildings and in wealthy homes all over the

ARTISTIC DOOR TRIMMINGS.

country. In the rapid spread of decorative ideas the door, as preserved a smooth, even surface, is one of the places on which decoration in wrought iron shows to splendid advantage. Provided the ornamentation is kept within reasonable limits and so as not to interfere with its usefulness, there seems to be no end to the manner in which wrought iron may be applied with advantage to the doorway. The ornamentation of a door should be entrusted to none but a competent workman.
Otherwise the whole general appearance of the house may be spoiled.The first thought in the decoration of a door should be due regard for the general aspect of the house it is designed to adorn. It will be readily seen that what would be suitable for a semi-detached or country house would be out of place in a city block. The design accompanying this article conveys a definite idea of what is meant by artistic door trimming.The hinges, being the main feature of the door, should be strong, in accordance with the weight and thickness of the door. The trimming may be flat or rounded up, as individual taste may suggest, and be attached to the door with large wrought iron nails or screws, the whole finished in dull
black.The handle, as here shown, is smooth and of an oblong shape, as being preferable to the fanciful articles so much in use. If a quaint, old fashioned effect is desired, have the manufacturer finish the ironwork with a rough, uneven surface and show all the hammer marks or hand work. The Germans are very proficient at this kind of work, good imitations of their old fashioned knockers, knobs, lamps,
etc., having been successfully duplicated by workmen in this country.

Warm Sleeping Socks For Winter.

The following instructions are for warm and comfortable sleeping socks,
which are very easily knitted: Two skeins of four ply wool and two bone or wooden needles, No. 5. Cast on 68

KNITTED SLEEPING SOCKS.

stitches—this is for the sole of the sock—and increase one stitch by picking up and knitting the stitch immediately below the second stitch for four rows, thus making 72 stitches on the needle. Knit plain for 16 rows. You now begin to decrease for the instep
and ankle in the following manner:
Knit 34 stitches, knit the thirty-fifth and thirty-sixth together, knit the thirty-seventh and thirty-eighth together, knit 34. In the next row knit 33, knit the thirty-fourth and thirty-fifth together, knit the thirty-sixth and the thirty-seventh together, knit 33.
Decrease thus in every row, twice exactly in the middle, until there are 32 stitches left. Knit 24 rows plain without any decrease. Work about an inch in a rib of two plain, two purl. Cast off very loosely and sew up. This number of stitches makes a full sized sock.

Who Should Give Wedding Presents?

Who should and who should not send presents? It is expected that none but relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom and members of the two families shall send wedding presents, and the mere social acquaintance who violates this rule shows a woeful
lack of knowledge, according to one authority on the polite conveniences.
As a rule, jewels are presented only
by relatives or the very closest friends, and the same thing may be said of small silver and furniture. During the last few years the custom of presenting objects of art in rare porcelains, ceramics and various metals, instead of pieces of table silver, has greatly increased.To get the best results you must use the best materials.You need expect only poor laundering with poor soap, but you will find dainty articles that have been washed with Ivory Soap restored to their original freshness with unchanged colors.Nothing that will stand the application of plain water will be injured by Ivory Soap.

IVORY SOAP IS 99 1/100 PER CENT. PURE.

THE TIME HAS COME

For Readjustment of Wages In the Cotton Manufacturing Industry.

New England Will Suffer by Prolonged Agitation.

Logic of Events Has Forced Employers to a Point Where They Must Act.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 24.—Manufacturers are discussing the operative's request for a conference on the wage question in a very serious way. It appears that the unions are wholly in earnest in making a demand for an increase, it is felt now that the mills will be compelled to deal with the matter along new lines. There seems to be no plan by which this city can dodge the difficulty of being the first battleground in wage troubles, and this being the case, many of the mill men feel that the time has come to agree upon some arrangement by which trade will not be disturbed until both sides allow that just causes exist for it. Now that a large portion of the goods produced are sold under a trust agreement, it is thought that a wage agreement will not be hard to arrive at in so far as the mill men are concerned.

The manufacturers' side of the case as it stands today is clearly stated by one of the men who have met the operative's representatives in the last 20 years. In substance he says that if the figures of the past are to be the basis on which operatives make their request, an advance cannot be granted. He says the margin is not 65 cents, as cloth is not selling at 2 1/2 cents, the new quotation, but at 2 3/4 cents. One of the local manufacturers has the original paper wherein Robert H. Ward agreed that the margin should be at least 85 cents before the present wage scale should go into effect. He says, too, that it has never yet been agreed what percentage a mill shall earn before considering the operative's right to participate in the profits, so that in that respect there is no agreed basis on which both parties can rely. It has been the custom hitherto to work on the basis of the market price of cotton and the market price of cloth, and if that is to be taken now, there is no room for his opinion, for an advance. This opinion is very generally held by the mill men. He says that he questions very much whether the operatives should participate in what he terms the speculative profits of the mills.

At the present time the mills are showing large earnings, but they come from the sale of goods produced a year or more ago from cheap cotton and cheap supplies, as well as a lower wage list than is now in force. Supplies were 25 percent cheaper a year ago than they now are, labor was 12 1/2 percent cheaper, and cotton was as low as 5 cents per pound, while today it is 7 1/2 cents.

Some mills have profited greatly by these conditions, while others could not profit by them because of being compelled to sell hand to mouth to meet interest, payrolls and other expenses. Generally speaking, he thought the operatives had less reason to ask for an increase now than they had three months ago, when cotton was cheaper and goods were substantially as high as they now are.

It will be seen, therefore, that manufacturers can make out a strong case from their viewpoint; but despite this, the members of the Textile council say they never saw a time when the conditions warranted an advance as they now do.

They figure the margin as 76 cents. They take the quoted price for narrow goods at 2 cents a yard and cotton at 7 1/2 cents a pound. They feel that regardless of figures used in past conferences, they have reason for believing that the mills can make as much money on a lower margin than they have been led to think was possible. They feel of course that they should participate in any profits made by the mills because they come from market conditions. They argue that they have had to suffer losses in the past that arose from causes other than market conditions and hence they should be allowed to get the benefit of the management's skill and shrewdness in buying and selling.

Taking the two arguments as they appear, therefore, it would seem that manufacturers are justified in thinking that the time has come for a readjustment of relations with the unions or the operatives. It is now within the power of a few men to disturb trade seriously. Not only is this city the greatest sufferer by prolonged agitation, but all New England suffers more or less in its cotton trade through the effect. The strong unions here have on the other unions that act with them. Manufacturers do not want to advance wages under the present conditions, but the logic of events has forced them to a point where they must confer, discuss, and agitate, or be compelled to face the danger of a curtailment in product at a time when there is profit to be obtained.

Prospect of Trouble at Brockton.

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 24.—The local cutters' union last night repudiated the American Federation of Labor and its action in endorsing the Boot and Shoe Workers' union in the latter's attempt to raise dues and bring about biennial instead of yearly sessions. When the dues were advanced, some four months ago, the cutters and many of the shop workmen here protested, and eventually withdrew, but not until it was voted to refer the matter to the American Federation of Labor. The latter's decision in favor of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union is strongly resented, and last night the cutters voted to repudiate their former action, standing by the decision, and also passed a vote condemning the American Federation of Labor. It is feared here that other local unions will follow, and that there will be another winter of labor agitation.

Was Larney Burned to Death?
Westminster, Vt., Oct. 24.—The town authorities are not convinced that in the burning of the shanty in the woods of this town Saturday night a man supposed to be J. Larney of Worcester, Mass., lost his life. They incline to the belief that he escaped and has left this session, heard scholarly addresses from men who stand forth as prominent in the Congregational denomination, from the governor of the commonwealth, and from Professor Peabody of Harvard; it listened to reports that must have spurred every worker in the church to new efforts; it fought an opposition to enlarge its numbers, and it adopted, without a word of discussion, the most progressive declaration of principles that has yet been given to a church of the liberal faith. The evening session was without business. The several addresses were listened to with great attention.

A Busy Session.
Boston, Oct. 24.—The Universalist biennial general conference, at its first session, heard scholarly addresses from men who stand forth as prominent in the Congregational denomination, from the governor of the commonwealth, and from Professor Peabody of Harvard; it listened to reports that must have spurred every worker in the church to new efforts; it fought an opposition to enlarge its numbers, and it adopted, without a word of discussion, the most progressive declaration of principles that has yet been given to a church of the liberal faith. The evening session was without business. The several addresses were listened to with great attention.

Four Years in Prison.
Providence, Oct. 24.—Robert Henderson, a self-confessed horse thief of youthful years, was arraigned in the supreme court yesterday on four indictments, two for setting fires, one for stealing a horse and one for breaking and entering a barn and stealing two horses. On the indictments Henderson was sentenced to serve three years in state prison on the first indictment and one year each on the other three. The sentences on three indictments are to run concurrently, so that while the sentence would appear to be six years it is, in reality, but four years.

Dahlgren's Speed Trial.
Bath, Me., Oct. 24.—Torpedo boat Dahlgren had part of her official speed trial yesterday over the regular course off Southport, but as she did not start until afternoon her engines did not get into proper working order until late, so that her maximum speed of 24 1/2 knots was not attained until nearly dark. The final run will be made today, when the builders are confident the 30 1/2 knots required by the contract will be reached.

Audience Scared by Smoke.
Boston, Oct. 24.—The presence of smoke in the upper gallery of the Howard theatre last night, and a cry of fire, occasioned almost a panic among the audience. Half of those in the orchestra tried to rush out, but, fortunately, were quieted before serious damage was done, or injuries received, although four women fainted. The smoke, it was afterwards learned, drifted in from a neighboring tailor's shop.

Colonel Thomas Leaves Sanitarium.
Boston, Oct. 24.—Henry A. Thomas, postmaster of Boston, left the sanitarium at Brookline yesterday after several months' treatment, and he has gone to Lynn to further recuperate his strength in a private home. Dr. Harris, who has been with Colonel Thomas since he went to the sanitarium, will be with him at Lynn. Colonel Thomas appears to be much improved in health.

Took French Leave.
Portland, Me., Oct. 24.—Four boys have escaped from the state reform school. They are supposed to have headed toward Boston. One named Mulligan belonged in this city. The other three are from the eastern part of the state.

To Direct Exposition.
Washington, Oct. 24.—William I. Buchanan has resigned his position as United States minister to Argentina, to take effect at the expiration of his leave of absence, to accept the position of director general of the Pan-American exposition. His resignation was accepted yesterday and W. P. Lord of Oregon was commissioned his successor.

WILLIAM I. BUCHANAN,

Mayor's Power Expanded.
San Francisco, Oct. 24.—The supreme court yesterday rendered two decisions upholding the new charter adopted by the people of San Francisco at the last municipal election. The contents were made by incumbent county officials to test the validity of the charter, which gives to the mayor almost unlimited powers in the conduct of municipal affairs. The decision has a direct bearing on the municipal election ordered for Nov. 7. Had the charter not been upheld the election could not have taken place.

DEATH OF FATHER McCABE.

He Assisted John Boyle O'Reilly in His Escape From an Australian Prison.

Waseca, Minn., Oct. 24.—Rev. P. M. McCabe, a well-known Roman Catholic clergyman, is dead of Bright's disease at St. Mary's, a small mission near Waseca. His death recalls an exploit of international interest in which he was a conspicuous actor. It was Father McCabe who was instrumental in liberating the political prisoner, John Boyle O'Reilly, who afterwards became the noted poet.

O'Reilly was detected propagating Fenianism in England. He was arrested and sentenced to penal servitude. Father McCabe was stationed at the Australian prison as chaplain, and to him O'Reilly confided his intention of making his escape. The priest offered to aid him. On a dark night in 1869 the two met by appointment and the priest and the prisoner exchanged clothes. In this disguise O'Reilly departed in a ship without food or drink. After three days of terrible exposure to the perils of the sea O'Reilly was picked up by an American whaler and carried to Liverpool. Thence he made his way quickly to the United States.

The priest reported to the prison officials that he had been waylaid by the convict, who compelled him to make the exchange of clothing. When the truth leaked out later on Father McCabe was obliged to make a hasty departure from Australia. He came to this country and applied to Bishop Ireland for a change in his diocese about 18 years ago. He had remained in Minnesota ever since.

Declined Peace Interview.
Washington, Oct. 24.—General Otis' account of the last Philippine peace overture is as follows: "Message received at Angeles under flag of truce expressed desire of honorable President Aguinaldo to send commission to Manila to arrange difficulties connected with delivery of Spanish prisoners and to discuss matter of particular character. Reply returned that commission accredited by anyone other than General Aguinaldo, general-in-chief of insurgent forces, could not be recognized or received. No later correspondence."

More Fighting in Philippines.
Manila, Oct. 24.—The insurgents around Calamba and Angeles have bothered the Americans lately with their repeated attacks. Forces under Major Cheatham sailed yesterday from Calamba, drove the Filipinos from their trenches and pursued them for three miles, inflicting heavy loss on them. One American was killed and three were wounded. Lieutenant Ferguson, 20 scouts, reconnoitering near Labao, encountered a party of mounted Filipinos. He killed six of them and captured eight.

Pennsylvania Forests Abolished.
Conneville, Pa., Oct. 24.—Terrific forest fires are along the crest and sides of Chestnut ridge. The air is so laden with the blinding blue smoke that the citizens of Conneville cannot see across the Troughlophen river into New Haven, and every house is filled with the haze. The fires have crept toward and are drifting their burning embers over South Conneville. Ahead of the flames may be seen flocks of weary birds, squirrels and other game.

Heavy Loss by Robbery.
London, Oct. 24.—A sensational burglary took place at the Savoy hotel, where the room of Mrs. Stockwell of New York, widow of a New York jeweler, was entered and robbed. It is understood, of jewelry valued at £10,000, and currency to the amount of £5000. Mrs. Stockwell has been staying at the hotel for some time with a nephew. The apartment was entered while they were at dinner. Detectives are at work on the case, but with no result thus far.

Six Victims of Gas.
Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 24.—A heavy explosion of gas occurred yesterday in the Nottingham colliery of the Lehigh and Wilkesbarre Coal company at Plymouth. Five men and a boy were badly burned. The boy and three of the men may die.

Good Afternoon.

A reader of the Ledger suggests the Nancy Brackett estate on Hancock street as a good site for the new depot for Quincy. It would in many respects be an improvement on the present location,
and when we have a grand new station we want to bring it to light, and not hide it from view. Many when in the vicinity of the First church now have difficulty in locating the depot.

Those who are continually urging that we should withdraw our troops from Cuba are referred to the following extract from a letter just received by a New York merchant engaged in the Cuban trade. It is from a sugar planter in Santiago province. The writer says: "We are much harassed by cattle thieves and are wholly without government protection. We are compelled to keep a force of twelve armed men by day and four by night to protect the place and property from fire and thieves." This is a worse condition than existed during the war
for then the planters were at any rate
sure of protection of the Spanish troops. It is little to be wondered at that "La Lucha" in a recent editorial should observe that "the Cubans are now fearful that the Americans will leave them to paddle their own canoe."

The new 7.56 A. M. train to Boston, which stops at Wollaston, is already popular. Quincy should have 15-minute service to Boston between 6.30 A. M. and 9, and half hourly the remainder of the day. There is need also of more frequent trains from Boston early in the morning. When one is in a hurry and happens to miss a train by a few minutes it is aggravating to wait an hour. People won't do it; they take the electric instead. It is frequently the case that passengers by the Midland and Providence divisions, and also by the Boston & Albany, arrive in Boston just too late for Quincy trains.
A city of the size of Quincy which is also the station for Quincy Point, North Weymouth and Houghs Neck, situated on the main line of the Plymouth division and patronizing the railroad liberally, should receive better treatment. On Sundays, Quincy should have more than one train to Boston between 9.33 A. M. and 5.12 P. M.; trains at 12.12 and 2.12 would give much better satisfaction. The same is true relative to south bound trains, there being but one between 8.58 A. M. and 4.28 P. M.

Candidate Cain has the courage to come out and define his position on several questions of more or less importance in a letter of acceptance.
Whether this is wise there will be some doubt, as parties are not usually united on side issues. When Mr. Cain says, "Above all, I am a Democrat," he does not not invite the support of independents who often have the balance of power, or of his friends who may be Republicans. Those who favor the Post bill know that Representative Sprague was recorded in favor. After his experience with the Fitchburg railroad and the Hoosac tunnel, it is doubtful if the State embarks again in the railroad business soon. States and towns which have given financial aid
to railroads have found them very unprofitable. Mr. Cain does not tell us what revelations he refers to relative to judges, when advocates their election by the people. Perhaps he refers to the disclosure that judges in New York
and other states buy their elections,
contributing large sums to campaign funds. Can this be the justice that Massachusetts wants? Republicans are probably as anxious for the restriction of department stores and trusts as the Democrats, and the fact that a Legislature and City Council overwhelmingly Republican, permitted the people to vote on the eight-hour law shows friendship for labor.

Drift of Opinion.

One hundred and twenty-three years ago the people of the American colonies were fighting Great Britain because she claimed the right to tax them without representation. Today the British are waging war with the Boers because the latter tax British subjects and refuse them representation. The times change, and the manner.—Hartford Telegram.

The blacks of South Africa have little love either Boer or Briton.
There is no reason why they should.
Neither of these representatives of a higher civilization has cared much for the welfare of the colored man, and both have treated him shamefully.
The chances are that if the blacks are drawn into the conflict they will fight with equal zeal against either of the Caucasian antagonists.—New Bedford Standard.

The report that Admiral Dewey was advised by his physician to give up his proposed trip to Atlanta, on account of poor health, shows that even his strong constitution is unequal to the strain he has been through since his arrival home. But he will not allow himself to be killed by well-meaning friends, and the good advice given him by the doctor will be heeded. As he himself remarked, he will soon be out of the show business, and be allowed to settle down to every day affairs like any other distinguished officer of the naval establishment.—Lynn Item.

The idea that the trusts have been built up on the protective tariff is scouted by all intelligent students of the question, because many of the largest and most powerful trusts are working fields absolutely without protection. The Standard Oil Trust, the most powerful of all industrial combinations, has been built up without any protective tariff on its product.
That the abuses of the trust must be met by other remedies is asserted by Bryan himself, who wishes to depend chiefly upon Federal supervision and State license taxes.—Omaha Bee.

Samuel Gompers, the head of the American Federation of Labor is reported to hold that the government is powerless to prevent trusts, and that it is useless to legislate against them. He is partly right and partly wrong. Combinations of capital are inevitable, and are for the benefit of the public when the economy of the consolidation is given to the public. But government interference will probably be needed to prevent trusts from preying upon the people and to give the people the benefit of the consolidations which are made under the inexorable laws of trade. Certain conditions are coming to be recognized as artificial, and as promotive of trusts, and these should be destroyed by legislation if no other power avails.—Fitchburg Sentinel.

But then why should men and women marry oftener than they do?
They are trained from infancy to distrust each other. The wonder is that they marry at all, and without going to pieces in every instance. There is only one thing to be done—to bring up boys and girls to understand each other, to be mutually considerate, trustful, and loyal. Sometimes it seems as though a great war of the sexes was being waged in the world, where peace and harmony ought to prevail. To bring about that peace, work must begin in our nurseries and our play grounds, our young mothers and our fathers helping in the task. In no family, moreover, ought men and women be allowed to criticise each other as men and women.
—Harper's Bazar.

Short Measure.

People cannot be too careful how they purchase apples and other articles from peddlers who they know nothing about. In nine cases out of ten they are bound to be cheated, as many Milton people were Monday by three men who claimed to hail from Norwell who later when arrested, gave their names as Daniel Donahoe, Daniel Coughlan and John H. Seerp, visited Milton and travelled from house to house peddling apples. Their price was thirty cents a peck but when they could not get thirty they would take twenty-five cents. People who measured the apples, when purchased were surprised to find that they had been given short measure. In some cases a peck was found to measure but five quarts,
and in another case a gentleman who supposed he had purchased half a bushel of apples found he had but ten quarts and in still another case a gentleman who purchased a bushel of potatoes found that instead of sixty pounds he had but forty-two. Word was sent to the police, and although the men tried to get away, they were unsuccessful and were locked up. They were brought into court at Quincy this morning.

NOW PERMANENT.

Temperance League Adopt Con- stitution and Elect Officers.

Articles of agreement having been signed by the requisite number of gentlemen for the incorporation of the Citizens' Temperance League, a meeting was held Monday evening to adopt a constitution and elect officers.

The incorporators are C. T. Sherman,
Edward Southworth, John Ramsdell,
Deleware King, William H. Mitchell,
Rev. H. O. Cassidy, W. F. Hoehn,
Frank F. Prescott, C. F. Cummings,
M. P. Hayward and E. E. Fredette.

A constitution was reported, and taken up section by section, discussed, amended and adopted.

These officers were then elected:
President, C. T. Sherman.

Vice President, Deleware King.
Directors for 3 years,—C. T. Sherman,
Miss Eva M. Brown, Rev. E. N.
Hardy, Henry M. Faxon, Rev. W. W.
Dorman and Rev. Robert Westly Peach.
Directors for 2 years,—C. F.
Cummings, Andrew Milne, John O.
Hall, Jr., Jonas Shackley, T. B.
Pollard and Rev. H. O. Cassidy.

Directors for 1 year,—W. F. Hoehn, Deleware King, W. T. Isaac, John J.
Reardon, John Ramsdell, Rev. Preston Gurney.

After the adjournment of the meeting the directors met and organized as
follows:

President, C. T. Sherman.
Vice President, Deleware King.
Secretary, W. F. Hoehn.
Treasurer, John O. Hall, Jr.
Trustees, Henry M. Faxon, for 3 year, Theophilus King for 2 years, and Edward Southworth for 1 year.

Solicitations for membership and funds will commence immediately, that effective work may be done in the campaign preceding the municipal election of December 5.

candidate in the Second Norfolk Senatorial district.

Two weeks from today will be election day.

A well known Wollaston gentleman,
who by the way is a Democrat, in conversation said that if Mr. Hall was nominated for Mayor by the Republicans that he would carry Wollaston by a large majority. He doubted if the Democratic candidate would get sixty votes.

Some Quincy people made some very close guesses on the decisive cup race for the Globe prizes. The Ledger has already heard of one who was within a few seconds of the Columbia time, but way off on Shamrock time. Another vice versa, and a third within 2 minutes and 34 seconds of both.

The finals of the tournament of the Wollaston Golf club will be between Porter and Smith and will probably be played Saturday. In the semi finals on Monday Freeman was in hard luck
as he broke two sticks, giving Porter
the match 2 up, 1 to go, 27 holes.
Smith beat Atherton, 2 up, 30 holes.

The Cook and Her Troubles.

There is nothing that worries the cook quite so much as a balky range. A range that won't cook and bake as it ought to or just as it should. You'll never know the real modern pleasure of cooking until you try a GLENWOOD RANGE.

These truly wonderful ranges, built as they are on the most scientific ideas, are capable of doing work never dreamed of by the old time cook. Housekeeping becomes a pleasure with a Glenwood Range. Coal bills and Grocery bills are cut down.
Kitchens usually cluttered up and over heated are kept as neat as wax, and work is done with a Glenwood Range in about half the time required by any other range.

If you wish to make house-keeping a pleasure, own a Glenwood Range. We make a reasonable allowance for your old range, set a new Glenwood in your house in perfect working order,
and give you written guarantee.
"Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded."

BOSTON ELECTRIC SWITCH CO.

R. T. JOHNSTON, President. A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.
Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose
of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch
operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time
simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric
Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable
recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting
table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved
for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

POSITION DEFINED.

Candidate Cain Says "Above All I am a Democrat."

Thomas F. Cain, one of the Democratic candidates for the House of Representatives has written a letter to the officers of the convention, which is given in full:

"I wish through you to thank the delegates of the Fifth Norfolk Democratic Representative Convention, and through the delegates the Democratic citizens of Quincy, for the nomination given me on the 11th instant; also for nominating such a sterling Democrat as my colleague, William A. Jordan.

"In accepting the nomination, I believe that I am fully aware of the responsibilities incurred by so doing, and I wish at this time to extend to you the assurance of an honorable, upright and honest contest believing that it will surely result in the election of two Democrats who will represent Quincy in a Democratic manner, with all the firmness, energy and strength available.

"I wish at this time to extend my heartfelt thanks and appreciation to those who supported me last year,—especially the voters of my home ward, who have steadfastly supported me in previous years.

"As there will be considerable legislation of importance to come before the General Court during the coming year and being a nominee, I believe that it is incumbent upon me to state my position:

"Above all, I am a Democrat and believe as did that ideal Democrat, our lamented governor, the Hon. William E. Russell, in legislation for what Lincoln was wont to call the 'plain' people; therefore, legislation for their benefit would at all times command my best efforts.

"At each of the last three sessions, there has been introduced a bill regulating telephone service. From the support which has been given by a certain Boston daily paper, it has become known as the 'Post Bill.' It will again come before the next legislature, and if elected, I propose doing every thing possible to aid its passage.

"The New York Central will apply for ratification of a ninety-nine year lease of the B. & A. Railroad, guaranteeing in return to the stockholders an annual dividend of 8 per cent. I should feel it my duty to oppose such a lease and should favor the State assuming its right of purchase. Such action would be the first great step toward public ownership, and would cause the whole country to turn their eyes toward Massachusetts as in 1776 and witness the beginning of another revolution, which, although of a different character, of nearly as much importance. Many experts declare the B. & A. lease worth from 10 to 14 per cent; the State can borrow money at 3 per cent. The difference would mean millions to our State treasury, whether the State operated it or even leased it to some other railroad. Again, the State might apply the dividends to a reduction of freight rates, which would be of considerable advantage to our commercial interests, as Boston would undoubtedly become the leading port of the United States if we had lower freight rates to the West.

"On other matters, I will say in general, that I believe in the eight hour law, that department stores should be restricted in order to protect the small storekeeper; that in view of certain revelations, judges should be directly elected rather than be appointed by governors. I also believe in the income tax, the restriction of all trusts and monopolies, that all elections should be direct, and in the public ownership of all public utilities; also in the initiative and referendum,—namely,—that upon petition of a small percentage of voters all legislation should be referred to the people.

"In conclusion I will say, that my position on many matters not mentioned here will be in accordance with my record in the Council of '97 and '98."

The Kind You Have Always Bought

Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fitch

—One of the dramatic events of the present local theatrical season will be the first presentation here of Denman Thompson's great success "The Sunshine of Paradise Alley" which takes place at Quincy Music hall, Oct. 30th. It is a contrast picture to "The Home-Steak," and has a pungent undercurrent of human nature to keep it going through four acts, and makes the audience think a good deal better of "human nature" before it is over. The play is now in its fourth year of continuous success. In the company are eighteen players of recognized ability, six of whom were in the original cast, including the famous Verdi Ladies Quartette.

HAUNTED HOUSE.

Mysterious Midnight Visitors at Atlantic Residence.

When a sensation or anything out of the ordinary is wanted, Atlantic comes forward and fills the bill. It is some time since this section has had a genuine sensation, but it has it now in a haunted house. Just whose departed spirit haunts this house is unknown but the unwelcome visitor makes his or her appearance nearly every night along about midnight, and the occupants of the house are aroused by a noise that resembles someone sawing wood upon the roof of the house. The noise continues until the last stroke of midnight, when it stops and a deathlike stillness prevails and all that can be heard is the measured-like tread of Officer John Holloran as he makes his nightly rounds.

The sawing of wood cannot be laid at his door for he says he is not often taken that way. The house in question is situated on Myrtle street, and is at present occupied by a family named Cullen. This is the third family that has occupied the house recently. The other two families were tenants of short duration, for they could not stand the strain of being awakened every night by some ghostly visitor sawing wood upon their roof. The Cullen family have not occupied the house a great while and their days there are numbered, as Mrs. Cullen declares that she cannot stand it any longer, so they are looking for a house.

The house is owned by Mr. Ramsdell and about two years ago was occupied by a lady named Davis. One hot August day the neighbors discovered that Mrs. Davis had not been seen for a day or two and rumors of the wildest kind were soon flying about Atlantic. In time these rumors reached the ears of Officer Holloran, and he promptly made an investigation and was horrified to find Mrs. Davis dead in one of the upper rooms. It turned out, however, that she had died from natural causes and what promised to be a murder sensation was checkmated.

Shortly after a new family moved in, and then came the nightly sawing of wood. This family stood it but a few days and then got out. The house remained vacant some months, when another family moved in only to meet with the same experience. For a long time the house again remained vacant. Then Mr. Cullen moved in and is now about to move out.

Whether the seemingly wood sawing is the result of wind at play upon the shingles of the house, or imagination, is not as yet determined although there is certainly something that disturbs the slumbers of the occupants. As far as known none of the neighbors have heard any of the noises which seem to be confined to this one particular house.

Early Short Coats.

The cut shows a smart and useful little demiseason coat of a popular order. It is made in a light tan box cloth ornamented with rows of stitching and fits closely at the back and sides. The shape of the revers and the single breasted front give a graceful and lengthening effect to the figure.

A POPULAR LITTLE COAT.

In vogue. One fashion that bids fair to attach itself to the modest cloth jacket this season is that of supplying it with a number of extra detachable revers collars to be worn according to the demands of the occasion. These may include velvet of deep rich colors and white satin, and all must be profusely machine stitched.

COOKING IN STONEWARE.

A Demonstration of the Merits of Kitchen Pottery.

A "bachelor housekeeper" who is endeavoring to bring about the renaissance of kitchen pottery presents its claims after the following convincing fashion in Table Talk:

A kitchen in which pottery appears in plenitude for the various kinds of its capable service waits an odor of purity and fascinates with a sense of cleanliness. In numerous kinds of cookery it has no equal, and in some there are dishes one might better abandon than attempt to prepare and serve without its aid. Many who are using iron, tin and copper to the exclusion of earthenware do so in ignorance of the perfect adaptability and service of the stone pot.

For the simple forms of boiling, broiling and frying the metals are more convenient, but for baking, pot roasting, braising, stewing and fricasseeing it is far superior to all its rivals. Cooking in the stone pot simplifies the preparation of all the dishes that come under these heads, relieves the cook from close attention and constant stirring to defeat the imperfect action of applied heat and performs its work with unfailing accuracy and without accident. It gives its best and almost exclusive service in the baking oven and under close cover. Few avail themselves of its reliable and easy use, and being, as I declare myself, an experimenting and progressive housekeeper, I wish to recommend it to others who are anxious to learn and know for themselves of its unequalled merits. Any cook with one demonstration understand perfectly its superior action under the influence of heat, and for such the details of preparation will be necessary in but one case. I shall therefore confine myself to a single recipe and formula.

Procure a large earthen pot with a closely fitting cover of the same material. This may be found in almost any house furnishing store. Make the first attempt with the ordinary and familiar fricasse of disjointed chicken. After preparing, sprinkle each piece with salt and pepper and dredge with a little flour. Lay the pieces singly in the pot, which has been rubbed with a little butter or melted suet. Pour in a pint or more of hot water, just enough to appear toward the surface of the chicken. Dredge the top again with flour, put on the cover and set in the oven. The oven should be very hot for the first 15 minutes, after which the heat should be reduced to the lowest degree that will keep the pot gently simmering.

At the outset it may be necessary to examine the pot occasionally to ascertain oneself with the action of the oven's heat, but when this is once ascertained the pot may be left undisturbed from the beginning till the dish is about done. Young chickens will require only two hours; older ones, three to four, more water and the slowest possible heat to bring them out tender.

The chicken will be cooked to a point that the meat will easily come from the bone and yet may be served in as perfect form as when laid in the pot. It will have all the richness of a roast without the dryness that quite forbids the open oven baking of a chicken. It will have all the juiciness of the fricasse without any of the wateriness which one wishes to avoid.

The Souvenir Patriots are now on sale.

KRUGER AND JOUBERT

Said to Have Led an Attack Upon Yule's Forces.

Latter May Have Been Wiped Out in the Onslaught.

White Unable to Follow Up Successes, and British Forces Divided.

War Office Evidently Has News Which It Is Withholding From the Public.

London, Oct. 24.—Advices from South Africa state that on Sunday a force of fully 9000 Boers attacked Glencoe and Dundee and compelled the British forces under General Yule to retreat.

The Boer forces were led by General Joubert and President Kruger. They swept upon the British positions with an impetuosity that was irresistible, and the English troops, after suffering heavy losses, were compelled to fall back.

The utmost anxiety is felt for General Yule's command. It is thought possible that his line of retreat to Ladysmith was cut off. If so, it is possible that all his force was annihilated.

Ladysmith itself is now menaced. The augmented Boer force is evidently burning to retrieve the reverses at Glencoe and Elandslaagte.

The battalion of the Eighteenth Hussars which pursued the retreating Boers from Glencoe has never been heard from. It is feared the whole troop was killed or captured.

An extended list of the British casualties at the battle of Elandslaagte places the number of officers killed at five and wounded at 30, and the number of non-commissioned officers and men killed at 27 and wounded at 175, the total number of casualties being 247. Ten men are missing.

A dispatch to The Times from Colerburg, Cape Colony, says: "The situation is grave. The Boers will be reinforced from Driekop. No defense is possible. The town guard will retire on Naauwpoort, on the approach of the enemy. The Driekop force is estimated at 1500 men. The report of the fighting at Glencoe has been placarded at Bethulie, the frontier town on the east London line, as a brilliant Boer victory."

It appears certain, however, that the brilliant victory at Elandslaagte was productive of no effect for the relief of Glencoe and the very reticence and brevity of Lord Wolseley's communication are only too ominous. It seems to be worded to prepare the public for bad news; and it is very likely that General Yule has been compelled to abandon the wounded and the prisoners at Dundee because his force is too weak to hold the four and a half miles separating Dundee from Glencoe.

Probably General Yule believes he can better protect Dundee from an enemy advancing from the northwest by concentrating all his available strength at Glencoe, where there are now 3500 men and three batteries. In the meantime efforts will be made to reopen the railway and to get reinforcements from Ladysmith.

It is expected that Commandant Erasmus has by this time joined Commandant General Joubert, and that their combined columns amount to some 10,000 or 11,000 men, while the Free State Boers, now threatening Ladysmith from the east and a column reported to be coming through Zululand, must also be reckoned with.

In short, General White has been unable to follow up his successes and is obliged to remain at Ladysmith without being able to restore railway communication, which is probably broken at other points besides Elandslaagte.

Thus the enemy, although their original plan, which is supposed to have been Colonel Schiel's, failed, may be fairly credited with having isolated General Yule's brigade and divided the British forces in Natal. General White may find himself in a tight place, needing all his experience in Indian and Burmese fighting to extricate himself.

It is quite evident that the war office has news which has been withheld from the public, and if the situation as here sketched is confirmed, Boer divisions may be expected at other frontier points.

Up to midnight the war office was besieged with inquiries, the heavy lists of British losses causing much heart burning.

"If this," said a workingman, who was reading the list, "is the price of suzerainty, good God, we are paying in full."

It is regarded as impossible that General White may yet be compelled to concentrate all the Natal forces at Ladysmith and await the arrival of the army corps.

The British victories in Natal, following each other in quick succession and accompanied by heavy losses on the side of the Boers, bear striking testimony to the valor of the vanquished Boers. They appear to have fallen victims to the very plan which they counted on to drive the British into the sea. They have been beaten in detail by counter strokes, carefully considered and brilliantly carried out, in the face of courageous opposition, which has done much to increase British respect for the burghers, whose splendid valor and determination, it is universally admitted, reached the highest level.

Fuller accounts of Saturday's battle at Elandslaagte emphasize the splendid gallantry exhibited on both sides, and the superiority of the British in a pitched battle, although the Boers fought with the greatest tenacity to the last, only yielding when further fighting was hopeless.

The parliamentary secretary, Mr. Wyndham, made a statement in the house of commons yesterday, saying:

"Lord Wolseley sums up the position in Natal as follows: 'In the battle of Elandslaagte, Oct. 21, two guns were captured from the Boers, who lost heavily. A large column of the enemy appeared advancing from the north and west of General Yule, who consequently had fallen back from Dundee, and was concentrating at Glencoe Junction. In this operation he gathered in the wounded. General White was in position at Ladysmith, and is being reinforced from Pietermaritzburg. The enemy appears to be in large numerical superiority.'"

Colonel Chisholm, the only British officer killed, was formerly attached to the Ninth lancers. He served with distinction in the Afghan war, and organized the present Imperial Light Horse guards, a majority of whom are refugees from the raid. The death of General Viljoen is a severe blow to the burghers, and the death of General Kock and the capture of General Pretorius will handicap the further movements of this column.

According to advices from Durban, Natal, the Boers have entered Zululand, a large column advancing toward Meloth.

The report that the Boers are suing for peace, or that they are likely to yield at present is not to be credited, though the Boers will probably retreat to their line of defenses in the mountain passes of Laing's Nek and Dikakeng, which they have blocked with great boulders, and where if they so desire, they would be able to hold out until the advance of General Buller, through the Orange Free State, should compel them to leave the Natal side to meet the invasion from the south.

The sensational rumors of the designs of foreign powers inimical to British rule in the recent Boer victories, though it is admitted it is difficult to explain the immense force on land and sea which Great Britain is now mobilizing in Vienna, it is reported that the British naval movements are due to a rumor that Russia, with the assent of France, is about to acquire from Spain or some other neutral station on the African coast. Elsewhere it is stated that the movements of the French Mediterranean fleet in the neighborhood of the Levant, where it could easily be joined by the Russian Black Sea fleet, via the straits of the Dardanelles, is occasioning suspicion.

A Cape Town dispatch says that the cause of General Ben Viljoen is a cause of great satisfaction to the outlanders. He is the author of a blasphemous and violent pamphlet, virtually intended to incite the Dutch of the colony to rebellion.

It is difficult to gauge exactly the amount of feeling excited among the Dutch by the recent British victories. Their behavior, on the whole, is excellent, considering the great amount of sympathy they feel for their kinsmen in the Transvaal and the Orange Free State. The Britishers receive the news of each success in Natal and of the grand stand at Mafeking with the wildest enthusiasm, but the Dutch are silent. Now and then a few, who are more violent than the rest, express their sorrow openly, but the general feeling is perhaps one of relief at the thought that the British success will not compel them to face the possibility of giving active support to the enemy.

A Brussels dispatch says that Dr. Leyds, the diplomatic representative of the Transvaal in Europe, is quoted in an interview as saying it is difficult to give an opinion on the battles fought at Glencoe and Elandslaagte, as the dispatches all emanate from British sources. He is said to have added:

"My own dispatches have not arrived, probably owing to the censorship. In the meanwhile I do not consider the situation as bad for the Boers as made out by the English telegrams, which are intended for the English public and market and are probably too optimistic. The fact that the Boers retired in order to reform later does not imply defeat. That is part of their tactics and does not prove that they had suffered seriously."

Parties of kaffirs returning home from Johannesburg to Kimberley are unable to obtain food. Already there is a famine in the Transvaal, owing to the stoppage of the transport service. Famine is almost certain.

The Daily Mail says it understands a message was received in London yesterday from Cecil Rhodes, dated at Kimberley, Oct. 19, stating, in substance, that the inhabitants of Kimberley desired to draw the attention of the government to the need of speedily sending reinforcements there, as the town was being surrounded by increasing numbers of Transvaal and Free State Boers.

The matter, according to The Daily Mail, has been submitted to the cabinet.

During the course of yesterday's proceedings, while the house of commons was discussing the report on the supplementary estimates, Patrick O'Brien, Parnellite, member for Kilkeny City, declared that the hands of Joseph Chamberlain were as black stained with blood as those of any murderer who ever mounted the scaffold.

Speaker Gully called upon Mr. O'Brien to withdraw his remarks, but he refused to do so, whereupon the house, by a vote of 316 to 28, resolved to suspend him, and he left the house, remarking: "You had better bring up another army corps, unless you want it somewhere else."

The Pretoria dispatch, giving the report of General Joubert to the government, evidently refers to the first battle at Glencoe, and the reasons why Commandant Erasmus failed to come to the assistance of Commandant Mayer cannot be fathomed. Had he done so, the British victory might have been still more dearly bought. Probably Commandant Mayer, having arrived at the rendezvous, first thought to get all the glory of wiping out the Britishers himself, and opened attack without waiting for others. If so, the Boers suffered badly because of his hastiness.

A Report From Joubert.
Pretoria, Oct. 24.—The Transvaal government has received the following dispatch from Commandant General Piet Joubert: "Commandant Lucas Meyer has had an engagement at Dundee. He managed to escape with a plan of campaign with Commandant Erasmus by messenger. Estimated that the British lost heavily. Our forces suffered, but, owing to the mist, it has been impossible to get all the details. It is reported that 10 of our force were killed, and 25 wounded."

TO WORK OF FRIARS

Is Due the Prosperity Enjoyed by Certain Classes of Filipinos.

Church Strongly Praised by Archbishop Chappelle.

His Estates, He Declares, Have Been Acquired in a Legitimate Manner.

Washington, Oct. 24.—The following statement is given out by Archbishop Chappelle of New Orleans, apostolic delegate to Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines:

"In answer to General Funston's statement made in an address to the students of Stanford university that 'if congress would drive out the friars and confiscate every inch of church property the bottom would drop out of the insurrection within one week; the inhabitants of Luzon are completely under the church,' I deem it proper to make the following public statement:

"Knowing General Funston's broad-mindedness and sense of fairness, I do not believe that he has been quoted correctly. He may have stated that the insurgents demand this as a condition of peace, but that he gave them as his own sentiments I cannot credit. From my own experience, I know how easy it is to be misquoted. All I can say is, if General Funston did make this statement, he manifested a dense ignorance of the work done by the religious orders in the archipelago. On the very face of it, however, it shows quite plainly that it did not come from one as well posted as General Funston should be on affairs in Luzon.

"He is quoted as saying: 'The inhabitants of Luzon are completely under the church.'"

"Now I would ask how can this be possible when every priest (with the exception of a few natives) in the island of Luzon outside of the walled city of Manila is a prisoner of the insurgents. For the past 18 months this state of affairs has existed, and during all this period more than 350 friars have been undergoing unheard-of torture in insurgent dungeons. This being a fact, it is hard for me to see how the islands can be under the friars."

"The insurgents have asked as one of their terms of peace the expulsion of the friars and the confiscation of the insurgents of all the church property of a fact well known; but we are told by the government officials (and I know it to be a fact from other reliable sources) that the insurgents represent only one tribe out of the 85 tribes peopling the archipelago; so the sentiments voiced by the insurgents about the friars and church property cannot be taken as the sentiments of the great body of the natives no more than they can be taken as the sentiments of the natives towards our people and government."

"What the natives are or have they owe to the friars. By them they were lifted out of savagery and brought under influences of Christianity. By them they were educated, not only in the schools, but in the fields and the workshops, were taught by them the very industries which are now the source of their prosperity."

"As to the confiscation of the estates they might as well talk of confiscating the estates of the Vanderbilts, the Astors and other millionaires, whose estates have, in the course of years, grown so wonderfully. There would be just as much right and justice in one case as in the other. The estates of the religious orders have been acquired in the usual way by purchase, and in the course of nearly four centuries have naturally grown large, but if even unbiased Protestant witnesses are to be credited, large as they are, all are used for the betterment and uplifting of the natives."

"A former British consul (a Protestant) writing on this subject, says: 'It was by means of these estates the friars introduced agriculture and settled habits of life among tribes originally nomadic; that they not only civilized the arts of civilization; that they acquired the power of inducing them to labor with a certain amount of regularity and method—the great safeguard against a relapse again into their original state of savagery. The natives,' he says, 'are with some rare exceptions in need of tutelage, without which they would fall back to the customs of their ancestors, a tutelage that no one can exercise better than the friars. Within the precincts of the monasteries are to be found carpenter shops, forges, brick and tile yards, etc., to teach the natives various trades. The villages formed around the monasteries are happy and content, in starting contrast with those who were still pagan and uncivilized.'"

"In a short time I will start for the Philippines, and I will personally investigate all charges made against religious orders, titles of property, etc. Until I have completed my work I would ask the good people of the United States not to be too ready to swallow as facts the opinions of gentlemen whose previous training and lack of opportunities to get at the real facts do not warrant their statements concerning the Catholic ministers of religion, the intellectual capacity, the moral and social condition of the people of the archipelago, to be taken as undisputed facts by sensible and just minds. I can say, therefore, be taken as an exact presentation of a condition of things in the Philippines upon which the United States government could prudently and equitably base its policy with regard to this archipelago. The church asks only justice, and I will not countenance the retention of one inch of property which is not now legitimately held."

"One word now on another subject. I see that it is said that the object of my visit to the White House on Sunday was to protest against the looting and desecrating of the churches in the Philippines. This was not the case. As to the looting and desecrating of these churches I am informed by a person whose word I cannot doubt that this looting was done by our American soldiers, but by the insurgents and the Chinese."

The Cripple

Who is crippled by accident or deformity hardly understands the meaning of the word 'crippled' as compared with the victim of rheumatism. He is not only bent and twisted, but also racked with pain so cruel that he envies the cripple who stumps along on a wooden leg, whistling as he goes. Rheumatism is known to-day as a blood disease. It can only be cured through the blood.

That powerful blood-purifying medicine, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, cleanses the blood of the acid poisons which cause rheumatism. When the blood is cleansed the rheumatism is cured.

There is no alcohol in "Golden Medical Discovery" and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.

Mr. R. J. McNight, of Cades, Williamsburg County, S. C., writes: "I had been troubled with rheumatism for twelve years, so bad at times I could not leave my bed. I was badly crippled. Tried many doctors, and two of them gave me up to die. None of them did me any good. The pains in my back, hips and legs (and at times in my head), would nearly kill me. My appetite was very bad. Everybody who saw me said I must die. I took five bottles of 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and four vials of 'Pelle's,' and to-day my health is good, after suffering twelve years with rheumatism."

The sluggish liver can be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

BOSTON ELECTRIC SWITCH CO.

R. T. JOHNSON, President. A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.
Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

PENDING EIGHT YEARS.

Claims Resulting From Seizure of Sealers to Be Arbitrated.

Stringent Regulations of the Russian Nation.

Fleet of Government Ships Constantly Patrols a Thirty-Mile Zone.

Washington, Oct. 25.—Russia has at last agreed to arbitrate with the United States the claims resulting from the seizure of sealers in Bering Sea, which have been pending for about eight years. A protocol between the two governments has been drawn up, the final formalities are expected to be concluded next month, and the arbitration will probably take the form of the Venezuela court.

The claims against Russia originated in the seizure by the Russian authorities off the coast of Siberia of three American sealing vessels. The damages claimed aggregate about $150,000. The vessels were the James Hamilton Lewis, the Cape Horn Pigeon and the C. H. White. In each case the largest item of the claim is on account of the sufferings of the American officers and crew while under arrest. The cases differ from those claims presented by British sealers, which were settled by the Behring sea arbitration, in the fact that while the British vessels were seized by the American revenue cutters on what the arbitration commission declared to be the high seas, the Russian men-of-war seized these American sealers within seven miles of the Asiatic coast. It is a matter of interest that for the first time the Russian government contends that the marine jurisdiction of a country extends at least this distance from the shore line instead of being limited to a marine league, as laid down by the older writers on international law. The league was fixed originally because it represented the extreme distance from shore that a shot could be thrown by one of the old cannon used in coast defense, and the Russians hold that the limit should be extended to correspond to the increased sea range of modern ordnance.

Russia has always taken an advanced position in preserving her seal herds, and has more stringent laws and regulations in that direction than any of the countries interested. Under the Russian system a zone 30 miles wide is established around the seal islands belonging to the empire. A British or Japanese sealer cannot operate within the zone, except to buy skins of the Russian inhabitants of the islands. The Russians themselves are permitted to kill only bachelor seals, it being against strict regulations to kill a female or pup seal. They are allowed to kill a bachelor seal only when he is on land, it being forbidden to kill any manner of seal in the water. The Russian authorities see that these regulations are enforced. A fleet of government ships patrols the 30-mile zone, and any foreign sealer who attempts to operate within these limits is seized.

As a rule, the seized sealers are taken to Vladivostok, their catch confiscated, and severe punishment inflicted. This has led to many protests, but Russia maintained her rigid regulations against foreigners within the 30-mile zone.

One notable case was that of Captain Johnson of the sailing schooner Emma of Juneau, Alaska, who says his vessel encountered heavy weather and was blown into the Ochotsk Sea. A Russian cruiser overhauled her. The Russians claimed he was after seals and seized the vessel and crew, taking them to Saghalien. The prisoners, 10 in number, were confined in a cell 12 by 18, in which were 45 men all told. After being confined six months, the prisoners were taken to Vladivostok for trial. This was a farce they say. They were convicted and sentenced to serve six months each. The Vladivostok prison was little better than that at Saghalien. Finally their sentence was served and they were released without money or food. The Russians refused to do anything for them. At the end of 11 days a merchant landed a purse, which paid their passage to Nagasaki, whence they were sent to Yokohama by the American consul. They asked the United States to compel Russia to pay an indemnity, basing their claim on the unwarrantable seizure of their vessel.

Another case was that of the ship Dahlia, cleared by a United States consular officer, but manned with a Japanese crew. They attempted to take seals on the Russian islands. They met with armed resistance and several of the Japanese were killed. Claims for indemnity were made against Russia, but never allowed, as the imperial authorities maintained their right to protect their property against invasion.

French Steamer Affire.
St. John's, Oct. 25.—Steamer Escalona, from Montreal Oct. 24, for London with a cargo of 130 head of cattle, put in here with her cargo afire in the second hold. The flames were discovered when she was nearly two days out. The decks became very hot and only the constant sluicing by the crew kept the cattle from stampeding. A large portion of the cargo must be removed to get at the fire, causing about 10 days' detention here.

TROUBLE BREWING AT BROCKTON.

Shoe Workers' Unions Not in Accord on Matters Concerning Their Welfare.

Brockton, Mass., Oct. 25.—Through the action of three of the local shoe unions last night, in accepting the recent report of the American Federation of Labor, a split has occurred in labor circles, and may become serious, unless a compromise is effected.

Monday night two of the unions rejected the report, but last night three accepted it, and two unions voted to lay it on the table. The unions which took favorable action on the report were the Edgemakers, the Finishers and the Treers, although the latter did so on the condition that the recommendations made by the American Federation of Labor should be lived up to by the Boot and Shoe Makers' union.

The Sole Leather union and the Stitchers tabled the resolutions, but the latter's action was not taken until a committee had visited other unions and found out their sentiments. The joint council will hold its meeting on Friday evening, when the matter will be settled either one way or the other, but the unions favoring the report may not abide by the council's decision.

Rumor of W. dman's Recall.

Portland, Ore., Oct. 25.—The Oregonian says: The recall from his post of duty of R. W. dman, United States consul general at Hong Kong, is imminent. It is said that he is to be relieved from duty for cause, and the cause is his prominence in the affairs of Aguinaldo, the CONSUL GENERAL ROUNSVILLE WILDMAN. Filipino rebel. The successor to Wildman will be Dr. Edward Bodoe, United States consul at Canton, who was recently called to Washington.

For Closer Co-operation.

Boston, Oct. 25.—The biennial session of the Universalist convention was made notable yesterday by the adoption of the report of the committee recommending a conference with the American Unitarian association, to consider plans for closer co-operation of the two bodies. The proposition came from the Unitarians in the form of a resolution, and these resolutions were freely discussed, and subsequently adopted. The election of officers followed, and Buffalo was selected for the next meeting of the convention. The practice of loaning money to students, which has resulted in a large deficit, was criticised, and the gift system advocated. A goodly sum was raised for the Japan mission.

Heavy Sales of Wool.

Crawfordsville, Ind., Oct. 25.—The greatest sale of wool ever made in Indiana was closed here yesterday, when McClure, Graham & Roundtree sold to the Manchester Mills company of Manchester, N. H., over 300,000 pounds of fine wool. The clip was bought at from 13 to 22 cents and was sold at a slight advance. The Gouze Woolen Mill company of this city has also sold its surplus of 100,000 pounds to an eastern factory. Another woolen firm has sold nearly 200,000 pounds to the mills of New England.

Big Lumber Season Ahead.

Gardiner, Me., Oct. 25.—President Bradstreet of the Kennebec Log Driving company says: "The cut of lumber along the Kennebec river and its tributaries for the coming winter will be the largest in its history. More men and horses are going into the woods at present than was ever known before. The average cut is 100,000,000; the cut for this winter will be 150,000,000. This was caused by the steady demand and high price in the large markets. There will be no logs carried over this season."

Going Right to Work.

Washington, Oct. 25.—It is expected that the Philippine commission will get together the latter part of the week and enter upon the preparation of a report. Colonel Denby says that the commissioners are not in a position to make a complete report, as they had left the Philippines hurriedly, and he expressed the opinion that the report they would prepare would be simply preliminary.

Curfew at Gloucester.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 25.—The city government passed the curfew ordinance at a meeting last night. The ordinance requires children under 16 years of age to be at their homes by 9 p. m., unless having a written permission from their parents or guardians. The penalty for breaking the ordinance is $5.

Law on or MacArthur?

Washington, Oct. 25.—It is positively stated at the war department that no decision has been reached in reference to the vacant brigadier generalship in the regular establishment resulting from General Shafter's retirement. It is generally understood that the decision now rests between Lawton and MacArthur.

The Souvenir Patriots are now on sale.

ELECTION OF BRYAN.

Filipino Newspaper Says It Will Mean Independence of Islands.

A Lively Engagement Imminent at Iloilo.

Insurgents Reported to Be Reorganizing at Malabon and Other Towns.

Manila, Oct. 25.—A native paper at San Isidro makes the statement that independence will be given to the islands in December, when Bryan will be elected President of the United States. The newspaper also makes the statement that the American casualties have been 23,000 since last February, and that the policy now is a retreating flight. A native officer, who has been captured, said he had no wish to return to camp, as they were short of ammunition.

Our troops in Iloilo, it is learned, have made great preparations for a big battle with the Filipinos which, even at this hour, may have been fought and won.

Manila is excited and anxiously awaits news of the conflict, which has been impending for a week.

General Pulien began "unrolling the blood scroll," as he promised his followers in a recent speech, by firing volleys at the American outposts nightly. Since Sunday reinforcements have been arriving from the north. This activity was designed to divert the Visayans from their dissatisfaction against the Tagalos.

Aguinaldo has ordered the release on parole of Areneta and other Visayan leaders who are disposed to negotiate for peace, and is watching them to prevent further negotiations.

The Fourth infantry reconnaissance about Imus found that the insurgents had returned to Dasmariñas. Their bugles blew when the Americans approached.

It is reported that they are reorganizing at Malabon and other towns. The leading inhabitants of that section have requested Major General Otis to garrison the towns, because the insurgents are living off the people. Sufficient troops are lacking.

General Otis has prohibited the local papers from printing the arrivals, departures or any movements of troops. Aguinaldo, if he is a student of the Manila papers, has been kept posted as to the whereabouts of every company in the army.

The news that the Spaniards attempted to surrender the rebel artillery at Santa Rosa has reached Tarlac and has spread through the country. The Filipinos are taking vengeance on the prisoners by curtailing the few privileges they had.

Temperance Workers' Views.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 25.—The national convention of the W. C. T. U. passed a series of resolutions yesterday, some of which caused hours of discussion. The main fight was over two resolutions, one censuring the general government and the president, Attorney General Griggs and ex-Secretary of War Alger, by name, for their action on the anti-cannibal law, and the other denouncing the war in the Philippines. Both were finally adopted. A resolution protesting against the seating of Congressman Roberts was adopted with cheers. Resolutions were also passed denouncing immoral shows, offensive advertisements, and lynching, and demanding the ballot for women and against trusts. A memorial service, in memory of Frances E. Willard, was held, and attended by an immense audience.

Massachusetts' Masons' Centennial.

Boston, Oct. 25.—The Grand Royal Arch Chapter of Massachusetts celebrated its centennial yesterday at the new Masonic hall. Many distinguished guests were present from all parts of New England. The address of welcome was made by Thomas Waterman and the historical address by Warren B. Ellis. George L. McCahan made a brief address full of historical facts, and also bore the greetings of the grand chapter of Maryland, of which he is a past grand high priest. The centennial poem was read by Rev. R. Perry Bush.

In Behalf of Sailors.

Boston, Oct. 25.—The Boston Conference of Sailor Workers began its sessions here last night with a reception and banquet. The event was preliminary to the conference which will be held during the next three days. Addresses were delivered by several clergymen. A committee was appointed to report on a proposition to make such conferences of sailor workers periodic and permanent. It is understood that special interest in the work represented is taken by the highest officials in the naval service.

Heavier Than Anticipated.

Philadelphia, Oct. 25.—Eighteen book-makers were yesterday found guilty in the county court of conducting pool rooms in various parts of the city, and were sentenced to pay a fine of $100 each and serve a term of three months in prison. It was under the advice of counsel that pleas of guilty were entered, the bookmakers confidently expecting that no further punishment than a fine would be administered.

The Cook and Her Troubles.

There is nothing that worries the cook quite so much as a balky range. A range that won't cook and bake as it ought to or just as it should. You'll never know the real modern pleasure of cooking until you try a GLENWOOD RANGE.

These truly wonderful ranges, built as they are on the most scientific ideas, are capable of doing work never dreamed of by the old time cook. Housekeeping becomes a pleasure with a Glenwood Range. Coal bills and Grocery bills are cut down. Kitchens usually cluttered up and over heated are kept as neat as wax, and work is done with a Glenwood Range in about half the time required by any other range.

If you wish to make house-keeping a pleasure, own a Glenwood Range. We make a reasonable allowance for your old range, set a new Glenwood in your house in perfect working order, and give you written guarantee.

The tax rate card of the Massachusetts Title Insurance company shows up Quincy in a bad light. There is need of retrenchment.

A full list of the deaths recorded in Boston the previous day is now a regular feature of the Journal. It is a good idea, because without such a publication many people would mysteriously drop out of sight or die unknown.

There will be some issues in the coming municipal election that the Democrats would exclude if they could, but they are too numerous to down, and will not be forgotten by the voters:

- 1—Clean sweep of Republicans at City Hall by Mayor Keith.
- 2—Outrageous bills for removal of snow, by Commissioner Cavanagh.
- 3—Extravagance generally.
- 4—Increase in annual appropriations.
- 5—Deficiencies in departments.
- 6—Efforts to refund city debt.
- 7—Increase in city debt.
- 8—Increase in valuations by the Assessors, after promises of reduction.
- 9—Increase in tax rate, making it the highest in the 108 years of Quincy.
- 10—Poor street sprinkling.
- 11—Failure to restore streets opened for sewers back into good condition.
- 12—Excessive bills for sewer connections until taken out of hands of Commissioner of Public Works.
- 13—Loss of the Metropolitan boulevard.
- 14—Dismissal of Water Commissioners.
- 15—Failure to keep ante-election promises.
- 16—Farce over charges against the inspector of plumbing.
- 17—Neglect of streets.
- 18—Partisan government.
- 19—Government by poll tax payers.
- 20—Disregard of the interests of taxpayers.

Drift of Opinion.

The new hats the women wear are never pretty to the men; they have to get used to them, the same as they get used to the face of a new cook in the kitchen. But will they ever become reconciled to the hats worn this year? They are ugly enough to cause horses to shy; big, broad-brimmed, cowboy hats with a quill in them that would tickle the heart of a fat old squaw.—Atchison (Kan.) Globe.

Governor Roosevelt says that the boys ought to fight; but he also remarks that they ought to fight on the side of righteousness. Nobody can find fault with this advice, and it may be observed that to follow out that rule the boy is pretty sure to have his fiercest fights with himself. He has no occasion to punch some other boy's head.—New Bedford Standard.

A monument is to be erected at Antietam to commemorate the deeds of the 15th Massachusetts Infantry on that dreadful battlefield. General Kimball, State Auditor, served in that regiment, and was Lieutenant Colonel at Antietam. He told his comrades at the recent reunion of the 15th that out of 606 men, 344 went down, and out of those 318 were killed outright or mortally wounded. That spot should be marked; Gen. Kimball is one of a committee to select the site for the monument, and no man is better fitted for the task than he, for he was on the spot when the regiment went through its terrible ordeal.—Lynn Item.

Our friends, the Socialists, have some pretty theories, and if they could carry them out it would be very well. It is easy to frame theories, but working out a practical system is quite another thing. Many people who think the present social and industrial system all wrong forget that it is an evolution. It was not framed according to someone's theory and put in operation, all complete. We do as we do because it has been found to be the best way, all things considered. The socialists have much to say of the capitalist class living on the laboring class. Now, did it ever occur to these people that even under the socialist system there would have to be a directing class, or official class, and that that class would have to be supported by labor?—Malden Mail.

The publisher of a newspaper have one thing to sell and one thing to rent. He has the newspaper to sell and the space in his columns to rent. Can anyone inform us why he should be expected to give away either the one or the other? He can if he so chooses, and he does, as a matter of fact, furnish a great deal of space rent free. But it does not follow that he ought to be expected to do so. It ought to be recognized as a contribution, exactly as would be the giving away of sugar or coffee by a grocer. But strange to say, it is not looked upon in that light at all, yet everybody knows that the existence of a newspaper depends upon the rent of its space and the sale of the paper as a merchant's success depends on selling his goods instead of giving them away.—Press and Printer.

Christian Scientists will watch with interest the course of the trial of a suit for damages brought against the Edison Electric Illuminating company of Paterson, N. J., by Berthold Frankel, who alleges that he was struck by a falling wire of the company and seriously injured. As a result he was in the hospital for three months. The defense of the company is that the wire did not touch Frankel, and that he only thought he was hurt, constituting himself at once the subject and the operation in a feat of hypnotism. The hospital physicians, who have been called by the defense, say that while Frankel showed all the symptoms of an electric shock, his body was unmarked, and other doctors testify that in their opinion as experts the illness was the result of hypnotic suggestion.—Newport Herald.

The young man or young woman who looks forward to vacations and wonders if they will get to see the next parade and the circus, and are making arrangements with chums for games when they leave their work at night, are not much good to their employers, neither are they on the road to success, nor will they ever amount to much in themselves. They will never become a real necessity to their employers or succeed as business men and women. Those who make themselves a necessity to their employers are the only really successful employees. When the owner of a successful mill has to go to his superintendent for information about his business, it is evident that the owner can take a vacation, but the superintendent won't leave this post. Those are the men who get their salary raised without asking for it.—Fibre and Fabric.

With regard to the Somerville case, a Boston newspaper ventures the opinion that we have had altogether too much caucus legislation in this state in recent years, and that matters do not move along with much greater smoothness than when there was not so much law, and adds the conclusion that "it does seem right to give a voter the privilege of changing his mind from time to time." Both of these observations are pertinent, though we are led to remark that nobody can "give" a voter this privilege. He has it by virtue of his American citizenship and manhood. As to the tying up of the caucus with all the regulations and restrictions of law, we are very sure that no improvement whatever has been effected. Abuses, some of them very bad, existed under the old system. There are just as many now, and some of them are worse than the old ones. Possibly the court will declare the law constitutional—that is the right of the court. But any of us have the right to pronounce it unconstitutional.—New Bedford Standard.

Fitts—Rice.

At noon today among the hills and pretty scenery of Waterford, Me., two well known Quincy people were united in marriage by Rev. Daniel Greene of Newton. The bride, Miss Bertha Frances Rice, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Rice, of that town, and the groom Mr. Arthur Richards Fitts, a son of Mrs. Helen Fitts of Miller Stile road, Quincy. Miss Rice has taught at the Willard school, West Quincy, and both young people are popular among attendants at Bethany church. Mr. and Mrs. Fitts will reside in this city at No. 11 Bigelow street, and will be at home December 14.

NOT DISTURBED.

Representative Candidates Not Alarmed by Mr. Cain's Letter.

According to reports there will be no political rallies in Quincy during the State campaign. Mayor Quincy of Boston is announced as the manager of Gen. Collins campaign for the majority nomination, but Mr. Murphy seems to be in the lead.

Col. Charles L. Young is again a candidate for the Legislature in one of the Springfield districts.

The Democratic State Committee has arranged to have as presiding officer at the Faneuil Hall meeting on Friday evening to ratify the State ticket J. A. McGeough of Boston, who has been out of politics for many years past, but who is taking an active interest in the candidacy of Mr. Paine. T. J. Gargan will make the principal speech of the evening and will deal with the questions of imperialism and trusts. Mr. Paine and Mr. Mack will address a Boston audience for the first time in this campaign and Rev. R. E. Bisbee of Pepperell and Henry Lloyd will also address the meeting. This will be the great rally of the campaign on the Democratic side.

Most time for sample ballots for the State election.

The other Representative candidates are not much disturbed over the letter of "Above-all-I-am-a-Democrat" Cain. The Republican candidates should not be over sanguine, but their chances are admirable.

The Social Democratic candidates from the Quincy double district are John A. Lamb and Philip J. Halvosa, not Thomas J. Lamb as inadvertently stated in a recent issue. Their strength is variously estimated at from 100 to 500.

Finest Hall in State.

Brookline has a new hall of which it may well be proud as it is said to have no superior for arrangements, appointments and furnishings in the country. It also reflects great credit upon Miss E. J. Corley of that town, who is well known in Quincy as a teacher of dancing. Miss Corley had the exclusive selection of all the furnishings and has shown remarkably good taste.

It is named Whitney hall, and is on the second floor of the building, and adjoining and above are half a dozen or more rooms of commodious dimensions and with elegant furnishings which go with the main hall. The latter is 32 by 66 feet, in size with a stage and a balcony. Leading from the hall at one side by wide folding doors is the banquet room, a gorgeous apartment, treated in deep red and white, with doors and wainscoting of antique oak. In the rear of the banquet hall is a supper room, which is smaller, looking into the main hall through wide folding doors from the rear, is a general reception room. At one side of this room are the ladies' reception room, parlor and dressing room. On the same floor are two other smaller rooms. All the rooms are sumptuously furnished with beautiful draperies, seats and large oriental rugs, each room having a different color scheme. No expense has been spared to furnish the Brookline people with a place for social gatherings which leaves nothing to be desired. On the third floor are the men's dressing, smoking and coat rooms. Well separated from all the other rooms is a large and finely equipped kitchen.

Tuesday evening there was a reception from 8 to 11, attended by over 500 people. There was beautiful music by an orchestra, and Hendrie served salads, croquettes, creamed oysters, ice, coffee, etc.

Among those from Quincy were: Mr. and Mrs. George G. Saville, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Hardwick, Mr. and Mrs. Horace F. Spear, Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Prescott, Mrs. A. H. Gilson, Mrs. M. C. Davey, Mrs. Sylvester Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Fay, Mr. and Mrs. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. George Badger and others.

The number of students in the Harvard Law School this year is now 603, as compared to 533 at the same date last year. Of these, 580 are college graduates. Of the total, 260 men are from Harvard and 318 from the other colleges, of which the most important are: Yale, 60; Dartmouth, 23; Brown, 19; Amherst, 16; Princeton 12; and Williams with 10.

For 3000 years the Hindoo standard of living has been almost the same for rich and poor. The raah's floors are bare, and the rich man washes in the open air and dries himself in the sun like his poorer brother.

Bricks made of sawdust combined with pulverized mineral material are now used as a basis for concrete instead of stone in several Pennsylvania towns. They are fire proof and improve to dampness.

Fred Ingraham, who formerly lived in this city was in town Monday. He is an expert pool player and will manage a series of games next month for the championship of New England.

When the curbing was put on the sidewalk at the corner of Hancock street and Hancock court, a large hollow was left in the sidewalk in front of Brogan's barber shop. In dry weather it is not noticed much, but every time it rains there is a puddle of water for people to wade through and get their feet wet.

The Y. P. S. C. E. of Atlantic gave a candy pull at Memorial Congregational church Tuesday evening. The method of entertainment was novel and many attended. A very enjoyable evening was passed, although as in all candy-pulls, "too many cooks spoil the broth." However, the candy was conspicuous only by its disappearance.

Carpets.

Our business has been the selling of Carpets and Rugs for considerably more than three-quarters of a century—since 1817, to be exact.

Our stock is at all times by far the largest in New England—including many choice private patterns which we control exclusively.

Our prices are invariably at the lowest point.

LADIES' WOOL WAISTS.

First Presbyterian Church.

The pastor, much refreshed after his vacation, occupied his pulpit at both services on Sunday, and was greeted by excellent congregations. Much of the interest in the church is sustained by the large and efficient choir.

Monday evening the circle of King's Daughters held a social at the manse. Miss Saville was the guest of the evening.

Tomorrow afternoon the Woman's Missionary society of the Presbytery will hold its fall meeting in this church. In the evening Miss Clara Cushman will speak on the work in China, and will exhibit costumes and curios. Music will be contributed by the male quartette and the full choir. The public is invited.

The people are looking forward to a concert to be given Tuesday evening, Oct. 31, by the Primary department of the Sunday School.

The Representative Question.

The following letter is received for publication from a prominent member of the Democratic party, who says he knows what he is talking about.

Mr. Editor: We are informed that considerable feeling of dissatisfaction exists among the Democrats in Braintree, because of the action of the recent Representative Convention. For five years, the party in Braintree has been absolutely ignored. A year ago, a vote was framed at the caucus in Braintree, asking that a candidate be named from Braintree, with Mr. Whelan. It was not done but the promise given that next year it should be.

This year, again, at the Democratic caucus after a full discussion it was voted that the convention nominate a candidate from Braintree on the ticket with Mr. Whelan. Again, however, our town has been ignored, and while the district is entitled to two candidates only Mr. Whelan's name is to be upon the ticket.

It is said that many of the Democrats of this town, as a rebuke for this action, propose to vote for the Republican candidate, Mr. Mellen, feeling that the town is entitled to representation at the State House.

Boston Bicycle Road.

The surveyors of the projected Moody Boynton single-rail bicycle road have reached the junction of Highland avenue and Robeson street, Fall River, is laying the route. The layout begins at Holbrook and extends to that city. The line crosses Wilson road at a point about a third of the distance from Highland avenue toward North Main street, and comes south through private land. A road to New Bedford is also planned. It is proposed to connect Fall River with New Bedford by an extension of the road. The inventor and promoter of the system claims that it will be possible to travel on the road from that city to New Bedford in five minutes. There is a very general expectation in view of this claim that the road will be slower in construction than in operation.

Unvaccinated persons are not permitted to vote in Norway.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK.

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about 1-4 as much as coffee. 15 and 25c.

Land Mark Razed.

Work was commenced this morning

by Contractor Williams demolishing

the building on the corner of Coddington

and Washington streets, owned by

N. B. Fernald, to make room for the widening of Coddington street, for which the city has taken the whole of the lot upon which the building stood.

The demolishing of this building removes another land mark. It has been used for various mercantile purposes,

but mainly as a furniture and grain store. As a furniture store it was carried on by Ewell & Josephs, and later by Mr. Fernald, and as a grain store by the late Edward Russell, and by F. H. Crane & Sons, the latter being the last occupant.

It also served at one time as a school building and a billiard room. The city weighing scales have also been located here for many years. Just where they will be removed to now is uncertain.

BY SUPERIOR FORCE.

that, in collecting and assisting the wounded, Boers and British seem to have been mutually helpful.

The war office dispatch seems to realize the worst fears. General Yule has aban

ded, and so far as present news would in dicate, he has neither joined General

White nor reached Ladysmith. General

White's "successful action" announced in parliament by Mr. Wyndham seems to resolve itself into a mere engaging of the attention of the Free State troops,

while General Yule is slipping southward. It is evident from the official dispatches

that both Commandant General Joubert's column on the north and the Orange

Free State troops on the west

now occupy strong positions and that nothing hinders the Boers from follow ing General Yule's retirement and get ting around Ladysmith from the southeast. Until reinforcements arrive it seems that General White is obliged to concentrate on Ladysmith.

The colonial office has received a cablegram stating that President Steyn

of the Orange Free State has issued a proclamation annexing that part of Cape Colony which is north of the Vaal river. This means Griqualand west and Bachuanaland, and is apparently in con sequence of the Free State forces having seized the railway and all stations north of Kimberley except Mafeking, unless Mafeking has fallen since the last news

from there, which is week old.

In the absence of authentic news, the most reasonable interpretation of the various reports seems to point to some artillery practice at Glencoe Saturday and Sunday, but with no fighting at close quarters. As, however, communication between Glencoe and Ladysmith thought to have been restored by the British vic tory at Elandslaagte was again broken

by the destruction of the railway bridge

at Waschbank, north of Ladysmith, and between Elandslaagte and Glencoe, the difficulties of the British commander

in Natal in re-entrancing Yule have been enormously increased, and until the British forces at Ladysmith and Glencoe are united and the main body of the Boers is broken the situation must re main disquieting for the British.

The London papers sharply criticize

Lord Wolseley's summary of the Natal situation. They say it has a distinct re semblance to the statements of the Span ish ministry when preparing their dis patches for news of the disaster at

and Boston

Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

CENSORSHIP OF NEWS

Makes It Difficult to Get Accurate Reports From Front.

But Little Reliance Placed on Official Dispatches.

British Forces Have at Last Effected a Junction at Ladysmith.

Chamberlain and Davitt Have Another Innings in the Commons.

London, Oct. 26.—With unconscious humor, a Cape Town correspondent telegraphed yesterday: "The censorship, which is always a delicate matter, is working smoothly and without a hitch."

This exactly hits off the state of affairs today. An ominous veil is still drawn over the movements of both General White and General Yule. Beyond belated Ladysmith dispatches concerning the Eland-laagte fight, which are still filtering in, the British public is left in complete darkness, and to conjecture over "cooked" war dispatches. The officials of the war office last evening said that very few dispatches had arrived.

Since it is practically certain that General Yule has now effected a junction with General White, although this was not brought about Tuesday night, as announced in The Daily Mail, but some time on Wednesday, and as both are now in a position of safety, conjecture concerns itself chiefly with the manner of General Yule's retreat.

That it was hasty is evident. Was it a "Woolsey" observed by all statesmen during the past 10 or 20 years. The people, he confessed, were entitled to demand a clear expression of views, and there never had been the slightest justification for the statement that President Kruger had been in doubt. Mr. Chamberlain then said: "Our object, methods and determination were to carry out these objects. It was necessary to impress upon President Kruger the seriousness of the step he was about to take, and to make it clear that any delay would follow any mistake on his part. It was not desirable to include in an official dispatch collateral suggestions, and indications of opinion, but semi-official warning was frequently conveyed in a speech. A similar warning was given by Lord Salisbury to the sultan at the Guildhall banquet, and I am still absolutely unrepentant."

Regarding Mr. Davitt, Mr. Chamberlain said he recognized that he had hitherto discussed the matter moderately and sincerely, and he added: "I would pay the greatest attention to his arguments if I did not know he would use precisely the same arguments in regard to any British war, which are based on his enmity to England."

Mr. Chamberlain then replied to the criticism of his not accepting the mediation of Mr. Hofmeyer, the Afrikaner leader, pointing out that, while he believed Mr. Hofmeyer to be sincere, yet he could not forget when President Kruger made an absolutely illiberal proposal for a settlement, Mr. Hofmeyer was perfectly ready to accept them. President Kruger misled Mr. Hofmeyer in promising him proposals which differed from those he really presented.

"There has," continued Mr. Chamberlain, "been on the part of the Transvaal crookedness altogether incomprehensible, if they desired a settlement. I believe that from first to last President Kruger never intended to give anything approaching equal rights to the white race, or any acknowledgment of the rights of the British. War, therefore, was inevitable. There has been an enormous strain upon us. We are called to bring the war to a quick conclusion, and send across the sea a force no nation in history ever sent before. This is entirely due to the preparations which made the Transvaal an armed camp, and which not only secured it a defensive position, but enabled it to take the offensive against the large force now engaged. Such a strain could not be continued forever. We should have needed a permanent force of 25,000 men in South Africa."

"We are told we shall lose South Africa. Our foreign friends are convinced of it. Yet they are not happy. Such predictions were made before, and were even current in the days of Elizabeth. But I am not alarmed. One great Teutonic people cannot hold in subjection another greater Teutonic people, but this has never been our course. It is impossible to pretend that the Dutch at the Cape are crushed by our rule, when they have all the rights Englishmen possess, and even, in individual cases, are permitted to talk and write treason. Whatever may be the result of the war and the premature talk of the present war, does anyone imagine that we shall fail to do for others what we claimed for ourselves or refuse equal rights to the Dutch in the Transvaal which they refused us?"

General White receives credit for attacking the Boers north of the second battlefield, in order to distract their attention and to allow General Yule to march across the country and to join forces with him. General White's "third victory," however, proves to have been a drawn battle, he merely contenting himself with holding the Boers in check to cover Yule's retreat.

Many experts are satisfied that General Joubert is even now close to the heels of the British, and that a decisive action may be fought today. The main fact is that the British were forced to evacuate the natural triangle which the Boers rightly claim as a conspicuous success.

The situation in the west is becoming complicated. The Boer proclamations of annexation and the claims of a victory at Glencoe are liable to induce the Boers to inspect the batteries. Even the famous St. Michael's cave is closed because it is required for the storage of arms and ammunition.

The war office returns show that the total British casualties since the beginning of hostilities reach 597, 18 officers having been killed and 55 wounded, and 76 men killed and 455 wounded. There are 13 unaccounted for.

This total does not, however, include the squadron of the Eighteenth Hussars, which went astray near Dundee, and the officers of the Dublin Fusiliers.

Michael Davitt, Irish Nationalist, member for South Mayo, announced in the house of commons yesterday that he would resign as a protest against the Boer war. Mr. Davitt demanded that the jingo press and said that the war for the meanest and most mercenary aims would be known as the greatest crime of the century. He declared that if he had been offered home rule and an Irish republic, he would not have accepted them if accompanied by the condition that he vote for the war. As a protest he would ask to be relieved from attendance in the house. He had been in the house for five years trying to obtain justice for Ireland, and he left it convinced that "No cause of justice and right would have the support of the house, unless backed by force."

Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, the former Liberal leader in the house, said he desired again to call attention to the provocation of Mr. Chamberlain, during his negotiations, and in his speech at Highbury.

Mr. Chamberlain replied, repudiating the intention to be provocative, and saying the only intended to be plain and free from ambiguity. He added that he had only followed in the negotiations the principles observed by all statesmen during the past 10 or 20 years. The people, he confessed, were entitled to demand a clear expression of views, and there never had been the slightest justification for the statement that President Kruger had been in doubt. Mr. Chamberlain then said: "Our object, methods and determination were to carry out these objects. It was necessary to impress upon President Kruger the seriousness of the step he was about to take, and to make it clear that any delay would follow any mistake on his part. It was not desirable to include in an official dispatch collateral suggestions, and indications of opinion, but semi-official warning was frequently conveyed in a speech. A similar warning was given by Lord Salisbury to the sultan at the Guildhall banquet, and I am still absolutely unrepentant."

THE WAGE QUESTION

Will Be Discussed by Manufacturers and Labor Organizations.

An Advance Considered Unlikely at Present.

Conference Committee Appointed to Consider Arguments of Textile Operatives.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 26.—Following the precedent set a year ago, the Manufacturers' association of this city decided yesterday afternoon to meet representatives of the various labor organizations and discuss the wage question. No date was named, but it is stated that this will be determined shortly at a meeting of the manufacturers' committee, and Secretary Roundseville will notify Secretary Whitehead of the textile committee of the date set for the conference.

President Chase called the meeting of the Manufacturers' association to order shortly after 2:30 p. m., and stated the purpose of the meeting, Secretary Roundseville reading the request from the textile representatives of an increase in the wages of the 30,000 operatives of this city. Considerable discussion was had, but the meeting being an executive one, its trend was not officially made public.

It is stated upon good authority that the manufacturers generally consider this an inopportune time for granting an increase in the wages of the operatives. They do not see, however, that there can be any great harm done in appointing a conference committee and considering the arguments which will be advanced by the textile committee. A mistake was made once in not granting a conference, and the manufacturers do not propose to blunder in this way again. They can present their side of the question to the operatives, and, whether the increase is granted or not, a better feeling will remain than if the conference was rejected.

The committee appointed consists of President Chase, Secretary Roundseville, N. B. Borden, Charles M. Shove, Thomas E. Braxton, John D. Flint and James E. Osborne.

At the time the last restoration of 12½ percent was made there was some talk of adopting a sliding scale in the future, based on the cost of production and the market value of the finished product, but this never materialized, and it is believed will not, at least in the near future.

The representatives of the operatives are pleased at the decision of the manufacturers to grant them a conference, although they did not expect an adverse decision. They hope to be able to bring the manufacturers about to their way of thinking, and obtain an increase, or a promise of an increase. It is not at all impossible that a compromise may be effected, but this is not at present considered probable.

Majority Stand by Dec's on. Brockton, Mass., Oct. 26.—Through the favorable action of two of the unions last night the eight unions of the city now stand 5 to 3 in favor of accepting the decision of the American Federation of Labor, recently issued. The mixed and the Stitches' unions both took the report from the table and voted to accept it. On the other hand, the Cutters' union refused to reconsider its vote of Monday night when it denounced the action of the American Federation of Labor. A new convention of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union is now being agitated for next June.

Talked Over Grievances.

St. Albans, Vt., Oct. 26.—Messrs. Clarke and Morrissey of the Conductors' and Trainmen's unions had a long conference yesterday with the management of the Central Vermont railroad. The conference was mainly devoted to a general discussion of grievances of the men in the train department. The committee would not give out any information. It is believed, however, that the general attitude of the management was conciliatory. Nothing has occurred to change the situation.

Irish Looking For Painters.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Lieutenant Colonel Lee, military attaché of the British embassy here, has been conferring with the war department authorities as to methods of field telegraphy which might be serviceable in the South African campaign. The American operations in Cuba and the Philippines have developed several novel and exclusive devices for emergency telegraph communication in the field which, however, are not at the disposal of the foreign governments.

Bicycle Truss's Prices.

New York, Oct. 26.—The American Bicycle company has issued a statement announcing that the general direction of the various factories and selling departments will be conducted in New York city. The various companies will form into groups, and one company of each group will, besides its own product, sell that of the other companies in the group. The prices adopted are $75 and $60 for chainless wheels, and $50, $40, $35, $20 and $25 for chain wheels.

The Cook and Her Troubles.

There is nothing that worries the cook quite so much as a balky range. A range that won't cook and bake as it ought to or just as it should. You'll never know the real modern pleasure of cooking until you try a GLENWOOD RANGE.

These truly wonderful ranges, built as they are on the most scientific ideas, are capable of doing work never dreamed of by the old time cook. Housekeeping becomes a pleasure with a Glenwood Range. Coal bills and Grocery bills are cut down. Kitchens usually cluttered up and over heated are kept as neat as wax, and work is done with a Glenwood Range in about half the time required by any other range.

If you wish to make house-keeping a pleasure, own a Glenwood Range. We make a reasonable allowance for your old range, set a new Glenwood in your house in perfect working order, and give you written guarantee.

"Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded."

COULD NOT SCORE.

Adams Academy and Weymouth High Evenly Matched.

Adams tackled Weymouth High again on Wednesday afternoon, and although she did not win the game she prevented Weymouth from scoring, thus wiping out her previous defeat of 17-5. In the first half, Weymouth gave Adams a scare by making successive rushes through her line, but Cashman soon nailed her man for a loss, which gave Adams the ball, and Bennett punted it well out of danger.

In the second half, Adams held her own and often went through Weymouth's line for gains.

Bennett's punting was a feature of the game. Berry and Reardon played exceptionally well, as in fact the whole team did. Boyd and Flaherty played a fine game.

Weymouth showed very poor judgment in receiving Bennett's punts which were followed twice by Donaher who succeeded in capturing the ball.

Y. M. C. A. BANQUET.

Business Men of the City Entertained.

Good Work of Association
Pointed Out.

Grand Supper and a Flow of Wit and Oratory.

The ninth annual business men's banquet of the Quincy Y. M. C. A. was held Wednesday evening, and taken as a whole, it was the most successful in every way of any similar gathering. The supper was excellent and the post prandial exercise which followed had plenty of wit, which was sandwiched in with the more serious thoughts in a happy manner by the several speakers. Col. Anderson made a capital presiding officer, and his ever ready wit served at once to put the gathering in good humor and prepare the way for the oratorical feast to follow. His manner of introducing the several speakers was unique, and though at times made the butt of some story or allusion, he neatly turned the table.

The guests began to arrive shortly after 5.30 o'clock when they were received by the reception committee: Mr. D. E. Wadsworth, Dr. H. S. Hayford, Mr. Arthur W. Stetson and Mr. Frank F. Prescott, who presented them to Col. Anderson, Mr. Walter C. Douglass of Philadelphia and Mr. Theophilus King. In the meantime Marnock's orchestra was giving a concert. The orchestra also played during the banquet.

It was about 6.30 when the doors leading to the gymnasium were thrown open, disclosing long tables heavily laden with good things for the inner man. The speakers of the evening were seated at a table along the north side of the room, and the other guests at shorter tables running north and south. Around the room were several large American flags which completely hid the walls, making a patriotic decoration.

The menu, which was prepared by the Ladies' Auxiliary, consisted of salads, cold meats, rolls, celery, coffee, ice cream and fruit.

Rev. Edwin N. Hardy, asked the blessing, and without more ado all fell to. Shortly after a sign was placed over the door leading to the kitchen, reading "We use Victor Coffee and Faxon's ice cream."

At the conclusion of the banquet Col. Anderson called order and in opening said the honor had been conferred upon him to extend a welcome to the business men of Quincy. This feast should make us feel that we are getting closer together and to become more familiar with the work of the Y. M. C. A. He objected to the abnormal system of advertising. Such coffee will make you feel a victor in any case but he screamed at Faxon's name being connected with anything that was cool except when he gives us a cold shoulder. The Association desired him to spread himself, but what was the use when he saw the table swept clean as fast as the ladies could fill them up. He then explained that Anthony Comstock, who was expected as one of the speakers, would be unable to be present. He regretted this. Col. Anderson then paid a high tribute to Mr. Comstock and the work which he was doing which stood side by side with the church. It made for him bitter enemies which however shows his power, and that he is accomplishing something.

Secretary Hoehn then read a letter and telegram received from Mr. Comstock in which it appeared that owing to a number of cases suddenly called in court he could not possibly be present.

Theophilus King, who was introduced as "the King pin," said in corporations there were two stocks, preferred and common. We expected the preferred but was sorry that we had nothing but the common stock. When he went to Boston sixteen years ago he made a B line for the Y. M. C. A. and also a B line for the Park Street church. If you want your sons to come up right show them the way.

Mr. King always has a text for his speeches and that chosen on this occasion was U. T. D. which meant up-to-date. He then spoke of the need of having a Y. M. C. A. building and gymnasium up-to-date. That was not all. Here is an institution that was trying to keep boys up, and it was for you and me to help by using our possibilities. Let us see that as far as we are concerned we help it along by money and deed, and see that it is up-to-date.

Col. Anderson hoped before the gathering adjourned that a telegram expressing the sentiment of the meeting would be sent to Mr. Comstock.

This caused Mr. King to so move, and after the motion had been carried he added, "And I'll pay for the telegram."

That last remark was up-to-date, remarked Col. Anderson. He could not help thinking of the value there was in this town to put this association forward. We have got it in our power to put our hands in our pockets, not the ministers, and see that the Y. M. C. A. has a building of its own.

Walter C. Douglass, General Secretary of the Philadelphia associations in opening paid a compliment to the lovely women, for which Quincy was remarkable. The speaker then compared the work of an institute with that of the Y. M. C. A. They both worked along the same lines but the association went further and did more. Ninety-five per cent. of young men leave school without getting a secondary education. They have to go to work and the problem grows greater every day. He went west early and saw a greater New England. Then he came to the fountain head and the problem is how shall it be kept clean. Ideals are everything and the way you put ideals before young men will shape the future. The life and body of the Y. M. C. A. is a living organism, an association of young men of power and strength, of high ideals and a spiritual thing. The speaker then told of the good work of the Pennsylvania railroad Y. M. C. A. The thing back of it all was the deep spiritual purposes. All business men realize that if this association is to deal successfully it must have the spiritual power behind it. He believed this gathering could establish any idea and carry through any enterprise for the young men, and he hoped they would be inspired to do so.

Col. Anderson, in introducing the next speaker said it was the masses of the people that make men great. It is the great masses who make this country. There was never a case of reformation that came from crowned head but from the masses. He was glad we were getting cosmopolitan.

Deleware King, president of the association, said it was "a philanthropy not a charity." We are trying to build up young men so they can help themselves. "Body, mind and spirit is our motto, and the work we are trying to do. He spoke of the different branches of work of the association. The whole influence is working on the religious side. He then spoke of the financial question. This year's budget was $3,057, last year we came out $500 behind. Every cent is carefully looked after and watched. He paid a high tribute to the work of Secretary Hoehn. He was doing a grand work on very little pay, and the business men of Quincy owe him a great deal for the way he has conducted the association. He believed it wrong for an association of this kind not to pay its bills, and he appealed to the business men to see if they would not help. He wanted to see the association out of debt at the end of the year.

City Auditor John O. Hall, introduced with an allusion to the approaching election, said that whatever the outcome, the many testimonials of esteem he had received were cherished with profound gratitude. He came to Quincy 26 years ago, and resolved that he would do what he could for the welfare of the community in every way. He believed in Quincy and in directing our energies to its welfare, socially, and for its prosperity. The one thing that threatens our community is the absenting of ourselves from the councils. This will prove disastrous, if not remedied. There was lurking an element that needed attention. It must be guarded with great care or it will result in dissolution. This was the element of Socialism. There was and element of justice that must be turned to the labor class. It must be carefully guarded, to take a high rank, that the glory of later days shall be greater than the glory of today.

What are our ideals? How we get at the root of them? Who of us ever realized his ideal? The very pursuit of ideals makes us grow stronger, purer, nobler and higher, though we never reach them. He then alluded to the work of Harvard University. It was the recollections of the zeal and the sacrifices that has maintained it, and makes you feel great as you pass within those gates, for you get the impression you never had before. We want these high ideals and want to be pressing on to meet them. Are you satisfied with the result you find? Are you encouraged with the stand youth is taking. We want to see them with higher aspirations, that they may fully understand what life is and what young men ought to be, and we will welcome anything that will make them look to higher ideals; make them to know how to live, how to make the most of the little that may come to them. This we have in this institution and if you have anything you can give, give it. If not money, give it your encouragement and your commendation. A great burden rests upon you to make Quincy that idealism that is so much desired. Will you take a backward step, or will you endow any institution that is for uplifting of life? It is here we get power and inspiration that makes life worth living.

Rev. Robert W. Peach spoke of the work of cultivating of the physical conditions of the body, which business men have come to realize. The Y. M. C. A. takes the mind and body and caps it with spirit. Without spirit they are nothing.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News
in a Nut Shell.

Brooks and Ames have a new "ad" today.

Just the same noon temperature as a year ago today.

Furniture auction at Mrs. Severance's on Pearl street tomorrow.

Thanksgiving will fall on Nov. 30, five days before the city election.

Miss Mary Taylor of Sagamore street who has been quite ill, is now convalescent.

Eleven shares of Mt. Wollaston bank stock were sold on Wednesday at $120 per share.

The Mead family of Norfolk Downs have returned to their winter home in New York city.

Mr. A. A. Lincoln and Mr. George H. Murray of Wollaston are on a gunning trip at Concord, Mass.

The communication on train service bulletined to appear today is in type, but unavoidably crowded out.

Rogers Bros will inaugurate the Wednesday afternoon closing idea Nov. 1. They will keep open other evenings.

Mrs. Thomas O'Brien of New York city is visiting her sister, Mrs. Jeremiah Murphy, Copeland street, West Quincy.

There was a large attendance at the Wollaston M. E. church supper and sale, which was held in the vestry Wednesday evening.

The Rev. Edmund T. Butler, assistant at the Church of Our Lady, at Newton, died Wednesday. Fr. Butler served as assistant at Quincy and Lynn, and for the past year has been located at Newton.

The evening schools which opened Monday evening held their second session Wednesday evening. The attendance was quite large; that in the Willard building having 66, and at the Adams building 55.

If it is true, as alleged, that certain street department employees including a foreman, knock off work at 11.30 days, and after eating lunch gamble until 1 o'clock the matter should be investigated by the council.

The County Commissioners at their meeting Tuesday decided to give hearing Nov. 25 on the petitions to widen the Hancock street bridge at Atlantic, and for an extension of Warren avenue over the tracks at Wollaston.

It seems hardly necessary for the Sewer department to block nearly the whole street, when making house connections as they have in connecting the Col. Packard estate, especially such a busy street as Hancock street.

The funeral of Samuel Dexter Bosworth of Quincy Neck was held Wednesday afternoon, and was largely attended. Rev. Edward Anderson conducted the service. The interment was at Mt. Wollaston cemetery.

All interested in the colored schools of the south and having donations of garments or books are earnestly urged to send them to either Mrs. J. Henry Emery, for Tuskegee, Mrs. N. S. Hunting for Calhoun or Mrs. A. E. Sproul for Manassas, before November 1st.

The Woman's Presbyterian Missionary Society of the Presbytery of Boston is in session at the Water Street Church today. This evening there will be a program of interest to the public, with singing by the choir, including the male quartet, and with an address by Miss Clara Cushman, late of China.

The L'Union Franco Americaine held a social dance at Hancock hall Wednesday evening. The affair was largely attended. Dancing was in order from 8 to 2 o'clock. Napoleon Reed was floor director and was assisted by Mrs. V. Bellevue and the following aids: Mrs. A. Beirner, Miss O. Caron, Mrs. H. Hubert and P. Savard.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Snow of Charles street celebrated the 20th anniversary of their wedding Wednesday evening and a most enjoyable evening was spent. Relatives and friends were present from New York, Malden, Ashmont and Atlantic. A dainty collation was served throughout the evening. They were the recipients of many beautiful and costly presents.

An appreciative audience enjoyed a rich treat at Colonial hall Wednesday evening when a first class concert was given by Mr. Walter E. Loud, assisted by Miss Ella Hall Shields of Dorchester, soprano; Miss Annie E. Fisher of Malden, pianist; and Mr. John Little, cellist of Malden. The violin solos of Mr. Loud were the feature of the evening but everything was encored.

Worth Reading.

To the Editor: I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

Yours truly, A READER

WORKERS AND DRONES.

Uniting weak colonies may begin now at any time. Fairly good colonies may yet be brought out into good stock if well fed up.

The pure Italian bees are very gentle and can be handled with little danger of stinging.

A comb bucket is an indispensable article for transporting frames of honey in the apiary.

If it is desired to retain drones for queen rearing, the colony must be fed in good season.

A good fall flow of honey always places the bees in the best possible condition for wintering.

After the honey season is over bees may draw out and perfect frames of foundation if given the opportunity.

A colony may be very weak, but if it preserves a laying queen and brood it will protect a large surplus of honey.

Honey properly kept will improve with age, and the older it is the better it will be. But if the honey is not properly stored, it will absorb moisture, become thin and watery and soon lose its rich flavor. Dry and warm are the conditions for keeping honey to retain flavor and richness.—St. Louis Republic.

Present from State of New Jersey.

Trenton, Oct. 26.—Admiral Sampson was yesterday presented with a sword by Governor Voorhees on behalf of the state of New Jersey, as a mark of appreciation of the services rendered by the distinguished naval officer during the Spanish war. The presentation took place in the assembly chamber of the capitol, in the presence of a distinguished audience of naval officers and persons prominent in the public and social life of the state. The naval officers present included nearly all those associated with Admiral Sampson before the entrance to Santiago harbor.

An Appeal to the Kaiser.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—At a meeting of 3000 members of the Pan-German and Anti-Semite league at Hamburg, called to protest against the Transvaal war, a dispatch was sent to Emperor William full of solemn, patriotic effusions, and urging him to intercede in behalf of the Boers, and postpone his journey to England.

Harvard Is Champion.

New York, Oct. 26.—Harvard won the championship of the Intercollegiate Golf association on the Garden City links, beating Princeton after a splendidly fought contest by nine points to one, or 21 holes to 2. Harvard thus not only secures the championship for another year, but places herself on an equality with Yale in the number of victories, each university having now won the honor twice.

MURDER OR SUICIDE.

Italian Woman at Malden Found Dead in a Miserable Tenement.

Police Suspect Husband of Committing Crime.

Absence of Powder in Victim's Face Dispel's Theory of Suicide.

Malden, Mass., Oct. 26.—In a miserable room at 24 Commercial street the dead body of Mrs. Pasqualina Succo was found yesterday afternoon under circumstances which indicate murder. On the floor, according to one version of the affair, was found a 23-caliber revolver, and a bullet hole in the center of the right ear showed how the woman met her death.

Though the police were at first inclined to believe it was a case of suicide, on examination it was found there were no traces of powder marks on the woman's face, which they consider would have resulted had she used the weapon upon herself. The murder theory is further strengthened by the size of the revolver, an ugly looking affair of 23 calibre, with a long barrel, which, in Chief of Police Emerson's opinion, would have left powder marks if held within four feet of the woman's head.

Giuseppe Succo, the woman's husband, is under arrest, and will be detained on suspicion until the result of the autopsy is made known. The section in which the shooting occurred is known as the "rat hole," peopled largely by the lower class of Italians, where drunken brawls and fights are of frequent occurrence. The house at 24 Commercial street is a two-story and a half structure, a general supply store being on the first floor, kept by John Brezia, an Italian, who lives upstairs. With him the Succo family, consisting of father, mother and child, lived as bo- v- ers.

The Succos occupied but one room, that on the top floor, containing one double and one single bed, a chair and a stand. There is but one small window in the room, and the slanting ceiling makes it impossible for a tall man to stand erect. When the woman's body was found the bed clothing was in one corner and near the entrance to the room there was a mattress upon the floor stained with blood.

At the time of the shooting Succo, with his 3-year-old boy, was in Mrs. Brezia's apartments, resting after his dinner, according to Brezia's story. Brezia says that he himself was in his store when he learned of the tragedy, and he gave to the reporter his wife's version of the affair, as she doesn't speak English.

According to this Succo came to the house about 12:30, and as was his custom, ate dinner with his wife and child in one of Brezia's rooms on the second floor of the house. At about 2 o'clock Mrs. Succo went to her attic room, and Succo and the child remained down stairs. Soon after 3 the little boy wanted to see his mother, and Succo took him upstairs.

When he opened the attic room door he found his wife lying on the mattress in a pool of blood, the revolver on the floor at her right side and under the bed. Without waiting to see whether the woman was dead, as Succo told Mrs. Brezia, he rushed down stairs crying out in Italian, "Oh, my wife is dead." In the confusion which resulted no one seems to know what happened, but the man's cries frightened the inmates of the house, and attracted some passers-by, who rushed in. One of the latter, an Italian, Joe Sila by name, says he was the first to reach the scene of the shooting.

"When I got to the attic room," he went on, "I found Succo squatting on a mattress crying and calling upon his wife to speak. His wife's head rested in his lap and he held the revolver in one hand as if about to end his own life, but I snatched it from him."

The only other arrest in connection with the crime was that of John Parks, whom the police believe is connected with the occurrence, and complained of the depressing effect it would have upon his business.

Succo has been employed as a carriage washer in J. P. Parker's livery stable and had worked there almost continuously for four years. Patrick Kearns, Parker's foreman, said that Succo was thoroughly reliable, and was not accustomed to excessive drinking.

Succo was engaged in an Italian quarrel last summer, as a result of which he was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, but was released and placed on probation in consideration of the circumstances attending the affair. It seems that one evening a number of Italians visited Brezia's house in a drunken condition. In the course of the brawl Succo, who was sober, claimed he was charged with assault with a dangerous weapon, but was released and placed on probation in consideration of the circumstances attending the affair.

Succo made good his escape, but returned to Malden within a week's time and the disposition was made of his case as stated above.

Victim of Terrible Accident.

Fairfield, Me., Oct. 26.—Ceel Chadbourne, foreman in the liquor room of the Somerset Fibre company, fell headlong into a vat of boiling liquor yesterday, and was frightfully burned. His hair was burned off, and his feet, legs, hands and back are in a terrible condition. Some of the liquor entered his mouth, burning his throat and causing him great agony. It is thought he has lost his eyesight. There is little hope for his recovery.

Two Sui's For Damages.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 26.—The Bridgeport Traction company was served with papers yesterday in suits for $5000 damages each, brought by Otis B. Bradley of New Haven, administrator of the estates of Elias E. Bradley of Milford and his wife, Ellen G. Bradley, both of whom were killed in the Shelton trolley accident at Peck's mill Aug. 6 last. Property of the defendant corporation was attached for $7000 in each case. These are the first cases actually brought as a result of the Shelton disaster, the company having reached a compromise with nearly all the others.

Aged Woman Burned to Death.—Mrs. North Abington, Mass., Oct. 26.—Mrs. Mary Flinn, 81 years old, was burned to death last night through the overturning of a lamp, and a house owned by Richard Singleton was damaged to the extent of $800. Two men discovered the woman lying on the floor, with her clothing on fire, and the kerosene from the lamp also scattered over the floor and burning. Both men were rescued by the fire department, and were rescued in an unconscious condition by firemen, but the old lady could not be saved.

Mr. Smallpox at Chelsea.—Chelsea, Mass., Oct. 26.—The 10th case of smallpox in this city of late evening brought to light last evening. For several days a Chelsea physician has been treating Mrs. Mary Henry, and last night the board of health pronounced the case smallpox. The afflicted is in a precarious condition.

Cold Corner For Creditors.—Philadelphia, Oct. 26.—The first account of the Equitable Trust company, recently reorganized as the Equitable company, which failed in January, 1896, was filed yesterday, and the auditor declared a dividend of less than 2 percent of the claims, amounting to over $1,000,000. The Keen-Sutcliffe company carried on the business of importing merchandise, and was one of the largest concerns of its kind in this country. The management of the company was practically controlled by its president, Fred W. Sutcliffe, who mysteriously disappeared in January, 1896. The claims against the company amount to $1,135,071, the largest being that of J. B. Moor & Co. of Boston, foreign bankers, for $504,991. The company's assets amounted to $41,141, and after deducting legal costs and preferred claims allowed, there remains only $18,638 for distribution among the general creditors. The Boston bankers will get only $2336.

Suicide of S. Beria.

Odesa, Oct. 26.—A gigantic system of official fraud and corruption has been unearthed at Sebastopol. Forty-three government officials have been arrested and will be tried by court-martial Dec. 2. Among the accused are many high naval officers, several well-known constructors, nearly every chief engineer of the ships in Russia's Black sea fleet, the commissary officers and others. It is reported that several of the accused have committed suicide rather than stand trial. If found guilty they would have been banished to Siberia. It is alleged that officials of the various government departments have entered into a huge conspiracy to misappropriate funds and sell government supplies, covering their defalcations by forged and suppressing information by widely distributed bribes.

Useful For Practice Work.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The Ordnance department has recently adopted a new method of target practice with the heavy coast defense guns which increases the amount of practice and considerably reduces the cost. There was left on hand from the Civil war a large amount of black powder and a quantity of old mortar projectiles. By putting a soft metal band on the base of the shells they answered admirably for practice firing. The only difference being that the range is not quite so great as in service conditions. The first reports of the new practice received by the department are quite encouraging.

Turned Over to Dewey.

Washington, Oct. 26.—The house on Rhode Island avenue, recently purchased for Admiral Dewey by popular subscription, was formally turned over to him yesterday by Assistant Secretary Vanderlip and United States Treasurer Roberts of the Dewey home committee. Mr. Fitch, the owner, went to the treasury in the afternoon and presented the deed, which was immediately filed for record. The purchase price was about $50,000. Two subscriptions were received yesterday, which completed the payment, including the expenses incident to the project.

Another Would-Be "Lifer."

New York, Oct. 26.—The Post says: There is a strong probability that the next challenger for the America's cup will be a Bostonian. The challenger, Mr. P. H. Should Major Jameson challenge, he will have the Shamrock for a trial horse. The Jameson boat would very probably be built from a Watson design, and it is said, would most certainly be built in Belfast. Major Jameson might challenge through the Kingston Royal Yacht club, but it is probably sent it, if at all, through either the Royal Ulster or the Royal Cork.

Soldiers For the Philippines.

San Francisco, Oct. 26.—The transports Tartar, Manueva and Newport sailed for Manila yesterday, and the Olympia and the other vessels carried three companies of the Thirty-first infantry, and Pennsylvania for Portland. The entire Twenty-eighth infantry, the Portland-bound vessels will carry the Thirty-ninth and Forty-fifth regiments.

Haymeyer Won't Have to Pay.

New York, Oct. 26.—The suit brought by Henry Hentz to recover $225,000 compensation from Henry O. Haymeyer for assisting in forming a combination of sugar refineries was dismissed by Justice Andrews on the ground that the plaintiff had not shown cause for action.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Sun rises 6:11; sets, 4:44. Moon rises 5:45 m.; 6 p. m. High water—5:45 m.; 6 p. m. The pressure continues high over all districts, except that a narrow trough of moderate depression extends from Texas northward. To the eastward of this trough fair weather continues, with temperatures much above the seasonal average. Excessive rains are reported in Kansas and Oklahoma. fair weather will continue, and a few showers in New England. Showers are indicated for northern New England. The rain will be accompanied by lower temperatures.

TO DO DUJ AT ILOILO.

Boys of the Twenty-Sixth, Nearly All New Englanders, Reach the Philippines.

Manila, Oct. 26.—The Twenty-sixth infantry arrived here on the transport Grant, and sailed for Iloilo, without disembarking. The Twenty-sixth infantry, U. S. V., which is now ordered to Iloilo, is peculiarly New England's contribution to the volunteer army, and in its roster, rank and file, Massachusetts is well represented. It is commanded by Colonel Edmund Rice, who is now heading his third Massachusetts regiment in a third war, having led the Nineteenth Massachusetts home from the Civil war and the Sixth Massachusetts from Porto Rico. With him are Major Cook, who was lieutenant colonel of the First Rhode Island; Adjutant John Borden, Jr., of the First Massachusetts; Captain Talbot of the Cadets, the Sixth, and formerly of the Republican state committee; Captain Sutherland, late major in the First New Hampshire; Captain McNelly of Brookline, late of the Sixth Massachusetts; Captain Greig, also of the Sixth; Captain McDonald, late of the Fifth; Captain Brownell, late of the First Vermont; Quartermaster and Captain Reuben A. Whipple, formerly of the Second; Captain Hickey, a major of the First Connecticut, and Captain Barber, a major of the First Rhode Island.

The other commissioned officers are almost all taken from the roster of New England regiments in the Spanish war, among them Lieutenants Sullivan, Edwards, Elliott, Moynihan, Rice, Plummer and Surgeon Washburn. Besides this almost every New England county and town is represented in the ranks. The regiment was recruited at Plattsburg, N. Y. Its visit to Boston and Providence last month, en route to the Philippines, is well remembered.

Many Gies to Be Represented.

St. Louis, Oct. 26.—George D. Schaefer, at the head of the baseball club that will represent St. Louis in the New American association says that the postponed meeting will be held in New York, Nov. 4. He has received advices from Boston, Providence, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit and Toledo, and all of these cities will have representatives at the meeting.

Candler on Web of Deceit.

Atlanta, Oct. 26.—The legislature met yesterday. Governor Candler's message took the position that the unusual amount of crime by lawless negroes and the consequent unprecedented amount of mob violence could be laid at the door of intermeddling and irresponsible fanatics and fools, who did not know anything of the situation in the south, nor the real relations of the two races.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

The appeal of Captain Watkins of the steamship Paris, which was grounded on the Manacles, from the action of the local board of steamship inspectors, suspending him for six years, has been filed with Superior Judge Starbuck. An investigation in the matter will soon be commenced.

The steam yacht Wanda, which was used by The Associated Press throughout the Spanish-American war, and at other times as a dispatch boat, careened in the dock at Erie basin, New York, while being taken from the cranes. The crew escaped. The loss is estimated at $10,000.

Hurlow, aged 35, was drowned at Hanover, Me., while canoeing on Howard pond.

A Woman's Eyes

Will tell her love, though every other feature be hidden under the oriental Jashmak. A woman's eyes are equally eloquent as to her health. She can teach her lips to laugh in spite of pain, but the eyes will never be partner in that deceit.

Deep hollows, dark circles, wrinkles at the corners, tell the story of pain and sleeplessness. Much of the commonest sleeplessness and suffering in general, endured by women, is caused by a diseased condition of the womanly organs. When that diseased condition is cured there are no more hollow, dark ringed eyes. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription cures irregularity, inflammation, ulceration, and female weakness, stops enfeebling drains, strengthens the nervous system and gives to the mother health for her duties, and happiness in their performance.

"My niece was troubled with female weakness for about four years before I asked for your advice," writes J. W. McGregor, of East St. and Princeton Ave., Chicago, Ill. "You advised her to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, which she did faithfully for nine months, and now we must acknowledge to you that she is a well woman. We cannot thank you enough for the cure. We have recommended your medicine to all our friends, and believe it to be a wonderful discovery."

BOSTON ELECTRIC SWITCH CO.

R. T. JOHNSON, President. A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.
Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

VANDERBILT MILLIONS.

Alfred Gwynne, the Head of Family,
Gets About $50,000,000.

Others, Except Cornelius, Jr., Get $7,500,000 Each.

Alfred Will Give $6,000,000 Out of His Own Pocket to the Disfavored One.

New York, Oct. 27.—Senator Depew last night gave out a statement of the terms of the will of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt. It shows that the fortune is estimated at $70,000,000. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt will get about $50,000,000. He thus becomes the head of the family. The will gives Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., about $1,500,000. It gives to each of his remaining brothers and sisters about $7,500,000, each, Alfred, of course, not included. Out of the spirit of affection, and for the purpose of satisfying all of the members of the family, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt gives his brother Cornelius enough of his inheritance to make his fortune equal to that of the other members, namely, $7,500,000. Senator Depew says that Cornelius Vanderbilt has accepted this arrangement in the spirit in which it was offered.

CORNELIUS VANDERBILT, JR.

At the death of Mrs. Vanderbilt, his widow, the property devised to her for life is given to either Alfred G. or Reginald C., as she may appoint by her will, and in default of such appointment it goes to the eldest of his sons then living, Alfred or Reginald, and if neither be then living at the time of her death, then to Gertrude, if living, and if not, then to Gladys. In case neither of said sons or daughters survive his widow, then this property is to be divided among the then living children of such sons and daughters, and if there be no such grandchildren, then it becomes part of the residuary estate.

Specific bequests are made as follows: William K. Vanderbilt, $100,000; Chauncey M. Depew, $200,000; Edward W. Rossiter, $50,000; John H. Home, $50,000; Rev. Dr. Edward H. Greer, $50,000; Maud Gwynne Shepard, $25,000; Charles C. Clark, $25,000; John Rutgers Lerry, $20,000; Charles F. Cox, $10,000; Edgar T. Chapman, son of Rev. E. T. Chapman of Watervliet, N. Y., $10,000; George R. Fearning, $10,000; Rev. Dr. William S. Langford, $10,000; George A. Warburton, $10,000; Robert A. McBurney (dead), $10,000; J. R. Hatmaker, $10,000. Also the following annuities: Mrs. William Turnbull, $1200; John G. Earle, $1200; Jeremiah Simonson, $1200; Mrs. Sarah Simonson, $600; Mrs. Cornelia Little, $200.

Upon the death of each annuitant the principal set apart for such annuity is added to the residuary estate.

Also it is provided that the judgment of the executors shall be final in respect to any division of the estate made by them, and each executor and trustee is relieved from responsibility for the acts or omissions of any other, and no bonds are required from them as security.

A legacy of $100,000 is given to the Young Men's Christian society of New York city, and the desire is expressed that the income, so far as practicable, be used for Christian work among railroad employees.

A bequest of $200,000 is given to the rector, churchwarden and vestrymen of St. Bartholomew's church, to be kept invested by them, and the annual income applied to the missionary work of the parish. There is a further bequest of $200,000 for the erection of a building for church purposes in said parish, contingent upon its not having been erected by the time of the testator's death, the surplus, if any, to be added to the bequest last above named.

Also the following bequests: Yale university, $100,000; St. Luke's hospital in New York city, $50,000; the Domestic and Foreign Missionary society of the Protestant Episcopal church, $50,000; the trustees of the Vanderbilt university, Nashville, Tenn., $50,000; the Redwood library at Newport, R. I., $10,000; the Newport (R. I.) hospital, $10,000; the Christian home for intertemperate men in New York, $10,000; the Manhattan Working Girls' society of the city of New York, $10,000; the New York Bible and Common Prayer Book society, $10,000; also the executors are directed to pay to the Society of St. John annually the sum of $2000, and a bequest of $10,000 is made to the same society. Also to the Protestant Episcopal Society for Seamen in the city of New York, a bequest of $10,000 is given.

A bequest of $1000 is given to each of the family servants who have been in the employ in the house or stable of the testator for two years next preceding his death. Also the following bequests: John H. Dempsey, $5000; Charles A. Whittier, coachman, $2000; Tony, his barber, $2000; John Allen, his farmer, $2000.

The gold medal voted by congress in 1865, at the close of the Civil war, to Cornelius Vanderbilt, his grandfather, is given to his son Alfred, with the request that he leave it to his eldest son and so on down from eldest son to eldest son.

All the rest, residue and remainder of the estate, including all lapsed legacies and the principal of annuities, is given to the executors in trust to hold and invest, and to collect rents, incomes and profits for the use of his son, Alfred G., and to pay to him the net income thereof, as received until he becomes 30, when he is to come into possession of one-half of said estate, the income of the balance to be paid to him before until he becomes 35, when he is to come into full possession thereof.

If he dies before coming into possession of any or all of such estate and leaves children surviving him, the undistributed portion is to be divided into equal shares and held in trust for such children until they become of age. But in the event of there being no children living at the time of Alfred's death, or of their dying before becoming of age, then the testator's son, Reginald C., in all respects as to the undistributed portion of such residuary estate, is to stand in the same place and stead of Alfred, receiving the income until he is 30 and then half the principal and the income of the balance until he is 35 years of age, when he is put in possession of the rest.

On the contingency that both Alfred and Reginald die without issue, before being put into possession of said estate, then the testator's daughters, Gertrude and Gladys, are made residuary legatees in equal shares, their children taking the parents' share in case either dies before that time.

Alice G. Vanderbilt, his widow, is appointed executrix, and his son, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, William K. Vanderbilt, Chauncey M. Depew and Edward W. Rossiter are appointed executors, together with Reginald C., who may qualify as soon as he becomes of age, and it is provided that no commission or compensation shall be paid to any executor or trustee for service as such except that in case all the executors die or decline to act, a trust company is appointed instead, free from such restriction. The trust company finally designated is the United States Trust company, and is named in the first codicil to the will.

The executors are empowered to agree upon a division or partition and to make a settlement, compromise and agreement of any unsettled portion of the estate of the testator's father.

It will be witnessed by the late Henry H. Anderson, who was Mr. Vanderbilt's legal adviser, and also by J. Carstensen of New York city and G. S. Prince of Yonkers, N. Y.

Senator Depew also gave out the following statement regarding the action of Alfred Vanderbilt:

"When Alfred Vanderbilt returned he decided from brotherly affection and for family harmony to take out of his own inheritance and give to his brother, Cornelius, a sum sufficient to make the fortune of Cornelius the same as that of his brothers and sisters. This has been accepted by Cornelius in the same spirit."

"This action was altogether voluntary," said Senator Depew, "no threats having been made. Of course there might have been a contest under the terms of the will, but there never was a suggestion of one. The whole thing was done in a most beautiful, brotherly way."

The entire fortune is estimated to be about $70,000,000. When some surprise was expressed at the smallness of the amount, Senator Depew said it was not strange when it is remembered that Mr. Vanderbilt had been giving away perhaps half of his income for the last 25 years.

The exact amount of the fortune that is divided will not be known until it is appraised by the state officials. No schedule of the numerous Vanderbilt holdings of shares of stock is contained in the will.

The inheritance tax it is estimated by good authorities will amount to at least $1,500,000.

Senator Depew said that this was the only will of Mr. Vanderbilt in existence.

A "Mixup" in Cuba.

New York, Oct. 27.—Major General Fitzhugh Lee, who arrived on the steamship Havana on Wednesday, was released from quarantine yesterday afternoon. General Lee looked to be in perfect health. He will proceed to Washington Sunday, then visit his family in Virginia, where he will remain until he returns to headquarters, his Cuban headquarters, the first week in December. General Lee said: "Ask me about the Boer war—ask me about the coming election, but don't ask me about Cuba or annexation. It's a mixup. Sooner than talk about it I'd rather let you take my temperature again."

After Illegal Seiners.

Calais, Me., Oct. 27.—Fish Warden French returned from Mill Cove last evening, having in his custody Alfred Harris of Eastport, who is charged with illegal seining of herring in the St. Croix river. Mr. French also secured 200 fathom of seine and two boats, the occupants of which jumped overboard and escaped.

OPERATIVES' CHANCE

To Present to Manufacturers the Existing Wage Conditions.

Weavers Will Ask Advance of Two Cents a Cut.

Loom Fixers and Others Want a Corresponding Increase in Wages.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 27.—The representatives of the mill operatives are pleased at the decision of the manufacturers to grant them a conference, although they did not expect an adverse decision. They hope to be able to bring the manufacturers about to their way of thinking and obtain an increase. It is not at all impossible that a compromise may be effected, but this is not at present considered probable.

The fact that a conference is obtainable is a step in advance of past methods, and the secretaries of the unions say the manufacturers show by this action that they regret the refusal to confer which caused such a tumult a year ago. Now that the textile council will have a chance to represent the real wage conditions in the mills, the feeling is that an adjustment of the scales will have to be made.

The mule spinners are not complaining as loudly as some of the other workers. They have a scale that is lived up to very well by the mills that have mules, and since trade improved there has been little cause for serious friction. But among the other workers there has been a great deal of dissatisfaction, and it is growing.

It appears from envelopes that have been left at the headquarters of some of the unions that the last advance, which was supposed to have netted 12½ percent to the operatives, has in reality netted some of them less than 5 percent, and in two well-substantiated instances less than 2 percent. The loom fixers will demand a uniform scale of rates, and the elasher tenders are also prepared to act toward getting a revision of their scale. The wages in the carding rooms are notoriously low except in the case of speeder tenders and combor tenders, classes of help that are scarce. So that outside of the mule spinners the demand for an advance will be urgent. The mule spinners, however, will stand by their fellow-workers just as if they were in the front of the agitation.

Some effort has been made to learn on what the representatives of the council will rely when they appear before the manufacturers. The agreement made by Secretary Howard, or any one else, 15 years ago, in the matter of margins and scales, will make it considered binding on the unions of today. The secretaries say the margin that was talked of 15 years ago might have represented a fair profit for the mills at that time, but they argue that in view of the immense earnings reported in the past year and verified by the reports made in circular form to stockholders, the margin of profit is much greater now than it was in the past, and a rearrangement must be made.

The secretaries have secured tabulated figures showing the condition and growth of the industry and they are prepared to show that stockholders have not been the greatest sufferers in 15 years. They say the present movement is not one confined to Fall River alone. New Bedford acted, and every other center will act in conjunction with Fall River. They do not want to make this city a battleground, but they see no reason why they should wait upon other places, where the market demand for labor governs wages more than it does in this community.

The secretaries will do all in their power to make some arrangement with the manufacturers to prevent sweeping reductions. To that end they will even compromise on the amount of increase asked.

It is now pretty well understood that the weavers will demand an increase of 19 cents per cut for weaving, and the loom fixers and others want substantially the same increase.

They Are a Sh...ate.

Charleston, Oct. 27.—The Norwegian government has instructed its representative at this place to secure the release of two shipwrecked sailors held here for murder. The consul secured the release yesterday. In August last a Norwegian bark was caught in a West Indian hurricane, off the Florida coast, and completely wrecked. Three of the crew remained on a raft for several days without food or water, and finally drew lots to see which should die for the other two. The two remaining were rescued and brought to this port, and were held for murder when they related their experience. The men will be sent home.

'Twas a Case of Suicide.

Malden, Mass., Oct. 27.—Medical Examiner Durrell yesterday held an autopsy on the body of Mrs. Pascollina Fucci of Malden, who died at her home Wednesday as the result of a wound from a pistol shot. The woman's husband was held by the Malden police pending an investigation, but was released upon the announcement by Dr. Durrell that the woman committed suicide.

Barge Sunk in Collision.

New Haven, Oct. 27.—D. and R. barge, No. 11, was run into and sunk by the steamer Kennebec, chartered by the New Haven line. The steamer was started on her trip to New York, and in a very thick fog collided with a number of barges moored near the dock. A large hole was made in D. and R. barge, No. 11, and she sank immediately. No one was injured.

The Cook and Her Troubles.

There is nothing that worries the cook quite so much as a balky range. A range that won't cook and bake as it ought to or just as it should. You'll never know the real modern pleasure of cooking until you try a GLENWOOD RANGE.

These truly wonderful ranges, built as they are on the most scientific ideas, are capable of doing work never dreamed of by the old time cook. Housekeeping becomes a pleasure with a Glenwood Range. Coal bills and Grocery bills are kept down. Kitchens usually cluttered up and over heated are kept as neat as wax, and work is done with a Glenwood Range in about half the time required by any other range.

If you wish to make house-keeping a pleasure, own a Glenwood Range. We make a reasonable allowance for your old range, set a new Glenwood in your house in perfect working order, and give you written guarantee.

Good Afternoon.

Much real pleasure is obtained in planning for and attending a reception
like that at Atlantic Wednesday evening.
Old people enjoy the homage shown, and it is because of this appreciation that everybody present feels happy.

The Board of Health should go slow
in increasing the burden of taxpayers
this year another straw may break the camel's back. It is a hard year for real estate, almost a disastrous one.
On top of the high taxes upon an excessive valuation, many have been assessed for street sprinkling, for sidewalks and for sewer construction.
Where householders have made connections they have had heavy expenses for plumbing, abolishing cesspools, increased use of water and other necessary changes. If to this is added sickness, they have indeed been afflicted, and it is not to be wondered at if they cannot afford to pay the great expense of entering. Worry over financial affairs is almost as dangerous and fatal
as typhoid fever, which may or may not be caused by cesspools. Statistics will show many deaths from typhoid fever
in houses which were supposed to have the best plumbing. For all these reasons, the notice of the Board of Health, ordering all houses on Whitwell street and Cranch hill to forthwith
enter the sewer, is an abuse of power.

The address of City Auditor John O.
Hall at the business men's banquet of the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday evening was timely and right to the point. It not only showed him to be a man of ideals but to have the courage of his convictions. Many are willing to express their likes and dislikes in private but when a gentleman comes out boldly as did Mr. Hall, it shows him a man in whose hands the affairs of the city would be safe, as his friends know full well. The address from beginning to end was a masterly one, and received the commendation of those fortunate enough to be present and hear it, as well as of those who read the brief abstract as published in the Ledger of Thursday. It is true, as Mr. Hall said, that few of us ever realize our ideals
but the presence of our ideals makes us grow stronger, purer, nobler and higher, though the ideal is never reached. Again his allusion to the danger that threatens our community,
by absenting ourselves from the Councils, which if not reminded would prove disastrous, is but too true, and one need not go out of Quincy for proof to substantiate that statement.
As Mr. Hall truly said, the great burden of making Quincy that idealism
so much desired rests upon its citizens.

Drift of Opinion.

New York, Montpelier and Boston are chuckling over being so much more fortunate than poor Philadelphia, Atlanta, Macon and Chicago.
The first-mentioned trio must stand
well with Admiral Dewey's doctor?

cratic national committee doesn't believe that the present brand of American prosperity is the genuine article.

A BROKEN AXLE.

Causes a Serious Accident to West Quincy Woman.

Mrs. Herbert F. Doble met with a painful accident Thursday afternoon,
which resulted in her right ankle being broken. The accident occurred at the corner of Copeland street and Furnace avenue. Mrs. Doble, her daughter, and her sister, Mrs. Pollard were in an open buggy on the way to the depot to take the 2.16 train. In the back part of the buggy was one of the clerks, who was to drive the horse back. As the carriage reached the corner of the two streets, the axle of one of the front wheels broke. Miss Doble, who was driving, was unable to hold the horse and all three were thrown out. Mrs.
Doble was the last to fall, and in so doing her foot became twisted in such a manner as to break it.

Officer Morrissey, who was near,
hastened to her assistance and carried her into the residence of Mrs. James Berry and a physician was summoned.
Dr. Ash was the first to reach the scene and later Dr. Gordon arrived. After the bone had been set, Mrs. Doble was removed to her home in the ambulance.
Miss Doble and Mrs. Pollard escaped with a few bruises and a general shaking up.

The horse started to run when the axle dropped, but was captured before he had gone far. An examination of the broken axle showed that it was broken inside the hub of the wheel,
and that there was a flaw at the point where it broke. This with the heavy load was doubtless the cause of the accident.

Woman's Presbyterian.

The Woman's Presbyterian Missionary society of the Boston Presbytery, held its stated fall meeting Thursday afternoon and evening with the First Presbyterian church on Water street.
The society, which is composed of twenty-six local branches, was represented by many delegates. They came from far and near, the most distant being that of Antrim N. H. Previous to the meeting, Rev. Mr. Peach, pastor of the church took the delegates to the John Quincy Adams birthplace which was inspected with interest.

Mrs. M. D. Kneeland of Roxbury presided at the meeting, and Miss J.
F. McKinsick was secretary.

Mrs. Scott F. Hershey led the devotional exercises which opened the meeting, and Mrs. J. J. Dunlop of Roxbury, delegate to the synodical missionary meeting, gave an interesting talk on the work of that meeting,
and Miss Gilchrist of Roxbury made
the report on young people's work.
The question box, conducted by Mrs.
James T. Black of East Boston, was one of the interesting features of the afternoon.

The report of Mrs. D. B. McPherson
of East Boston, the society's treasurer, showed the receipts to be in excess of the amount received at this time a year ago.

During the recess between the afternoon and evening meetings, the delegates were entertained at supper by the ladies of the First Presbyterian church.
The young people's work was the theme of the evening service. The speaker was Miss Clara Cushman, whose topic was "Everyday Life in China." Her talk was interesting and instructive, and was illustrated by a number of Chinese costumes and curios. Musical selections were rendered by the church choir and a male quartette.

Editor Wright of the Haverhill Gazette has fired a three column broad-side at James J. Myers of Cambridge, who wants to be speaker of the house on Beacon Hill. Editor Wright proves Myers to be a mugwump of the first magnitude, and a man who lacks decision and firmness, which are essential in a presiding officer. It looks as if Editor Wright had cooked Myers' goose.—Lowell News.

PUBLIC HEARING.

OF QUINCY.

In Council, Oct. 16, 1899.
ORDERED: On the petition of the Mayor that Newport avenue from Beale street to Brook street be widened as shown by a plan by H. T. Whitman, Engineer, dated October, 1899, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, that a public hearing be given by the City Council to all parties interested on MONDAY EVENING, November 6th, 1899, at eight o'clock, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, and that public notice of the same be given by publishing a copy of this order in the Quincy Daily Ledger
at least seven days before the time of said hearing.

Adopted October 16th, 1899.
Attest: CHRISTOPHER A. SPEAR,
Clerk of Council.

AN ADAMS BOY WON.

Fred L. Hewitt of Wollaston
Gets a Coveted Position.

The honorary appointments from the senior class of the law school, Boston university, have just been made known, says the Globe, that of clerk of the court, of the university, is to be filled this year by Fred L. Hewitt, of Wollaston.

This position is given by the dean on merit and scholarship, and is considered the most honorary position to be obtained during the three years in the law school.

Fred L. Hewitt, was born at South Weymouth in 1880 and is one of the youngest members of his class. He was graduated from Adams Academy of Quincy in 1897, and entered the law school the same year. He is a prominent member of the William E.
Russell club, and as a debater has a very enviable reputation, having taken part in several of the most prominent debates of the school.

He is also a member of Epsilon Pi,
one of the most prominent fraternities
in the school, and of which body he is vice chancellor. In his junior year
Mr. Hewitt was selected by the dean as one of the honor men in his class. At present he holds the office of secretary of his class. He has resided in Wollaston for a long time, where he is well known and a member of a prominent dramatic club.

Grandma Wilson's Reception.

A very pleasant occasion at the Methodist church at Atlantic was the reception tendered to Mrs. Pamela T.
Wilson, or "Grandma Wilson" as she is familiarly called, the oldest member of the church, on Wednesday evening.
It was the celebration of her 84th birthday. Her four daughters, her grandchildren, and a great grand child, little Miriam Priest, were present; also her many friends in Atlantic with many kind wishes and pretty gifts.

The evening was interspersed with piano solos by Miss Marguerite Holbrook, Miss Katie Priest and Miss Lydia Blanchard, her granddaughters.
Miss Ethel Hines rendered a very fine violin solo accompanied by Miss Edith Greenard on piano. Mrs. Caloon read an original poem written especially for the occasion by herself. The pastor, the Rev. Mr. Constein, made timely remarks concerning the approach of old age, which comes to all who remain on this earth. Mrs. Lillie Blanchard gave a very fine reading.

The guests were served with refreshments, and the evening closed with singing by a select chorus accompanied by Miss Katie Priest. All expressed themselves as having heartily enjoyed the evening and wishing the old lady
many happy returns of the day.

Political.

At the meeting of the Ward One Republican Committee held Thursday evening, Walter H. Hersey resigned from the committee and Isaac M. Holt was elected as secretary.

FURNITURE.

Never in the history of furniture selling in Quincy, have we been so busy as now. At no time during our seven years as furniture merchants in this city, has our shipping department
been more taxed than now. Manufacturers wonder what we do with so much furniture.

To those who go to Boston and pay high furniture prices, thinking they can do better there than here, we can only say, "you can enjoy in many

NEWS IN BRIEF.

J. A. R. Elliott of Kansas City killed 99 out of 100 birds at the tournament of the Belle Meade Gun club, at Nashville. By doing so he retains the cast iron medal and championship of wing shots.

Louis Lewensohn, clothing manufacturer of New York, has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities, $165,862.

Owing to the pressure upon the dormitories for the present year, and the unusual number of applications for rooms at this time from those who purpose to enter Dartmouth college next year, the trustees have decided to build a dormitory to be ready for occupancy next fall.

A verdict for $2500 for the plaintiff was given by a jury in the case of Andrew J. Miller against the city of Springfield, Mass., for compensation for injuries received by being thrown from his wagon when the wheels of the vehicle caught in the street railway tracks. At the office of Harper and Bros' it is denied that the alliance with Doubleday & McClure had led to a revolution in the older house. It is admitted that Mrs. Margaret E. Sangster has retired from the editorial chair of Harper's Bazar. The American Humane association elected the following officers: James M. Brown, Toledo, president; Francis H. Rowley, Fall River, Mass., secretary; William A. Fuller, Chicago, treasurer. Several vice presidents were elected, including: W. Dorcas Lowe, Hartford, and H. O. Sturges, Providence.

The National Association of State Librarians elected the following officers: President, C. B. Galbreath, state librarian of Ohio; vice president, L. D. Carver, state librarian of Maine; secretary, A. H. Chase, state librarian of New Hampshire.

Assault is Missing.
Providence, Oct. 27.—Brinton Rounds, 36 years old, died yesterday at Foster from a knife wound inflicted by Jarvis Smith in that town on Tuesday. Smith was arrested on Wednesday for assault with a dangerous weapon and released on bonds of $300. Rounds' relatives are much exercised over Smith's being allowed to go on bail as the fatal result of the wound was a foregone conclusion. Rounds had been called upon when passing his nephew's house to protect the latter's wife. She had been terrified by threats which Smith made in a quarrel growing out of his having taken the key from the door when prowling on the premises in the absence of the occupants. When Rounds interfered the knife thrust was immediately inflicted.

Sailors' Awful Suffering.

Christiania, Oct. 27.—Details of the foundering of the steamer Zurich have reached here. It appears that, when her fate was evident, the crew constructed two rafts. The captain, three engineers, the second mate and four negroes, with two dogs, went with the first, and the mate, boatswain, stoker, one white seaman and five blacks with the second. Neither raft was supplied with food or water, and both were buffeted by the waves for four days, the crews starving. The first raft was picked up near the Bigten islands on Oct. 24, with only the captain alive. The second was washed ashore the following day, bearing no trace of humanity except the corpse of a negro.

Our Public Lands.

Washington, Oct. 27.—The annual report of Commissioner Hermann shows a grand total of 929,308,008 acres of unappropriated and unreserved public lands in the United States. The disposals of public lands during the fiscal year show an increase of 728,516 acres, as compared with the aggregate of the previous year. The total cash receipts of the service increased $792,142 over last year. Original homestead entries show a decrease and final entries an increase.

In a Bad Scrape.

Boston, Oct. 27.—Dr. Alfred G. Davis of this city, charged with causing the death of Miss Rosie H. Cowdrey, an 18-year-old Beverly girl, by a criminal operation, was arraigned in court yesterday, together with James F. Bragdon, 21 years old, of Beverly, who is held as an accessory. Dr. Davis was held in $7000 and Bragdon in $5000 for a further hearing on Nov. 9.

LULL IN THE STORM.

No Reports of Renewed Fighting In South Africa.

Yule and His Troops Are Now at Ladysmith.

Concentrated Force Considered Unable to Act Aggressively.

Cordon of Boer Fighters Said to Be Closing Around Kimberley.

London, Oct. 27.—The only news this morning consists of more detailed accounts of the battles already reported. A correspondent who visited the hospital at Ladysmith, where the Boers wounded at Elands-laagte, who were captured, are being attended, reports that General Jan Kock, who was badly wounded in the thigh and shoulder, said that the advance of the patrol under Commandant Pienar, without guns, was simply with the object of cutting the railway, and that this body was subsequently reinforced without General Joubert's orders. General Viljoen accompanied them. The latter was killed early in the fight.

According to another correspondent, the Boers say that General Kock, during the battle, read his Bible and prayed for victory. His brother, two sons and a nephew were all wounded and taken prisoners. Colonel Schiel of the German corps and Commandant Pretorius were both severely wounded. Many prominent Boers are not yet accounted for. Philip Kock says the Boers suffered most from "soldiers in little cloths, half men and half women," meaning the Gordon Highlanders, and in the charge of the Fifth lancers. They say also that the two quick-firing guns captured by the Devonshire regiment are those that were taken from the Jameson raiders.

Colonel Schiel assured a correspondent that nothing could stand against the accuracy of the British field guns, which repeatedly drove the Transvaal gunners from their embankments. The British infantry fire was also, he said, a complete surprise to the Boers, who were confident of their ability to master any infantry attack.

One Elands-laagte correspondent expressed the belief that the British killed fewer Boers than might have been expected considering the heavy fire of the British artillery.

The bullet of the Boer mauler, it appears, makes a clean, healthy wound when it passes out. No operations for amputation have been necessary at the Ladysmith hospital.

With regard to the western frontier, it is reported that President Steyn recently visited a force of 2000 Boers encamped 10 miles south of Kimberley.

The war is having its natural effect in Cape Colony. Everything is at famine prices and horseflesh is at a tremendous premium.

A Dutch circular is being secretly circulated in the Kurghersdorp, appealing to the Dutch to stand shoulder to shoulder against "the tyrant who never keeps faith."

Marital law has been proclaimed throughout Natal. A transport has arrived at Durban with a battalion of the rifle brigade.

A Cape Town dispatch says that the transport Zayathia, whose voyage from Liverpool was delayed by difficulties with her machinery, has arrived with a battery and a half of field artillery. Her sister transport, with an equal force, which has been similarly delayed, is daily expected.

General White, according to a dispatch from Cape Town to The Daily Mail, attacked the Orange Free State forces in Natal as soon as General Buller's men have rested. Strong British reinforcements are being sent up from the Cape.

The official announcement of the joining of General White and General Buller has come as a great relief, and all the more so in view of the fact that later dispatches have shown that only the incapacity of the Intelligence department of the Boers saved General Yule's column from a great disaster.

It seems that on Friday night Dundee was full of alarm. Heavy firing was heard at 1 o'clock, and again at 4. A severe thunderstorm soon after stopped the Boer cannonade.

Saturday passed in the same anxious manner, in momentary expectation of an attack. The British finally evacuated, taking all that they could, but leaving plenty behind for the Boers to loot.

The appointments of the Boer hospital at Dundee are described as very inadequate and primitive. The Boers, themselves, in the absence of a nursing staff, get only scant attention.

tillery duel at Pletfontein was a very severe engagement, in which the rifle did great execution and where success was only achieved at a distressing cost. The Boers own officially that they lost over one hundred killed at Elands-laagte. Three hundred prisoners, wounded and unaccounted for, are in the hands of the British, including several of high positions. The Transvaal force defeated at Elands-laagte was the Johannesburg corps. The bombardment of Mafeking has commenced again, with unknown result. The cordon is closing around Kimberley and the situation is grave. The Boers have got their Hussar prisoners safely to Pretoria.

Altogether, the campaign is being pushed by the Boers so strenuously and on such strategic lines that the situation of the British must in all probability give cause for deep anxiety for some time to come. It is difficult to see how the concentrated force at Ladysmith, in spite of the reinforcements reported as arriving from Pletfontein, will be able to take the aggressive immediately. Indeed, the Boers are reported to be again massing at Elands-laagte.

Apart from the fatigue, regiments like the Gordon Highlanders and Royal Rifles have been practically without rifles since the fight, and one hundred and thirty-five additional officers have been ordered to leave England as speedily as possible. The Boer side of the fighting in Natal is beginning to filter through the cable from Pretoria. The Boers admit reverses at Elands-laagte and Glencoe, claiming, however, subsequent occupation of Natal as far south as Ladysmith, which they are now investing. Ten truck loads of British prisoners they say, are held in Pretoria, among them are nine officers of the Eighteenth Hussars and the Dublin Fusiliers, taken at Glencoe.

Various rumors of European intervention in Africa or encroachments in Asia continue to be set afloat, but they are probably ill-founded. Germany at all events is friendly and if any menace exists it is from Russia. A part of the missing Hussars have reached Ladysmith. The British war office states the British casualties to date to be about 600.

News From San Isidro.

San Isidro, via Manila, Oct. 27.—Alipio Gonzales, mayor of San Isidro, who fled when the Americans took possession of the town, returned yesterday. General Lawton has established a civil government here. One of Lowe's scouts and two privates of the signal corps are missing. It is supposed they have been captured. This morning at daybreak General Young's command, consisting of Carter's scouts, a contingent of the Twenty-second regiment, Chase's troop of the Third cavalry, nine troops of the Fourth cavalry, a body of engineers and Russell's signal corps, with rations for seven days, left in the direction of Santa Rosa.

Collieries Closed.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 27.—An unsuccessful attempt was made yesterday to resume work at the collieries of the Susquehanna Coal company at Nanticoke, which have been idle three months owing to a strike. Not enough of the striking miners applied for work to warrant the company in keeping the collieries in operation. The company officials say they will have no further dealings with the strikers looking to a compromise, but will close down all the mines until such time as the men are ready to return to work. The company had 4000 men and boys on its payroll when the strike occurred. Business of all kinds is paralyzed in the town.

Poachers Punished.

Gardiner, Me., Oct. 27.—It appears that the shooting of a big moose in Alna last week has an entirely different sequel than was reported. John Brown, who shot the moose, and who claimed that he was treed by the animal, now tells a different story. Being cornered in his examination, he admitted that it was a cow moose, and that he was not treed at all. Brown and two other poachers were taken before Justice Peaslee of Whitefield yesterday. Brown pleaded guilty, and, not having any money or property, was sentenced to 60 days in jail. The other two fought the case and were convicted, receiving sentences to pay $500 each and costs.

Alleged Forger in Custody.

Boston, Oct. 27.—Walter D. Smith, 28 years old, whose home is in Dorchester, was arrested yesterday at Hull on the specific charge of forging a check for $250. The police, however, state that Smith has been engaged in several transactions during the past two months that will bear further investigation. Smith was employed by F. C. Macomber & Co., insurance brokers, and the check alleged to have been forged was made to the firm. It is also claimed that he pilfered $100 from the cash drawer, besides cashing other checks that had either fictitious makers or were made payable to the firm, and the disbursement forged.

General Henry Dying.

New York, Oct. 27.—Brigadier General Henry of New York is ill at his home here. Late last night the general's son said that his father's condition was critical, and that his death was expected at any moment. He said that Dr. G. H. Jarvis, Dr. Smith, an expert in pulmonary diseases, and Dr. Stevenson, an army surgeon, and the members of the family were in constant attendance at the sick man's bedside.

The Fight Against Robber.

New York, Oct. 27.—Miss Helen M. Gould has given $6000 to the League for Social Service, to be used in a crusade against Mormonism. The league has issued 100,000 pamphlets, in pursuance of Miss Gould's directions. They are aimed directly at Mormonism and Brigham H. Roberts as congressman, and will be distributed all over the country. When they are exhausted, millions more will follow them.

Steamer Turpin in Danger.

Atlantic City, Oct. 27.—Reports from the steamer James W. Turpin, which went ashore Wednesday night on Brigantine shoals, are not so favorable as those first received. The vessel is now said to be lying in a very dangerous position. A tug of the American Wrecking company is making an attempt to float the vessel, but it is believed that the tug can do but little good.

HIDDEN DANGERS

The greatest danger in the country is the use of alcohol, morphine and opium, and other poisons in liquid medicine sold to sick women. The alcohol is used to prevent souring; morphine and opium are used to deaden pain. This danger doesn't exist when Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are used. Pills are the modern, up-to-date remedy. Liquids are old-fashioned and much more expensive. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are for women only. They cure quickly, permanently, and cost little. Fifty red pills for fifty cents will last longer than any dollar liquid remedy, and they are certain to cure. The following ladies have been cured by the Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. Do not hesitate to write them.

Mrs. L. Deturrier, 288 West Fulton Street, Grand Rapids, Mich., writes:—

"I have suffered very much with rheumatism. I used several liniments. All my joints ached terribly. I do not know of any remedy that I did not try, but none have relieved me so much as Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women. They are a powerful remedy and I recommend them to all sick women."

Mrs. Hanna Russell, 66 Merrimack Street, Manchester, N. H., writes:—

"I suffered from female weakness, had terrible pains in my sides; the least little work I did made me sick. I was so discouraged that a friend advised me to take Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. I am today cured by these Pills and can do all my work."

Mrs. S. Hanley, 13 Audrey Street, Providence, R. I., writes:—

"I had pains in my back that were killing me. I was all run down, weak and tired. To-day I am a new woman, thanks to Dr. Coderre's Red Pills."

Mrs. Goodson, 106 Sebastopol Street, Montreal, writes:—

"I am very pleased to recommend Dr. Coderre's Red Pills for Pale and Weak Women, to all women who are in delicate health as I was. My case was a very bad one, but I am now in perfect health. I have used your pills and have given some to my daughters who are now better."

A HOME FOR SCHLEY.

Admiral Accep's Offer of Woman and Plans Will Be Put into Operation.

Washington, Oct. 27.—A committee, representing the Woman's National Industrial and Patriotic league and the Washington Industrial league, called upon Rear Admiral Schley last night and informed him that the league had decided and was ready to undertake the task of procuring, by popular subscription, a home for him here at the capital. The admiral again informed them that he left the matter in their hands, saying that anything that they might do would be acceptable.

From all parts of Canada and the United States, the most enthusiastic letters are received from women and girls who have been cured by the use alone of Dr. Coderre's Red Pills. If you suffer from complaints peculiar to women, will you not also be cured? This wonderful remedy is for women alone. Young and old ladies can take them under any conditions. They will not serve any improper purpose. We ask all women, especially those who have suffered for years, to write a full description of their diseases to our specialists who will be pleased to answer them in detail, or if preferred, they are invited to call at our office, or send us your name and we will forward at once, in unmarked wrapper, our Doctor's Book, Pale and Weak Women. We call your attention to the fact that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are not purgative. Women who are constipated should use Dr. Coderre's Purgative Tablets, together with the Red Pills. They will never find a better remedy than these combined.

Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are sold by all first class druggist at 50c. a box or six boxes for $2.50. We mail them all over the world upon receipt of price. Beware of all red pills sold by the dozen, the hundred Pills, or at 25c. a box, for they are not ours; they are imitations. In the interest of your health do not be imposed upon. ## PREPARING FOR BATTLE

Boer Forces Are Said to Be Closing In on Ladysmith.

Mafeking and Kimberley Are Both in Great Danger.

Situation in South Africa Considered Unsatisfactory at London.

Depression Caused by War News Is Reaction Against Over-Confidence.

London, Oct. 28.—A dispatch from Ladysmith says that the Boers have driven in the British outposts. A general engagement is in all probability on.

The Boers have been growing more aggressive daily. They have also moved with caution, and planned their advances with remarkable strategy.

A large number of guns have been placed in position, and the British will do well if they can come anywhere near holding their own in the great artillery duel which is probably going on just now.

General White has been making all preparations possible, and has tried to strengthen his position in every way possible. He is at a great disadvantage, however, in the loss of such a remarkably large number of officers in killed and wounded.

It is also known that a large number of his troops are almost exhausted through almost incessant fighting during the past few days. General Buller's troops were almost ready to drop when they reached here.

Reinforcements have been steadily reaching the Boers during the last 48 hours, and it is believed they have now upwards of 15,000 men under command of General Joubert.

While all England is anxious about Ladysmith, the anxiety about Kimberley and Mafeking is scarcely less intense. The garrisons of both places have been making a brave defense, but it is realized that they cannot hold out long. Even now it is thought likely that Mafeking is in flames and all its defenders captured.

The special dispatches assert that Colonel Baden-Powell, the British commander at Mafeking, is aware that Pretoria has given General Cronje orders to stay his hand, as already there is quite enough to employ the Boers in Natal.

A curious cross-current of irritation and depression prevails in London. The chief cause is the news that General Symonds is dead. The secondary cause is more subtle and not wholly explicable, on the ground of the capture of the Hussars. There is a conviction that the courage and skill of the British troops, which have drawn forth encomiums from the English press, have been doubtfully expended in the engagement of Glencoe and Elandsfontein, when it was uncertain that it was necessary to defend these points, which have been abandoned by the concentration of the troops at Ladysmith.

The depression caused by the war news in many circles is reaction against over-confidence. Unpleasant as it may be to Englishmen to hear that a squadron of Hussars in Pretoria, like Dr. Jameson, under guard, that the guns reported to have been captured at Glencoe were not taken; that the wounded were left behind at Glencoe, and that killed, wounded and missing in three battles number nearly 700 out of 12,000 under arms, it still remains true that the British have in a technical sense at least won every battle, although they have been greatly outnumbered by the enemy. Strictures upon the war office for issuing deceptive bulletins are in a measure unjust. The authorities, in suppressing information when a retreat was ordered from Dundee and even in creating the erroneous impression that Glencoe was the point of concentration instead of Ladysmith, acted undoubtedly on the theory that it was imprudent to publish the real facts until the junction of the two forces could be effected.

The main fact is that General Buller's retreat was rendered unavoidable by the plan of military defense, which is credited to General Symonds, before General Buller's arrival. In response to the urgent solicitations of the colonial authorities in Natal. The military staff, it is held, considered Ladysmith as the real position of defense, and heavily fortified it, but that they only expected to hold Glencoe temporarily. They did not intend to trench the camp strongly, and anticipated a withdrawal from it in the presence of overwhelming numbers.

While this explanation is made after the retreat, and consequently is open to suspicion of being a labored apology, there is no reason to doubt its correctness. Military critics will indorse the British performances, since the importance of an early demonstration of the British fighting quality must have influenced powerfully the Boer generals and men.

Politically, moreover, the effect is daily apparent in the modified behavior of the Cape Dutch. It is believed that the statement of the great numbers of Boer forces attributed to Leyds had a purpose behind it. His object is held to be an attempt, by exaggerating the military power of the Boers still to be reckoned with, to induce England, in the event of General Buller being defeated by Joubert's army, which undoubtedly outnumbered the Natal field force in the proportion of five to three, into accepting some sort of a compromise by which the inevitable humiliation of the Transvaal may be much lessened.

The following dispatch has been received from Pretoria: The government has issued a proclamation, declaring that no rents or interests on bonds can be claimed during the continuance of martial law, nor within a certain fixed period after the repeal of the same. The Boers at Vryburg have secured a quantity of ammunition. Commandant Schooman has seized the Krookdorp and destroyed the railway bridge there, and destroyed the railway bridge there, and destroyed the railway bridge there.

Alfred Milner, governor of Cape Colony, and W. P. Schreiner, the premier, have issued a proclamation declaring null and void the proclamation of the Orange Free State asserting that a portion of Cape Colony is now Free State territory. Milner's proclamation warns all British subjects in the colony of their duty and obligations to the queen.

The Cape Town correspondent of The Daily Telegraph says he learns that Colonel Schiel, the wounded and captured commander of the German contingent of the Boer forces, is the same individual who acted as Cetewayo's military adviser in the Zulu war, and who, after the battle of Ulundi, offered £1000 as a reward for the capture of the fugitive chief.

Great indignation has been caused at Cape Town by the announcement that Dr. Hoffmann, a member of the Cape house of assembly, with a party of assistants, is going to the Transvaal to do ambulance work. It is suspected that he will give information to the enemy.

The government has gratefully accepted the offer of the American women in England to equip the steamer Maine, which has been lent without charge to the British government by the Atlantic Transport company, as a hospital ship for use in South African waters.

The parliamentary by-election for the Bow and Bromley division of Tower Hamlets, London, held yesterday, to replace Lionel R. Holland, Conservative, was fought on the government's Transvaal policy and resulted in a big victory for the government, the Conservative candidate, Mr. Guthrie, being elected by 4228 votes, against 2123 votes cast for his Liberal and radical opponent, Mr. Spender. Throughout the campaign Spender opposed the war in South Africa and Chamberlain's conduct of the negotiations with the Transvaal government.

PROVED A TRAITOR.

"Friend" of Americans Who Was in League With the Insurgents Arrested at Iloilo.

Manila, Oct. 28.—Ruperto Santiago, one of the wealthiest Visayans, who had taken the oath of allegiance to the United States, and who posed as a friend of the Americans, has been arrested at Iloilo, while other Visayans are being watched. The prisoner is charged with organizing a revolutionary junta. Santiago owns estates throughout the island of Negros. It is asserted that a council of 10 and the manager of the junta met daily at Santiago's office for the purpose of engineering an extensive scheme of collections for an insurrection. One of Santiago's steamers was captured carrying supplies to the rebels. His arrest caused rumors of an outbreak of the natives of Iloilo, and preparations have been taken to prevent trouble.

A battalion of the Eighteenth regiment and the marines of the gunboat Concord have formed an expedition at Concepcion, northern Panay, which is searching for the Concord's coxswain, who was lured ashore by a white flag, and who is supposed to be a prisoner. They found the place deserted, and burned every house as a punishment.

Coal Famine Threatened.

Boston, Oct. 28.—The Journal says: On account of the scarcity of vessels a famine is threatened in soft coal at different New England ports. Freight rates on vessels of all classes have taken a jump, and in addition, owing to existing circumstances, vessel owners will not make charters to carry coal unless it is specified in that charter that if they are detained longer than five days in receiving a cargo they shall be paid demurrage. The scarcity of sailors continues. It is generally customary in signing a crew for a trip to a coal port to sign the men for the round voyage, but recently it has been necessary in order to get men to sign them for one way only.

Germans' Little Kc.

Berlin, Oct. 28.—Official advices regarding the commercial congress in Philadelphia report that the sessions of the managing committee have shown that the United States consuls "exact illegally high fees." In order to prevent this in the future, the central bureau for the preparation of commercial treaties in Berlin will send to the various chambers of commerce throughout Germany, and to similar bodies, a schedule of the official American fees.

Ravages of Forest Fires.

Greensburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—From every mountainous section of Westmoreland county comes reports of the fierce forest fires spreading. Farmers are working with might and main in cleared districts in the hope of staying the flames, but seemingly to no effect. Hewn timber upon which the natives of the ridge have worked all summer is being destroyed, but the greater loss is the timber in the tree. Acres upon acres have already been killed by the flames.

Wants Another Crack at Jeffries.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Bob Fitzsimmons reached Chicago yesterday. "I am the logical opponent for the winner of the Jeffries-Sharkey fight," he said. "Jeffries, I think, will be the winner. What is more, I hope he will. That will give me another chance to right myself before the public. Before many months I intend to be not only the middle-weight champion, which I am now, but the champion of the world as well."

Poisoned by Vaccination.

Newburg, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Four children in one family at Highland Falls are dangerously ill as the result of vaccination. All were badly poisoned, and the result will probably prove fatal. The school trustees ordered the vaccination. The father of the little ones is an inmate of the soldiers' home and the mother is a poor washerwoman.

Insurance Company Wins.

Albany, Oct. 28.—The suit brought by Joseph Campbell et al. executors to William Campbell, to recover $1,489,500 from the New York Life Insurance company, was yesterday decided by the court of appeals in favor of the insurance company. The judgment of the lower court dismissing the complaint is affirmed with costs.

IT WAS NOT A GIFT.

Cornelius Vanderbilt Got Share of Estate by Threats of Litigation.

Story of Brotherly Love and Affection Is Punctured.

Hoped and Believed That He Had Succeeded in Gaining His Father's Favor.

New York, Oct. 28.—The Tribune today says: The provisions of the will of Cornelius Vanderbilt, which were made public yesterday, excited intense interest. From certain remarks, it appears that this settlement alone, effected after long discussion, prevented a contest that might have resulted in one of the greatest and costliest will litigations known.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., when he learned the provisions of his father's will, placed his interests in the hands of Carter & Ledyard. They conducted negotiations with Henry B. Anderson, the attorney of Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt. While none of those interested will say just what was done, enough has been admitted to indicate that had Alfred not made the concession mentioned, litigation would have followed.

Cornelius Vanderbilt was at the Grand Central station yesterday. Alfred was at Newport. When Cornelius was seen he dismissed the subject briefly by saying: "Whatever arrangement may have been made, was effected through my attorneys, Carter & Ledyard. I have no comment to make upon the settlement. It was a family arrangement and not a gift."

It was learned from a trustworthy source yesterday that Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is much disappointed by his father's will, and the attitude in which he has been placed by his brother's handsome concession, and that he will withdraw from any further participation in the affairs of the Vanderbilt properties.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is described by those who know him most intimately as a reticent young man. He took his disagreement with his father much to heart, and after his marriage tried in every way to overcome the difficulty. He entered the office of the superintendent of motive power of the New York Central, and went to work to prove his merit. He toiled early and late. He never asked more than any other employee. He invented a locomotive, which was successful. He did everything he could to prove to his father his serious intentions. He never complained, and he never allowed an opportunity to pass without trying to secure a re-establishment of the former cordial relations between himself and father.

It is further said that he hoped and believed that he had succeeded in gaining his father's favor. The two men did not discuss the subject, but for hours father and son talked cordially at Newport and also in this city. The young son of Cornelius, Jr., was taken to the Breakers, and Mr. Vanderbilt manifested a keen enjoyment in seeing his grandson. It is said that, in the light of these talks and the fondness displayed by his father for the baby, Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., believed that he had regained his father's favor, and would share at least equally with Alfred Gwynne, should he not be the chief heir.

When he learned the provisions of the will, he was much disconcerted and troubled. It was said yesterday that he would soon retire from the place in the New York Central office, and that he would never attempt to have a voice in the family councils or in the management of the enormous Vanderbilt properties. His plan, it was added, was to go into the banking business as a partner of his father-in-law, R. T. Wilson. Neither Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., nor Mr. Wilson would discuss this statement, but action upon the part of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., is expected by his relatives and the intimate friends of the family.

Verdict in Scotsman Disaster.

Quebec, Oct. 28.—The court of inquiry in the Scotsman disaster announced its findings yesterday. Captain Skrimshire was suspended for nine months, and the court announced that it had come to the conclusion that the accident was caused by neglect on the part of the captain to use the lead sufficiently and too much confidence in the last observations, which were made on Sept. 21, and after which the officers decided that they were a great distance away from Belle Isle.

Welcomed to Boston.

Boston, Oct. 28.—Daniel Tallon, lord mayor of Dublin, John E. Redmond, M. P., and Thomas Kennedy, secretary to Mayor Tallon, came to this city yesterday on the much anticipated visit in aid of the fund to build the monument to the late Charles Parnell. A committee from the city council met them, and the guests were driven to the Parker House, where they were welcomed to the city by Mayor Quincy. The mayor will give a banquet in honor of the guests this evening.

Colombia Must Settle.

Lausanne, Oct. 28.—After 2½ years of consideration, the Anglo-Colombian inter-arbitration court yesterday gave its award in the dispute between the government of Colombia and Puncard, McTaggart, Lowther & Co., engineers and contractors, for public works, respecting the Medellin-Magdalena river railway. Colombia's claim of $60,000 francs was dismissed, and the firm, a London concern, was awarded upwards of 1,000,000 francs.

From Boston to Rotterdam.

Boston, Oct. 28.—A new line of steamers, to run from this city to Rotterdam, is likely to be established by the Furness-Withy line, and the first steamer will sail from here next Wednesday. The initial trip will be made by the Teutonic, which arrived at this port in ballast. It is planned that sailings will be every two weeks, and that three steamers will be used. The Teutonic is a 4900 ton boat.

A GENERAL MISFIT.

And It Angered the Tailor's Victim Accordingly.

"Now I know what it is to think murder. If I gave way to the animal in my nature, I would have that fellow's life blood before I slept. Here it is Saturday night and not a chance to reach him before Monday. I'll not go out of the house tomorrow, not if the Bishop himself were going to conduct the services. Look at me!"

"Why, Robert, I think it's a real nice looking suit. I do, indeed."

"No, you don't. Would you have ever married me if I'd tried to court you in a guy looking rig like this? I guess not. Look at the sleeves. You couldn't get a decent sized pair of cuffs through these wristbands to save you from being flayed alive. Did you ever see such pants in your life—bloomers to the knees, skin tight over the calves and peg bottoms? One leg shorter than the other too! See it? I wouldn't go to an Elks' masquerade in such a rig."

"Nothing the matter with the clothes," snapped the wife's sister, who is very much as other men's wives' sisters are.

"I wish you'd just reserve your valuable opinion till it's asked for. It's a fright, and I want you to understand that I married only one of your family."

"I know it. There's only one of the family who would have had you."

His wife prevented violence by tearful intervention, but he jerked his summer hat on by mistake, forgot his night key and left with a vow that he would whip that tailor within an inch of his life and a loud hint that they would get rid of interlopers if they had to go to boarding.—Detroit Free Press.

Other Victims.

A Confident Youth.

"So, sir," exclaimed the father impressively, "you wish to marry my daughter?"

"I do," answered the youth resolutely.

"Do you think you can support her in the luxury to which she has been accustomed?"

"I do. When she makes her home with me, she won't have the gas turned down at 10:30 from the meter as a hint that it is time for company to go home, and she won't have any complaints about the amount of coal burned in order to heat the parlor for visitors. I kind of think, maybe, the dear girl will be pleased with the change in time."

HE MADE NO COMPACT.

Foraker Disposes of a Story of an Alleged Deal With Hanna.

Politics Now at Fever Heat
In the Buckeye State.

Anticipated Walkover For Republicans Has Developed Into a Hard Race.

Columbus, O., Oct. 28.—Before an audience of 7000 Senator Foraker denied that he had entered into a compact with Mark Hanna to support Mr. Nash, the Republican candidate for governor of Ohio, on condition that he himself should be re-elected to the senate. "To tell you the truth, I am not stuck on the job," said Senator Foraker. "I have been asked by a Democratic newspaper to tell this audience how I like my present associations. Well, to be frank, there are some things about them that are not altogether agreeable to me, but I would rather have them than to have associations with any Democrat on top of the earth." The senator made a powerful appeal to the followers of Mayor Jones to support the Republican ticket and endorse the administration of President McKinley.

JOSEPH R. FORAKER.

With but a single week of active campaigning intervening before the Ohio election, the result must be said to be more decidedly in doubt than at any time since the contest began. What promised to be at the beginning a walkover for the Republicans has now developed into the hardest race that party has had in this state in 10 years. There may be dissensions among the Democrats, but if there are, the disaffected members of the party are keeping their grievances to themselves.

It is not so with the Republicans. The offended members are many, and they are proclaiming their grievances from the housetops. It has been suggested that the Democrats who have it in mind to bolt their ticket this year keep still about it because of the feeling that McLean may be elected, which is unmistakably in the air here. After a long series of defeats they would not like to be found on the other side on the single occasion of victory for their party.

This is given for what it is worth. The fact of the matter seems to be, however, that the Democrats are better united than they have been in any state election for many years. One of the most notable developments of the closing days of the campaign is the evidence of increasing strength of the Mayor Jones non-partisan movement. He is having the largest and by far the most enthusiastic meetings of the campaign.

Neither of the two parties, even when they bring celebrities like the next speaker of the house of representatives, Henderson of Iowa, have been able to arouse much enthusiasm. It is not so much in the large cities, but also in the smaller towns. Experienced politicians, who are not supporting him, have admitted that if Jones had time to go into every county in the state and make a speech, he would carry the state. But he cannot do this, and while his movement gives evidence of great strength, it has no intelligent direction. He has no organization. He has no money with which to establish such committees as the two big parties have.

And so, while his vote is certain now to be large—much larger than any third party candidate has received in this state—his election seems quite out of the question. Still, some people, whose judgment is considered good, claim that he has a fair chance. Chairman Dick of the Republican state committee admits that the Jones vote will be large, but thinks it will fall below 80,000. It is likely to be about twice that. These will come principally from the cities. The rural vote will not be much affected by it. In fact, the rural vote in Ohio does not change much. Your Ohio farmer, be he Republican or Democrat, generally votes his ticket when he votes at all. He has a habit of staying away from the polls, however, that plays hob with the election results, when he is not satisfied with the action of his party.

But rural Ohio is Democratic. Excepting only Hamilton, Dayton and Sandusky, there is not a city in the state of over 10,000 population that is not Republican. The aggregate Republican plurality contributed by the cities in the state election is about 110,000. The rural districts are sufficiently Democratic to bring this plurality down to about 30,000. In 1896 the voters all came out, and the farmers came with them, so that notwithstanding there was a considerable defection of gold Democrats, McKinley carried the state by only 48,000. The next year the disappointed and uninterested farmers did not turn out, and the Republican plurality went up to almost 50,000.

These facts are interesting in their application to the election of this year, for this is the year in which the decision of the farmers is chosen. The rural land appraisers are chosen. The officials of the foreign office are not even aware that there is any "offensive and defensive alliance" between China and Japan.

real estate, and the land appraisers chosen now will put the valuation upon this property at which it will be taxed for the next 10 years. It is likely to bring out a full rural vote. It has done so in each last year of the recent decades, and 10 years ago was instrumental, no doubt, in electing James E. Campbell, the last Democratic governor Ohio has had.

Democrats R. by The Ticks.

Boston, Oct. 28.—Historic Faneuil hall held an enthusiastic crowd of citizens last night, when the Democratic state committee officially ratified the ticket placed in nomination by the party's state convention. The attendance was very large. James A. McGough of Boston was chairman for the evening. The first speaker was the party's nominee for governor, Robert T. Paine, Jr. The nominee for lieutenant governor, John H. Mack, of North Adams, was the next speaker. John H. Morrison of Lowell, nominee for attorney general, and E. G. Brown of Brockton, nominee for state auditor, each spoke briefly. The speakers all reviewed the Democratic policy as emanating from the Chicago platform, and expressed regret at our soldiers being "engaged in a war of conquest." Loud calls were made for a speech from George F. Williams. Mr. Williams confined his remarks briefly to the two great wars—that in South Africa and that in the Philippines. He characterized both as being identical in purpose, great and strong nations invading weak ones, both, he said, without regard for the sacred principles of liberty.

Ancient Mason's Expired Resignation.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—The Times-Herald says: Senator Mason's threat to resign unless the administration's present foreign policy is changed may be executed before Christmas. Persons who assume to be well informed insist that he will step out immediately in pursuance of an arrangement which will change the whole face of Republican politics in Illinois. The story runs to this effect: Senator Mason will resign in a few weeks to take a high salaried legal position—$12,000 or more a year—with one of the biggest corporations in the country having headquarters in Chicago. Governor Tanner will then resign and Lieutenant Governor Northcott in succeeding to the governorship will appoint Tanner to the vacant senatorship. With Tanner thus eliminated from the gubernatorial situation Northcott can be made the "organization candidate" for governor next year.

Succumbed to Pneumonia.

New York, Oct. 28.—Brigadier General Guy V. Henry, U. S. A., died at his residence in this city Friday of pneumonia, after a sickness of 10 days. General Henry was born March 9, 1839, at Fort Smith, I. T., his father, Major Henry, at the time being engaged in fighting the Indians. General Henry was the grandson of one who was vice president of the United States and twice governor of New York. Daniel D. Thompson, and also grandson of a former secretary of the navy and judge of the superior court, Smith Thompson. He graduated from West Point Military academy at the outbreak of the Civil war. He had served in the Civil war, on the frontier and as military governor of Porto Rico.

GENERAL HENRY.

Warm Welcome to Sampson.

Palmyra, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Rear Admiral William T. Sampson was welcomed here, his birthplace, with great acclaim yesterday. There were over 20,000 visitors in town, and fully 50,000 in all saw the parade. The exercises were held in the First Presbyterian church. The rear admiral was most heartily cheered by P. T. Saxton, a schoolmate of Admiral Sampson, delivered an address of welcome, expressing the pride of the community in the merited high honors with which Admiral Sampson returned to his birthplace. Rear Admiral Sampson's speech was brief, expressing his gratitude for the reception. His eyes filled with tears and his voice was choked with emotion.

Moore Out of Jail.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 28.—Dr. Joseph C. Moore of Manchester, who was sentenced to four years in state prison for over issue of stock, and who was committed to that institution on April 1, 1897, was pardoned last night. Governor Rollins visited Dr. Moore in prison yesterday, and satisfied himself that he is a very sick man, and could not survive very long if he remained in prison, and that it was simply an act of mercy to grant a pardon. Two councillors voted against the pardon, while three voted in the affirmative.

Pettigrew's Bombast.

Aberdeen, S. D., Oct. 28.—Reports from Senator Pettigrew's meeting at Woonsocket credit him with having eulogized Aguirre as a patriot and hero. He never once referred to the achievements of the South Dakota regiment in Luzon or mentioned its home-coming. At the conclusion of this portion of his address he said: "I am ashamed of my country; I would pull down the flag and go back and blot out recent history if I could."

Alliance Story Discredited.

London, Oct. 28.—Inquiries at the foreign office show that the report published in the United States that Siam has joined the "China-Japan offensive and defensive alliance" is so utterly improbable as not to merit attention. The officials of the foreign office are not even aware that there is any "offensive and defensive alliance" between China and Japan.

TRAMP ARMY FOR PARIS.

About 1,000 Hoboes Will Go to the Great Fair.

A VESSEL ALREADY CHARTERED.

Four Men Are at the Head of the Movement—Agents Are Now in France Working Up the Scheme.
They Will Forage For Their Food Supplies.

Carl Browne, who led the western Coxy army to Washington, has trimmed his hair, doffed his leather coat and abandoned all further attempts at raising a new army. In Denver and in Wichita he has for weeks been preaching the new crusade with poor success. In his last speech he said that the poor have too much work to give heed to his "On to Washington" doctrine. He therefore accepted the situation and announced his determination to hereafter preach expansion, provided he could secure audiences that would contribute to his support.

Browne did not realize that the Paris exposition had anything to do with the failure of his project, and yet such is the fact. Some three months ago four men, professional tramps, and yet shrewd men in their way, met in Topeka and inaugurated a movement that for boldness as well as apparent absurdity has never been equaled in this country, being nothing more nor less than an immense excursion of tramps to France for the ostensible purpose of attending the great exposition.

These men, Jared Yeoman, Sam Mitchell, George Purvis and Michael Delaney, are well known to the tramp fraternity of the west and south, having been frequenters of nearly every tramp camp west of the Mississippi river. They are not without money, even though they were never known to do a day's work. That they have influence with their kind may be known from the fact that they have already secured the pledges of over 700 to join one of the three companies they have organized.

After having shown a mass of correspondence fully corroborating all the statements made, Purvis, who is secretary of the excursion committee, gave in detail the origin and plans of those who conceived this scheme. He said:

"I assure you that our plans are practical and that they will be fully carried out. We may not have enough means just now to meet all the expenses that will arise, for our numbers are already greater than we anticipated when we started this movement. We expect to get together about 300 men who wanted a good time, and we have already more than 700, with the certainty of having 2,000. Delaney is now in France looking over the ground and mapping out our course prior to our descent upon Paris. Here is a letter from him in which he says there will be no difficulty, as he has visited the cities of Rochelle, Niort, Poitiers, Tours and Orleans.

"We now propose to move in three companies, crossing the ocean in as many small vessels, one of which we have already chartered. Owing to the prejudice that exists against us we will make landing at three different points: Havre, Rochelle and Marseilles. The latter is the greater distance from Paris and therefore will be the first point made. This company will be under my immediate direction."

"But do you not anticipate police interference?" was asked.

"No, I do not. I have been over all that country and know exactly what we must do. Of course we will not travel in a body when we land, but will deploy over the country between that point and Paris until we have representatives in Avignon, Valence, Lyons, Auxerre, Sens and Melun, entering the big city in small detachments. The company landing at Rochelle will pursue the same course, covering the cities spoken of by Delaney, who has already made arrangements with local men of the roving fraternity. Another company will land at Havre, being the first to reach Paris, although it will be the last one to start. I will not tell you the port from which we will sail, as this is one point which we do not wish to become known until after it is too late for the local authorities to prevent the congregating of such large numbers as we will have."

"We do not intend to do anything dishonest; but, you know, the men will not go hungry when there is anything in the country to eat. We now have in the treasury more than enough cash to pay the charter of one vessel and will have no difficulty in getting all we need. We intend to do this thing up in style—that is, the style of our own kind. Some of us may never come back. Indeed we make our contracts for crossing the ocean but one way. How do we raise our money? Look at these letters. They all contain the advances for anticipated expenses. You see that we do business at more than a dozen postoffices, not that we are afraid, but it is more convenient. And then our agents make collections every day, which moneys are added to the general treasury."

This movement is most unique, and, while it may not reach the proportions anticipated, it is as likely to be greater in volume as smaller, for many who follow the profession of tramp will work when there is sufficient incentive. Yeoman is now in the south working up this movement, while Mitchell is in Colorado engaged in the same occupation. Upon inquiry at the proper places it was learned that these four men were bonded for the sum of $4,000 each, and as soon as the collections reach $12,000 they must give further bonds. They are the fathers of the enterprise, but they are not trusted.

It was no great surprise to learn that this movement originated in Kansas and that the leading men are Kansans so far as they are residents of any state. Information from other sources confirm all that was said by Purvis and leads one to believe that the movement is of greater magnitude than represented. These men do not seem to care for the usual things that interest tourists, but seem inclined to try the ways and manners of an older country regardless of the strict police system that prevails. There will not be much individual money in the three several companies, for, having their passage and food paid for, they will depend almost wholly upon their methods as practiced here. They are careless of results, either personal or political, claiming that France is a part of the world that owes them a living.

Those who are cognizant of this movement are watching it with much interest, being anxious to observe the results of a transplanting of an American system to an older country.

GIRL FOUND RICH MINE.

She Also Captured a Wealthy Klondiker For a Husband.

Miss Edith Howe, who has returned home to St. Paul from the Klondike, brings confirmation of the report that Robert Florman and his family, former residents of Rapid City, have discovered a rich quartz vein of ore in the Atlin mining district, Alaska.

The discovery was made by Florence Florman, one of the daughters, who had acquired an experience in mining and prospecting in her girlhood days in the Black Hills. It chanced that William Partridge, a well known mining expert of London, known to the English mining people as "Sailor Bill," a name which he got in South Africa, was a personal friend of the Flormans, and after examining the quartz vein he bonded it for $200,000 and went to London, where he interested a titled Englishman, who took up the bond and commenced immediate development of the property.

The Flormans received their money, and the chance is considered good for the opening up of one of the richest quartz gold mines in the world. Soon after the discovery of the vein Miss Florence Florman met Frank Baker, a rich mine owner of the Klondike, who made love to her, and their marriage was celebrated just before Miss Howe left for her home. Mr. and Mrs. Baker are now residing in Dawson City. Robert Florman was prominent in mining circles in the Black Hills for several years.

SHE DINES ON CLAY.

Kaolin Considered a Dietary Luxury by a Scrubwoman.

The custodian of the Georgia state capitol has found a woman who considers ordinary kaolin clay a dietary luxury. Her name is Annie Williams, and she is a fair specimen of the clay eaters, who can be found in some parts of the state. On the third floor of the State Administration building is an exhibit of the natural products of Georgia, including marbles, clay, kaolin, etc.

Annie is one of the charwomen whose duties lie in keeping the spotless marble of the building in perfect condition, and her work frequently took her to the third floor. For some time the janitor noticed that a large block of kaolin was gradually disappearing, and one day, examining it closely, discovered unmistakable tooth marks. Annie was watched and her guilt established beyond doubt. When questioned as to her abnormal propensities, she could give no satisfactory explanation, concluding with the statement that "she jes' had a nachul likin to dat white dirt and couldn't hep chawin it when she got de chance." She has been informed that the state maintains the exhibit for purposes of advertisement and not as a luxury for the palate and that hereafter she must confine herself to the food of ordinary mortals.

CAMERAS AT PARIS FAIR.

Snap Shots at Buildings and Grounds to Be Allowed For Ten Cents.

Amateur photographers who expect to take snap shots at the Paris exposition in 1900 will have to pay for the pleasure. A. S. Capehart, director of the department of liberal arts to the United States commission, has received from the French commissioners a ruling concerning cameras and photographic supplies and the taking of pictures at the Paris exposition, says the New York Sun. Cameras will be allowed on the exposition grounds only after a permit has been secured from the exposition authorities. A charge of 50 centimes, or 10 cents, will be made for this, and the applicant will be required to furnish his name, age and other personal data and residence in Paris, that he may be identified.

After the permit is granted exposures will be allowed only of public buildings and general groups. Photographs of individual exhibits will not be allowed, as the patent laws of France guarantee the patentee against photographs of the patent, which might be used in another country. The charge for similar privileges during the World's fair in Chicago was about $2.

Russian Nobleman's Paper House.

A large paper house with 16 rooms has been erected by a Russian nobleman on his country estate in Padolia. It was constructed in New York by an American engineer and cost $80,000 rubles. Its architect declares that it will last longer than a stone building, says the New York Tribune. To make the triumph for paper more emphatic the owner has resolved that all the furniture shall be of the same material.

Good Afternoon.

At the request of the Board of Health the Ledger is pleased to state that the city has made an appropriation for house connections with the sewer, so that those who may connect can have the cost apportioned over three years. This fact we supposed was generally known; certainly a large number were availing themselves of its provision; more in fact than the city gangs will be able to connect before cold weather.

The cost of $25 to $50 to enter is but a small part of the attending cost. Although the house is newly plumbed, and passed the plumbing ordinance a few years ago, it will be found necessary to make many changes in the plumbing to conform to the new regulations. If a house escapes for $50 additional it will be lucky, for it is likely to go over $100. Then the Board of Health will order the cesspools emptied forthwith, and then they must be filled with clean dirt. It's expensive business, and the bills of the plumber, city scavenger and others cannot be apportioned.

When houses are connected with the sewer, the owners desire bath rooms with all the improvements. They must, in fact, have them, and those not now equipped will have to pay from $200 to $300. Owners of houses will do well to have their plumbing inspected by the Inspector of Plumbing, and an estimate of the cost of changes before they petition to be connected with the sewer. Again, we repeat, the Board of Health, should not abuse its power, but give the people at least one year in which to connect.

So far, the record of marriages in this city is below that of a year ago. Now let the Ledger lay the blame on the Commissioner of Public Works.—Exchange.

Perhaps the Commissioner might employ a few more Italians on the water works; then City Clerk Harlow could have a wedding at City Hall every day.

Drift of Opinion.

W. Murray Crane has an immense fund of common sense, and on the whole, this is the sum of the most desirable qualities in the public man.—Athol Transcript.

"Society" in Newport is reduced to the verge of silliness. At a recent party in that select place the young men and maidens dressed in baby clothes, danced baby dances, and if they were consistent made their supper of baby pap. If American society is coming to this it had better be abolished.—New Bedford Standard.

The Railway Age calls attention to the fact that in the first ten months of 1899, 2700 miles of new railroad were laid, which is more than for any entire year since 1862, and notwithstanding the fact that both scarcity of labor and material have hampered such work. The railroads have added 100,000 cars to their rolling stock during the last year, but they are still unable to handle the traffic of the country.—Haverhill Gazette.

Well, young Cornelius Vanderbilt will doubtless be able to scrape along with that $7,500,000. To be sure his father treated him rather shabbily in his will, having left him but $1,500,000 of his vast estate, but his brother Alfred, who gets the lion's share, displayed his generosity by at once giving Cornelius $6,000,000, and this, together with $500,000 previously left by his grandfather, brings the disfavored son's wealth up to $8,000,000. Cornelius says he is satisfied, and well he might be.—Brockton Times.

The time seems to have already arrived for the United States to repay Great Britain for keeping the other nations away from us during our little misunderstanding with Spain, and the chances are that payment will be expected. However, about all that will be expected of this country will be the occasional gentle laying of a hand on the shoulder of some nation that seems to manifest too strong a desire to steal Johnny Bull's coat while he is engaged in playing marbles with Oom Paul, and that ought not to be a particularly difficult or dangerous task.—Brockton Enterprise.

When the Boers cease to bore the British, which will be the case after they get one good General Buller whipping, the cruel war will about end, and then the South African gold mines will renew their flow of gold to London. These mines are good hereafter for $100,000,000 of gold per annum, which is one-third of the world's present output. Nothing will help good investment and active speculative stocks to advance more than for large amounts of the precious metal to pour into London or New York from outside sections of the world. If the African mines produce at the rate of $100,000,000 this year, which they can easily do upon the return of peace, it will make the world's output $300,000,000—the largest on record. This is the strongest, safest and most legitimate basis for the inflation of values that is possible.—Henry Clews.

It is not pleasant to bear burdens of grief, but it is better to have borne them than to have gone ignorant of their meaning. The deepening of our sympathies enriches life in many different ways. Moreover, the grief from which we shrink before it comes enlarges our capacity for useful service. If it tend at first to concentrate attention on one's self, in the case of every noble nature it leads the mind away from self in the end, opens doors of usefulness in various different directions and increases the power of service not only through the enlargement of sympathy, but in other equally practical ways. A great grief never leaves one as it found him, and there are natures which, unless outwardly supported, it seems to crush. But most of us, after the first numbing effect has had time to pass, it impels to action, at first in order that we may forget ourselves, and then with the nobler hope of preventing our saddened, sometimes almost hopeless, lives from being also fruitless.—Congregationalist.

Halloween.

Halloween, All Hallow Eve, and Nutcrack Night, are terms applied to the night of October 31. Its observance dates back to the time of the Druids, with whom it was the night of the yearly harvest festival. Bonfires were lighted on the hilltops in honor of the sun which had ripened the harvests. Later it came to be regarded as the time when supernatural influences were especially potent, when fairies and elves peopled the forests and goblins and witches stalked abroad. The powers of darkness were believed to hold high carnival at the midnight hour approached; at the stroke of twelve the "eerie tribes" fled, to visit the earth no more until another year.

WOLLASTON ALSO

Is Pounced Upon by the Board of Health.

Farrington Street Houses
Must Connect.

Cranch Hill People Kicking and Inquiring.

The owners of estates on Whitwell street and Cranch hill are not to be alone in the order to enter the public sewer, issued by the Board of Health, so that they perhaps will not feel quite so bad. The other section pounced upon by the Board of Health is in Wollaston, that part known as "the plains," or more particularly on Farrington street. Many in this section have already entered the sewer, but those who have not, have now been ordered to do so. There has been some inquiry as to just what section of Cranch hill the sewer has been laid through. At the office of the Sewerage Commissioners it was learned that the sewer is now completed on Whitwell street between Granite and Ryden streets, Cranch, Deldorf and Beacon streets, a part of Roselin avenue, private way off Deldorf street, and a part of Rockview avenue.

Many estates in this section had already connected, or made application, before the Board of Health issued their order and their order was not issued to more than a dozen houses.

Some of these made applications immediately upon receipt of their notice. There were others, however, who objected to entering unless obliged to, and they are kicking, and are inquiring if the Board of Health can compel them to enter. They first waited upon the Sewerage Commissioners who turn them over to the Board of Health, where they are promptly informed that the order is legal and they have no redress, but to obey.

The order is quite severe upon some, as they have but recently received their sewer assessment. They say they intended to connect with the sewer some time, they do object to being ordered to connect just at present.

Picture Fraud.

Herbert L. Rowe, hailing from Boston, was arrested in Quincy yesterday for the embezzlement of a picture valued at twenty-five cents from Annie K. Jensen. Rowe is one of the picture agents who travel about from house to house soliciting pictures to be enlarged. When he takes a picture he says there will be no expense, but when the picture is returned the owner must purchase a frame or they do not get their picture. In the case of Miss Jensen, a demand was made for money or she could not have her picture. This she refused. The police were notified and Rowe's arrest followed. Although the case of the Jensen girl was the only one upon which a complaint was made the police have the names of many other servants girls who have also been victimized in the same manner.

Burglary in Braintree.

A daring burglary took place between 9.40 and 11.15 Thursday evening at the store of L. W. Thayer in Holbrook Block, Braintree.

Mr. Thayer's clerk, John Kelley, made up the day's cash account and closed the store at about 9.40. When Mr. Thayer came back from Quincy a couple of hours later to take the cash, he found it was missing.

Upon inquiry it was learned that the burglar had pried open the window and entered the store that way, and $13 was taken by the thief. There is no doubt that it was the work of local parties, who knew the inside of the store and the manner the business is carried on.

PUBLIC HEARING.

QUINCY.

In Council, Oct. 16, 1899.
ORDERED: On the petition of the Mayor that Newport avenue from Beale street to Brook street be widened as shown by a plan by H. T. Whitman, Engineer, dated October, 1899, and filed in the office of the City Clerk, that a public hearing be given by the City Council to all parties interested on MONDAY EVENING, November 6th, 1899, at eight o'clock, in the Council Chamber, City Hall, and that public notice of the same be given by publishing a copy of this order in the Quincy Daily Ledger at least seven days before the time of said hearing.
Adopted October 16th, 1899.
Attest: CHRISTOPHER A. SPEAR,
Clerk of Council.

CITY BREVITIES.

A Local Budget with the News
in a Nut Shell.

Probably a rainy Sunday.

Charles A. Swingle has returned from his vacation trip in the west.

Abigail Adams circle, C. of F., will be instituted in Quincy next Monday evening.

Evidently the long established Quincy stores intend to meet the new Quincy Department store in prices.

Rev. W. W. Dornan will speak at the men's meeting of the Y. M. C. A. at 3.30 P. M. Sunday.

Quincy Council, K. of C., passed resolutions at its last meeting on the death of Walter T. Hefferman of Weymouth.

E. F. Hayden, the expressman, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. Liabilities are placed at $2,449 and assets at $948.

Several very desirable houses are advertised to let, and it is well for people thinking of making a change to do so before cold weather sets in.

Anthony Comstock was able to get to the Y. M. C. A. convention at Lowell yesterday and spoke both in the afternoon and evening upon his special work.

The annual meeting of the Old Colony Association of Universalists will be held with the Norwell parish, Wednesday, Nov. 1, afternoon and evening.

John W. McAnarney, Esq., of this city is counsel for Mrs. Annie Merriam Ford of Hyde Park in her suit for absolute divorce from Dr. D. F. Ford of Boston.

The bicycle stolen from Representative Sheppard Thursday night was recovered Friday in a Boston pawnshop by Inspector McKay, where it had been sold for $10.

Patterson, the Wollaston florist, had charge of the decorations at the church and house for the Pollard-Badger wedding at Braintree on Wednesday evening and they were much admired.

Wollaston people look upon the revival of the 1890 petition for the widening of the Hancock street bridge at Atlantic, as a movement to kill the extension of Warren avenue over the railroad.

Coddington street has been closed to public travel between Spear and Newcomb streets. A large gang of men and teams are now at work upon the street. It is doubtful, however, if the widening is completed before cold weather sets in.

It is rumored that Chief Engineer Williams would not be reappointed if the Democrats should succeed at the Municipal election. That his independence has not pleased the administration, and that the Chief himself has been at times disgusted with methods.

There was another large crowd Friday evening at the second night of the fair of the Swedish Lutheran church, at Faxon hall, and many articles were sold. The entertainment consisted of music by the Lutheran orchestra; address by Rev. J. A. Anderson; cornet solo by J. F. Johnson and recitation by Rev. J. A. Bernhard.

Notice of the County Commissioners for hearings on the petitions for the widening of the Hancock street bridge and approaches at Atlantic, and for a bridge over the railroad tracks at Warren avenue, Wollaston, are advertised in the Quincy Patriot this week. The date for both is Nov. 25, at 10 A. M.

The large granite die for McDonnell & Sons, which has just been quarried and cut by the Quincy Quarry Co., was shipped to the Granite Railway Co. plant Friday, where it will be polished. The dimensions of the die are about 15 by 8, and the stone weighs 84,300 pounds. When completed it will form part of a large monument McDonnell & Sons are cutting for Buffalo, N. Y., parties.

Tact and Judgment.

The current issue of the New England Printing Trades Journal has a fine picture of Councilman E. E. Jameson of this city. The success of large manufacturing concerns," says the Journal, "depends in a great measure upon the intelligence and tact displayed by its various representatives in the large cities. Every printer in Boston who has had business dealings with Mr. Jameson, will admit that he is a man of rare tact and sound judgment, and it is mainly owing to his perseverance and business ability that the Whitlock Printing Press Manufacturing Company has met with such success in placing their presses in Boston. *** He is a most affable and genial man, and has always been a friend of labor unions, and is universally respected by the entire printing craft. His home is in Quincy, being a member of the City Council. He is a native of East Lexington, Mass.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street rail, way switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

The Cook and Her Troubles.

There is nothing that worries the cook quite so much as a balky range. A range that won't cook and bake as it ought to or just as it should. You'll never know the real modern pleasure of cooking until you try a GLENWOOD RANGE.

These truly wonderful ranges, built as they are on the most scientific ideas, are capable of doing work never dreamed of by the old time cook. Housekeeping becomes a pleasure with a Glenwood Range. Coal bills and grocery bills are cut down. Kitchens usually cluttered up and over heated are kept as neat as wax, and work is done with a Glenwood Range in about half the time required by any other range.

If you wish to make house keeping a pleasure, own a Glenwood Range. We make a reasonable allowance for your old range, set a new Glenwood in your house in perfect working order, and give you written guarantee.

"Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded."

WORMS

Hundreds of children and adults have worms
but are treated for other diseases. The symptoms are—indigestion, with a variable appetite; foul tongue; offensive breath; hard and full belly with occasional griping and pain about the navel; head and itching sensation in the rectum and about the anus; eyes heavy and dull; itching of the nose; short, dry cough;
grinding of the teeth; starting during sleep;
slow fever; and often in children, convulsions.

Political.

Edwin C. Jenney of Hyde Park has been nominated by the Democrats of this Senatorial district in place of George R. R. Rivers of Milton resigned. Mr. Jenney is a lawyer.

A Brockton letter to a Boston paper says, "The Social Democrats have been making all sorts of claims as to what they were going to do here this fall, but there is not the slightest indication that they will be very much of a factor in the city. They have been trying hard to interest the Swedish voters in Wards 3 and 4, making up the Ninth Representative District, and have been very confident of electing the members of the House. It is evident that they have vastly over-estimated their strength and numbers, and all the evidences point to the selection of a Republican. For the last six months the Social Democrats have been trying hard to make a campaign by which their principles could be propagated in the city. It was held that it was a good field, because it was a shoe town, and the Social Democratic leaders believed that they could be as successful as they were in Haverhill. But the Brockton shoemakers are pretty bright people, and while the theories spun by the Debs propagandists look very fine and fascinating at a distance merely as theories, a close examination discloses their crude and impractical nature."

Why Women are Nervous.

The frequent cases of nervous prostration or utter collapse of the nervous system under which women "go all to pieces," as the saying is, have, caused much thought and investigation on the part of physicians.

Certain inorganic substances are well known to cause various forms of nervous diseases which are readily traced to the poisons producing them. Further research leads to the belief that alum is a prevailing cause of so-called nervous prostration, for the symptoms it produces on the nervous system after its absorption into the blood are very remarkable indeed. Experiments physiologically made upon animals by Orfila, Professors Hans Mayer, Paul Seim and others, show that alum frequently produces no visible symptoms for many days after its introduction into the body. Then follow loss of appetite and other alimentary disturbances, and finally a serious prostration of the whole nervous system. The most prominent physicians now believe that "nervous prostration" and many affections of the nerves from which both men and women suffer are caused by the continued absorption of alum into the system.

It is probable that many medical men are unaware of the extent to which salts of alumina may be introduced into the body, being under the impression that the use of alum in bread is prohibited. Alum, however, is still used surreptitiously to some extent to whiten bread, and very largely in making cheap kinds of baking powder. In families where baking powder is generally used great care should be exercised to procure only those brands made from cream of tartar. The alum powders may generally be distinguished by the lower price at which they are sold.—British Medical News.

New Pastor at Braintree.

Rev. Howard B. Cooper, the new pastor of the South Braintree M. E. church, is a native of Ohio and was born at Sayre, Perry county, in that state. At the age of seventeen he became a teacher in a public school near his home and in the fall of 1890 entered the Ohio Wesleyan university from which he graduated with the degree of A. B. in 1896.

In the fall of that year he entered the Ohio conference of which he is still a member, his last appointment being at Portsmouth, Ohio. In September 1899, he entered the Boston School of Theology and on September 25 was appointed by Dr. Bass, presiding elder, to fill the vacancy made by Rev. C. H. Williams at the church he is now serving.

—Dickens who made his p e e r felt wherever he wandered, sometimes wrote upon window panes, and at a splendid old coaching inn—now almost a wilderness—on the Great North road, not far from Pontefract, is a very clear signature of his on the dining room window pane.

THE HIGH JUBILANT.

Victory of Hingham High at
at Foot Ball.

The Quincy High foot ball eleven defeated Hingham High yesterday afternoon 6 to 5, in a well played and interesting game.

Both teams played a hard game throughout, characterized by sharp tackling and strong line bucking. The teams were about evenly matched as is shown by the score.

Hingham kicked off in the first half, and the Quincy boys started in with series plays, but their opponents defence was so strong that Keyes was forced to kick. Hingham started in strongly, and by excellent rushing, gradually advanced the ball towards Quincy's goal line. Here they were held for several downs, but finally on a mass centre play, they fought their way across the line, although resisted by the Quincy team. The try for goal was missed by several feet. During the remainder of the fifteen-minute half, the ball wavered back and forth a middle of the field, with neither goal at any time in danger, thus leaving the score for the first half, Hingham 5, Quincy 0.

For the second half, Quincy played much harder and faster and quite out-classed their opponents. Quincy kicked off to the Hingham full-back, and he was downed in his tracks by Hanson. Hingham then started in to repeat her gains of the first half, but after a five yard gain they were repulsed on every attempt and forced to relinquish the ball on downs. Quincy then showed her customary second-half spirit, as exemplified in the Brighton and the Weymouth games. Peterson gained five yards through tackle. Snow fell three yards through centre, Keyes gained seven yards through left guard. On the next line up, Levitt received the ball on a guard-back formation and plunging through the opposing line, emerged from the mass with a clear field before him. The only would-be tackler was quickly blocked off by Keyes. This run of forty yards was the feature of the game. Amid the cheers of the Quincy delegation, and hooting of the Hingham supporters, Snow kicked a pretty goal, making the score Quincy 6, Hingham 5.

For the rest of the game the ball was mostly in Quincy's possession, and at every run they gained from five to ten yards. The game ended with the ball on Hingham's fifty yard line.

The Quincy team was accompanied by several teachers and many pupils, who were all very joyous over the victory. Last year Hingham won by a large margin, so the victory was doubly pleasant.

Mr. E. S. Hook attended on Wednesday, Oct. 25, the meeting and dinner at the United States hotel, of the society of "California Pioneers," of which he is a member. A royal good time was enjoyed.

Mary, the 15-year old daughter of Frank McCormick of Blue Hill avenue, has been missing since Sept. 12. The day before she disappeared she visited her father at the City Hospital, where he was with a broken leg, and said that home was not the same without him. Search has been made for her but no trace of her whereabouts has been found. Two years ago she disappeared in the same way, but was found visiting a family in Brighton. The only theory advanced is an unbalanced mind and that she has forgotten temporarily where she lives.

The repairs on the Baptist church are approaching completion. Dedication exercises will be held early next month.

A class in French meets at Associates hall twice a week.

A harvest service will be held at the Congregational church, East Milton, next Sunday evening. There will be special music, recitations and responsive readings. The church will be decorated with fall vegetables.

Mrs. Edward Adams died last week at the home of her daughter in Newton. Her funeral was held Sunday.

The fire department was called out Monday evening on a still alarm for a chimney fire in F. E. Cobbett's house on Edge Hill road.

Milton people are agitating a new public library building and will bring the matter before the annual town meeting.

Robert M. Good is building a house on the Hall estate.

The Mission of Our Saviour church will observe its second anniversary next Sunday evening. There will be special music and speaking.

Dr. Adams of Wollaston has opened an office at East Milton. This gives this village four resident physicians and two from Wollaston who have an office here not counting the two druggists, who are sometimes called doctors.

O. A. Andrews, principal of the Belcher school, is ill at his home, and has been granted a two months' vacation. Miss Alden is taking his place.

O. A. Flanders is building two houses at Milton Hills.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Walsh are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son, and Mr. and Mrs. James Parks on the birth of a daughter.

The Acetylene gas plant, which has been established in the Baptist church for lighting purposes, gives excellent satisfaction. It is a fifty light plant.

I. O. G. T. Officers.

He Changed His Mind as to the Disposition of His Property.

BY W. R. ROSE.

Abel Mitchell called to his type-writer.

"You may go, Miss Morris," he said. He did not look up from the papers before him.

The young woman turned to the clock with a little start of surprise. It was only 4:30. But she quietly put on her hat and with a murmured good night left the room.

Abel listened to the departing rustle of her skirts with a thoughtful expression. There was a sensible girl, a girl who never grated on his feelings, a girl who asked no useless questions. She had reached an age of discretion. If Jim was determined to marry a poor girl, why couldn't he have taken one like Emma Morris?

Abel opened a heavy envelope and drew forth a folded paper.

"Jim never was confidential with me," he grumbled. "Perhaps I didn't invite his confidence. I don't know. Now he has disobeyed my direct command. That can't be overlooked. When he told me about this girl, I said wait. 'How long?' he asked. 'Until you reach years of discretion!' I cried and turned away. Jim is 24. Twenty-four. And I married at 21. Yes, and ran away too. But it was different with me. My father had nothing to give me. I was quite independent. He was glad to have me shift for myself. Jim's father is a rich man. Jim's father has given him dollars where my father begrudged me pennies. Jim owes me filial obedience. He has disobeyed me to his bitter cost."

He unfolded the paper that he had taken from the envelope and ran his keen gray eye down the closely written lines.

"He has given up his father for a pretty face," he murmured. "Let him stand by the consequences. Who is she? What is she? It matters not. No doubt they trapped him into this marriage. 'A rich man's son,' they chuckled. But they'll find they're fooled. 'Father,' he said, 'I am to be married tomorrow night. Will you come with me to the wedding?' I turned on my heel. Then I looked back. 'You know the price you may pay?' I cried. 'Yes, father,' he said, with his head high up. 'I know. Goodby, and God bless you.' He asked a blessing on me! Ha, ha, ha; that's too rich! But he'll get evil for good this time. I'll cut him off with a dollar. Let him sup on herbs for awhile. That'll take the veneer from love's young dream. I'll draw up a new will at home tonight and have it witnessed before I sleep. And to let him know what his foolish fancy has cost him I'll write him a letter—a letter he can show to his new relatives. That's the thing—the letter."

He bent down with his head upon his hand and his eyes upon the paper. A rustle of skirts in the doorway drew his attention. He did not look up. It was a way he had.

"Ah, Miss Morris," he said, "back again?" He had quite forgotten that he had sent her home.

The young girl in the doorway did not answer. Her bright eyes were fixed upon the old man. She expected him to look up. If he had done so, he would have seen a charming vision. She was a very pretty girl—dainty and neat from the tip of her new hat to the tips of her new shoes. But he did not look up.

"Just in time," he added. "I want to dictate a letter before you go."

He paused, and the young girl, as if seized with a sudden fancy, quietly stepped into the room and seated herself at the typewriter.

"You have been with us so long, Miss Morris," the old man continued, "that we view you as a confidential agent. Besides, this will be public property very soon. I am going to write to my son. Last night he married an unknown girl against my wishes. I am going to tell him that I wash my hands of him and his; that tonight I change my will, cutting him off with a solitary dollar. Are you ready?"

The girl at the typewriter gave the instrument a preliminary click or two. "James Mitchell," began the old man, "as you have seen fit to disobey me, to cast my fatherly wishes in my teeth, I desire you to know that I have no wish to hold further communication with you. While I cherish the impression that you were lured into this unhappy marriage—"

The typewriter stopped. "Unhappy marriage," the old man repeated, and the clicking recommenced, "yet I cannot accept this as any excuse for your undutiful conduct. Tonight I change my will, and you may rest assured that your name will be passed over with the smallest possible financial consideration. I prefer to have you understand this here and now. It will prevent you and your new friends from cherishing any false hopes. This is all I have to say, and no reply will be expected. Abel Mitchell."

The young girl drew the sheet from the machine and, bringing it forward, laid it on the old man's desk. Abel glanced it through.

"A beautiful copy," he said and carefully folded it. Then he placed it in an envelope and dipped a pen in ink. "I do not know his address," he said, and knitted his brows.

The girl at the end of the desk extended her hand.

"If you have no objection," she quietly said, "I will deliver it to him in person."

The old man looked up at the fair face bending over him.

"Why, who are you?" he cried.

"I am Alice Mitchell," said the young girl.

"Mitchell?" repeated Abel dully. "My son's wife! And what?" But the ugly words would not come. He could not utter them in the light of those gentle eyes. "Will you be seated?" he lamely added.

"Thank you, no," said the girl. "I have but a few words to say; they will not detain you long." Abel's gaze dropped to the letter and the will, and a sarcastic smile twisted his mouth. "No, no," the girl quickly added. "I have not come to plead with you. You are quite wrong to imagine such a thing. And you were quite wrong, too, to insult me as you did in that letter." He looked up again quickly. There were tears in the gentle eyes. And there was a glint of fire in them too. "You insulted me and you insulted my dear father. I have no mother." She paused a moment. "When you insinuated that my father was mercenary in this matter, you did him a cruel wrong. He was bitterly opposed to my marrying without your consent. I disobeyed my father too. But it was not for your money. This letter will bring us no surprise."

The old man dropped his eyes beneath her reproachful gaze. "Perhaps I was hasty," he slowly said, "but the provocation was great." Then he quickly added, "But knowing as you did that I opposed the wedding, and your father opposed it, too, why did you permit yourself to marry my boy?"

"I could make it clear to you, I think," said the girl gently, "if you loved your boy."

The old man trembled. If he loved his boy! All that was near and dear to him—all that was left to him of kith and kin. The babe that a dying wife had solemnly placed in his paternal arms. If he loved his boy! He drew a long breath and stared hard at the blank envelope on the desk before him.

"And now," said the young girl, "I only want to add that I think Jim was quite wrong in crossing your wishes. He might have waited. I wanted him to wait. But he is so proud, so self-willed. I am very sorry that I should be the means of separating you, and I—I am quite sure I am not worth the great sacrifice my dear—my husband—has made."

Abel was quite sure there were tears in her eyes again, but he did not look up.

"Where is Jim now?" he asked. Then he smiled grimly. "And why are you not enjoying your—your wedding tour?"

"There was a vacancy in the bank where my father is employed," said the girl, "and father secured it for Jim. His duties began today. Perhaps we will take our wedding journey later. We have to look out carefully for the main chance now, you know."

"And you didn't expect to fall back on my dollars?" said the old man.

"Not a penny of them," quickly replied the girl.

The old man fidgeted in his chair. "And why not?" he asked.

"I think you understand," said the girl, and her gaze dropped to the letter on the desk.

"Does Jim know you are here?"

"No. At least he didn't know I was coming. Father will tell him to meet me at the corner at 5 o'clock. I must go."

"Wait," said the old man quickly. He looked at her searchingly. She met his gaze with a smile. Her mind was on Jim.

Abel deliberately put the will back in its envelope and the envelope in its pigeonhole. Then he picked up the letter in its unaddressed envelope, tore it into minute particles and tossed them into the waste basket.

"I've changed my mind," he softly muttered.

He pulled down his desk cover with a bang and reached for his hat.

"There," he said, "I'm ready." Then he added, "Will you give me your arm, my dear?" As they passed through the doorway he paused.

"I think, Alice," he said, "that you and I are going to be very good friends. And now we must hunt up Jim and take him home with us."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Did She Keep Her Temper?
Mr. Biles is a very hasty tempered man, but he is also one who keeps his promises to the very letter. Therefore Mrs. B. has trained him to believe that second thoughts are best and, even in a moment of his weakness, extracted from him a promise always to count 20 before he speaks if he feels rage coming upon him. Last Sunday he rushed into the back drawing room spluttering with fury and red in the face. Mrs. Biles rose and laid a gentle hand on his stammering lips.

"M-mary, I—I—I—"

"Hush, dear," said the sweet woman.

"Count 20 and conquer yourself, and I shall be more proud of you than if you had conquered the world."

"Eighteen, nineteen, twenty—"

"Now tell me, dear."

"It's that new hat of yours that you paid $20 for and the new servant's gone out in, and it's raining hard—that's all."—Pick Me Up.

A MIX UP IN HATS.

A RESTAURANT EPISODE WHICH IS NOT AT ALL UNCOMMON.

But Which, of Course, Served to Irritate Beyond Measure the Man Who Was Sure He Was Getting the Worst of the Deal.

When the modest looking man with the black string necktie entered the restaurant, it was with an air of one accustomed to the place. He stripped off his rain coat and hung it on a vacant peg, placing his golf cap on another peg by the side of a gray fedora hat with a black band that topped a short covert cloth overcoat. Then he looked around him. The table at which he had evidently intended to sit was occupied by a stout, baldheaded man with a black mustache, drooping with an inward turn to the corners of his mouth, whose napkin was tucked under a broad, double chin. He was talking with a pale person with a blue striped shirt decorated with a large diamond.

As the newcomer hesitated the head waiter beckoned with a graceful and dignified uplifting of his hand and placed a chair for him at the other side of the room. He seated himself and ordered his dinner.

When he had finished his meal, he walked over to the peg where he had hung his coat and, taking down that garment, struggled into it. Then he took down the fedora hat, put it on his head and was about to walk out when a sharp "Hey!" from the stout man halted him.

"No, you don't," said the stout man, rolling his head in a threatening way.

The man with the string tie looked bewildered. Evidently he supposed that the stout man must have been some jocular acquaintance whose face for the moment escaped his recollection, for a smile of the semi-idiotic character proper to such occasions spread over his face, and he advanced doubtfully toward the table.

"There's nothing to grin about," said the stout man. "Put that hat back where you found it."

The man with the string tie became instantly serious and, removing the hat, looked at it earnestly.

"It ain't no golf cap. You see it ain't, don't you?"

The man with the string tie seemed to be suddenly overwhelmed with this conviction, for he made a quick step to the rack and secured his own head covering, restoring the fedora. As he did so a crimson flush overspread his face, extending to the tips of his ears and the back of his neck. He turned to the stout man.

"I beg your pardon, I'm sure," he said. "I made a mistake."

"I seen you made a mistake," said the stout man, with withering irony.

"I want to explain. You see, I—"

"You don't need to explain. It's all right so long as you didn't take my hat. I've known people to get into trouble that made them kind of mistakes."

"See here—"

"See here. You put your cap on your head and pass along. I don't want no argument about this."

"Why, hang it," exclaimed the man with the string tie desperately. "I didn't want to take your hat, man! See here," he continued, addressing the interested audience of diners. "I put on a cap today because it was raining." He stopped to shake off the expostulatory hand that a waiter had laid on his arm. "I usually wear a hat that looks exactly like this man's—the waiter here can tell you that—and I took the wrong one without stopping to think about having left mine at home. When I get back, do you know what I am going to do? I'm going to stick it into the stove. I wouldn't be caught wearing a hat that a hog like this wears. I'm ashamed that I ever did wear it."

He rapped his knuckles on the stout man's table as he said this and looked the stout man steadily in the face. The waiter laid his hand on his arm again, and he straightened up, still glaring defiance at his insult. Then he pulled the golf cap down over his forehead and walked stiffly out of the restaurant.

"Did I understand you to claim that hat?" inquired a young man at the next table, addressing the stout man.

"Yes, sir," replied the stout man, a little less aggressively. "That's my hat."

"I was under the impression it was mine," said the young man as he stirred his coffee carelessly. "You don't want two hats, though, and perhaps you'd just as soon let me have the one on that chair beside you."

The stout man looked down at the chair, and his face grew as red as that of the man with the string tie a few minutes before. There was a hat on the chair, and it was a pearl gray fedora with a black band.—Chicago Record.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Oct. 29.—Comment by Rev. S. B. Doyle. Topic.—Giving, a measure of love.—Mark xii, 41-44. (A meeting to consider systematic and proportionate giving.)

This incident took place in the temple. It is the familiar story of the widow's mites. Jesus was watching the people put their money in the treasury, which consisted of brazen trumpet shaped chests into which voluntary offerings for the sacrifice fund were placed. Many out of their abundance gave liberally. A poor widow gave two mites, but it was all her living for that day. Men would have condemned her act as one lacking judgment, but Christ commended the poor widow and declared that she had given more than all the rest.

Undoubtedly that which led Christ to commend the widow's gift was the fact that it was the offering of a humble heart, full of love to God. It was an expression of her gratitude to God. It was the measure of her love, and in giving all she proved that she loved God with all her being. Love should be the prompter of our gifts and the measure of them, but, alas, it is not always so, or, if it is, the love of many must be very small indeed. This gift of love sets forth the characteristics of true giving to God.

1. It was prompted by the proper motive—love to God. Love to God and for His cause in the world should inspire all our giving.

2. The purpose for which the gift was made was a good one. It was for the benefit of the sacrifice fund of God's temple—a most worthy purpose to which to give. Money given to win the applause of men to attain social or political position is not approved of God or commended by Christ. But if given for some noble and lofty purpose, the carrying forward of God's work in the world, the relief of the distressed and needy or the uplifting of mankind, God is sure to approve the gift and to bless and reward the giver.

3. It was a self sacrificing gift. It was a gift that cost something. It was the widow's all and perhaps necessitated want and hunger for that day at least. The value of a gift in the sight of God is not its literal worth, but the worth of the one who gave it. What it will appear in the sight of God will depend not upon how much we give, but upon how much we have left. God regards not so much what we give as what we keep. The greatness of the gift depends upon what it costs to make it. The rich gave more than the widow, but they had more left than she. Hence the superior character of her gift.

This poor widow's gift should inspire us to a more liberal and cheerful consecration of our money to Christ. If Christ thought it was right for her to give so liberally, He must think the same of us, and if He was willing to commend her He will be willing to commend and bless us.

Christ's Servant.

How sweet the service! How full of blessing to the servant, bringing him into closest relations with the Master he loves! For it is his privilege to follow Jesus and enjoy all the bliss of His company. In serving Christ we are not, as is the case with earthly servants, to discharge our duty at a distance or out of the sight of our Master; that we are ever to follow in the steps of Jesus, knowing His acts and with all our deeds known to Him.

Blissful indeed is the present life of Christ's servant, superlatively blissful the prospect of his future, brought nearer by the passing hours of each day. Alas, that so many are determined that they will not have this Man to rule over them!—Episcopal Recorder.

The Christian Man's Life.

A Christian man's life is laid in the loom of time to a pattern which he does not see, but God does, and his heart is a shuttle. On one side of the loom is sorrow, and on the other is joy, and the shuttle, struck alternately by each, flies back and forth, carrying the thread, which is white or black, as the pattern needs. And in the end, when God shall lift up the finished garment and all its changing hues shall glance out, it will then appear that the deep and dark colors were as needful to beauty as the bright and high colors.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Education.

Education is not mere learning or the acquisition of knowledge—the acquisition of a treasure to be laid up in the mind and to remain there without living energy. Education is the cultivation and development of thinking power, and a man who has not secured for himself this has so far wasted the years of his education.—From "Thoughts of and For the Inner Life," a Volume of Sermons by Ex-President Dwight of Yale, Just Published.

Too Complicated.

Life is so complicated a game that the devices of skill are liable to be defeated at every turn by air blown chances, incalculable as the descent of aistle down.—George Eliot.

God Is Love.

When, courting slumber,
The hours I number,
And sad care cumber
My wearied mind,
This thought shall cheer me,
That Thou art near me,
Whose ear to hear me
Is still inclined.

My soul Thou keepest,
Who never sleepest;
Mid gloom the deepest
Thine eyes behold me,
Thine arms enfold me,
Thy words have told me
That God is love.

PRICES MAINTAIN STRENGTH

But Unseasonable Weather Has Caused Falling Off In Retail Trade.

New York, Oct. 28.—Bradstreet's says: A quieting down of distributive trade, more particularly at retail, is reported, growing out of the unseasonably warm weather now being experienced in most sections of the country. Reflection of this is found in less urgent orders received by jobbers, and in somewhat impaired collections at many points. As regards prices, however, there is no appreciable loss of strength, the great majority of quotations remaining steady, and among those making changes advances are still most numerous.

That the general business of the country remains at an unprecedented volume is testified to by the heavy gains noted in bank clearings over a year ago, and by the immense increases in railway earnings over exceptionally good returns last October. As regards the current activity in transportation, it may be said that east-bound traffic from Chicago in the past month has more than doubled that reported in the same period a year ago, and nearly twice as large as that reported in October of 1897, a record period of good trade.

Simultaneously with the drop in freight rates this week has come a hardening of quotations for cereals. Receipts of corn are smaller than were expected, and this has resulted in an advance at a time when advances, owing to the enlarging crop movement, are rarely looked for. Wheat has been sympathetically strong, as have other cereals, and wheat flour has been advanced this week.

Among leading products decreasing in price, tin and copper among the metals have been most notable. Cotton is fractionally lower, as the result of the deadlock between foreign consumers and American producers. The situation of cotton goods, one of aggressive strength, is undoubtedly a supporting feature of no small account.

The strength of wool is natural, in view of the very large sales, most of which are claimed to have been for account of manufacturers, though speculative buying is perceptible. In woolen goods demand is favorable, and further advances are predicted.

Lumber is again very firm, as are also hides and leather, in sympathy with recent advances in boots and shoes.

The situation of iron and steel is, perhaps, the most notable one yet presented. The feature of the market is the reported booking by the steel rail mills of the country of nearly 75 percent of their capacity for next year's delivery. Heavy buying of pig iron, undoubtedly to cover some of these rail sales, is reported in the central west, at prices little below those ruling for some time past.

Demand for hardware is active at nearly all markets. The scarcity of supplies is still a feature, and jobbers are pushed for prompt shipments. Complaint that high prices are injuring our export trade is heard.

Furniture of all kinds repaired and upholstered. Hair Mattresses made over, carpets cleaned and relaid. Henry L. Kincaid & Co.

To Concur With General Officers.

Brookton, Mass., Oct. 28.—The joint council of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, composed of all the labor unions in this city, assembled last evening and discussed the labor situation. After a three-hour conference it was decided to send a committee of three to confer with the general officers of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union. This action is in compliance with the advice of the American Federation of Labor, to whom the joint council appealed when the latter refused to pay the assessment levied by the Boot and Shoe Workers' union, the latter body suspending the local unions. The federation also advised that the rate of dues should be readjusted on an equitable basis. The cutters are the only ones refusing to abide by the discussion of the federation. Interest over the result is aroused, as on it depends the labor welfare of the whole community.

Lost in the Woods.

Bemis, Me., Oct. 27.—There is considerable anxiety in this section over the safety of Richard Knight of this town, who is supposed to be wandering in the woods. Knight and a friend named Wilson left here Tuesday morning on a hunting expedition. The latter returned, and reported that they became separated in the woods, and that he finally succeeded in finding his way to the village. Thirty men started out and searched the woods, but no trace of Knight could be found. It is generally believed that he has met with an accident.

To Commemorate Heroic Deeds.

Washington, Oct. 28.—The members of the Fredericksburg national park commission called on the secretary of war yesterday, and laid before him the commission's plans for a memorial park, which will include battlefields comprised in an area 12 miles square on the south side of the Rappahannock. Secretary Root, without binding himself to any positive action, promised to do what he could to further the wishes of the commission.

Marriage at City Hall.

The final chapter of a romance was enacted at City Hall this morning, when City Clerk Harlow made Giulio Biogio and Maria Tapalla man and wife. Both were born in sunny Italy, and some time ago Giulio left his native soil to seek his fortune in America. He came to Quincy where he obtained employment as a stone cutter. He was thrifty and saving, for he was looking forward to the time when he could send to the old country for his sweetheart. A few weeks ago, the long-awaited-for time arrived, and the money was sent Maria to pay her passage to America. She arrived Thursday and was met by Giulio. The meeting was an affectionate one, and this morning they visited Mr. Harlow and were married. Maria could not speak English, but she understood what was transpiring, and nodded her assent. Mr. Harlow used the briefest form possible, and the service was soon over, and Mr. and Mrs. Biogio departed. The ceremony was witnessed by several of the employees at City Hall.

Ex-Chief Whitmarsh.

The popularity of Ex-Chief Whitmarsh does not appear to be on the wane as it was emphatically demonstrated at his residence in Braintree last Tuesday evening. It being his birthday a few of his most intimate friends decided to tender him a little surprise which they were carrying out to perfection, when to the surprise of the surprised a party of Boston friends of the ex-chief appeared upon the scene bent upon the same mission, which taxed his domicile to its utmost capacity.

When introductions and other formalities necessary to make the evening social and enjoyable had gone through with, W. P. Webber, who headed the Boston party in the absence of his father, Chief Webber, who sent a letter of regret, acted as spokesman and presented to "Frank" an elegant Morris chair. After a bountiful repast had been served and discussed, E. J. Thomas, in behalf of his every day friends, presented the ex-chief, in a few well chosen words, a gold watch, chain and charm.

The recipient gallantly responded and in his off hand and genial manner thanked his friends for their kindness, assuring them of his high appreciation. Several well known musicians were present and made the evening very enjoyable with both vocal and instrumental music and recitations.

Keith's Theatre.

Solaret will continue to be the leading attraction at Keith's Boston theatre during the week beginning Oct. 30. In color blendings and beauty of designs her drapery dances are superior to those of any of her predecessors on the stage of this theatre, and the best of them have all been there in the past. She is pretty, modest and graceful, and her act is one that must be seen over and over again to be properly appreciated. Harry Lacy (of "Still Alarm" fame), assisted by Ida Van Sicon, will present a new one-act farce comedy, entitled "Capt. Dickie's Night Off," which is described by those who have seen it as being "a laugh from start to finish." Other entertainers will be Vert and Adair, the famous equilibrist and head-to-head balancers; the brothers Dunn, comedy acrobats; Lucy Verrier, a German instrumentalist; Mullally Sisters, singers and dancers, and Oscar P. Sisson, assisted by Ester Wallace, in an original society musical sketch, "Love Finds a Way." There will be the usual additions of new and interesting pictures in the biograph.

A Good Snake Story.

Mr. Linwood Lewis of Wollaston Park, who spent his boyhood in Colorado, where he acquired the love for outdoor sports which he still has, tells of an exciting and original amusement which the Colorado boys were very fond of. The Colorado trails abounded in rattlesnakes, between whom and the black snakes incessant war was waged. The boys would capture a black snake alive, and he would soon become tame and tractable. A six-footer would be big enough. After he became tame the boys would put him in a box and drive across the prairie until they came across a rattler asleep. It is needless to say that this was a sport in which the parents were not invited to participate. The black snake who soon came familiar with his duties, would be taken from the box and released. His method of arousing the rattler was amusing. All the movements of black snakes are quick as a flash, while the rattler is slow and heavy. The black snake would glide across the back of the sleeping rattler and disappear in the grass. The movement would arouse the rattler, but he would soon lay down again. The same performance would then be repeated, until the rattler, alive to his danger, and excited and angry, would coil for a spring upon the hidden enemy, with his head erect. This was the opportunity the black snake had been waiting for, and as quick as a flash he would project himself and coil his body around the rattler's neck just below the head, and twining around the rattler's neck, hold him helpless and choke him. He would then release his hold and submit quietly to being put back into the box. Mr. Lewis says he has known one tame black snake to kill as many as thirty rattlers. Were it not for the black snakes the rattlers would overrun the country. The black snake belongs to the constrictor family and his only weapons are his sharp, but not poisonous teeth, and his great

Park Theatre.

James A. Herne's new nautical comedy in four acts, entitled "Sag Harbor," was presented for the first time on any stage at the Park theatre, Boston, on Tuesday night, Oct. 24, and scored an emphatic success. A big and representative Boston audience, after witnessing four acts of cleverly combined comedy, sentiment and pathos, calling forth laughter, tears and applause alternately, and sometimes all together, unanimously voted the play the peer if not the superior of "Shore Acres." Indeed one critic tersely described the play as "Shore Acres" salted down and served with the cream of human kindness." Replete with the same realism that made Mr. Herne's earlier play appeal to all lovers of the rational upon the stage, "Sag Harbor" is still stronger in romantic interest. The simple but powerful story, told in a simple, natural way, is one that will appeal to all hearts. Like a series of scenes from real life, the play is full of those little touches of nature that make the whole world kin, while the cleanness of its comedy and the wholesomeness of its lesson will recommend it to the religious element as well as to regular theatre-goers. The final scene on a bright Easter morning, is a beautiful finish to the play, which promises to have a long run at the Park. Seats may be secured by mail.

Literary Notes.

The New England Magazine for November contains among its important illustrated articles a graphic account of "The Great Boston Fire of 1872," written by Mr. Robert G. Fitch of the Boston Transcript. The article is one of unique value, illustrated as it is with excellent reproductions from photographs made in many cases during the progress of the conflagration, and containing interesting reminiscences of so many who then witnessed the destruction of so large a portion of Boston's business district.

The New England Magazine is devoted especially to New England life and history. The New England of the past, present and future, New England men and places, New England literature, education and industry are the subjects to which, on their many sides, its pages are primarily devoted. To cultivate these fields in such a way as shall command the interest of New England and of the great body of men of New England antecedents and relations throughout the country is its excuse for being. These great fields offer to the magazine an embarrassment of riches, and from these it will aim in the year to come to draw for its readers, as it has during the first ten years of its existence.

The Woman's Home Companion for November is an issue that cannot fail to attract attention. The opening article, "When Queen Victoria Saved America from War," brings to light interesting facts about an almost forgotten international episode. Walden Fawcett discusses the industrial importance of sewing-schools, showing by photographs of exhibits what is being accomplished in the larger cities. The regular departments are replete with suggestions for the early winter and holidays. Thanksgiving festivities receive a fair share of discussion, and the wise forethought of the editor has included many timely hints for preparing for Christmas.

Castle Square Theatre.

The Castle Square theatre management announce a production of the society drama "The Highest Bidder," as the attraction at this house the coming week. This play, written by Messrs. Morton and Reese, introduced Mr. E. H. Southern to popular favor as a star some few years ago and has always been a favorite in its repertoire. The leading figures in the clever story told by the dramatist are Jack Hammon and Rose, the girl to whom he proves a most awkward but persistent lover, and the authors have contrived a series of laughable experiences for these two, with scenes for their associates which give constant interest to the development of the plot. The cast announced is as follows: Jack Hammon, John Craig; Lawrence Thornhill, J. L. Seelye; Sir Muffin Struggles, Lindsay Morrison; Sir Evelyn Graine, N. H. Fowler; Rose Thornhill, Lillian Lawrence; Mrs. Honiton Lacy, Leonora Bradley; Louise, Marian A. Chapman. The great production "The Heart of Maryland," which has been in active preparation for many weeks, is announced to follow "The Highest Bidder" on Monday, Nov. 6th.

Fatherless.

There's something about the little black dress that touches a man in a very tender spot. He puts the little one on the head, puts some pennies in her hand, swallows hard and then—starts out to make his own children fatherless. There is no doubt that many a man is taken from his family by neglect of simple precautions which would preserve his health. Disease generally begins nowadays in "stomach trouble" because the meals are hasty and the food not digested. From that beginning come disorders of the blood, liver, kidneys, heart or nerves. The use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for diseases of the organs of digestion and nutrition will avert the catastrophe of more serious disease. It strengthens the stomach, purifies the blood, nourishes the nerves, and builds men up in both brain and body.

"I can say to you, one bottle of your 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured me sound and well, after suffering two long years with stomach disease," writes W. H. Braswell, of McAdenville, Gaston Co., N. C. "My health is worth all the world to me. I will praise you as long as I live."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets should be used with "Discovery" where a laxative is required.

Good Afternoon.

Those who object to the untimely and arbitrary course of the Board of Health, in ordering every house on certain streets to enter a sewer which has been in operation but a few months, should make their opposition manifest, or the board will soon order every house in town to be connected. Unless the board have good reason to believe that sickness is caused from a certain cesspool, we question if they have a right to condemn it. The wholesale condemning of cesspools, as on Whitwell street, is unwarranted and we doubt if it can be enforced. To force a man to connect with a sewer before he has had his first sewer construction assessment is rather rubbing it in. Voluntary entrance is better, and few cities have made a better showing in the first few months of a new sewer system than Quincy.

The strongest argument against Socialism, as advanced by the new party, is that it is un-American. Its leaders and followers are generally those who are foreign born or whose parents were foreign born. Of course there are exceptions. Americans rightly object to the revolution proposed. They are against the overthrow of the most successful Republic on the face of the globe. That wrongs are numerous all will admit. Republicans will not endorse everything which that party does, and so it is in the other parties, even the Socialists. Socialism has been a dream for ages, yet it is simply an experiment now. Cooperative stores, cooperative granite yards, and other cooperative industries within the limits of Quincy have proved failures, as they have elsewhere. The ownership of public utilities has no place in politics. They are business enterprises, and must wait until the city has advanced far enough in a business way to control them. Many will endorse some of the things which the Socialists advocate in their platform, and much has been accomplished along those lines before the party came into existence. A vote for a Socialist candidate will be a vote thrown away.

As yet the eight-hour law for city employees which will be submitted to the voters at the Municipal election has received scarcely a thought. It is an important question and should receive full consideration. If the step can be taken without seriously handicapping Quincy we hope hours of labor may be shortened. The city or municipality which works but eight hours per day may be able to compete with those working nine or ten. At this time when the maturing debt is excessive the tax rate high and the valuation strained it may be the burden on the taxpayers should not be increased. But it is an open question whether additional appropriations will be required under an eight-hour law. Some claim that a man can do as much in eight hours as in nine but many will not agree to this. If the law is adopted it should apply to all employees of the city where possible; not merely the street, water and sewer departments but the officers at City Hall and others.

Drift of Opinion.

The cost of the Shamrock is said to be about $500,000 and this does not include the cost of running the campaign for the cup. No nor the champagne either.—Milford Journal.

George Fred Williams, is discouraged. He has been laboring for years to reduce the Democratic vote by driving out the real Democrats, and now there is no more material to work on.—Lynn Item.

The mere giving of money seldom makes a man popular. By instinct the public passes judgment upon the giver and the gift. If the motive was mean, the return in praise and honor will be small.—Christian Register.

It is said that an exception to the proposition that woman should be permitted to do anything that she can do well, should be made in the case of unlimited century bicycle riding. But if she does it well enough to discourage the men from the foolishness, why interfere?—New Bedford Standard.

There can be no doubt that the Philippines will be retained. How they shall be managed, or that they and we shall realize all the expectations of the president and Mayor Quincy, will depend in some degree upon the loyalty, patriotism and sense with which congress shall be governed in its action, and that will depend largely on the guidance given by the president himself.—Springfield Union.

So long as a man holds and aspires to public office, he owes to the public special uprightness and purity in his private as well as his public life. Otherwise his leadership carries encouragement to wrong-doers, and sets a false standard and a dangerous example to others, especially to the young. It is never an agreeable duty to record the misdeeds of any man, but it is an imperative one when the shield of silence is to be used as a means for continuance and advancement in public office. The public has a right to be informed of the character of men who aspire to direct and govern them.—Fall River News.

Two classes are delaying the development of the Indian into citizenship. One class is afraid of hurting him by making him independent; the other class is afraid of losing the chance to profit by his dependence. Some of his benefactors would keep him on reservations because they are afraid he would lose his land if he had a free title to it and might dispose of it. They give him rations because they fear he would starve if he had to earn his food. They pauperize him because they want to take good care of him. His selfish white neighbors, on the other hand, want to keep him on reservations because they can get free pasture on them for their cattle. They want rations given him because they can thus furnish to him poor food at large profits and in unnecessarily large quantities.—Congregationalist.

A GREAT HONOR.

Former Quincy Teacher to Establish System in Cuba.

It is pleasing to note the further success of a former principal in the Quincy school. A Washington dispatch to the Herald says: At the request of Gen. Brooke, the secretary of war has sent to Havana Prof. Alexis E. Frye, said to be one of the best equipped educators in the country, to establish a system of education. He goes to Havana as director of public schools, and has been authorized to organize a public school system.

President Eliot of Harvard is quoted as saying, in a letter to the department that he knows of no better equipped man for this peculiar field.

"Prof. Frye," said President Eliot in this letter, "is enthusiastic over the possibilities of great success in Cuba. He has secured the pledges necessary to enable him to erect six school buildings in the island. I have no doubt that, if left free to do the work there, he would not stop until he had built a schoolhouse in every village and town in Cuba."

Gen. Brooke's new assistant is a graduate of the Chicago normal school and of Harvard University with the degree of master of arts. He is also a graduate of the Harvard law school and a member of the Massachusetts bar. He has taught every grade from the primary through the high school, has been a teacher of methods in the Chicago normal school, superintendent of schools in Colorado, and has delivered more than 1500 lectures on educational topics in almost every state in the Union.

It is claimed that his geographies are used by more than 2,000,000 children and by 100,000 teachers. One of them has been translated into Spanish, and has been authorized for use in the schools of Porto Rico.

FIGURING IT OUT.

Plumbers' Bills and Extras for Sewer Connections.

The action of the Board of Health in ordering estates on Cranch hill, abutting on street in which the sewer has been built, to enter the sewer, continues to be the chief topic among residents of that section. Although the order is received with anything but favor, it will be generally complied with. Several who were at first rather wrathful over the order have cooled off somewhat, when informed by the Board of Health that they have three years in which to pay the cost of entering.

This seemingly makes the burden easier says one, but just figure out what expense we have been to already and what the total will amount to before we are connected. The lots in this section have about sixty feet frontage, and therefore the sewer assessments will be $43.20 or more.

The cost to enter the sewer varies. In this section the cost is said to be from $15 to $50. All the houses in this section are new and practically all are plumbed. Whether any alterations will have to be made to the plumbing before we can be connected with the sewer is an open question. The Board of Health say no great outlay will be necessary, although they must admit that this is uncertain. The rules of the Board of Health governing the plumbing have been changed since the most of these houses were built, and no one knows how near they conform with the present rules, until they have been inspected. It is safe to say that changes will have to be made in most cases.

Everyone admits the advisability of entering the sewer, but it seems as though some more opportune time might have been selected than this year, and at this season when winter is coming on, and the winter's supply of coal must be put in. Another factor that should have been considered by the Board of Health before they took the step they did, was that most of the men in this section are employed in the granite industry and have but little work during the winter months.

Birse—Lapham.

One of the interesting events of last week was the marriage of Miss Maud E. Lapham, daughter of Mrs. Belle Lapham of Quincy to Mr. Albert N. Birse of South Quincy which took place Thursday evening, Oct. 26, at the home of the bride's mother. The rooms were elaborately decorated with a profusion of palms, potted plants and asparagus vine, with masses of chrysanthemums. Rev. Edward Norton solemnized the nuptial vows, in the presence of more than 100 guests. Mr. Birse had long been a resident of Quincy and among those present were many prominent men and women of the city.

The bride was given away by her mother, and was attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Lapham, and the bridesmaids were Miss E. Frances Coffin and Miss Cathryn Black of Quincy, two charming young ladies. Mr. Marcus S. Wright was best man and the ushers were Mr. Stephen L. Harris of Quincy and Mr. William H. Bradford of Medford.

The bride's gown was a very handsome ivory white satin, the low corsage being trimmed with old point lace, a family heirloom. The veil was caught up with bridal roses and she carried the same flowers. The maid of honor wore white organdie and carried white chrysanthemums, and the bridesmaids wore white organdie and also carried white chrysanthemums.

A reception followed the ceremony, and was attended by a large number of prominent society folks. Mr. and Mrs. Birse received, assisted by the bridesmaids and best man. The wedding supper was appreciated by everybody.

Mr. and Mrs. Birse were the recipients of a great many beautiful presents. The best wishes of a host of friends go with them to their new home.

Masonic Funeral.

Funeral services over the remains of Daniel Ross of Wollaston were held from his late home on Saturday afternoon. They were conducted by the Rev. George C. Lorimer of Tremont Temple, of which church the deceased was a member, assisted by the Rev. Edward A. Chase, pastor of the Wollaston Congregational church. The singing was by Mrs. N. G. Nickerson. The body was interred at Mt. Wollaston with Masonic honors. Mr. Ross was born in Scotland 85 years ago, thus making him one of Wollaston's oldest inhabitants. For over 40 years he has been a member of the Brighton Masonic lodge.

The three days' fair of the Swedish Lutheran church which was held at Faxon hall closed Saturday night. The attendance was large interest centering in the award of the articles sold by votes. The entertainment consisted of music by the Lutheran orchestra, recitation by Mary Nelson, violin solo by Charles Chilstedt; vocal music by the church choir and a cornet solo by J. F. Johnson. The fair was a financial success.

A petition of Charles O. Miller and others, for the purpose of naming the square at the junction of Quincy avenue, Shaw and Commercial streets and locating a place for a suitable pole and sign board to be furnished the town free of expense was presented to the Board of Selectmen. The request in the petition was granted and in the near future a handsome sign, bearing the name of Norfolk square will be presented to the public by Messrs. Hewes & Mason.

Unoccupied House Burned.

The alarm from Box 75 at 2:03 o'clock Sunday morning called the department to a brisk fire in the old George L. Baxter house on New road, off Quincy avenue. The fire was blazing briskly when the alarm was sounded and the sky was illuminated for miles. The blaze soon died down, however and the recall was sounded. This is not the first time this building has been on fire, and Sunday's fire was probably the work of an incendiary. The building has been unoccupied for a long time. Every window in it was smashed long ago, and the wood work has been disappearing by piece meal, so that it was a wreck. Last August the house was discovered to be on fire one morning shortly before 6 o'clock, but the fire did but little damage. Since then the work of carrying off the building has gone steadily on. The fire Sunday morning did but little damage as the building was worth but little.

Lockwood and Clark.

Ten players entered the open tournament of the Wollaston Golf club on Saturday although the weather was unfavorable. The prize for the best gross score was won by A. G. Lockwood of the Commonwealth club who was a scratch man. His score of 81 is the best amateur record on the links. W. A. Clark who was fourth on the list in gross score, had a big handicap of 16 and secured the net prize.

Interesting Games This Morning by Students of Adams Academy.

The annual fall games of the Adams Academy Athletic Association were held this morning on the Academy campus. It was an ideal morning for out-of-door sports, and as the boys were in fine trim, more spirit than usual was shown in the several events.

The attendance was not as large at the commencements of the sports as usual, but along about 11 o'clock the young ladies of the Woodward Institute came into the field and were free in their applause of the winners in the several events.

In no event could the winner be said to have everything his own way,
 for they were all hotly contested and the running races were all close and the time made was fully up to that of previous years. As a whole the games showed that the students are showing more spirit in athletic sports and will make a good showing when pitted against Thayer in the dual games, if they are held.

The several events resulted as follows:

75 Yards Dash.—First Heat, J. G. Anderson
 (5 ft.), Barlow (4 yds.), Berry (scratch),
 George (9 ft.), Hunt (2 yds.), Weston (9 ft.).
 Second Heat, Baker (5 ft.), Elock (3 yds.),
 S. C. Hardwick (scratch), Harkins (5 ft.),
 Parker (4 yds.), Sibley (4 yds.). Third Heat,

CITY TOO LAVISH.

Large Expenditures of the People's Money.

Mr. Editor:—While viewing, recently,
 the excessive additional width now being added to Coddington street,
 beyond "the Corner"—whereby a much greater outlay than is necessary for the needs of public travel is being incurred
 —the work, to me was suggestive of the many extravagant appropriations,
 made by our successive City Councils,
 in consequence of which our taxpayers are now saddled with a heavy load of taxation which must continue long into the future.

Pertinent to the foregoing, I commend the statement, made, in a late issue of your paper, which emanated from a prominent citizen, an ex-official of our city, who, whilst sounding the alarm hesitated not to say, that our city has appropriated and continues to appropriate, and spend, much more than it can afford.

This is evidenced by the growing unrest of those upon whom the burden falls; by lessened values and slowness of sale of real estate; by onerous assessments and by a high rate of taxation based not upon a moderate, but upon a high valuation.

Now, if anyone wishes to see an example of the extravagant use of the public money, let him take a Quincy avenue electric car and ride to Quincy Neck, where, on Howard street, he will witness a most wasteful expenditure of money, upon a street already amply sufficient to accommodate its small traffic; and where, in consequence of the present widening, a dwelling house has been moved at the expense of the city, and, where the newly constructed portion of the street must be held up, on a declivity, necessitating the building of a retaining wall, ten feet in height, a distance of nine hundred and odd linear feet, upon which to ensure the public safety, a strong barrier must be placed. This too, upon a street so little used that a person would become tired were he to wait, at any hour of the day to be met by a team or by anyone on foot or by carriage.

And now, Mr. Editor, it is not time
 —when our city has, substantially, a debt of one million, five hundred thousand dollars, for which it has to provide—together with its multifarious annual wants which cannot be put aside—I repeat, it is not time to move
 at a less precipitate pace and to stop making further extravagant and uncalled for appropriations, which must be met by the issue of new indebtedness which if not well deferred for posterity to pay will surely become, to the present property owners and to taxpayers, like Sindbad's "Old Man of the Sea."

School Work.

The following work will be required
 of all pupils in the Monaquet school,
 Braintree:

During each of the months of November, January, March and May the teachers shall require every pupil in the school to commit and recite some selection before the school. These recitations to be conducted Friday afternoon. All selections must be approved by the teacher.

During each of the months of December, February, April and June, the teachers shall require every pupil of the school to write an original composition and read the same before the school on Friday afternoons. Compositions are to be corrected and approved by the teacher before being read before the school. Selection of subjects is to be arranged by the teacher.

Compositions from the 8th and 7th grades are to be at least 200 words in length. Compositions from the 6th grade to be at least 100 words in length.
 Compositions from the 5th grade to be at least 50 words in length.

This will provide a regular exercise
 for a part of every Friday afternoon.
 It is hoped that parents will attend
 these exercises as well as the usual work.

Memorial of Quincy Granite.

The memorial to Col. William Prescott of Bunker Hill fame to be erected at his birthplace in Pepperell
 on Wednesday is of highly polished Quincy granite of Exedra design. It rests upon an elliptical-shaped base, that rises slightly above the surface of the ground. The base is constructed of cement, handsomely inlaid with tile. The main tablet faces the west, and is ten feet in height and six in width. It is relieved by wings five feet
 in height, which extend on either side,
 the whole forming a semi-circle, whose interior is surrounded by a settle-shaped seat, terminating with substantial arms. One of the inscriptions says, "The gift in 1899 of a descendant of Col. William Prescott," but it should be known that the memorial is the gift of Mrs. Edith (Prescott) Wolcott, the esteemed wife of Gov. Roger Wolcott, and one of the sixth generation of direct descendants.

"You see, madam, Ivory Soap is really the most economical. The cake is so large that it easily divides into two cakes of the ordinary size. There is twice as much soap as you get in the usual cake of toilet soap.
 Then it is very economical in use, for although it lathers quickly, it is always firm and hard, even in hot water.
 As it floats, you can not lose it or leave it to waste in the bowl. We sell it to all of our best trade for general use."

Notable Feat in Track Laying.

Readville, Mass., Oct. 29.—What is claimed by railroad contractors as a remarkable piece of construction work was accomplished here Sunday by the laying of 7 1/2 miles of standard 100-pound rails in the incredibly short time of practically five hours, or about 2-5 miles an hour. The work was done in the forenoon, and had to be so timed that it did not delay the regular traffic over the New York, New Haven and Hartford road at this point, which ordinarily is very heavy. In putting down the new rails the entire electrical arrangement of switches and signals was broken, and its re-establishment, a big task in itself, was accomplished on even terms with the track work. The railroad foremen claim that the record exceeds any yet
 made.

Too Much C o'ing on Hand.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—The Inquirer says that for the first time in the history of the Schuylkill arsenal in this city
 there will be a suspension in the work of making uniforms for the United States army. It is understood that the notice to the employes will be posted this week.
 The effect of the order will be felt by many widows and soldiers in this city,
 as it means the laying off of over 1500
 women workers. The Schuylkill arsenal is the largest manufactory of government clothing in the United States. The cloth is cut at the arsenal and given out in bundles twice each week to women for sewing. It is said that the suspension is caused by over-production of clothing.

For Self Protection.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—According to George W. Perkins, president of the Cigar-makers' International union, a bitter fight is to be waged by that organization against the annexation of the Philippine Islands. The objection to the Filipinos is that over 50,000 of them are engaged in the manufacture of cigars at very low wages, and it is believed that should the Philippines become a part of the United States the American cigarmakers would be unable to continue at their trade.

TODAY'S COURT.

The continued case of James F. Lynch for assault at Weymouth was heard and he was fined $7.

Summer Thayer was arraigned for the larceny of $163 from Walter S. Rowell at Randolph.
 Case continued until Tuesday.

The continued case of George H. Manuel of Weymouth was called, and he paid $5.

The continued case of James H. Croake was called and he paid $5.

John Kelley was fined $7 and William Hall
 $5 for drunkenness at Weymouth.

John Hearn was arraigned for drunkenness at Quincy. Case continued one week.

The continued case of Isaac Lehan, for the larceny of an overcoat, was called, and he was discharged.

R. T. JOHNSON, President. A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.
Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

JONES HURTS M'LEAN.

Prediction That Nash Will Carry Ohio by Twenty-Five Thousand.

Democrats Will Retain Control of New York City.

Close Contest in Nebraska and Kentucky. The Outlook in Other States.

New York, Oct. 30.—The New York Herald has made a careful and strictly non-partisan canvass of the political situation in this city, New York and other states. The following is a brief summary of the results reached:

Tammany will elect its judiciary and county tickets in New York county—Manhattan and the Bronx—by majorities that will exceed 40,000. The Democrats will elect their county ticket in Kings county, Brooklyn, by majorities ranging from 4,000 to 6,000. The Democrats will carry Queens and Richmond counties. By a safe majority the Republicans will control the assembly; they will control it even if they do not elect a single member in New York county. It is not likely that the Republicans will elect more than four assemblymen in New York county, nor more than seven in Kings county. They may fall below four in New York.

Assemblyman Mazet will probably be beaten in the Nineteenth district. These losses will be made up by the Republicans in the rural districts, giving Platt a majority of 18 in the assembly. The present assembly is Republican by a majority of 27. Edward B. Vreeland, Republican, will be elected representative to congress from the Thirty-fourth New York district, to succeed Warren B. Hooker, resigned.

Ohio, President McKinley's state, will go Republican, and Nash will be elected governor, probably by 25,000 majority. The candidacy of Jones of Toledo is hurting McLean.

Nebraska, Bryan's state, will be close. Bryan is the issue, and late dispatches indicate that he is gaining ground. If the Republicans win there, Bryan's candidacy in 1900 will be injured. Kentucky is in a wild tumult, and the Republicans and honest-election Democrats are joining forces to defeat Goebel, with some prospects of success. No living man can tell the outcome today. Goebel controls the election machinery, and his opponents say he will count himself.

In Maryland the Democrats will probably elect Smith governor over Lowndes, Republican, and this is expected to strengthen Gorman as a Democratic candidate for president.

Expansion is the issue in Iowa, and the Republicans who are defending the Philippines policy will handily elect Shaw governor over White, Democrat. Quay has promised to cause enormous Republican losses in Pennsylvania and the majority of Barnett, the Quay candidate for state treasurer, may fall below 50,000.

W. Murray Crane, Republican, will be elected governor of Massachusetts, though by a reduced majority.

In New Jersey the result will give the legislature to the Republicans. The Democrats will beat the fusionists in Mississippi. The Republicans will win in South Dakota. In Virginia the next legislature will re-elect Thomas S. Martin to the United States senate.

Advancing Under Difficulties.

Manila, Oct. 30.—General Young, with the infantry, is advancing upon Cabanatuan under difficulties. The country is furrowed with rivers and deep ravines, the bridges over which have been destroyed; the mud is deep, rations are short and the transportation of supplies has been delayed by low water and the poor condition of the roads. There are sufficient stores, however, to keep the brigade. The insurgents for a long time have lived off the country, impoverishing it. The American horses are not yet accustomed to the native grass and a long bullock train has left San Fernando, driving hay for the cavalry. The Spaniards report that there are no insurgents at Cabanatuan.

Santiago Storm Bound.

Santiago, Oct. 30.—After five days of continuous rainstorms a terrific hurricane from the southeast swept over Santiago yesterday, causing considerable destruction. Twelve houses were wrecked and others badly damaged. The Ward line steamship has been delayed four days. The United States transport Burnside has been kept cruising outside the harbor, and fears are entertained for the safety of the fleet of schooners from Hayti and Jamaica that usually arrive on Monday morning. The glass is still falling.

From Boston to Cavite.

Boston, Oct. 30.—A squad of 100 sailors and marines left this city last night, bound for New York, their ultimate destination being the Philippine Islands. The marines, 56 in number, proceeded from the Charlestown navy yard to the station in heavy marching order, making a fine appearance. They will be taken to Cavite on the U. S. S. Buffalo. The sailors will go direct overland to San Francisco, where they will be delivered on board the receiving ship Independence at Mare Island navy yard.

Found in Charles River.

Boston, Oct. 30.—The body of a woman found in the Charles river in Charlestown, was identified as that of Mrs. Anna F. Gribben, aged 68, who resided with her brother at Mattapan. The woman left her home Friday evening. She was said to have been ill mentally, and her daughter is unable to give any direct cause for her leaving home.

Convicted Murderer Committed Suicide.

Binghamton, N. Y., Oct. 30.—Adam Moser, who was on Thursday last convicted of manslaughter in the first degree for the murder of Frank Whittemore, committed suicide in his cell some time during last night. He made a loop of a piece of chain used to hold up his cot and fastened it to the wall.

KILLED BEFORE AN AUDIENCE.

Magician Either Made a Terrible Mistake or Wanted to End His Life.

New York, Oct. 30.—Michael Hatal, a magician, died in Bellevue hospital yesterday from bullet wounds inflicted by his assistant, Frank Benya, in an East Side hall Saturday night, while they were performing a feat of magic, in which Hatal was to have seemingly caught in his teeth bullets fired at him from a gun by Benya. Hatal himself loaded the gun, an old-fashioned ruskett, fired by a percussion cap. On top of the charge of powder he supposedly placed a "dummy" bullet that would crumble into powder when the musket was fired. Instead, he must have substituted two lead bullets of .33 calibre. The Bellevue physicians report that one bullet went through the left lung, and the second just above and to the left side of the heart. Both passed entirely through the body. Hatal must, therefore, used at least four times the usual amount of powder.

Before giving the exhibition, Hatal asked for some one in the audience who had been a soldier to fire the musket. Benya responded. "Fire straight at me, but a little over to the left," said Hatal to Benya, back of the scenes, just before they went on.

As soon as Hatal had taken his position before the audience he called to Benya in a loud voice: "Aim here, pointing to his breast. 'Aim right at my heart; don't be afraid.'"

Benya took the instructions literally and fired. Hatal threw his hands up in the air and fell screaming to the floor. He was taken to the hospital, and died yesterday, after making a statement exonerating Benya. It is not known whether Hatal made a blunder in loading the gun or used leaden bullets, wishing to be killed.

Two Women Tackled Burglar.

Northfield, Vt., Oct. 30.—A burglar entered a house early Sunday morning and was given a warm reception by two female occupants of the house. Miss Jane Pingrey was awakened at about 4 o'clock by a man who had his hand on her throat and demanded money. Upon being told that there was no money in the house, he attempted an assault upon Miss Pingrey, but his act was interrupted by the timely arrival of a woman sleeping in another part of the house. The assailant threw a chair at the woman who had come on him so suddenly, and while his attention was directed toward her, Miss Pingrey made her escape through a window, while the other woman succeeded in making her exit through the front door. An alarm was given, but the intruder made good his escape.

Electric Car Fatalities.

Southington, Conn., Oct. 30.—A carriage containing Thomas Downey and Lawrence Dolan, both of Waterbury, was struck by a trolley car last night and Downey was killed. Dolan was very badly bruised, but escaped fatal injuries. The horse was also killed and the carriage completely wrecked.

Bridgewater, Mass., Oct. 30.—Patrick Keenan was instantly killed and Edward Burke was badly injured as a result of an electric car coming in collision with their team here. The men had stopped their team on the car track, and when Motorman Riley saw them he blew the usual warning, but the team heeded. The collision threw both men out of the team.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

Masked men, armed with revolvers, ransacked the house of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Welles at Beechhill, N. H., securing some valuables and sandbagging Mrs. Welles so badly that she is badly hurt. While the men were searching the house, Mr. and Mrs. Welles escaped and aroused the neighbors, but the burglars were not caught.

Dr. Frank H. Chase, an instructor on the faculty of Yale university, was arrested at New Haven on a charge of alleged trespass. It is stated that he was detected in the act of peeping in a window. Dr. Chase, it is said, admits the truth of the allegation.

Martin S. Smith, partner of General

Russel A. Alger in the extensive lumbering firm of Alger, Smith & Co., died at Detroit, aged 65.

The physician who is attending Della Fox, the actress, says that his patient is in no immediate danger of death. No great change is immediately expected.

The well-known authoress, Franziska Blumenreich, committed suicide at Berlin by jumping from the fourth story of a hotel.

The wreck of the schooner Tidal Wave has been sighted. The wreck is low in the water and the wind is driving her into the track of vessels, making her a dangerous obstruction.

Harvard had no difficulty in disposing of the famous Carlisle Indian eleven, the final score being 22 to 16.

The body of Mrs. Hannah McCarthy, 65, was found in the Connecticut river at Holyoke, Mass. It is believed she committed suicide.

Prince Frederick Augustus of Saxony, while hunting, fell from his horse and sustained a fracture of the skull. His condition is not considered dangerous. A Philadelphia block was almost entirely destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $155,000. The fire is supposed to have originated in the warehouse of Wunderlich Bros.

It is reported from Plymouth that the admiralty is about to mobilize 29 cruisers.

John V. S. Townsend, Marquess of Townshend, formerly Liberal member of parliament, whose ancestors distinguished themselves in war, died at London, in his 69th year.

Bishop Henry A. Neely of the Episcopal church of Maine has for several weeks been seriously ill at Portland. His condition shows no improvement.

Fire at Wakarusa, Ind., burned 13 stores, the postoffice and two residences. Loss, $60,000.

The building trades' organizations of Fall River, Mass., including carpenters, joiners, plasterers, masons, etc., are engaged in an agitation for an eight-hour working day.

A syndicate has arranged to build a woolen mill at Waterville, Me. The mill structure will be 80x120 feet, of three time, during last night. He made a loop of a piece of chain used to hold up his cot and fastened it to the wall.

SHERIFF WILL GO AFTER THEM.

Bruce Ritchie and Mrs. Rathbone Supposed to Have Eloped From Mansfield, Mass.

Mansfield, Mass., Oct. 30.—The little community of East Mansfield has been stirred up and aroused over the sudden flight of Mrs. Luella Rathbone and her husband, a distracted husband and a little child. The simultaneous disappearance of Bruce Ritchie, a young mason, employed in Mansfield, and whose previous attentions to Mrs. Rathbone had occasioned some comment.

Mrs. Luella Rathbone, previous to her marriage to Hecker Rathbone, was a Miss Chapman, daughter of John Chapman, a well-known and most highly esteemed citizen of Mansfield. Her marriage occurred some six years ago when 18 years old, and her husband is at present employed in a general store in Mansfield as a delivery clerk.

Save her little boy, there was no one about the house last Friday afternoon when Mrs. Rathbone packed up her things and kissing her child good-by, promising to bring him some candy when she returned, and quietly leaving the house, boarded a trolley car for Mansfield. At the depot she purchased a single ticket for Providence and presumably left on the 3:23 o'clock train for that place. That was the last seen of her by people of Mansfield.

Fifteen minutes after her departure Bruce Ritchie was observed loitering near the depot, but shortly went away, and he has not been seen since.

Bruce Ritchie, though not related by blood, is by marriage indirectly connected with the partner of his supposed flight. His sister's husband is a cousin of Mrs. Rathbone, and it is owing to this that he formed her acquaintance. He has been in Mansfield but a little over a year, having previously, for a number of years, followed the sea, as a sailor in the United States navy.

As Bruce Ritchie had often expressed a desire to migrate to Florida and engage in the business of a taxidermist, Mr. Chapman instructed Deputy Sheriff Perry of Bristol county, in whose hands he has placed the case, to proceed to Providence, Stonington and New York and learn if they had departed by any steamer for Florida.

Mr. Perry arrived in Mansfield from Providence, in quest of a warrant. Upon his return to the city he was questioned as to any clues he might have secured. He refused to speak, further than to say that he was going to New York as soon as possible.

Thorne Quickly Put to Sleep.

Chicago, Oct. 30.—Geoffrey Thorne of England was knocked out by Bob Fitzsimmons in ten minutes of fighting Saturday night. Thorne, who was evidently very much afraid of Fitzsimmons, did not land a single blow and made only one light attempt to lead with his left, the blow falling short by several inches. The blow delivered by Fitzsimmons was a short left jolt, which did not pass through six inches of space before landing on Thorne's jaw. After Thorne was counted out, Fitzsimmons picked him up and carried him to his corner, placing him in a chair. Thorne was in his corner 12 minutes and was then carried from the ring by his seconds, unable to walk, but having regained a small measure of intelligence.

Altercation Proved Fatal.

Provided in an altercation yesterday William H. Walls killed Edward Patterson, whom he was visiting. The men were relatives and started out for a good time and succeeded in getting drunk. On their return they stopped at the residence of a mutual acquaintance, where they were refused admission. In the discussion that arose in the hall, Patterson slapped Walls face, Walls retaliated and the two men grappled. When they separated Patterson was unconscious and died shortly afterward. Walls was arrested. He says he had trouble with the inmates of the house, but has no recollection of any altercation with Patterson.

In a Sad Plight.

St. John's, Oct. 30.—Steamer Labrador, which has just arrived here from a trip along the Labrador coast, reports that a fishing crew of 30 people are on a desolate island, off the northern section of the coast, where they have been virtually abandoned for some time owing to the fact that the instructions for a vessel to bring them down miscarried. A special steamer must be sent promptly to their assistance or they will perish with cold and hunger during the coming winter.

Sheriff Out With Bloodhounds.

Watkinsville, Ga., Oct. 30.—Will Pierce, a negro, killed Walter Puryear and mortally wounded Mrs. Puryear and his (Pierce's) wife with an ax. Pierce has been separated from his wife, who was making her home with the Puryears. Pierce last night called on his wife and was asked to remain. The killing was done while the family was asleep. Sheriff Overby has left for the place, accompanied by bloodhounds.

Bryan a Busy Man.

Omaha, Oct. 30.—W. J. Bryan started on his flying trip through the state Saturday from Wynmore, making 17 stops at towns during the day. He plainly shows the effect of the hard campaigning, and others have been added to the party to do some of the talking. Mr. Bryan expresses confidence in his ability to finish the campaign, though it is evident that the exertion is a severe strain upon him.

Merchant Kills Himself.

Camden, N. J., Oct. 30.—Christopher C. Chew, aged 49, proprietor of the largest department store in southern New Jersey, committed suicide by shooting himself in the temple. Since the partial destruction of his store a year ago by fire Mr. Chew has suffered from nervous prostration and at times expressed fears that he was becoming insane. Mr. Chew was reported to be worth $250,000.

Good Afternoon.

Good for Dewey! He is a wise man to marry, and we congratulate him upon his choice. Mrs. Hazen is about forty years of age, of good figure and a charming hostess, and inherited a fortune from her father.

The serious illness of Vice President
Hobart comes almost as a shock, especially when one reports says he may live but two days. Mr. Hobart and President McKinley have always been in official and personal harmony, and sadness prevails, with the hope that the Vice President may be spared.

The Social Democrats have resorted to anonymous circulars, which according to section 394 of the Election Laws make them liable to fine. On this circular is a note which says:

"The Quincy Ledger, whose range of thought and vision does not penetrate beyond Quincy Square, can count 500 Social Democrat votes which will be cast by his near by neighbors. The Ledger evidently has not heard from Wards 3 and 4. Surprises are in store for the old liners the morning after election."

The Ledger has never made any such prediction. Inasmuch as the total vote of Ward One, which includes Houghs Neck and the "North Commons," may not exceed 500 the ridiculousness of the statement is apparent. Were the Ledger inclined to bet, it would be willing to wager that the Social Democrat candidate for Governor would not receive one-half of 500 in the city.
The Representative candidates will lead
the ticket, but it is the Governor's vote which shows the strength of a party.

There is no good reason why Representatives Sheppard and Sprague should not be triumphantly reelected. During the first year of service they exhibited enough independence to show that their first interest was the general welfare of all their constituents and the State.
They were not hide-bound by party ties, for politics entered but little into the proceedings. Sometimes they voted against each other as conscience
dictated rather than to gain popularity.
While all their votes were not in accord with the views of every Republican it should be remembered that this would be impossible. On the whole their service was very satisfactory and they had the respect of the whole House.
Men with one year's experience are worth more to a city than new Representatives would be and this alone is sufficient reason why they should be returned.

Messrs. Sheppard and Sprague are both successful business men and Quincy is fortunate that it can command the service of such men. It is such men that the city wants.

It is unfortunate that politics must predominate in all public matters, local as well as National. Quincy has urgent needs for better depot accommodation,
more trains and a freight yard, but it is said that since the petition was shown up in a communication to the Ledger
as a political movement, that it has lost ground. It certainly was a mistake to inaugurate it at a time when politics engross men's attention. It should have been inaugurated earlier in the year, when the sincerity of the administration would not be questioned.
A freight yard is probably the greatest necessity from a commercial standpoint, and it could be supplied so easily that the wonder is that the New Haven road had been so short sighted.
It could well be divorced from the depots and, if advisable, all the Quincy

and Quincy Adams freight could be handled about midway between the stations, either on the east or west side of the main track. The hearing on Friday should be largely attended, politics eliminated, and the wishes of the business men set forth in their right light.

Drift of Opinion.

The Plymouth divorce court has severed many uncongenial marriages at this session, but the pity of it is that society is so constituted or human depravity so assertive that divorce is a necessary resort for protection.—
Brockton Times.

Shakespeare may have been right when he asserted that "All the world's a stage," but a cynical observer of modern theatrical performances
declares that all the men and women are not actors who are before the public under the impression that they are.—Marlboro Enterprise.

Every advanced mind recognizes the fact that the day of radical preaching has gone. The imperfection and corruptibility of the human body, which comes to us by inheritance requires reciprocal operations and influences to show to what extent the mind is circumscribed in its perceptions, impeded, thwarted and interrupted by mean surroundings and hopeless aspirations. To bring into play the more delicate and exquisite organization of the body, music is an essential which, when blended with the interpretation of the selection of Scripture
by the officiating clergyman, adds much to the powers of the mind, thereby extending its perceptions. In this way a church membership can be created which will give signs of fitness
of worthiness to be called Christians with none of that cant so prominent among certain church-goers today. By combining exalted ideals of religious truths with appropriate music, together with a vigorous system of church work,
will come that growth and influence which determines many to lead lives in harmony with a cordial reliance on divine grace.—Haverhill Gazette.

The most admirable thing about Admiral Dewey is the quiet and unconcerned way in which he takes himself. He does not strive nor cry, nor does he lift up his voice in the streets.
He seems to have opinions and to express them on occasion with freedom and directness. But he does not seem to be thinking about Dewey or talking about him. Like all genuine heroes
he is modest. He had an order to execute; the hour came and he "did his simple duty." It was done promptly, thoroughly, and as the world thinks, brilliantly. But Admiral Dewey is not so vain as to think that if any one of a half dozen of his brother commanders had been in his place, the work would have been done less effectively. The self-restraint he has observed from the first is one of the surest titles to greatness.—Universalist Leader.

Quarrymen Killed.

At Barre, Monday, Thomas Blair
was instantly killed and Harry Hart was fatally injured at McMillan & Stephens' granite quarries. A large boulder fell from a point above where they were at work and rolled down upon them. Blair's body was cut in two and Hart's chest and shoulders were crushed. He cannot recover.
Blair was 42 years old and leaves a family. Hart is 36 and unmarried.

The fall meeting of the Norfolk conference of Unitarians will be held in the First Congregational church,
Milton, on Thursday, at 10.15 A. M.

At the morning session there will be addresses as follows: "The practical Work of the Church," by Robert A.
Woods of the South End House, Boston; "The Theological Work of the Church," by Rev. C. F. Dole, Jamaica Plain; and "The Religious Work of the Church," by Rev. R. W.
Boynton, Roslindale.

At 1 P. M. a collation will be served and at 2.15 business resumed. At 2.30 a service of worship with conference
sermon by Rev. S. M. Crothers, M. D.

ALUMNI BANQUET.

Annual Gathering of Adams Academy Graduates.

The annual dinner of the Adams Academy Alumni Association was held at the United States hotel, Boston, last evening. About twenty members were present. It was noticeable that the majority of these were from the earlier classes. Mr. Perry Lawton, president.
The Tyler Scholarship Committee reported that the fund was growing and was of sufficient size to warrant the appointing of trustees. Accordingly
Mr. L. S. Anderson of Quincy, and Mr. W. H. Allen of Boston were appointed.

Mr. Anderson was also chosen to serve as president of the association for the coming year. The old board of vice-presidents was again elected and Mr. J. D. Kent, Jr., the present efficient secretary and treasurer, was re-elected.

Resolutions were passed congratulating Mr. Louis A. Frothingham an ex-president of the alumni association, on his safe return from a period of meritorious service as an officer in Cuba.

An excellent dinner was provided,
and general feeling of enthusiasm over
the present prosperity of the school prevailed. Considerable interest was aroused over the honor which has just been conferred on an Adams Academy man, Mr. A. E. Frye, who has been appointed by the Secretary of War to establish a public school system in Havana. The meeting adjourned soon after nine o'clock.

Col. Parker to Speak.

The 531 convention of the Norfolk County Teachers' association will be held at Lorimer hall, Boston, on Friday, with sessions at 9.30 A. M. and 1.30 P. M.

At the morning meeting there will be an address by Edwin D. Mead of Boston. Miss Sarah J. Walter of Willamsite, Conn., will give a paper on "Primary Arithmetic," to be followed by discussion. Another paper, "Aims in the Study of Literature," will be opened by Andrew J. George of Newton.

After the business of the afternoon
Walter Sargent of Littleton will speak on "The response to the picture," and at 3 P. M. Col. Francis W. Parker of Chicago, Ill., will give an address on "Education into Citizenship."

The officers of the association are:
President, Roderick W. Hine of Dedham.

Vice-Presidents, George F. Joyce,
Jr., of Dedham, Mrs. Ruth E. Lander of Brookline, Albert Candlin of Quincy.

Councillors Samuel T. Dutton of Brookline, Emory L. Meade of Milton,
Miss Grace C. Whiting of Franklin,
Myron W. Richardson of Milton, Miss Martha E. Park of East Walpole.

Secretary, Miss Dorcas C. Higgins of Brookline.

Treasurer, Joseph Belcher of Randolph.

T. B. Pollard and Supt. H. W. Lull
Quincy also serve on committees.

Dedham's Grievance.

The committee of 25 representative citizens of Dedham, appointed at a recent mass meeting in that town, to labor for better train service on the New York, New Haven & Hartford
railroad, recently submitted its grievances to the road. It asked as good service for the Dedham branch as was furnished when the road was under the management of the Old Colony company. There are now fewer trains than some years ago, the running time of nearly all has been lengthened, the express, or partially express, trains
have been taken off, the Sunday service at the Walnut Hill and Stone Haven stations has been discontinued,
the late evening trains leave Boston
too early to accommodate theatregoers,
the actual running time for the nine or ten-mile route is seldom less than 30 minutes, and often up to 45.

Was Insane.

Word was received at the Police Station about 10 o'clock that a man
under the influence of liquor was creating a disturbance at the parochial residence on Gay street. Officer Barry responded to the call and upon his arrival learned that the man had gone to Murphy's drug store, where he had fallen in a fit and had been taken to the office of Dr. Welch. Here it was found that the fellow was not intoxicated but insane, and it was all that Dr. Welch and Officer Barry could do to hold him. He was finally subdued and taken to the police station for safe keeping. The man proved to be George Shaw of Wollaston. Some months ago Shaw was taken to the asylum at Taunton and had been but recently released.

George T. Latimer, one of the sergeants of Co. H, of Charlestown was on Monday evening elected 2d Lieutenant to succeed William H. Gilson resigned. Lieut. Latimer was at Camp Meade and Camp Wetherell.

Revere Post 88, G. A. R., an incorporated body.

Mr. William Newall and family of Barry's block, Atlantic, are moving to Norfolk Downs.

Mrs. Jones will open her dining rooms in the brick block on Chestnut street on Thursday.

Miss Carrie Wrisley of Edison street has been confined to her home with sickness for five weeks.

A house party was given at the residence of Daniel Keating of Glover avenue, the other evening.

The Sunday School of Christ church received Sunday the gift of a handsome clock from the primary class.

Work has been commenced on the foundation for the new block at the corner of Water and Pleasant streets.

Mrs. Thomas Smith of Barre, Vt., formerly of Quincy, is visiting Mrs.
Charles H. Hayden of Granite street.

Charles A. Jilson, who is connected with the police force of Fall River, has been in this city on a visit to Horace
B. Spear.

Mrs. H. F. Doble, who had her ankle
fractured in an accident last Thursday, is comfortable, although suffering some pain at times.

It is rumored that Mr. William Gas-set and Dr. Charles E. Monroe of Atlantic are to give a dance on Thanksgiving eve, in Music hall.

John A. McAloon has purchased the house near the corner of Hancock street and Standish avenue, and will move from West Quincy this week.

Methodist church are being continued
this week. Wednesday evening Rev.
W. W. Dorman will speak, and Thursday evening Rev. Mr. Chase of East Boston.

The College Fair of the Young People's Religious Union will be held at Hotel Vendome, Boston, Wednesday and Thursday, November 15-16, from 10 A. M. to 10 P. M., in aid of its Amherst and other Mission work.
This fair is original, literary, and artistic and deserves the support of every loyal Unitarian.

The pastor of the Wollaston Methodist church will speak upon the following topics on the Sabbath evenings of November: Nov. 5, "What is it to be a Christian?" Nov. 12, "Why some people are not Christians!" Nov. 19,
"Why ought I to be a Christian?" Nov.
26, "How may I become a Christian?"
The services begin at 7 o'clock.

The first social dance of Company K, 5th Regiment, was held Monday evening at the armory in Braintree. Cull's orchestra furnished music for the dance, which was in order from 8 to 12 o'clock. It was a very pretty party and was attended by upwards of fifty couples. William Deslauries had charge of the floor, and was assisted by an efficient corps of aids.

Worth Reading.

To the Editor:

I think it my duty to inform your readers of a remedy that should be in every household.

I was a martyr to Dyspepsia and Constipation and tried everything in vain. In despair I bought a ten cent package of the U. S. Army & Navy Tablets, 17 East 14th St., New York, and in three days I felt better and afterwards I bought a twenty-five cent package and now I am completely cured. Your druggist can and must get it for you.

HOUGH'S NECK.

The enterprising postmaster, Arthur Dunham, has purchased the Martin French-carpenter shop in the rear of the post office, and will convert it into a grocery store. It is said also that Mr. Dunham intends to start an express route in the spring between Hough's Neck to Quincy.

While two men were on the west side Monday digging clams, they discovered a monster fish, supposed to be a dog fish. They tied a rope to his tail and dragged him ashore where he was examined. He would open his mouth and try to bite things put near him.

Landlord Pierce of hotel has leased his house in Whitman for five years and will remain all winter at Hough's Neck for the first time.

Sea street is now staked out from Coddington street to Palmer street, and the prospects of such a broad avenue makes one enthusiastic. From Coddington street to the farmhouse on the Adams estate, the location is almost wholly new being to the east of the present street, yet not as near the Adams house as many expected. The widening is almost wholly on the east side to Palmer street.

New York Life.

That Quincy people are beginning to understand that first class entertainments are being given at Music hall at a reasonable price of admission was evident by the large audience present last evening. The entertainment on this occasion was Denman Thompson and George W. Ryer's pictures of New York life. "The Sunshine of Paradise Alley."

Four pictures, realistic of New York life in the locality in which the scene was laid, were enacted. Not only did they show the dark side of life among the poorer classes, and the evil of strong drink, but what can be done in the way of reformation by kind words and deeds, and how much better and happier the lot of these people could be by the banishment of drink. During the enacting of the several scenes pleasing vocal selections were rendered by the Verdi Ladies' quartette, also by several of the male members of the company.

Literary Notes.

The November "New Lippincott" contains a complete novel by Mark Lee Luther, a name destined to take a high and permanent place in American fiction. His novel is entitled "The Livery of Honor," and deals with the capture of Burgoyne and with events in London and Cambridge which surrounded it. Though written long before "Richard Carvel," this rattling tale bears resemblances that are a credit to its quality, and will win it the readers who like the adventure and love in the longer novel. A sweet colonial girl transplanted to the shores of New England, shows of what stuff she is made in the perilous situations of those troubled times, when the lives of both father and lover are in constant jeopardy.

There is a dominant Thanksgiving spirit evident in the text and illustrations of "The National Magazine" for November, for no magazine keeps more closely in touch with the current phases of our national life. The "Story of the Transvaal Struggle," by an American business man, lately returned from South Africa, casts brilliant side lights on little known phases of the situation. In the fiction line, this number is a leader. The Thanksgiving stories, sketches and drawings all have their special points of excellence.

HERE AND THERE.

Local Brevities of the City of Presidents.

Harry Sherburne returned from Dublin, N. H., Monday evening.

The house owned by Henry G. Pratt on Bigelow street is being connected with the sewer.

Two connections are being made with the sewer on Chestnut street, one of A. B. Packard's houses and one of Henry T. Brown's houses.

Now it is said that the Italians employed by the Water bureau are not Italians because they are naturalized. We accept the amendment.

Nathaniel Nightingale who has been in poor health for some time, was taken to the City Hospital on Monday. His illness is a general breaking up due to old age.

The work of regrading and widening Arthur street is well under way. A large gang is at work. The hill into Garfield street is being lowered and low places filled.

The severe wind last evening blew many blinds from people's windows in Atlantic, and many articles which belonged in one man's yard were deposited in his neighbor's.

Work tearing up the street car tracks on Coddington street, made necessary by the widening of said street, will commence tomorrow, and cars on this line will be discontinued after today.

Robert McLane, for the past five years with George W. Jones in Adams building, leaves today and is to take charge of the boat and shoe store of E. H. Smith at 779 Washington street, Boston.

Mrs. Geo. E. Davis and Master Arthur Davis of West Haven, Conn., have been spending a month's vacation with Mr. Sanford Davis of Main street. The City Council Committee on Finance met on Monday evening.

A clam supper is announced for tomorrow evening at the Washington street Congregational church. Among the talent are Herbert H. Hayden, Charles Richardson, Miss Augusta Eldridge and Mr. R. N. Van Burskirk.

Some one is evidently reaping a harvest in Quincy stealing bicycle. Andrew Odum, civil engineer, has been in the habit of leaving his wheel in the hallway at the foot of the stairs in Adams building. Last night Mr. Odum looked for his wheel and it was gone and it has not been found.

The following are the estates recently connected with the public sewer: Frank W. White, Winthrop avenue; Henry H. Faxon, corner Coddington street and Woodward avenue; Estate Lucy Perry, High school avenue; H. A. Rideout, Prospect avenue; Mrs. H. B. Bailey, Grand View avenue; Amos Leavitt, Lincoln avenue; Edward Sparrow, Brook street; E. A. Rose, Prospect avenue; Charles H. Porter, Hancock street; Albur B. Packard, Hancock street.

Political.

There will be 43 names upon the Quincy ballots at the State election from which to elect ten officers.

The Republican City Committee met Monday evening and fixed upon Friday, Nov. 17, as the date for the municipal ward caucuses, to nominate councilman, school committee and to elect delegates to the municipal convention; also to elect ward committees.

The date fixed for filing nomination papers was Friday, Nov. 10, notice of which will be published later. The latest date for holding conventions is Monday, Nov. 20.

Dalton, the home of Winthrop Murray Crane, has no doubt of the triumphal election of her distinguished son and has planned an ovation for the evening after election. A Citizen's Committee is to have charge of the affair, and it is to be a committee representing all the political parties. The date has been fixed for the evening after the election. The electrical display is to be something which has never before been equaled in the county. At intervals of every 300 feet, from the Weston block on the east to the Pittsfield line on the west, there will be arches and electric lights of red, white and blue. The distance is some 6,000 feet, or more than a mile. There will be a parade of horsemen and civic societies on foot. A reception is to be given Mr. Crane at the Opera House, at which there will be music and several short congratulatory speeches.

TODAY'S COURT.

John Bae and William Noble were arraigned for the larceny of a pair of reins and a wrench from Rodolph F. Moore at Quincy. They were fined $10 each.

William Johnson and Jacob Hanson were fined $10 each for violation of the game law by the discharge of a firearm for game on the Lord's Day.

Summer Thayer was arraigned for the stealing of $163 from Walter L. Rod at Randolph, and was held in $800 for the superior court.

THE KEY TO NATAL.

Ladysmith the Base of British Forces In South Africa.

Its Loss Would Mean Crushing Blow to Them.

A Brief Review of the Boers' Active Campaign Against It.

London, Oct. 31.—Probably no place in the world has been watched with so much interest during the past few days as Ladysmith. The reason is that it is really the key to Natal, and as the base of the British forces its importance cannot be over-estimated.

In it have been concentrated the most of the English forces in Natal, with the Indian contingent and the Natal volunteers, all under the command of General Sir George Stewart White. Its surrender or capture by assault before General Buller and his army corps can reach the theater of war means a crushing blow to the English arms, and would greatly prolong the war by allowing the Boers to overrun all Natal, as well as by its effect upon the wavering loyalty of the Cape Dutch and the natives.

Ladysmith itself is an important town of perhaps 2000 inhabitants, 138 miles up the railroad from Durban on the coast, and at the junction of the branches which run, one into the Transvaal through Laing's Nek, pass, and the other into the Orange Free State, through Van Reenen's pass.

These two passes are the most accessible of a number which pierce the Drakensberg mountains, which are the natural rampart of the Dutch republic and the Free State. It, therefore, is at the base of the triangular Kip river district, which may be described as a triangular promontory of British territory, jutting about 100 miles northward into the Transvaal, and ending at Charles-town, or, more exactly, at Laing's Nek.

Here the frontiers of the three states meet. The base of the triangle is about 120 miles across, and Ladysmith is situated about 40 miles from Van Reenen's pass, and 80 miles from Rorke's Drift, on the eastern extremity of this base line. The town was named after the wife of Sir Henry Smith, a former governor of Cape Colony.

Ladysmith two years ago was selected by the imperial government as a military camp, on account of its healthfulness and its important strategic position. It holds the railroad from the Free State, and also commands the advance southwards of any hostile force from the direction of Laing's Nek.

To the west of the town the ground rises rapidly to the foot of the Drakensberg range. The floor of the whole valley in which the town lies is strewn with large, irregular heaps of rough boulders, of from 60 feet to 100 feet in height. To the north of the town, the land rises rapidly, and these hills have been utilized recently for the erection of fortifications, which will play an important part in any defense of the district.

In short, on any and north, Ladysmith is hemmed in by hills and mountains, while to the south the land falls away towards Colenso.

On the outbreak of the present hostilities the British plan of campaign was to subordinate everything to holding the Boers in check until reinforcements might arrive from England. Accordingly the whole triangular strip described by the line of the Drakensberg, was practically abandoned to the Boers, who occupied Laing's Nek, Charles-town and Newcastle in quick succession.

Ladysmith, however, was strongly garrisoned, and an outpost established under General Symons at Glencoe and Dundee.

These two towns, respectively 41 and 47 miles up the railroad from Ladysmith, are connected by a short length of railway, by which coal from the fields near Dundee reaches the coast. These three military points are on the highest of the three terraces of Natal which rise from the sea towards the Drakensberg.

From the fact that Glencoe is 4300 feet above sea level, and that Charles-town has an altitude of 5385 feet, it will be understood that after passing Glencoe the railway continues to rise. Down this slope came the Boer forces under Joubert.

At Ladysmith the mass of the English force awaited the attack whose brunt, of course, was to fall on the outposts at Glencoe and Dundee. The Boer plan of campaign, so far as can be judged, has been to advance their main column south along the railroad from Laing's Nek; while from the east a supporting column under Commandant Erasmus came in from Vryheid, and from the west the Free State burghers poured through Van Reenen's pass to assist in the attack.

Oct. 29 Joubert's advance under Commandant Lucas Meyer struck Glencoe, having arranged to give battle simultaneously with Commandant Erasmus. The latter failed to appear, and in a very heavy skirmish, which was hailed as a great British victory, the Boers were repelled.

Both sides lost heavily, the British loss being 200, including General Symons, mortally wounded and since dead. General Yule, who succeeded him, was flanked by the Boers, who got in on his line of communication with Ladysmith and Elands-laagte, and cut him off by rail.

The British sallied out from Ladysmith, and in another heavy skirmish, Oct. 21, retook the town of Elands-laagte, but were unable to reopen the railroad to Glencoe and Dundee. General Yule's position was desperate, and abandoning his stores and his wounded he left Dundee under cover of night and after several days fighting, one engagement being a particularly severe one, and by a long forced march made a detour and succeeded in joining General White at Ladysmith.

All this time the Boers were closing in on Ladysmith and frequent skirmishes have resulted.

R. T. JOHNSON, President. A. F. MACLEOD, Treasurer.
Capital Stock, $500,000. Per Value, $1.00. Full Paid. Non-Assessable.

AN ASSURED DIVIDEND PAYER.

The Boston Electric Switch Co. has been incorporated for the purpose of manufacturing and controlling a Self-cleaning Street Railroad Switch operated either by Electrical or Mechanical means.

A self-cleaning switch, automatic in its action, and at the same time simple in application, and inexpensive, is what the modern street railway rightfully demands; and this demand is met for the first time by the Automatic Self-cleaning Street Railway Switch which the Boston Electric Switch Company is prepared to supply.

The inventions controlled by this Company afford the most desirable recent improvements in the appliances for facilitating the operation of street railways. In fact, it is the only practical self-cleaning automatic switch now before the public, and its claims for recognition have been established by over six months of actual test in the severest New England winter weather, during the whole of which time it gave the utmost satisfaction. Owing to its self-cleaning device, it is the only street railway switch that can be operated to advantage by electric or automatic means. A switch that is not self-cleaning, no matter how operated, will become clogged with dirt, stones, etc., and consequently fail to work, unless constantly looked after, thus reducing it to the same level of usefulness as the switch now in use.

The most successful switch under the old system was the tilting table; but it became a back number when the "broomstick train" entered the field, thereby restoring to use a more primitive device. It was a foregone conclusion, however, that some new contrivance would be evolved for doing the same work, and the switch owned and controlled by the Boston Electric Switch Company fulfills the implied prophecy.

A portion only of this stock is now offered to investors, for the purpose of increasing the working capital. Full particulars and subscription blanks will be forwarded on application.

NOTHING AGREED UPON

At the Conference Between Textile Workers and Manufacturers.

Operatives Ask For a Ten Percent Advance.

Decision of Employers Awaited With Anxiety by Cotton Manufacturing Interests.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 31.—The conference between the textile workers, representing the operatives of this city, and the committee of the Manufacturers' association, culminated in a request by the representatives of the employees for a 10 percent advance in wages. The manufacturers' committee will report back to the general body at a special meeting, to be called shortly. They had not power to grant the advance.

This in brief is the outcome of yesterday's conference between the two component parts of the mill industry of Fall River—the employers and the employed—and the request and the result proved to be just what people conversant with the situation in this city had surmised.

Previous to meeting the manufacturers' committee the textile committee met and considered their plan for the presentation of the laboring people's case to the employers of labor.

The conference was called to order by Secretary Whitehead of the Weavers' union, and was presided over by President Chase of the manufacturers. It lasted three hours, and the proceedings were harmonious and the discussion full.

The request was for an increase of 10 percent on the old basis of 2 1/2 cents a yard for regulars. It was represented by the Textile council that the market conditions favor the request. The reply of the committee of manufacturers was defensive and against granting the request, based on margins. It was set forth by the manufacturers that the margin is now some 7 points lower than when wages were increased last spring. They admitted that the price of cloth is higher, but cotton costs 2 cents a pound more. The margin figured from prices of cotton and cloth last spring was 7 1/2 cents, while now it is but 6 1/2.

The Textile council claimed that these margins, as in the past, have been reckoned from a basis of regular prints, which now form less than 10 percent of the goods manufactured here now. It was also urged that the price of the regulars, from which the margin is reckoned, is held far lower comparatively than the other grades of goods produced from the loom. There are 70,000 looms in Fall River running daily and less than 10,000 are on the regular prints, from which the margin is reckoned. The fair thing, they urged, was to make the price of regulars equal in comparison to the odds, say 2 1/2 cents, when the price is 2 1/2 and then figure. A margin would then be shown equal to that point, the last winter, when a restoration was granted to the help.

The manufacturers, in turn, said that the extra prices for odds, in many instances, were a result of holding the goods on speculation; that they might have lost by holding; that the employees in that case could not have been asked to share the loss; that the operatives have no right to share in the result of a successful speculation. They also claimed that figuring regulars at 2 1/2 cents, even then the margin would fall nearly a point short of what it was when wages were raised last winter.

The textile representatives insisted that the present condition, when odds and special grades are selling so high, it is perfectly fair to urge for increase. The manufacturers' committee contended that the mills could not make fair returns to stockholders if the increase should be granted. However, they were not authorized to take any position at the conference, but were present to hear what their employees had to say, and report to the association.

Secretary Whitehead of the weavers, who is also secretary of the Textile council, said after the meeting that he was satisfied with its progress, even while nothing definite was decided. Asked what would be done if the manufacturers refused to comply, he said that could only be decided by the several labor organizations in mass meeting assembled.

Secretary Rounsville of the manufacturers said he did not feel that the mills could afford such an increase, but the association must settle that question for itself. The present duty of the committee, he continued, was to make its report to the general body.

The decision of the Manufacturers' association and its reception by this city of mill operatives, will now be awaited with interest by the cotton manufacturing interests of the country.

Cutlers Still Hold Out.

Brookton, Mass., Oct. 31.—Several of the local labor unions met last night to consider matters relative to the settlement of the differences now existing between the unions and the joint council. President Tobin of the Boot and Shoe Workers' union was at a meeting of the last night. He said that the advice of the American Federation of Labor not accept the advice of the branches of the local unions has not yet been followed. No application from the cutters who wish to join the union was received. The joint council held a meeting, at which the report was read of the committee of three that was concerned in the negotiations for a settlement of the differences between the branches of the union. Nothing further was given out than the statement that the meeting was progressive. The only dissenting shoe workmen now are the cutters, and at their meeting last night it was voted to remain firm, and they will not accept the advice of the American Federation of Labor. Serious trouble is likely to occur on this account should no settlement be reached.

Off For Richmond.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The president and most of the members of the cabinet left here this morning for Richmond, to participate in the exercises incident to the launching of the torpedo boat Shubrick.

"FEARLESS, AND HAS BRAINS."

Congressman-Elect Roberts Has a Staunch Supporter in Mrs. Corinne Brown.

Chicago, Oct. 31.—"The politicians are using Helen Gould's money to awaken sentimental twaddle against Congressman-elect Roberts of Utah," said Mrs. Corinne Brown of the Woodlawn Woman's club and chairman of the national industrial committee of the General Federation of Women's clubs yesterday. Every woman's club in Chicago has received a petition from the National Anti-Polygamy league calling for signatures and declaring the Roberts case to be the most serious attack on the sacredness of the marriage tie which has been made in a quarter of a century.

At the meeting of the Woodlawn Woman's club Mrs. Brown refused to add her name to those of her club sisters. She said: "This is a precious paper, filled with anti-Roberts gossip. Do you think it has been prepared since Helen Gould took her stand against Roberts? I believe it was in shape long ago and only waiting for her $500,000. I grant she is a superior woman, but the women of this country are not going into this subject logically. I tell you they are toadying to Helen Gould."

Mrs. Brown outlined her plea for charity by saying that Congressman-elect Roberts entered into polygamy before Utah was a state; that the United States accepted Utah; Roberts was chosen by Mormons as their representative at Washington. She continued: "Congressman Roberts supports his wives; he gives his children a name. There is a greater evil than this among our congressmen today. I have passed much time in Utah. I have seen many happy Mormon women. Polygamy is a social evil, but this is not the way to destroy it. There will be men in Washington who fear Roberts, for he is fearless and he has brains."

The echo of Mrs. Brown's words does not carry conviction to other women's clubs. Some have discussed the petition. Others are getting ready to do so and a few do not care to voice any thought in the matter.

Thief Got Nearly $50,000.

St. Louis, Oct. 31.—Robert B. Jennings, secretary and general manager of the Broadway Cable company, was held up yesterday on a street car, near the corner of Washington avenue and Broadway, and robbed of $49,000 in cash and $48,275 in negotiable paper. The thieves escaped. Mr. Jennings was coming from the Boatman's bank, where he had drawn the money to pay off his men. When boarding a car to go to the company's office, three men pushed him into a corner and took the money. A man who saw the robbery got a good look at one of the robbers, of whom he gave a description to the police. Several years ago, Mr. Jennings, who is an elderly man, was robbed in a similar manner. His assailants were captured, and are now serving terms in the penitentiary.

Test of Citizenship.

Ardmore, T. T., Oct. 31.—The famous Kimberlin citizenship suit has been decided by the court of appeals. W. G. Kimberlin married an Indian woman, and was enrolled as a citizen of the Chickasaw nation. After the death of his first wife, he married Mary J. Kimberlin, a white woman, who later made application for enrollment before the Dawes commission. On account of having married an inter-married citizen the Dawes commission refused to enroll her. On appeal, the court of appeals sustained the opinion of the Dawes commission. Many citizenship cases of a like nature will be affected.

Asks to Be Relieved.

Melrose, Mass., Oct. 31.—Captain H. M. Dyer, U. S. N., who commanded the Baltimore in the Manila fight, and who has been assigned to Havana to command the naval station there, has asked to be relieved of that duty. He has forwarded to the navy department at Washington a certificate as to his physical condition, and the request for relief from duty accompanied the certificate. While not a sick man, Captain Dyer is unable to undertake active work at present.

"Home Bank" Robbed.

New York, Oct. 31.—Nineteen thousand dollars in cash, placed for safe-keeping in a tin box and hidden in a piano, was stolen yesterday from Dietrich Von Soosten of this city. The police suspect a young man who has been calling on Von Soosten's niece for the last seven months, and they are looking for him. Carl Holdie, it is stated, paid a visit to Von Soosten's niece yesterday. He had gone the loss of the tin box was discovered by Von Soosten.

Rations For Fighters in Philippines.

Washington, Oct. 31.—Orders have been issued by the commissary department for the purchase of 75,000 standard emergency rations. This ration is only intended for the use of parties temporarily beyond the reach of the line of communication when it is impossible for them to get the regular army rations. The supply in question will be purchased in New York, and sent at once to San Francisco, for use in the Philippines.

A Duel For Blood.

Valparaiso, Oct. 31.—The sudden death last week of Hector Garcia, director general of railways, and of Gregorio Pinochet, minister of industry and public works, under mysterious conditions, caused a great sensation. It is rumored that both succumbed to wounds received in a duel with swords, conducted in the most barbarous fashion, neither having knowledge of fencing.

An Indication of Neutrality.

Berlin, Oct. 31.—Emperor William's farewell message to the British Royal Dragons, of which regiment he is honorary colonel, on their departure for South Africa, expressing his majesty's hope that all might return "unscaled and well," is generally taken as a proof of Germany's official neutrality.

He Was in Love.

Belfast, Me., Oct. 31.—Charles E. Moody, aged 21, who disappeared from this city some weeks ago, was found in Northport yesterday. Moody had committed suicide by hanging, and he left a note stating his intention. A love affair is said to have made him despondent.

NEWS IN BRIEF.

George W. Arthur, broker, Boston, has filed a petition in bankruptcy. His schedules show total liabilities of $423,418. Assets are returned nominally as $260, and this valuation is set down as uncertain.

The first night's play in the 900-point cushion car billiard match between Schaefer and Schaefer resulted in an easy victory for the "student." Schaefer being outplayed by 200 points, against 185.

Walter A. McCormack of Chicago, the former Dartmouth captain, has been engaged to coach the Phillips-Exeter baseball and football teams next year. George Bartle, the oldest clerk in the state department, "keeper of the great seal," and a close friend of Daniel Webster, died at Washington. He was appointed by Secretary Buchanan in 1845.

William H. Webb, millionaire shipbuilder and philanthropist, died at New York, aged 83. Old age and a complication of diseases were the cause of death. Mr. Webb was reported to be worth $20,000,000. Frequently he has been called the father of American shipbuilding.

He is said to have built more than 150 ships. A few years ago he built a home for impetuous shipbuilders, and a training school for young shipbuilders, in Fordham Heights. It cost $500,000, and he endowed it with $2,000,000. Young Kenny, the lightweight champion of the west, fully upheld that title at Hartford, when he knocked out Eddie Brite in 42 seconds. In that space of time he showed remarkable cleverness and demonstrated that each hand possessed a knockout punch.

Weather Conditions and Forecast.

Sun rises—6:15 a. m.; sets, 4:38. Moon rises—4:28 a. m.; sets, 10:45 p. m. High water—10:15 a. m.; 10:45 p. m. The Caribbean sea storm has moved northward off the Florida and south Atlantic coasts, its rate of progress being about 25 miles an hour. The storm has increased in intensity and has been attended by northeast to north gales of 30 to 60 miles an hour. All reports from Delaware breakwater to Eastport have been notified that exceptionally severe northeast gales are indicated northward over the southern New England coast, and instructed to advise all shipping to remain in port. Fair weather, followed by rain, is indicated for New England.

Ferryboat Sunk by S. Eamer.

New York, Oct. 31.—The Pennsylvania ferryboat, Chicago, was cut in two by a steamer said to belong to the Old Dominion steamship line, but supposed to be the City of Augusta of the Savannah line, at 12:35 this morning on the New York side of the river. The Chicago went down in seven or eight minutes. There were between 30 and 40 persons aboard, four being women. Some are reported drowned, though there is no positive proof of this assertion.

In a Critical Condition.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 31.—Vice President Hobart, who has been ill at his home here, suffered a relapse yesterday. He had a succession of choking spells, resulting from an imperfect action of the heart, an old affliction, complicated with inflammation of the stomach. Mr. Hobart has not been able to attend to his private affairs for the past two or three days, and an intimate friend has been given power of attorney.

DREAMERS.

"There's nothing half so sweet in life as love's young dream." The old song is right. Lovers are dreamers. They create a special world in which they live immune from the hurts and ills which vex common humanity. In their estimation the household expenses that no place for a doctor. And very often when the dream dissolves they find that the doctor's bill, the one thing they didn't count on, is now the one thing that's as regular as rent and taxes. And many times it is money wasted.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will do for a woman and her womanly ills, practically everything that can be done by any doctor or medicine. It regulates the periods, dries debilitating drains and cures inflammation, ulceration and female weakness. It makes childbearing easy, and thousands of nursing mothers have testified to its tonic and strength giving properties. It contains no alcohol, neither opium, cocaine or other narcotic.

Mrs. Annie Blacker, of 639 Catherine Street, Syracuse, N. Y., writes: "Your medicines have done wonders for me. For years my health was poor. I had four miscarriages, but since taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and health, and now I have a fine, healthy baby."

late of Quincy, in said County, deceased. Whereas, a certain instrument, purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court for probate by Christopher A. Spear of Quincy, who prays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, without giving a surety on his official bond, and

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Quincy in said County of Norfolk, on the eighth day of November, A. D. 1899, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, why the same should not be granted.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once in each week for three successive weeks, in the Quincy Daily Ledger, a newspaper published in Quincy, the last publication to be on the eighth day of November, next, and by mailing, postpaid, or delivering a copy of this citation to all known persons interested in the estate, seven days at least before said Court.

Witness, James H. Flint, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twenty-fifth day of October, in the year one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine.

JOHN WANAMAKER.

Gentlemen:

Being associated for so many years with the above Firm and being closely confined brought on constipation. A package of our Tablets has cured me and I take great pleasure in recommending them to those who are affected in a similar way.

Yours truly,

C. W. Eastwood.
